1986 Farmer's Almanac is out

Long johns are in order — Almanac predicts cold winter

by PEG OHLE

Get out your woolies, put them on, and keep them on!

The 1986 edition of the Old Farmer's Almanac predicts a tough winter ahead: "The northern third of the nation will see a winter, overall, colder than normal with near or above average precipitation."

That's for us winter stay-at-homes. For the snowbirds who fly south, the prediction is better: "Most of the southern two-thirds will be warmer and drier..."

If there is a reader who is not acquainted with the Old Farmer's Almanac, a word of explanation is necessary. The Almanac is now in its 194th year of publication, making it the oldest, continuously published periodical in America. In fact, it has been published long enough to see Halley's comet come and go twice and it is now giving special attention to the third sighting, with a chart to pinpoint the comet's travels from November, 1985 to May, 1986.

In a letter to the "Review Editor", the publisher and editor of the Almanac defend the Almanac's weather predicitions by saying, "We mean to be as reliable and predictable as Halley's comet, which will be gracing our skies this winter and spring as it has every 74 to 79 years since about 14,000 B.C.

The Old Farmer's Almanac comes out each fall, resplendent in its yellow and black cover and with a little hole punched in the upper left-hand corner. (Insert a piece of string through the hole, knot it well, and hang the Almanac on a nail in the most convenient spot in the house, probably near the kitchen table).

Besides predicting upcoming weather, the Almanac tells when the lunar and solar eclipses will occur, the best times to plant, and the date of the last frost, among other interesting bits of information. This year, the Almanac contains a report on sunbeams, suggests ways to find the person who will love you forever, and names America's ten greatest snowstorms.

For trivia fans, there is an endless array of facts and stories in the Almanac: When the various planets will be most visible during 1986; great, but little known moments in the history of agriculture; letters from readers about their amazing animals; a dozen facts about the Great Lakes; a list of "best" fishing spots for each month of the year; old and new mathematical puzzles to tease the imagination; and a recipe for the "Best Onion Pie in the World".

Speaking of recipes, the Old Farmer's Almanac has an annual recipe contest. Last year it was for the best fresh fruit pies. The three winning recipes are printed in this year's Almanac: Angie's Apple Crumb Pie, Great Grandma's Blackberry Pie with Orange Cream Topping, and Schnappy Peach Pie. The 1986 contest is for the best original recipe for yeast-raised bread.

Arm chair shoppers will find a large part of their needs advertised in the Old Farmer's Almanac: Shoe stretchers, copper bracelets, electric card shufflers, windmills, telephone amplifiers, soda kits, red suspenders, white cotton sleeping gloves, and sausage makers.

There are classified ads for everyone: Jobs on cruise shops, tug ships, and riverboats for men and women; close-out jewelry at 55 cents a dozen; 12-month biorythm charts; 252-year calendar (from 1880 to 2052); numerology charts; college degrees by mail; pure sorghum molasses; orchid cacti; mink coats; hardy goslings, unusual ducklings, and chicks; and 1,000 worldwide stamps.

The 1986 Old Farmer's Almanac will soon be on sale at newsstands everywhere for $1.95.

Former policeman is the new Vicar

by PEG OHLE

David Spaeth, the new Vicar of the Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix, was once a police sergeant in Detroit.

After 12 years in police work, he says, "I was not satisfied with the job. I felt I had talents that were not being used and decided I could best serve my church and my God by going into the ministry.

At the time, Vicar Spaeth was 43 years old. He had a degree in business and math from Valparaiso University (he had been a public accountant before joining the police force); had served in the United States Air Force, rising to the rank of Captain; and had been active all his life as a layman in the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church.

This background and combination of circumstances made it possible for him to enter Concordia Seminary in Fort Wayne for a two-year training course to prepare for the ministry. He finished last spring and was assigned to the Charlevoix church early this summer.

In undertaking his first church responsibility, Vicar Spaeth says he hopes to serve the congregation and expand it through contacts with the community and spreading the word of God. He has instituted a children's sermon during the regular worship service, which he believes is a good idea because it gives the children a chance to move around a bit so they will be less squirmy during the rest of the service. Regular Sunday School classes have been resumed following the summer break.

Vicar Spaeth and his wife, Carol, have been married 10 years and have three sons: Michael, five; Jonathon, four; and Eric, two. Mrs. Spaeth taught school in the Lutheran School system for 14 years before quitting to raise her family.

The new Vicar likes to play softball and basketball and hopes to take up cross country skiing. Right now, he says he is getting his exercise by riding his bike around town.

"Charlevoix is great", he says, noting that he had no choice in the selection of his first church. He was simply assigned.

Vicar Spaeth's title will change at the end of his first year with the church, he explained. "If they like me and I like them, I will be ordained and can then be called a minister."

Fashion show set

Tentative plans for the annual dinner and fashion show to be held at Ricciardi's of Charlevoix on October 29 were made at the recent meeting of the Charlevoix Women's Club held at the home of Julia Baer.

Lucy Witthoeft and Nancy Wood will be in charge of publicity for the event. The event is one of the club's fund-raising projects of the year.

It was announced that a book will be placed in the Charlevoix Public Library in memory of life member, the late Jeannette Cameron who died recently at the age of 101 years.

Mrs. Witthoeft reported that the August book sale had netted the club $662.75.

Julia Leedy presented the history of CHICO, one of the club's projects. Originally funds raised by the club were used primarily for the needs of Indian children, hence the name Charlevoix's Indian Children's Opportunities. Later it was expanded to help any needy child.

The October 15 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Witthoeft on Old Orchard Road.

Witness returns from Nicaragua

A delegation of Witnesses for Peace from Michigan which flew from Miami to Nicaragua on Sept. 14 returned home recently.

Accompanying the group was Ellen Addington, choir director at the First Congregational Church. An ecumenical Christian peace activist group, the Witnesses for Peace are spending two weeks touring the Central American country.

On Friday, Sept. 20, the Michigan delegation plus other Witnesses for Peace and a priest from San Juan De Lumay walked 12 kilometers to Achuwata, a village in the mountains where a massacre by the contras occurred. At that time, reportedly, all the young men of the village were slain. Some of the villagers escaped by fleeing into the mountains.

This Witness for Peace procession was preceded by a banner designed by Carol Dutcher of the First Congregational Church which Addington took with her. The Banner was designed with a white cross on a dark green background and the words in Spanish "Somos en la Espiritu" (We are one in the spirit).

The delegates spent a week in Achuwata talking with survivors, living with them in their houses, eating their food and letting them know that Michigan church people are aware of their plight and are supporting them with their prayers.

Besides the banner, Addington took with her greetings from Charlevoix area well-wishers which was translated into Spanish. The greeting is to be read by and to the Nicaraguan people. More than 50 signatures were attached to the greeting.

The delegation returned to San Juan De Lumay after a week and flew back to the United States on Saturday, September 28.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

My heartiest congratulations to all 4-H members, volunteer leaders and Cooperative Extension Service staff across the country on the occasion of National 4-H Week, October 6-12, 1985.

This year's theme, "4-H for Youth for America", reflects the basic concept of 4-H, which is to help youth acquire the knowledge and skills to become productive citizens and leaders of our great Nation.

"4-H for Youth for America" depicts the broad outreach of 4-H to all youth. It reflects the positive impact of the Cooperative Extension Service 4-H program on American society.

I salute the more than 4.5 million 4-H members who are developing their lifeskills. I especially want to commend the more than 600,000 volunteer leaders for their commitment to strengthening American families and communities, by teaching such skills to others.

I congratulate 4-H on its achievements in food and fiber, natural resources, nutrition and voluntarism. During this International Youth Year, I especially applaud your cross-cultural education projects in this country, and the 4-H type programs in over 80 countries throughout the world.

Mrs. Reagan joins me in sending best wishes to 4-H for a future that continues to improve the quality of life for millions of Americans.

This year's Industrial Fair is bigger and better

Mention Charlevoix County to the average person and they are likely to think of water, boats, summer tourists, and a long list of things associated with tourism and recreation.

Industry would not be very high on the list of any casual observer of the area's assets.

Yet, gradually, industry has become a silent partner to the local tourist economy – providing a stable base for employment in all seasons.

The Industrial Fair was organized for the first time last year to recognize that fact – to make people aware of the role of industry in the north country and to encourage its development here.

The idea for the fair originated with LoAnne Brown, senior vice president and cashier of the Charlevoix County State Bank.

While planning the bank's centennial observance Brown decided that the role of industry in Charlevoix County had been neglected for too long.

She envisioned a one-time celebration of the role of industry.

The affair was a hit, with 24 area industries participating and an impressive number of visitors touring their exhibits at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Nearly everyone agreed it was too good an idea to stage only once. So plans were formulated for a repeat engagement.

The second Industrial Fair was conceived and Brown says that if there is enough support and interest the event could become an annual affair.

"Tourism is important, but without industry we just can't make it," Brown notes. "People have got to have year-round jobs up here."

Brown and others have invested hundreds of hours preparation for the fair. "If we can attract one new industry that will create jobs for the area, then every bit of time is worth it," she says.

Assisting in the first Industrial Fair and instrumental in this year's event has been Richard Beagle. In 1984 he was coordinator for the Business and Industry Task Force, a group which had been recently formed to attract new firms and assist existing ones.

The Task Force was precursor to the recently formed Antrim-Charlevoix Business Alliance which is carrying on the effort under an ambitious state program. Beagle was hired as administrator for the new group and this year finds himself once again in the thick of organizing things for the fair.

The Industrial Fair is basically an opportunity for participating firms to explain what they do, how they do it and how their product is used.

Some 32 firms have signed up this year. As a result, the event has been moved to bigger quarters at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium. The new site also allows better parking for the sizeable crowds expected.

The format has also been expanded. The 1985 Industrial Fair will be held on two days. Friday, Oc. 11, will be reserved for students from high schools throughout Charlevoix County. They will have an opportunity to talk with representatives of the companies and to discuss future employment with them.

On Saturday, Oct. 12, the fair will be open to the general public as before. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"I am enthused about the participation this year," Brown says. "It looks like it will be bigger and better than last year.

"My thanks to the Charivoix volunteer firemen for their help in setting up and taking down the booths and displays. We could never do it without them."

This year's Industrial Fair again coincides with the city's Apple Fest, giving visitors and residents alike two interesting events to attend at the height of the color season.

"We think the fair can help create an atmosphere that will encourage existing industry to expand and attract new industry," Brown concludes.

LoAnne Brown, vice president and cashier of Charlevoix County State Bank, and Gordon Wellman, bank president, are shown with one of the commemmorative plaques received by the bank during its 100th anniversary celebration. The bank sponsored the first Charlevoix County Industrial Fair as part of its centennial observance. It is again sponsoring the fair this year and hopes that it will become an annual affair.

Growth Alliance to promote county industrial development

The Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance received formal recognition from the governor's office of the State of Michigan only last month. Yet it is already making contibutions to business and industry in the two-county area.

The Growth Alliance was organized to help bring new business and industry to the two-county area, and to assist established businesses in dealing with state and local regulations and other problems.

It is an outgrowth of the Business and Industry Task Force and is funded by state monies as well as contributions from Charlevoix and Antrim counties, the cities and towns within the two counties, and various economic development corportations.

Richard Beagle, who formerly headed the Business and Industry Task Force, is coordinator of the Growth Alliance. His offices are in Boyne City.

"The Growth Alliance is picking up where the Task Force left off, but it is providing more services and a higher level of funding," Beagle says.

The preliminary work of the program, he adds, will be to provide:

–coordination among local development organizations and the state.

–a data base for industrial development through the state computer network.

–a business and industry site inventory.

–a retention program for existing business and industry on problem solving and expansion.

--a community assistance effort.

–a marketing program for the promotion of industrial development in the area, contact with new prospects and follow up on new business leads.

Officers for the current year include: W. Randolph Frykberg, Boyne City manager, president; Sandra Reimer, owner of Larkin Insurance in Elk Rapids, vice-president; Susan Van Wieren, assistant superintendent of vocational and general education for the Char-Em Intermediate School District, secretsry; and Lawrence Eckhardt, director of advertising and community relations for Torch Publishing in Central Lake, treasurer.

The Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance will provide the county with a central contact point for the work of the many volunteer business and industry groups.

Hufford Industries builds automation equipment

Hufford Industries, Inc. is a unique manufacturing firm in that it serves as many small, local customers as it does huge, distant ones.

Established in 1968 at its present location on U.S. 31 North on Charlevoix's north side, Hufford Industries has grown from a 3,200 square foot beginning to its present 20,000 sq. ft. plant.

Work done for local firms includes machine repair and the manufacture of specialized equipment for material handling. The company has gained much experience in recent years in automating production lines.

Much of Hufford's work for companies outside the area is done on automotive related work. Hufford Industries specializes in custom-making equipment for materials handling and automated manufacturing processes.

In this capacity, the firm deals generally with the major car makers -- General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, and American Motors.

It ships to primarily Midwestern plants located in the states of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

Some types of machinery for which Hufford Industries would provide components might include specialized conveyors and press loaders and unloaders.

It also does work for the construction industry, including the building of special repair or hard to get parts.

The company also has the valuable capability to manipulate sheet metal for almost any use.

Employment at the plant is currently over 20 people.

Mechanical Components serves auto industry

The Mechanical Components Division, Wickes Manufacturing Company (formerly Gulf+Western Stamping, Gulf+Western Manufacturing Company) employs nearly 300 workers and is one of the county's largest employers.

The 117,000 square foot facility on highway M-66 in East Jordan assembles automotive components from parts that are stamped in Mancelona, the location of the other Mechanical Components Division facility.

The division supplies such items as parking brake assemblies, shifter assemblies, hood hinges, hood latches, window regulators and other automotive hardware.

Customers include manufacturers of all automobile makes and models but most business is done with the Big Three in the U.S. - GM, Ford and Chrysler. Products are shipped not only to Detroit-area factories but to plants in California, Kentucky, New Jersey, Georgia, Illinois, Mexico, Canada... basically everywhere in North America where cars are made.

The East Jordan Plant was built in 1953 when Mount Clemens Metal Products Company, a fastener manufacturer which had expanded from its Mt. Clemens base to Mancelona in 1947, decided to expand again. The decision to locate at its present site was aided by efforts from the East Jordan Industrial Development Corporation.

The post-war years saw the company's product line concentrated more and more on automotive stampings and mechanical assemblies. In 1968, both the East Jordan and Mancelona plants were acquired by Gulf+Western Industries. In September of this year the Consumers and Industrial Products Group of Gulf+Western Industries (of which the Stamping Division was a part) was acquired by Wickes Companies, Inc. The Stamping Division was renamed Mechanical Components Division to more accurately identify with the type of products produced, and to better reflect the future direction of the Company's product lines.

Until 1973, both plants had their own stamping and assembly operations but, to increase efficiency, the decision was made that year to do all the stamping at Mancelona and all the assembly at East Jordan.

Together, the two facilities have employed as many as 700 Charlevoix and Antrim County residents in recent years. The payroll at the East Jordan plant alone last year was approximately $5 million.

Big Rock Point was one of first commercial nuclear plants in the United States Located on a 600-acre site on Lake Michigan four miles northeast of Charlevoix is the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant.

Consumers Power Company, owners and operators of the plant, started construction in the spring of 1960 with completion coming about 2½ years later at the cost of $27 million. The first controlled chain reaction at Big Rock Point took place September 27, 1962 and a little over two months later the plant was commercially generating electricity.

Its boiling water reactor manufactured by General Electric powers a turbine generator, also manufactured by GE, and has a rated electric output of 75,000 kilowatts which is enough electricity to serve the needs of about 100,000 people.

The reactor is contained in a steel sphere, 130 feet in diameter, and is fueled by 10 tons of uranium dioxide.

The process used to produce power at Big Rock Point is basically the same as a coal or other fossil fuel plant in that water is turned to steam which in turn is used to drive a turbine generator. In the nuclear process, the heat is produced when the uranium fuel, in the form of approximately one million fingertip size pellets configured in 84 fuel bundles, is arranged in the reactor in a particular way to trigger a nuclear reaction.

The Big Rock plant.

In addition to contributing electrical power to the Consumers Power grid, the Big Rock Point facility has also been employed for research into such areas as the development of more efficient nuclear fuels and the development and production of radioactive cobalt for use in medicine, commerce and industry.

Big Rock Point is the fifth-oldest commercially operating nuclear generating plant in the United States. It set a world record for the longest generating run of a boiling water reactor, 343 days, from August 13, 1976 through July 22, 1977.

Consumers Power Company employs about 150 people at Big Rock Point and about 50 more are employed on the site by the firm contracted to provide security. In recent years, the contribution to the local economy by the plant has been at least $6 million annually.

Big Rock Point enjoyed its best year in terms of plant availability in 1981 when it generated electricity 91 percent of the time.

The Atomic Safety and Licensing Board of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission authorized Big Rock Point to enlarge the capacity of its spent fuel storage area to accommodate 441 fuel bundles, up from the previous capacity of 193 bundles. This will allow the plant to continue operation until the end of its scheduled lifetime in the year 2000.

LexaLite represents classic success story

LexaLite began in 1961 with an idea for a completely vandal proof, unbreakable polycarbonate street lighting globe. The trade name was derived from "Lexan," a General Electric trade name for the molding material used in the first globes, and "Light," obviously from the crystal clear transparency and lighting application of the product.

This globe, known as LexaLite's Model 100, proved to be the answer to vandalism in many U.S. cities.

LexaLite was incorporated in 1963 in Southfield. Due to a rapid acceptance and demand for the products and need for a compnay capable of tooling a vast quantity of different styles and optical types of globes and refractors, the firm moved north to Charlevoix in 1965.

The present site for the all-electric plant on the Lake Michigan shoreline in Hayes Township was chosen not only because of its scenic beauty but also to avoid the dust and dirt contamination that is common to most industrial areas and which is detrimental to the production of clear products.

A steady growth in sales resulted in plant expansions in 1968, 1972 and 1978. Following a major fire in 1981, the main plant was completely rebuilt. LexaLite has just completed an expansion program bringing total square footage to approximately 95,000.

In early [illegible] a second building was acquired within the city of Charlevoix containing about 7,500 square feet. Later that year another expansion project doubled its size, that building is now occupied by LexaLite Signal Products.

The newest facility is in Dickson, Tennessee which has 35,000 square feet of plant and office and has successfully added to the income of LexaLite for over three months.

Subsidiaries and joint ventures of the parent company, LexaLite International Corporation (a Delaware corporation) include LexaLite Pacific Corporation, Charlevoix Tool and Engineering, LexaLite Signal Products Corporation, LexaLite Europe, S.A. (France), LexaLite Corporation of Canada, LexaLite Mexicana, S.A. (Mexico) and LexaMar Corporation.

Together, they design, tool and manufacture specialized plastic products for the lighting, signal devices, communications, appliance and automotive industries on a worldwide basis.

Maching, grinding is Impac Tool's line

Impac Tool is in its fifteenth year of providing component parts for several industrial uses.

Established in 1970 by James Doyle, Impac Tool was first locted on Charlevoix's north side next to what is now Hufford Industries. Doyle still owns and operates the business.

It moved to its present south side location on Carpenter Ave. across from the city softball diamonds in 1975. It now utilizes 10,000 square feet in its manufacturing facility and employs six.

Impac Tool is primarily involved in production machining and production grinding. It provides component parts for the die cast industry and the heavy trucking industry among others.

Some of the machiningg and grinding is done on state-of-the-art equipment that is capable of providing a finished product accurately tooled to within a couple ten-thousanths of an inch.

The firm also uses numerically controlled, computerized devices that can be programmed to perform virtually any grinding or machining task that can be mathematically defined, according to foreman Cas Toton.

Impac Tool also has a welding department and the capability to perform such difficult machining tasks as cutting square boles in metal parts using a sophisticated electronic process.

Impac Tool has the latest in fully automated, numerically controlled devices...

...As well as manually operated equipment.

Will-Flow products are used world-wide

One could make a good argument that of all the industrial products manufactured in Charlevoix County, those from Will-Flow may enjoy the broadest variety of uses and the most extensive geographic range.

Will-Flow, a subsidiary of Process Equipment Corporation based in Belding, Michigan, specializes in the manufacture of stainless steel tanks, pressure vessels and other related equipment.

Its plant along U.S. 31 on Charlevoix's north edge was built in 1950. It has been expanded periodically since that time, the last major project adding 2,500 square feet eleven years ago. It now covers 54,000 square feet and employs about 80, almost all of whom live in the surrounding aea.

Will-Flow is unique for a small industrial faciliy in that its in-house engineering, accounting, research and development, and manufacturing departments make the plant almost completely self-contained. Only for the most specialized technical assistance does ti turn to the parent company.

Will-Flow not only supplies equipment to the country's largest corporations (Dow Chemical, DuPont, Bordens, Oscar Mayer, Kodak, Gillette, Eli Lilly, Coca-Cola, Miller Brewing, Mobile Oil, just to name a few) but also ships internationally. It has serviced customers from 40 countries worldwide and even filled an order for 21 stainless steel tanks from the U.S.S.R. a few years ago.

.The list of applications for Will-Flow products is almost endless. Some of the industries that use Will-Flow manufactured equipment include: chemical, food, meat packing, textile, paint, photographic, toiletries, tabacco, perfume, pharmaceutical, beverage, wine-making, liquor, brewing, paper, petroleum, transportation, cosmetic, soap and detergent and citrus.

The Charlevoix firm has also supplied several major American universities with specially designed stainless steel equipment for laboratory research.

For local residents, however, probably the most memorable application of a Will-Flow product, was in the Bicentennial year of 1976 when it was a specially-made Will-Flow stainless steel pie tin, 14 feet across and weighing 3,700 pounds, that made possible the baking of the "World's Largest Cherry Pie", a feat duly noted by the Guiness Book of Records.

Will-Flow's tanks and pressure vessels are all made of stainless steel.

Making cement the Medusa way

It was in 1967 that Medusa Cement Company started production at its South Point plant in Charlevoix Township.

The abundance in the area's geology of the natural materials needed to manufacture cement plus the ability to ship to major Midwestern markets by large lake carrier made the 1,350-acre Charlevoix location an ideal one for Medusa.

The cement produced by Medusa is known as the Portland variety and is used primarily for road construction, block work and other large-scale building projects.

The plant has a production capacity of 1,364,000 tons of cement from its kiln process and 1,360,000 tons of clinker on the grinder end.

Limestone and shale, two of the raw materials used in the manufacturing process, are mined from two surface mines on the Medusa site.

An innovative land reclamation project has been ongoing at the plant in which areas where mining has been completed are restored to their natural states using sludge from the City of Charlevoix's waste treatment plant as a fertilizer.

At present, there are 115 hourly and 25 salaried employees at Medusa. The plant's estimated annual payroll for 1986 will be $4.6 million.

The plant is currently a subsidiary of the Crane Company whose corporate offices are located in New York City. Medusa's corporate headquarters are in Cleveland.

Shipping of the cement from the Charlevoix plant is done largely by lake carrier. The 552-foot Medusa Challenger is capable of carrying over 11,000 tons of cement and makes from 65 to 70 trips per year from Charlevoix to such Great Lakes ports as Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Wisconsin cities.

The plant underwent a major renovation project in 1979 when it converted from the "wet" process of manufacturing cement to a "flash calcining" system, a more energy efficient system developed in Japan in 1966. The $50 million conversion included the addition of state-of-the-art equipment that make the Medusa facility one of the most technologically sophisticated cement manufacturing operations in the world.

In flash calcining, the kiln feed, a mixture of finely ground limestone, sand and shale is metered and transported to the top of the preheater tower. The preheater consists of a series of four cyclones and a flash furnace in which the hot waste heat gases contact and heat the kiln feed prior to the feed actually entering the kiln. After a third preheater stage, the kiln feed is discharged into a flash furnace where fuel is burned to further increase the temperature.

The flash furnace discharges to a fourth stage where final preheating occurs prior to the feed entering the kiln. During this process the particles of kiln feed as suspended in the gas stream resulting in very efficient heat transfer.

The resulting "clinker" discharges from the kiln into a cooler where ambient air is used to cool it to a compatible temperature for handling and storage.

Processing a stand of wire.

Hoskins has seen steady growth

Even during times over the past two decades of uncertainty and retreat for many industrial operations in the area and state, the Hoskins Manufacturing Company's Charlevoix plant has experienced steady growth.

In June, 1985, the plant completed a $500,[illegible], 15,000-square foot expansion project with bonding assistance from the Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation. The addition brings the total amount of manufacturing space at the plant just south of Charlevoix on highway M-66 to 35,000 square feet.

It has employed as many as 90 in the past and now provides work for about 75 employees.

Established in the area in 1961 with help from the Charlevoix Development Corporation, the first Hoskins plant and its seven employees were located in a rented building on the north side while a permanent plant was being constructed on 35 acres of the former Loeb estate.

That first building provided 10,000 square feet and was intended primarily for the production of ultra-fine wire—as small as .0005" in diameter — for the precision resistor and potentiometer industries.

As electronic technology changed, phasing out such devices 'as transistors, Hoskins' product line adjusted. The wire size range produced gradually increased until it included wire as large as .028" in diameter, still technically a fine wire product. These materials were supplied mostly to appliance manufacturers where the wire formed the heating element for such products as clothes driers, baseboard heaters and electric blankets. Hoskins' precision alloys were also used in devices used for temperature measurement and control.

Ten-thousand more square feet were added to the plant in 1966 and in 1971 a second building of 3,000 sq. ft. was constructed. These expansions saw the inclusion of helical coils and stranded wire, or, cable, in the Charlevoix plant's product line.

It is interesting to note in these times of disappearing sexual stereotypes that not only is the plant manager, Barbara Skeel, a woman, but female employess have outnumbered males by as much as 40 to 1 in recent years and hold almost all supervisory positions as well.

Hoskins Manufacturing Company, founded in 1908 by a Chicago scientist, is currently a subsidiary of the Armada Corporation based in Detroit. Other Hoskins plants are located in Mio, Hamburg and New Paris, Indiana.

Bergmann Center: helping people, serving industry

Quality training for 43 mentally and physically handicapped individuals and dependable service for area industry are the goals of the Bergmann Center.

Founded in 1954 by Lillian and Robert Bergmann, the Bergmann Center has evolved to a work activity center which accepts sub-contract work from area industry. Bergmann Center workers also produce their own products, including rag rugs, pinecone wreaths and candle holders, glass love lites and quilts. These products are available at the Bergmann Center.

Bergmann Center workers, under the careful supervision of six staff members, silkscreen hot seats, assemble zipper slides, assemble luggage handles for Weather Shield Sports Equipment Inc.; assemble wingbolts, terminals and packaging for Lexalite International; clean spools for Hoskins Manufacturing; package. prodocts for Can Caddy Inc.; engrave for Midwest International; paint dip for Hufford Industries; and assemble catalogues for DCL Inc.

For 31 years the Bergmann Center workers have been provided meaningful work experience and training with the goal of becoming competent employees in the competitive work world. The activities of the Bergmann Center are overseen by a nine-person Board of Directors, with the guidance of the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Services Board and the ACT 258 Board.

The work atmosphere is realistic with close supervision by skilled personnel. Good work habits are encouraged, including proper care of equipment and materials, correct handling of tools and machines, good attendance, punctuality and safety. Interpersonal relationships with supervisors and co-workers is emphasized as well as personal discipline. Work tolerance is promoted and work is designed at a pace consistent with the persons's potential. Supervisors focus on maximizing the skills required for independent living.

Harbor Industries: manufacturer of product displays

Harbor Industries, with manufacturing facilities in Charlevoix, Los Angles and Grand Haven, is the largest full-service manufacturer of permanent and semi-permanent displays in the United States.

This year alone Harbor Industries will move in excess of 100,000,000 products in more than 200,000 retail outlets.

From greeting card display racks to electronic touch-tone control display showcases for General Electric products, table tennis displays for Sears to showcases for Smurfs, Smurfettes, Snorks and other creatures, Harbor Industries designs units to enhance the presentation of any product.

The quality of today's Harbor Industries' products is a Charlevoix tradition.

During World War II, Gordon Freedman, a Cincinnati engineer, had designed wooden propellers for a variety of vital aircraft, including the lialson planes known as "Grasshoppers." Following the war, Freedman turned his engineering skills to the civilian market, moving to Charlevoix to open Freedman Artcraft Engineering in 1946. The company became an innovative leader in display cases, particularly for greeting cards.

Freedman's produced the first self-service racks for records and soon was creating fixtores for any self-service item, including greeting cards, candles, threads and zippers. Major accounts included Rust Craft and Gibson.

In April, 1981, Freedman Artcraft merged with Harbor Industries, combining businesses that had paralleled each other for more than 30 years. While Freedman Artcraft had specialized in wood products. Harbor Industries was moving into extensive use of metals and plastic.

The combining of engineering skills and traditions has borught growth to the Charlevoix plant. Major accounts include: Sears, Anheuser-Busch, Clorox, General Electric, Masonite, Oneida Silversmiths, Teledyne, Weyerhaeuser, Whitman's Chocolates, Homer Formby Wood Finishing Products, 3M Company and Glidden Paints.

Bendix Courter Operation serves defense industry

The Courter Operation of the Bendix Aerospace Guidance Systems Division located in Boyne City is one of many facilities that comprise the Aerospace Sector of the Allied-Bendix conglomerate.

Now, with the recent merger of Allied and The Signal Companies, it is one of the largest diversified corporations in the world, with facilities in every state in the union as well as the free world at large.

The aerospace industry served by the Courter Operation from the Boyne City facility includes over 500 customers worldwide, and the sophisticated products manufactured at Courter are flying on virtually every aircraft in the inventory of the U.S. Department of Defense. In addition, defense products are manufactured for land, sea and air missile systems, such as air to ground missiles, undersea torpedoes, surface to surface rockets and land navigation systems.

The aircraft product line includes indicators, position transmitters, pressure transmiters and accelerometers, used primarily to provide information to the pilot of the aircraft with respect to aircraft engine performance and wing surface configuration during takeoff and landing. The missile product line consists primarily of gyroscopes and accelerometers for guidance and control of the missile.

The land navigation systems are extremely precise gyro platforms utilizing advanced state of the art floated gyroscopes and leveling devices (electrolytic switches) to pinpoint military vehicles to exact latitude and longitude on a battlefield terrain and establish the correct elevation and azimuth for precision launching of rocket missiles.

These high technology system designs were developed by the parent organization, Bendix Guidance Systems Division located in Teterboro, New Jersey, and the manufacturing effort subsequently transferred to the Courter Operation.

The Bendix Courter Operation is also a major supplier to the commercial airline industry as they furnish the flap position transmitters on all of the Boeing jet aircraft.

Reliability is crucial in the manufacture of aerospace products. To foster this high level of reliability, manufacture of the products are assembled in controlled "clean rooms" where temperature, humidity and cleanliness are maintained to precise levels; and employees wear caps and gowns to prevent contamination of delicate component parts.

Typical of the latest technology in manufacturing equipment at Courter are computer controlled lathes and mills, laser welding, and chemical deburring equipment. Computerized "go" - "no go" test equipment assures that the products meet exacting standard and eliminates the possibility of human error.

All of the Bendix-Courter Operation instruments and missile gyroscopes with the exception of the land navigation systems, are designed and developed at Courter by its engineering staff and in many instances the Bendix-Courter Operation is the sole source of supply for these sophisticated aerospace products.

The Courter Operation located in Boyne City will soon celebrate 35 years at its present location. Over that period of time it has increased its employment several hundred times to the present level of approximately 600 employees. With a payroll in excess of $12 million a year, it is a major contributor to the economy of Charlevoix County.

DCL helps to keep industry clean

DCL, Inc. is a relative newcomer to the industrial scene in Charlevoix. But in that short time the company has grown steadily in size and output and currently the largest supplier of retractable loading spouts in the country.

DCL, Inc. was founded in 1981 by three Charlevoix residents – Reinhard Mayte, Phillip Camilleri, and Werner Egger. The company has grown to include 35 employees and a payroll in excess of $.5 million.

DCL is located on Ance Road in Charlevoix's new industrial park. The present facility was recently enlarged and now includes 20,000 square feet.

DCL gets its name from the Dust Control and Loading systems the company manufactures for industry throughout the world. Its equipment is used primarily for the handling and loading of dry, dusty materials like cement, coal, and grain.

It manufacturers retractable loading spouts that facilitate the loading of drums, trucks, railcars, barges, and ships without releasing dusty discharges into the atmosphere.

In addition to the loading spouts, the company has expanded its operations in recent years to the production of other products including conveyors, flow controls, electrical controls, and dust collectors.

DCL, Inc. prides itself on its ability to provide custom designs for any customer's application. "Our designs, service, and custom engineering have been important to us from the beginning," says company vice-president Camilleri.

DCL's customers include many of the world's largest handleres of bulk material located throughout the United States and in many areas of the world including the Middle East, Australia, and Indonesia.

"Sales have grown consistently since we have been in business," Camilleri says, "and the outlook is good." He notes that the company expects to continue to employ many more people in the Charlevoix area as business expands.

DCL's manufacturing facility is located in Charlevoix's Industrial Park.

Charlevoix Development Corporations promote industry

Several organizations have been formed over the years to promote business and industry in the Charlevoix County area.

Some date back many years and were responsible for assisting industries which have become mainstays of the local economy to locate in the area. Others are new and represent an effort by local units of government to join with the state, business and industry, and citizen's groups to improve the business outlook for the northern Michigan economy.

Listed below are the various groups in Charlevoix County which are working to maintain and attract business to various parts of the county.

Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation

The Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation was organized in 1981 to provide tax exempt industrial revenue bonds under the state act authorizing EDCs.

It has also sought to promote business and industrial development in the county and to develop a policy with regard to the use of incentives.

The Charlevoix County EDC acts as a development arm for the county as a whole.

With the use of tax exempt bonding it has provided help to the Weathervane Terrace, two projects for LexaLite International, and Hoskins.

A nine member board is appointed by the county board of commissioners with representatives from throughout the county. The contact person is Dennis Jason of Site Planning Development Inc., Charlevoix.

Charlevoix County Development Corporation

The Charlevoix Development Corporation is chaired by Tom Wieland. It was formed to assist in the funding of development projects in the City of Charlevoix area.

During its tenure it has provided financial assistance to several businesses and industries.

Charlevoix County Business & Industry Task Force

This nonprofit, nongovernmental organization was established in 1984 to provide for a coordinator's office which would give full-time assistance to various development organizations in Charlevoix County.

It was funded for one year by the state of Michigan on a grant basis.

Dick Beagle served as coordinator during the first year of operation and then moved on to head the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance.

That Growth Alliance was one of the original goals of the Task Force and its successful launching this fall marked a significant milestone for the group.

The Task Force continues in existence as a volunteer organization and, among other things, functions as an advisor to the Alliance.

During its first year, the Task Force worked with communities on industrial site locations and assisted a number of area businesses. Assistance in establishing the Charlevoix and Boyne City industrial parks was among the highlights of the year's activity.

Josh Barnes, president of LexaLite, has been chairman of the Task Force since its inception.

Perhaps one of its significant features is that the group represents a broad base including several cities, Charlevoix County, three Chambers of Commerce, and many private businesses.

East Jordan Industrial Development Corporation

The oldest development organization in the county, the East Jordan Industrial Development Corporation was organized in 1954. It is a nonprofit corporation with a nine member board of directors and operates independent of any government authority.

The driving force in the group since it was formed has been Walter Thorsen.

The East Jordan Industrial Development Council has worked actively to attract industrial jobs to the community and its efforts have met with a good deal of success.

The organization has also worked to establish the industrial park near the airport in East Jordan where, to date, all but five acres has been committed to industry.

It has helped in the location of Circuit Control, East Jordan Tool and Die, Multicut, WRW Co., Altair and East Jordan Plastics.

The East Jordan Industrial Development Council is currently looking to acquire additional industrial land and jobs for the community.

Boyne City Economic Development Corporation

The Boyne City Economic Development Corporation was formed in 1979 to encourage economic growth in Boyne City. It has worked toward the development of the air-industrial park in Boyne City which is becoming a reality with the approval of its first business – LexaMar – and several others enterprisees planned.

The Boyne City EDC will work to provide tax exempt bond financing for business and industry where appropriate, as it has already done with Glen's Market.

It has also developed a policy statement for the city with regard to the use of incentives in attracting business.

The Boyne City EDC also acts as the tax increment financing authority for the air-industrial park.

The group is controlled by a nine member board of directors. Richard May serves as chairman and Randy Frykberg, Boyne City manager, is the contact person.

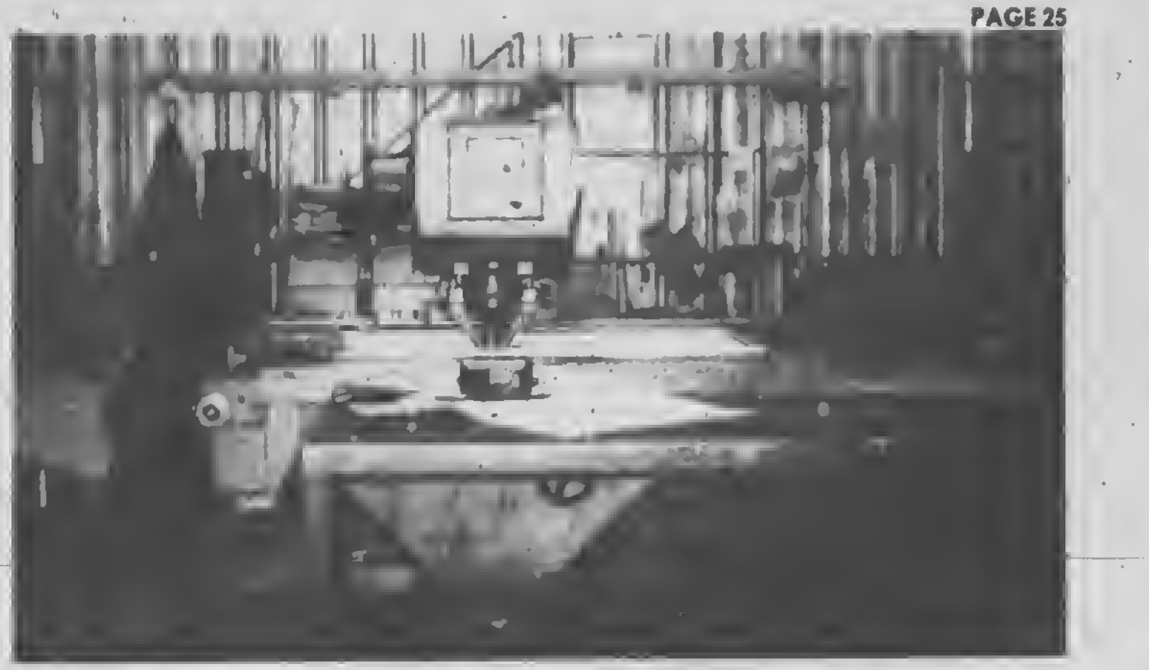
Control Engineering produces stainless steel electrical enclosures



A worker in the Control Engineering plant.

Control Engineering is an affiliate of the James B. Webb Company, the largest producer of custom engineered material handling systems in the world. It has four plants operating in northern Michigan employing 270 employees. These plants are located in Harbor Springs, Pellston, and Boyne City, where 56 are employed.

Louis Poole, of Boyne City's Control Engineering facility, explained their product.

"Our product is stainless steel and custom designed electrical enclosures. The enclosures are used by the machine tool industry, the food processing industry, the automotive industry and chemical companies."

Boyne City's Control Engineering produces only the sheet metal portion. Electronic components are installed elsewhere. Poole pointed out that the enclosures house the monitors of equipment for industry, i.e. conveyor lines and systems for security plants.

Control Engineering also manufactures permanent aluminum castings and the enclosures for automatic guided vehicles used in loading and unloading, the robotics aspect of their product.

Additional plants are located in Farmington Hills and Atlanta, Georgia. Their product is shipped to all 50 states and overseas.

Town and Country Log Homes: respect for wood

"This is an unusual business," expfains Stephen Biggs, president of Town and Country Log Homes. "We have here a group of peopfe creating very high fevel expressions witb a respect for wood."

According to Biggs, Town and Country is not in tbe "housing" business as such. They would prefer to be known as a specialty business. Town and County homes are specifically designed and executed to produce an expression of an individual, a family, or a life-style. ft is an art form which demonstrates an appreciation of naturaf wood.

Town and Country, as of last summer, has integrated the local expertise of master craftsman and production manager, Jufius Kowalski, with the artistic talents of German artist and wood carver, Pietro Vinotti. Vinoti travels between Germany and the States, and will continue to spend time in bis workshop at Town and Country, where be is a special member of the ataff. Vinotti's wood carvings and sculptures may be commissioned by prospective buyers to enhance the uniqueness of their log homes.

"Our houses are not just houses," Biggs says. "They are an emotion, a passion for wood."

Town and Country homes are making good use of the Michigan white cedar which is found in abundance in northern Michigan. To ensure the future of their product, the enterprise purchases their own forest lands.

An important step in the process from forest to construction is the kiln-drying of logs which takes place under careful supervision.

Town and Country, according to Biggs, is operating three plants in Petoskey and two in Boyne Falls. The company is committed to expansion and has contracted business with Japan at this writing.

"The incredible quality of Michigan forest products, coupled with tbe availability of Michigan craftsmen, makes our business relevant for exporting. Apparently, the Japanese appreciate wood, but are not bleessed with that natural resource in quanity or quality. Town and Country is glad to oblige and feels that their exporting of log homes to Japan makes sense: there's no competition.

"We are doing something special bere with Michigan forest and craftamen. Together we are unique in the world."

Town and Country hopes to increase their export capability to include northern Italy and Austria in the near future.

Matelski Lumber is largest milling operation in area

Matelski Lumber Company of Boyne Falls, the largest lumbering and milling operation in the area, has been providing top grade hardwoods to Midwestern customers since 1945.

Over four million feet of lumber annually are processed through the modern Matelski Mill in Boyne Falls.

Owned and operated by Edward Matelski, the lumber company timbers its own 1,800 acres in Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. They also contract to timber other properties around northern Lower Michigan.

In the field, top grade hardwoods are selected by experienced lumbermen. Felled timber is often skidded out of the forest by Matelski's teams of Belgian draft horses.

At the mill, the head sawyer studies each log, then programs the computer driven milling operations for the most appropriate, accurate and consistent cutting.

Matelski provides high grade hardwood – maple, beech, basswood and white ash – to customers for furniture, doors, table tops, bowling alleys and bowling pins, and even toothpicks. Michigan Maple Block Company of Petoskey, manufacturers of butcher block products, and Brunswick Corporation of Muskegon, manufacturers of bowling alleys and pins, are major hardwood customers.

Customers for Matelski wood pallets have included Amway Corporation, International Paper Company and Bradford & White, manufacturers of hot water heaters.

Matelski ships to customers in Wisconsin, Indiana and throughout Michigan.

Ed Matelski and his sons work with 35 employees to harvest and mill northern Michigan hardwood products. Ed Matelski says northern Lower Michigan produces the best grades of white maple and basswood.

Matelski is optimistic about the future for wood products, predicting a continuing demand.

Lumbering, once the boom industry of Michigan, is on the comeback in northern Lower Michigan. Forests are maturing and selective lumbering practices guarantee a continuing supply.

The international market for wood products and lumber is just opening up and Matelski is exploring new markets.

Charlevoix Door and Window: a phoenix from the ashes

Charlevoix Door and Window, which burned to the ground last spring, is rebuilding with a positive view of the future. Already Charlevoix Door and Window is providing all types of interior and exterior pre-hung doors and hardwood raised panel doors to the local building industry.

A warehoused inventory of standard products, including wood windowa, is available, as well aa custom designed doors, manufactured in a small rebuilt facility.

Plans include an enlarged new plant in the Charlevoix area to serve the wholesale and retail market throughout western Lower Michigan with high quality hardwood architectural moldings, doors and windows.

A supporter of local industry, company president – Al Wojan states: "Charlevoix Door and Window has always found it good business to do business locally. We establish a rapport with our suppliers who provide us a guaranteed availability of high quality materials at competitive prices. We believe in participating with area industry."

Can Caddy produces an answer to handling returnable cans

Can Caddy is a newcomer to the Charlevoix business scene. Earlier this year, after 2½ years of research and development, the young Charlevoix-based corporation, unveiled its first designs and product line to the market place. The company produces a product which it says will answer the need for a method of handling, storing and counting returnable beverage cans.

The "can caddy" is a plastic disposal bag for used cans which attaches to the inside of cupboard doors, a wall in the storage room, the garage or anyplace where cans tend to accumulate. It is designed to hold either a six or 12 pack of throw-away cans.

According to Bob Wsun and Cathie Terrill, the can caddies are a clean and simple method of can disposal. They suggest that they can be used in the home or workplace, as a product specialty item for promoting business, or as a fund-raiser for non-profit organizations.

Wilmot Electric: support for area industry

Since 1983, Wilmot Electric has been designing and building electrical systems for industry – from computer driven heat control panels to robotics, three-phase power system monitoring signals to programmable process controllers.

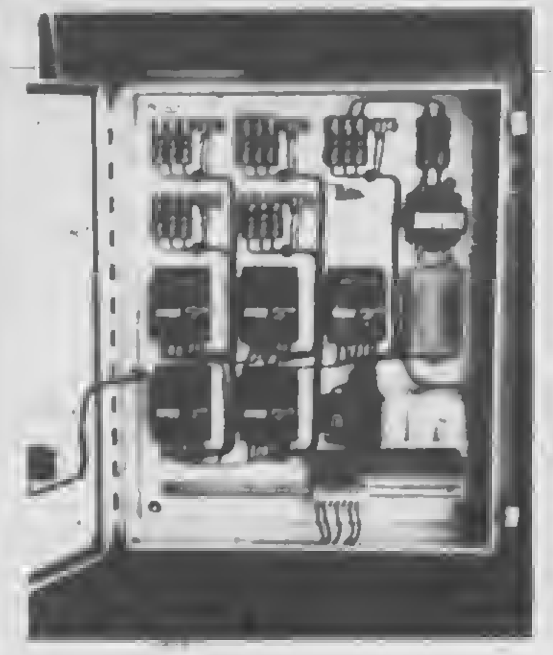
Serving both industrial and residential customers, Wilmot's Industrial Electric business mottos are to: "Keep Industry Up and Running;" "Meet Impossible Deadlines;" and "Create Solutions."

Charles Wilmot explains his company's business, saying, "We do it all. If a non-standard breaker goes bad in a factory, any time of the day or night, we will find the solution. We custom design systems.

"We have a wide range of customers and a wide range of resources.

"We work with application engineers throughout industry and maintain an extensive resource library."

Wilmot and his 11 employees - including four state licensed journeymen electricians, three master electricians - create, install, trouble shoot, maintain and train people to use highly sophisticated systems.



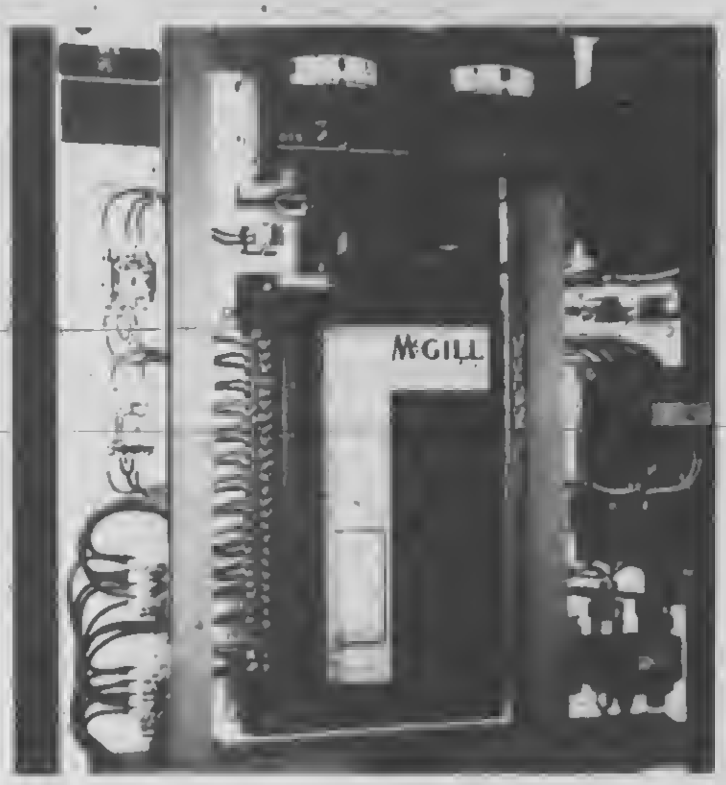
Support power panels made by Wilmot for LexaLite International analyze and monitor power supply, signalling undetected losses in three-phaae power before they can create inefficiency or machinery damage. Other Wilmot projects include:

- Heat control panels at Hoskins Manufacturing to measure and control crucial temperatures in the annealing furnaces.

- Computerized preventive maintenance programs for serveral area industries, guaranteeing a systematic maintenance program that minimizes down time.

· Machine signal systems at LexaLite International's Dickson, Tennessee plant, permit continuous monitoring all machines and quick communication of trouble spots in busy production areas.

- Process controller system for several local manufacturers controls atmospheric gasses as well as heat during important processing.



- Programmable controllers for McGill Quantum 2000 Program Controllers, using Kaypro computers, installed to monitor the drying ovens for Hoskins.

And robots are now being tested for two Charlevoix based manufacturers.

Charles Wilmot says, "We have filled a void by working with programmable syatema now essential for hi-tech industry."

Wojun Aluminum: energy efficient doors & windows

Wojan Aluminum has set the pace for the window and door industry every since Walter Wojan introduced his aluminum windows and doors 30 years ago.

In 1963, Walter Wojan proved to a skeptical industry that properly constructed aluminum windows and doors ere energy efficient, durable, maintenance free and economical.

Today, Dennis and Kenneth Wojan oversee a growing business, with a growing demand for Wojan Aluminum products. Wojan's engineering staff keeps pace with the needs of home owners and businesses north and south -- wherever energy efficiency means savings.

At Wojan Aluminum's modern 45,000 square foot facility on Stover Road, the company designs and manufactures single, double and triple glazed windows and doors. Each is carefully engineered with Wojan's unique combination of triple weatherstripping and thermal barrier, offering home owners, architects and contractors a wide range of choices.

Wojan Windows are tested by the American Aluminum Manufacturers Association (AAMA), in approved testing labs. These tests have shown that Wojan products all surpass AAMA standards for thermal performance, structural performance, air infiltration and water infiltration.

In hot climates, where the cost of air conditioning can be more expensive that heating in harsh northern climates, Wojan products keep the heat out and the comfortable cool air in.

In the north, Wojan's Triple Shield Windows, with the highly perfected hollow vinyl tubing thermal break and triple polypropylene weatherstripping keep the heat in and the cold out.

Charlevoix Area Hospital works closely with industry

Industry - and industrial growth - depend to a great extent on access to good medical facilities. Charlevoix Area Hospital has always worked closely with local manufacturing firms to provide such conventional services as pre-employment physical exams and an emergency room ready to handle industrial accidents and illnesses.

In recent years, however, the hospital's involvement in the field of industrial medicine has grown as a growing number of employers realize the value of health and wellness to overall productivity.

The hospital now offers not only the services to deal with job-related injury or illness but also assistance in the prevention of work loss through injury or illness.

Dr. Harry Custer, who has special expertise in industrial medicine, coordinates much of the hospital's work with area firms.

"A comprehensive wellness program can provide many benefits for typical business or industry," he said, "It enhances employee health, lowers absenteeism, improves morale, reduces the number of accidents, lowers disability and, on the bottom line, reduces the health care costs."

In addition to wellness programming, Charlevoix Area Hospital deals with area business and industry needs in most of its departments. Following are some the specific services offered to the business and industrial community:

-The Radiology department provides lower back x-rays for pre-employment evaluations plus several other diagonostic and treatment procedures.

-The Respiratory Therapy department also does employee evaluations of lung function and can test for problems when toxic and irritative inhalants are present in the workplace.

-Physical Thereapy is instrumental in getting people back on the job who have been injured or ill.

-The Laboratory provides vital screening capability for such work-related possibilities as blood poisoning or, in the case of the Big Rock power plant, irradiation exposure.

-State of the art equipment is available in the hospital's Operating Room and Intensive Coronary Care Unit to deal with serious injuries or illness that might occur in the workplace.

There are many factors involved with creating a good climate for industry in Charlevoix County. Having a good hospital with the special needs of business and industry in mind is one of them. That is why Charlevoix Area Hospital has always been a willing partner in progress for the area and will continue to develop new and better ways to keep industry - and employment - healthy.

Dr. Harry Custer of Charlevoix Area Hospital's medical staff was the featured speaker at a meeting earlier this summer of safety officers of several area industries. The meeting was one of four held each year by the U.S. Dept. of Labor. Dr. Custer spoke on the promotion of health and wellness by industries as a logical part of their safety programs.

Healthy employees mean less absenteeism, better morale, more on-the-job capability and, most importantly, higher productivity.

That is why almost every major employer in Charlevoix County — over twenty firms in all — take advantage of Charlevoix Area Hospital's special expertise in Industrial Medicine. From routine physical exams to newly developed wellness and safety programs, Charlevoix Area Hospital takes seriously its role in helping business and industry flourish in Charlevoix County. Centrum wants 240 condos at Water's Edge

Site plans for 240 condominium units at Water's Edge are being prepared by First Centrum Corp., according to the developer's lawyers.

It was the first time First Centrum had revealed the size of the proposed Water's Edge condo development. The figure was contained in an Oct. 9 letter to Charlevoix Township officials signed by Fitch R. Williams of the law offices of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone.

The letter also detailed the developer's recommendations for site plan standards for the Charlevoix Township zoning ordinance.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said following Monday night's township board meeting that he was "dumbfounded" by the 240 figure. "Seven out of nine of us on the township and zoning boards felt the Water's Edge rezoning was okay," Stroud said. "I have talked to the others thoroughly and it was their intent that there would only be 90-120 units there."

The Charlevoix Township Board rezoned 40 acres at Water's Edge from residential (R-2) to planned unit zone (R-4) on August 12. The rezoning is to take effect on December 10 to give the board time to add site plan review standards.

A local group calling itself ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team) is seeking to clear up what it says are ambiguities in the density requirements. ALERT would like tighter controls on the number of condos allowed and restrictions on marine use.

The township zoning board will take up density regulations at its meeting Wednesday and make recommendations to the township board.

Additional advice on the site review and density provisions of the zoning code came from Donald Berladge, Charlevoix attorney and president of the Northern Lower Michigan Development Council, a group of realtors promoting growth.

Berlage told the board that published reports that the maximum density at Water's Edge could be 600 units were incorrect. "I believe this is erroneous and there could be imposed lower density under your ordinance as it presently exists without the site plan amendment."

He urged against changes in the density provisions of the zoning ordinance. "I would argue against the arbitrary establishment of a lower density than the provision that presently exists, or to establish some kind of density control mechanism based upon the number of units per lake front feet."

Controls based on lake frontage have been proposed by ALERT and are used by some other townships, including Hayes, to eliminate funnel or keyhole developments.

Marcia Trimper, a spokesman for ALERT, asked the township board Monday night about the status of the referendum petitions filed Sept. 11. The petitions ask for an election to rescind the R-4 zoning for Water's Edge.

"Give us some idea of when this referendum is going to take place. I think there should be some sort of a time limit on this," Trimper said.

Linda Porath, outgoing township clerk, said the petitions had been turned over to attorney Scott Beatty for an opinion on whether a referendum on the rezoning was legal.

Jerry Puhl, a member of both the township zoning board and ALERT, said further delays would prompt his group to act. "If you keep delaying it is going to get to where some court action is going to take place."

Puhl said the referendum election should have been scheduled before the Dec. 10 effective date for the rezoning.

After the meeting Puhl said he expected ALERT to seek a court injunction on the township issuing building permits if the referendum was not scheduled soon.

Porath replied that she resented "the implication that we were dragging our feet on it." She said the petitions were turned over to the attorney after two weeks and the county clerk said the county was "booked up for elections in November."

"ALERT will be doing everything in our power through our attorney to stop the rezoning of Water's Edge from taking place before the deadline," Puhl concluded.

As the meeting ended, Township Treasurer Rose Bergmann asked Trimper if ALERT would be interested in dropping the referendum if a compromise on density for Water's Edge could be worked out. "I would be very interested in taking that proposal back to our board," Trimper replied.

Lieutenant Governor gets a ride

Lieutenant Governor Martha Griffiths, right, got her first ride in a fire engine on Saturday as she was escorted to the Industrial Fair in Charlevoix's new pumper. Welcoming the Lieutenant Governor to Charlevoix are, from left, Doug Bergmann, head of the Volunteer Firemen, Mayor Hal Hill, and Charlevoix County State Bank President Gordon Wellman. Griffiths congratulated Charlevoix on the Fair and on "the cooperation of business and government." In a brief address prior to viewing the Fair, she argued for the retention of industrial revenue bonds. The program allows people to invest in tax-free bonds so municipalities and businesses can receive low-interest loans for development projects. "It would be devestating to this country if those revenue bonds were reduced," Griffiths said.

COMMUNITY NEWS BRIEFS

Lost youth is found

Gehry Wiesner, 14, the son of Charlevoix City Manager Michael Wiesner and his wife Suanne, was found Sunday evening after being lost in the woods for several hours.

Wiesner was found by Bob Clock, Petoskey News Review staff writer, at approximately 10:15 p.m.

Gehry was separated from his father while bow hunting off Burgess Road. His father reported him missing at 8:15 p.m., and a search party was formed. A tracking dog from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department aided in the search.

Clock said he was headed east away from the Hayes Township Hall when the boy responded to his calls. "It was pitch black," Clock said, "but we got together by calling back and forth."

Clock said Gehry was wet and shaking when he found him.

Petunia video aired

Operation Petunia will be among the featured presentations at the annual awards and business meeting of Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. to be held in Grosse Pointe Woods on Oct. 18.

Bruce MacArthur, president of Charlevoix's KCB, will present the recently completed video tape of the petunia planting to the state meeting.

The Charlevoix Area Historical Society will receive a Distinguished Service Certificate at the meeting.

Restaurants top list

Two Charlevoix-area restaurants are among the 300 listed in AAA Michigan's "Dining Out in Metro Detroit...And More," a new booklet compiled by Michigan Living Editor Len Barnes, one of the state's leading authorities on dining out.

Local restaurants described in the booklet are Grey Gables Inn and Duffy's.

The booklet includes 180 Detroit-area eateries, 111 in the rest of Michigan, and nine in Windsor and Amherstburg, Ontario.

It is available only by mail for $2 to AAA Michigan members and $2.95 to non-members by check to Michigan Living, 1 Auto Club Dr., Dearborn, MI 48126.

"Since we published our last edition in 1979, the number of restaurants has increased substantially, many are gourmet class, and ethnic dishes have become popular," said Barnes who has dined in 60 countries and covered the Michigan dining scene for 40 years.

Open house planned

An annual open house for the parents of children in the "Learning to Read Better" program will be held at the Charlevoix Elementary School on Monday, Oct. 21 at 6:30 p.m.

Water intake pipe is sunk

The intake pipe for Charlevoix's new water system was towed into place on Tuesday, Oct. 8 and sunk into a trench dug in the bottom of Lake Michigan.

The pipe will eventually supply uncontaminated water to Charlevoix residents, replacing the city well which has been found to contain trichloroethylene (TCE), a suspected cancer-causing agent.

The pipe laying culminates a major step in replacing the water system. Efforts to install the pipe have met with a series of misfortunes, including the firing of the original contractor and bankruptcy proceedings against the bonding company.

Ryba Marine Construction Co. of Cheboygan was eventually hired to complete the water intake project.

Tuesday's pipe laying followed a previous attempt to sink the line on Friday, Oct. 4 that had to be aborted when high winds forced workers to return the pipe to shore. The storm which followed on Friday night and Saturday brought 8 to 10-foot waves and filled some 250 feet of the trench with sand.

Ryba worked around the clock to clear the trench and prepare for another attempt to submerge the pipe.

The successful installation on Tuesday was not without its moments of excitement. Soon after the 2-foot-diameter pipe had been lifted from the shore and floated on the lake, the shore end slipped the tether holding it to a backhoe on shore. The pipe began to drift eastward, pushed by a stiff breeze that threatened to abort the project again.

Workers were able to return the loose end of the pipe, however, and attach it to the intake vault on shore. The pipe was then filled with water to sink it in the trench.

Ryba is completing the intake portion of the project by installing stainless steel filtration screens and back-filling the trench and intake vault on the lake bottom.

Comstock Construction of Traverse City has been contracted by the Corps to build the water treatment plant and is expected to begin work this week.

Divers get ready to attach the pipe to the intake valve.

Hayes decision pending

by PEG OHLE

It will still be a week or 10 days before Hayes Township knows whether or not Section 5.13 of its zoning ordinance is declared invalid.

In a Motion for Partial Summary Dispostion of a lawsuit filed against Hayes Township by Fox & Associates heard October 9 before Judge Robert Livo in Cheboygan Circuit Court, attorneys for Fox requested that this part of the zoning ordinance be declared invalid and that Fox's plan for a development in the Township be approved.

Section 5.13 limits shoreline property oweners to one motorized watercraft and one docking space for every 100 feet of shoreline owned.

It also limits lake access to one single family unit for each 100 feet of shoreline.

Fox owns 338 acres of property with 2,800 feet of shoreline on Lake Charlevoix. Last year he proposed a Planned Unit Development of 126 condominium units and 56 boat slips. This proposal was turned down by the Township Planning Commission, noting the restrictions of Section 5.13.

The Motion for Partial Summary Disposition of Fox's lawsuit was based on the Plaintiff's contention that the Township "simply does not have the right to legislate how many boats a person can own...or who can go swimming on a private beach on Lake Charlevoix".

Attorney Seberon Litaenburger, who expressed these views before the Court, added that the enabling act of the Rural Township Zoning Act does not provide for this kind of zoning: "Nowhere did the legislature say to the Townships, 'Zone water'. They didn't tell them to zone air either."

On the oher hand, Attorney Peter Steketee of Grand Rapids, pleading for the Defendant, insisted that the power granted to townships by the Rural Township Zoning Act was "broad" and asked Judge Livo to interpret the Act with that in mind.

Volunteers help build sidewalk

Volunteers will lay a 1,000-foot length of sidewalk on Division Avenue on Saturday from the intersection of Mount McSauba Road to the Charlevoix Elementary School.

The sidewalk is being built as a safety precaution for children walking to school along Division Avenue.

Vince Olach, business manager for the Charlevoix schools, said much of the work on the project will be from donated labor and materials. John Campbell of Site Planning Development is doing site preparation this week. School employees Ron Brown and Allan Dhaseleer will build the forms Thursday and Friday.

Kit Carson Lumber Co. has donated 2,000 feet of two-by-fours and 600 stakes for the job, Olach said.

Medusa Cement Co. will supply 35 tons of cement for the sidewalk and Manthel Development Corp. will have three 10-yard trucks on the job.

Laying the sidewalk will be under the supervision of employees of Stevens Concrete and Mike Rostar of Great Lakes Concrete Systems, Pincherry Road.

Olach expects that the entire project can be completed in one day.

Fishing tournament organizers begin preparations for spring

Area fishermen may be putting their boats and gear in storage for the season, but thoughts of fishing are still foremost in their mind of some.

Among those thinking ahead are members of the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament committee, including Director Jim Withers, Don Swartz, Norm Probert and Dave Juilleret, who have already met to begin planning next year's tournament.

There will be a public meeting of persons interested in the second annual trout tournament on Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m. downstairs at Village Inn Pizza on Bridge Street. Withers says anyone is invited to attend. "Bring your thoughts, ideas and suggestions," he adds.

The 1986 Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament will be held on May 17 and 18. "We are expecting the event to be bigger and better than ever," Withers says. Last year over 400 registered fishermen participated in the two-day event with over $7,000 in cash and prizes given away.

Regularly scheduled meetings will be held throughout the winter months in preparation for the spring tournament. Any person wishing to participate in these meetings should contact Withers at 547-6808, Don Swartz at 547-9772, or Norm Probert at 547-4226 or attend the public meeting on Oct. 22.

Family album project is planned

The Charlevoix Area Historical Society has launched a new family album program to preserve for posterity a record of the many families that have lived and still live in Charlevoix.

The Historical Society is encouraging families in the area to submit pictures, documents and other information to the album project.

Louis Orlowski, president of the Historical Society, says the family albums will be kept in alphabetical order in the library of Harsha House and will be expanded as new material and contributions become available.

"In this way, a family's record can grow from a single page to as many as they feel they would like to contribute," Orlowski says. "We feel the story of the many and varied families of Charlevoix will be a priceless part of our heritage."

As an initial step in compiling the family albums, the Historical Society has sent out over 50 questionnaires to area families. Questionnaires that are returned will be the first page in that family's album.

Bob Miles is coordinating the project for the Historical Society.

The family albums will be kept in handsome bookcase built especially for the project and dedicated to the memory of Carl Kohler.

Sheriff George T. Lasater talks with William Lucas, Republican candidate for governor and former Wayne County sheriff.

Lucas campaigns in Charlevoix

by PEG OHLE

William Lucas, Wayne County Executive who is an active candidate for the 1986 Republican nomination for Governor, was in Charlevoix last week seeking support from local voters.

At an early morning coffee hour, Lucas told the small gathering that "1986 will be a hard year in state politics and we must all pull together". He stressed that this was especially important if the Republican party wanted to "make sure to have a winning state for the national election in 1988".

Lucas, who last year switched his life-long allegiance from the Democrat to Republican party, explained the change: "I was being criticized by the leadership of the Democrat party for setting up good financial and other programs that most of the people wanted," and added, "We need good fiscally sound government in the state and I can provide it."

He continued, saying he believed "personal qualities are transferrable. What I did in the county I can do at the state level".

Lucas has served as Wayne County Executive for three years, but says, "It feels like 10". During that time, he had to take drastic steps to cut the cost of government, including laying off employees.

"But now I can leave Wayne County knowing they have learned what they should expect from government and believe they will get it".

Before becoming County Executive, Lucas served both as Under-Sheriff and Sheriff of Wayne County. He believes this experience supplied him with valuable knowledge of the problems of rural areas. "As Sheriff, I was responsible for rural areas of the County and worked closely with small cities and townships. In recent months, I have spent considerable time in the Upper Peninsula and have covered 75 of the 83 counties in the state. I have been learning from them. The Sheriff works with people".

All of Lucas' earlier work experience was in larger cities, as a social worker, teacher, police officer, attorney, and FBI investigator in New York City. He is a graduate of Manhattan College and received his law degree from Fordham University.

New surveyor joins local company

George J. Avendt, Jr., licensed land surveyor, has formally announced his association with Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Company. Avendt first began his affiliation with the company in 1984 in conjunction with the firm's survey activities related to the Detroit Central Automated Transit System (Downtown People Mover).

Avendt, a native of Macomb County, graduated from the New Haven High School. He continued his education by enrolling at the University of Michigan and South Macomb Community College where he studied surveying.

From Oct. 1967 to Feb. 1981, Avendt was vice-president and chief senior land surveyor for Lehner Assicaties, Inc. of Mt. Clemens, Mi. He then seved as a consultant in field and office operations with C.I. Robinson & Associates, Inc. of Gaylord until August of this year.

Avendt has been active in all phases of land surveying including boundary retracements, property developments, road layouts, site surveys and highway projects. He has supervised various Federal Urban Renewal Projects and layouts for Selfridge Air Force Base, and has performed transmission line surveys for the Detroit Edison Company and Consumers Power Company.

Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Company will employ Avendt in an active roll pertaining to the supervision of its field and office activities. The company has provided all types of professional services related to both land surveying and land title research since 1916 and currently maintains a staff of 16 persons.

Conservancy holds open house

The Little Traverse Conservancy will hold an open house on Sunday, Oct. 20, from 1-4 p.m. to allow its members and the public an opportunity to visit the newly refurbished office building at 3264 Powell Road.

Located across Powell Road from the old Flying Dutchman Restaurant just off M-119 between Harbor Springs and Petoskey, the Conservancy office building was moved to its present location last year. Since the move, the building has been remodeled inside and out with new log siding, insulation, and paint and drywall work. The area around the building has been landscaped as well.

Members and the public are invited to see the faciltiy and learn more about the Conservancy and its programs for land conservation and conservation education in Northern Michigan.

Hayes Township picks city for new fire protection contract

The Charlevoix City Fire Department's spanking new pumper, parked in front of the Hayes Township Hall prior to the Township Board meeting last week, is credited, at least in part, with Charlevoix obtaining another year's contract to provide the Township with fire protection and aumbulance service.

However, it was also pointed out that a questionnaire survey of Township residents indicated they preferred to renew their contract with the City rather than sign up with Charlevoix Township, which was also under consideration.

Hayes Township residents will be levied one-half mill for these emergency services, bringing in about $22,000, which will be paid to the City.

The Township fire committee, which was active in studying problems of fire protection and ambulance service, will now devote its effort toward educating residents on such matters as fire insurance, chimney maintenance, determining best routes to a fire in all parts of the Township, and similar problems.

Transit levy to make up deficit

Charlevoix County residents' 1985 property tax bills will include .25 mills for operating the County Transit System.

This is the maximum amount authorized for transit operations in a millage proposal passed in November, 1982. The proposal was for a three-year period, but because it came too late to be included in 1983 tax bills, it did not take effect until 1984. Therefore the millage levy will continue through 1986.

Last year, the County Board of Commissioners voted to levy only .175 mills of the authorized amount. This, along with no millage income in 1983, left the Transit System with a deficit which now amounts to $18,323.05. When the system's annual report for the current fiscal year which ended September 30 is prepared, the deficit may be even greater. However, it is hoped the Transit System will need only .185 mills for operational costs so that the other .065 mills can be applied to the deficit.

The Transit System's proposed budget for 1986 amounts to $317,499, with funds coming from federal, state, and local taxes and farebox collections of $57,750.

Owners of property with a state equalized value of $30,000 will now pay $7.50 for bus service, compared with $5.25 last year.

Matron law is changed

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater admits he may have been operating his Department in violation of the law.

Since 1897, there has been a state law which requires jail matrons to be "at least 25 years old and be recommended by at least 20 women 'of good standing'". There is no such qualification for male employees.

Lasater says he has been unaware of the law and has not considered the age restriction or recommendations from other women when hiring matrons.

"However, I could probably get 200 recommendations for our matrons if I wanted to," Lasater added. There are presently two full-time matrons, Corinne Russell and Marcella Murdick, and one half-time matron, Carron Bennett, working at the Charlevoix County jail.

Sheriff Lasater and other Sheriffs in the state won't be bound by this law any longer, however. House Bill 4974, sponsored by Representative Phil Hoffman, which was recently passed, repeals the law and awaits only the signature of Governor James J. Blanchard to eliminate it from the books.

"The Michigan Sheriffs' Association is applauding final legislative approval of the measure, which eliminates special qualifications and requirements for women seeking employment as matrons in Michigan's county jails," says Dale E. Davis, deputy director of the Association.

"The Association has been pressing to strike discriminatory and sexist language from state statutes for more than a decade," Davis added.

"It's good! It's good!"

By Doug Truax

Charlevoixans who have not yet attended the new dinner theatre at 218 Bridge Street are in for a treat.

In case you missed the announcement, restauranteur Tom Warth recently teamed with producer David Pritchard to open the theatre on the third floor of Warth's restaurant.

Warth remodelled the room into an intimate little room, complete with proscenium stage, lighting, and tables to seat 46. Those buying tickets for the show and dinner are fed downstairs in the restaurant and afterward move upstairs for the play. Dessert and drinks are available in the theatre at intermission.

Sounds nice, you say, but the play can't really be much. I mean, after all, theatre in Charlevoix?

Think again. The Warth-Pritchard team has brought a winner to town the first time out with their production of "I Do! I Do!" It is as good a production as you are likely to find in the north and I doubt you would see it done much better anywhere in the state.

Marlene Flood and Paul Gregory Nelson carry the two-person show with style and excitement. The music is good – although most of the songs have not achieved widespread popular success – and the voices of Flood and Nelson do them justice.

It is a pleasant surprise to find such good entertainment tucked away in the upper reaches of Bridge Street. Go if you get the chance. You are not likely to be disappointed.

"I Do! I Do!" runs for one more weekend – Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Call 218 Bridge for times. The musical revue "The Gay Nineties" will be presented Oct. 25 through November 7. A special Christmas production, "The Christmas Show," is scheduled later. Followed by "I Aught to be in Pictures" and "Sing, Sing America."

Here is hoping the future shows live up to the promise of the current offering.

Let seniors graduate early

by Danielle Johnson

Some people refer to it as the light at the end of the tunnel, while others look at it as the beginning of a lifetime. But generally, everyone agrees that graduation is one of the most important events in a person's lifetime.

Next year, 103 seniors from Charlevoix High School will walk up on stage to receive their diplomas amidst the flashing of cameras and the clapping for friends and relatives. At the next School Board meeting, the Board will ask for the principal's recommendation on a graduation date, and it is highly likely that Mr. Dave Smith, the new high school principal, will break from tradition and recommend that the senior class graduate on the Sunday after school finishes, rather than the prior Sunday, which hss been the status quo for the past twelve years.

Originally, graduation was held on a weeknight during the last week of school, and a baccalaureate service was held on the Sunday prior to graduation. However, because of attendance problems on the baccalaureate Sunday, the school decided in 1973 to combine the two services and hold a combination ceremony on a Sunday. Mr. Vane Smith, the principal for Charlevoix High from 1969 to 1985 said that he began using the Sunday prior to the last week of school as a graduation date because he felt "they (the seniors) deserved a little honor." He also said that it "got them out of our hair!"

This year, Mr. Dave Smith says that he has received complaints about the seniors graduating a week before school is officially over, and so he is contemplating setting a precident with his proposal for a later graduation (the date would be June 15).

Mr. Smith said that the main arguments for keeping the seniors until the 15th were mainly that people didn't feel the seniors should receive any special privileges and get out of school earlier than the underclassmen, the teachers didn't like making up two final exams for any of their classes that were split (i.e. juniors and seniors).

Not suprisingly, the class is 1986 is unhappy about Mr. Smith's view on graduation. They are quick to point out the fact that this coming summer is their last summer to work at a job to earn money for the coming college year, and one week's headstart in working at a full-time job can make a difference financilally as well as giving their employer more time to train them, thus making them a more vafuable employee.

The students who are leaving for colleges that start in August (such as Hope College) especially need that early start. The students suggest that the teachers who don't want to make up two different finals for one class simply give the final examination a week earlier, and use the last of week of school for enrichment work. The students who have taken computer classes cite their classes as a prime example of how well that type of system works.

The seniors do not feel that they should be held over an extra three days to graduate on June 15, halfway through the beginning of the summer. After twelve years of schooling, they feel that one week off their last year will not ruin them for life.

The School Board will receive Mr. Smith's recommendation on the graduation date, discuss it, and vote on it at their next meeting October 21. Parents are always welcome to attend any of the Board meetings and encouraged to make their opinions known. If you cannot attend the meeting, the students would appreciate it if you would call any member of the Board and discuss your opinions and recommendations with them.

Letters to the Editor:

Mini-parks not wanted

Dear Editor:

I read your editorial in the Oct. 9 Charlevoix Courier and was very upset to learn that the City Planning Commission and City Council had approved mini-amusement parks for the south side of Charlevoix.

I was born in Charlevoix, my family has lived there for years and I currently own property in town and therefore have a lot of feeling for this area.

I don't believe that the public was given enough time to voice their opinions on this situation.

These plastic parks will not do anything for Charlevoix the Beautiful. To the contrary, they will have a bad effect, including the crowding of a major thoroughfare and inevitably the development of a commercial strip on one of the two entrances to the city. I definitely don't think the people of Charlevoix want this type of atmosphere.

I hope the people of Charlevoix will be given a fair chance to voice their viewa on these developments before it is too late. Why bother with petunias if we are going to allow these amusement type park operations to locate in our town.

I don't think we want to be recognized by plastic parks, but rather for the beautiful town we have always had.

Put fire hall at airport

Dear Editor:

Why will it cost more to build a fire department on the airport property the city already owns than to buy the old post office property, tear down the post office and add on to the fire department they already have?

The advantages of building on the airport property are: 1) they already own the land, 2) there is plenty of room for parking, 3) there is room for other buildings the city may need, and 4) there is not the danger of getting in and out.

At the fire hall they now have the city would have to wait until the old house on State Street is torn down, then they have to build the new post office before they can think of adding on to the fire hall.

This means it would be from one to two years before the fire hall will be completed. With the price of work and material going up, it will cost anywhere from 5 to 15 percent more to build by the time it is finished.

By building on the airport property they could start building in the spring and not have the long wait.

The post office we have now is a good, soundly built modern building and it is a shame to tear it down. Maybe if the city owned it they could negotiate in a trade for an older buliding where they need further parking. The post office is a newer building and would help to keep Charlevoix beautiful.

Building at the airport would also leave more room for parking at city hall.

I think more of our taxpayers should look into this situation. Remember, it is your money that is being spent. Let's hope it is spent wisely, not just for the pleasure of a few.

Maintain buffer at Lodge

Dear Editor:

When the Lodge was planned by Earl Young, Kit Carson and Julius Gilbert way back in 1962, there were already limits as to how many rooms could be bulit, and how many parking spaces were required, and how close the building could be placed next to the city lot line. Consequently the architect was required to make concessions.

It would be no surprise to any of the above persons that a motel-meeting complex is being considered on the present site of the Queen of Charlevoix docking area on Round Lake. Expansion on the former site of the Lumber Company was certainly predictable.

However, I would respectfully like to remind the City Council that a promise was made by the ownera of the Lodge to the former City Council that the adjacent strip of land on the south side of the Lodge, which belongs to the city, be maintained by the owners of the Lodge. As anyone can see who drives across the bridge from the south side, a wide strip of grass seperates the Lodge from the alley drive. The green lawn acts as a frame around a picture and sets the building apart and gives it stature. The lawn has been maintained as promised since 1962.

To turn this strip of grass into a parking area and substitute a row of cars would diminish the entire complex. The reason people are drawn to this area is to get away from wall to wall concrete and parking lots and noise. It would be in the best interest of Charlevoix, if the strip of grass could be kept intact, and it would be kept as a buffer between the two hostelries.

Blunderland auditions postponed

Dear Editor:

Since the Courier was kind enough to print the excellent article about auditions for Alice in Blunderland, I feel it is necessary to give your readers an update on the situation.

Unfortunately we are not going to do the production at this time. I was not able to cast the show due to lack of adult interest. The children were ready; it was exciting to work with their enthusiasm and raw talent even for the short period of time at auditions. However, the quality of the production depends upon the involvement of men and women in 10-12 of the 20 roles.

The producers and I believe strongly that Alice in Blunderland is an entertaining and important piece of theatre, so we don't want to give up. We will postpone the production until after Christmas. Rehearsals would begin the end of January, 1986, go through February with performances the first two weekends in March. This is what we would like to do if we can get the commitment of ten to twelve men and women. Anyone interested who could make that time available, please call me anytime after 6 p.m. My number is 547-5662. I will be happy to talk to you and arrange an audition time at your convenience.

Graffiti

By Bob Clock

"Fools' names and fools' faces
Are always seen in public places."

My mother was fond of reciting little scraps of moralistic doggerel to me when I was a kid. One of her favorites was the little couplet above, which she used to recite whenever I appeared to be even thinking about writing my name on the aidewalk with a piece of coal.

I was the only kid in my neighborhood whose name is not immortalized somewhere in fresh concrete. Or on the side of a garage. Or on a basement wall.

When at last I squirm of this mortal coil, no one will even know I was here. But that's the way Ma wanted it. At least, that's the way decent folk did it.

All of which brings us around to the subject of graffiti.

Have you taken a good look recently at the railroad viaduct over U.S. 31 west of Bay Shore? It'a a real eyesore. There's hardly a square inch that isn't covered with some kind of nonsense, most of which is unprintable in a family newspaper.

In light of my early upbringing, the graffiti has bothered me for some time. But it didn't emerge as a genuine "problem" until Friday when Barbara MacArthur of Charlevoix sent me a clipping from the Detroit Free Press detailing the extent of the graffiti situation nationwide.

"In Chicago, New York and Boston, convicted vandals and drunken drivers are put to work scrubbing graffiti off station walls," the Free Press reports. "Atlanta has camera surveillance in all stations. Philadelphia makes parents liable for up to $350 in damage their children cause, and the transit system makes anti-vandalism presentations in public schools."

APPARENTLY ONE of the new ways to discoursge graffiti is to remove it as soon as it appears.

"We feel if graffiti stays around, it sort of multiplies," commented Marilyn Discus, a spokeswoman for the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority.

She probably has a point. The graffiti on the railroad viaduct seems to increase by quantum jumps. In fact, the abutments are becoming so crowded with hearts, arrows, names, dates, nude drawings and four-letter words that you can hardly take it all in without slowing down to a crawl.

I, for one, think the viaduct is becoming a traffic hazard.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE for cleaning up such graffiti?

Ultimately, I suppose the railroad should do something about it, since it is railroad property. But the railroads don't have two dimes to rub together.

The state Department of Transportation might be mildly interested, since graffiti is distracting to motorists. But the DOT doesn't have money to waste on such niceties.

Furthermore, I don't know how you could get rid of it all without sandblasting.

Ontario highway officials have come up with an interesting solution to graffiti on the angular rock cliffs facing Highway 17 east of Sault Ste. Marie. They have painted over it with colors matching the cliff face. Chalk white here, rust red there.

Unfortunately, the graffiti painters can't always match the shade exactly and some otherwise attractive natural outcroppings look like blobs of modernistic art.

Aren't skunks the cutest things? I have seen more of these little black and white striped critters this year than ever before. I have seen them in the wild, and even held one in my hands in high school. (It had been "taken care of"). That inquisitive creature nosing around my clothes was a pleasant experience, like a new kitten or puppy.

In recent days I have seen skunks "up close and personal" to quote a TV interview program. On an early morning walk through one of our neighborhoods I saw a little skunk just beyond the hedge - I stepped quickly and quietly past.

Two weeks ago I was walking to church early and musing over the morning sermon. I was momentarily distracted, and when my eyes returned to the sidewalk on State Street I saw the "business end" of a skunk at the edge of the sidewalk. I knew I was in trouble if I stopped so I discreetly lowered my umbrella to a position of protection and walked on - safely!

Finally, arriving home late at night we discovered a little striped critter in a bag of trash set on the back porch just hours before. I parked the car near the sidewalk, and entering the front door the skunk was shooed away from a position inside the back door where it was safe. We know that "Essence de Skunke" is quite harmless, but very, very effective.

No one can deny this presence of the skunk (that cute little critter), for which only great quantities of tomato juice and lots of time and fresh air erase (but never completely), and often only burying or burning will suffice. Skunks ARE cute - until you've done business with one!

Christians often view sin in the same way we view skunks. Sin often appears cute, attractive, fun, painless and harmless. But wheo sin is handled the smell of death beginss to grow immediately, and continues to grow until it sears the nostrils. There is no amount of tomato juice or time or fresh air or washing or burying or burning that will rid a person of the stench of sin.

Only Jesus can do that! He can erase the smell of sin and death - he wants to do that for everyone, and he will do that for anyone who will turn from that sin in penitence. His forgiveness is absolute and complete - there is no residual stink! Sin, like skunks, can appear cute and even cuddley, but the simple word of wisdom is: Leave skunks and sin alone! The chances of stinking are just a touch away!

Ways celebrate 65th wedding anniversary

Clarence and Ruth Way of Charlevoix have shared with their family in a two-week celebration of their 65th wedding anniversary, which was October 11.

The celebration was kicked off with a combined birthday dinner for Clarence, who was 86, and Ruth, who was 83, when their son Robert and his wife Florence were visiting from Houston, Texas.

Following that occasion was a color tour to the Soo Locks and into Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario as a special birthday gift on Friday and Saturday. That waa followed by a family anniversary dinner at a local restaurant on Sunday. Their daughter Geraldine and son-in-law Arthur Hittenberger of Fort Lauderdale, Florida and grandaughter Julie Way of Detroit, along with Wayne and Sandy Boss and their three children from Fairbanks, Alaska, joined with other local family members for that time of celebration.

The activities continued with a gathering for luncheon on Sunday evening at the home of Dick and Lois Way, then a dinner at the home of Dawson and Joan Way on Thursday evening and breakfast at the home of Doug and Lorrie Way on Saturday morning. Grandaughter Kathy Hittenberg of Fort Lauderdale arrived in time for the Thursday and Saturday festivities and Bob and Florence Way returned for the "wrap up" on Saturday.

This is the first time in 15 years that all of their five children and their mates have been together. With 19 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren, the family now totals 62.

Clarence Way is an employee of Brumm's Studio and both he and Ruth remain active, busy people. Family members say they feel very fortunate to have their parents with them to celebrate 65 years of marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neill

Puffpaff-Neill

Ann Marie Puffpaff and Donald Allen Neill exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, September 21, at the First Christian Church in Petoskey.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Puffpaff of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mra. David Neill, Jr. of Petoskey.

Dr. Ray Montgomery officiated at the double-ring ceremony which was witnessed by approximately 200 guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an antique ivory gown of chiffon and satin with antique crocheted Venise lace accents. The off-the-shoulder puffed sleeves were trimmed with satin roses, and bands of satin trimmed the bodice and waistline. The triple chiffon skirt ended in a semi-cathedral-length train. The bride carried a bouquet of ivory lace roses, sweetheart roses, pink roses, and baby's breath.

The bride's mother served as her matron of honor, and Kelly Eaton served as bridesmaid. They wore rose-colored gowns of qiana and chiffon with sheer tiered bodices and petal sleeves. Each carried a single ivory long-stemmed rose.

Bethany Neill, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a pink pleated chiffon gown. Cameron Mertel, son of the bridegroom's cousin, was ringbearer.

Stan Neill, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Dave White served as groomsman. Richard Neill, nephew of the bridegroom, and Kurt Puffpaff, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Jeanie Lignell provided a program of traditional wedding music.

A reception, hosted by the bride and bridegroom and their families, was held at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the church.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to St. Martin's Bay and are now at home in LaPorte, Texas, where both have been living for some time.

Gaylord stops Rayders cold

The Rayder offense fizzled for the second week in a row, resulting in a 26-0 defeat by the Gaylord Blue Devils.

Gaylord, leading the league with a 5-0 record, allowed the Rayders only 132 yards on the night.

Charlevoix failed to score despite picking up six turnovers — three fumbles and three interceptions.

Charlevoix was again without its starting offensive running backs Matt Lignell and Jim Morgridge. Lignell, who is recovering from a sprained ankle, played defense on Friday and came up with 12 tackles. His offense was limited to one running play – a 17 yard gain that ended in a fumble.

Gaylord piled up 349 yards, 304 on the ground in 50 attempts.

The Blue Devils put their first points on the board when Kevin Bur climaxed a 15-play drive with a 3-yard run. With 1:22 left in the first quarter, Gaylord picked up a fumbled punt return by Charlevoix. On the next play Bur went 30 yards for the score. The kick was good and the Blue Devils were on top 13-0.

Capitalizing on another Charlevoix fumble in the second quarter, Gaylord mounted a drive that was capped by a 3-yard plunge by quarterback Chris Clark. The kick was good again and Gaylord held a 20-0 lead at halftime.

The final score of the game came late in the third quarter following another Charlevoix turnover. The Blue Devils picked off a Rayder pass and took it to the Charlevoix 33. The ball was brought back to the 45 on a penalty, but the Blue Devils quickly closed the distance on two long passes. Clark ran the ball in for the score from the 8.

Brian Wilmot again led the Rayder defense, making 12 tackles, blocking a kick, recovering a fumble and picking off an interception. "He played his heart out," Assistant Coach Hal Evans said of the middle linebacker.

Evans also credited the defensive work of Lignell and Steve Gauthier who added 10 tackles before being sidelined with a knee injury that may keep him out for the rest of the year.

Tim Salmonson came up with 11 tackles and one pass interception.

Scott Crandell ran 40 yards in 10 carries for the Rayders. Mike Thompson added 34 yards in 13 carries.

Running back Mike Thompson picks up some yards against a tough Blue Devil defense.

The Blue Devils defense was effective in shutting down the Rayders offense.

Girls win Ferris Invitational

The Charlevoix girls cross country team took first place in last weekend's Ferris Invitational meet, while the boys ran to a second place finish.

The girls defeated four other teams including Belding, Benzie Central, Kalkaska and Mancelona for the victory.

Pacing Charlevoix was Betsy Haggard who finished second overall with a time of 21:23.8.

Heidi Olinger of Charlevoix was fifth coming in at 22:34.5. Other runners in the girls event included Michelle North (7th place, 23:24.8), Lori Raymond (14th, 24.13.2), and Noni Pace (22nd, 26:00).

The Rayder girls took the event with a score of 50. Benzie Central was second at 56 points, followed by Belding and Kalkaska at 62 and Mancelona at 106.

Pat Rajewski lead the boys team for Charlevoix, finishing fourth overall with a time of 17:20.9.

Doug Bergmann finished seventh in the meet at 17:31.8, followed closely by teammate Joe Simpson at 17:32.8. Other runners for the Rayders included Mike Dohm (15th place, 18:06.6), Kevin McLenon (16th, 18:13.2), Sean Henne (20th, 18:48.5), and Harold Herriman (27th, 19:23.6).

Benzie Central won the meet with 33 points. Charlevoix had 50, followed by Kalkaska (58), Elk Rapids (121), Mancelona (138), Belding (159), and Evart (186).

Running in the boys open race (class A, B, C, and D) were Tom Merta who finished first at 18:13, followed by Dave Warth, Ed Knight, Jeff Skeel, Hal Chase, and Derk VanKuiken.

Charlevoix knocks off co-leader in tight girls basketball race

ROGERS CITY - The Charlevoix Rayders upset league co-leader Rogers City Thursday night to get back in the thick of the Michigan-Huron Shores conference race.

The 42-29 Rayder victory was highlighted by strong defense and the offensive efforts of Amy Pischner and Michelle Gagnon who combined for 31 of the 42 Rayder points.

"It was neat," said coach Hank Wagner of the victory. "To travel two hours and then do something like that...It's a great feeling."

The win moved Charlevoix to 5-3 on the year and 4-2 in league while Rogers City is now 7-4 overall and also 4-2 in league. Cheboygan holds first place at 5-1.

The contest got off to an 8-8 first quarter start but in the second period Charlevoix stopped Rogers cold, using a 16-0 spread to go up 24-8 at the half and then held a 34-20 lead headed into the final period.

"I told the girls in practice they (Rogers) had the league's top two scorers so our defense would have to do it," Wagner said. "Team defense did it and every kid I used was good at it."

For the Rayders Pischner led the way with 18 points and Gagnon had 13 while on the boards, sophomore Ellen Pearl hauled in 15 rebounds. The Rayders also played without usual starter Cindy Boss who was ill.

For Rogers City, Vicki Buczkowski had 15 points, eight off her league high average.

Charlevoix hit 19 field goals six of 11 from the line with 17 fouls while Rogers City canned 12 buckets, five of 11 free throws and had 12 personals.

Rogers City took the JV game 38-26.

Tuesday, Oct. 15, the Rayders are back in action at St. Ignace to close the first round.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix got a combined 36 points from Pearl and Pischner to defeat Grayling 54-45.

"We finally got back on the right track," said coach Wagner of the Tuesday night victory which stopped a two-game losing streak.

Charlevoix took a 17-11 first period lead on Grayling and had a 27-17 margin at the half with a 38-29 spread headed into the last period.

Charlevoix hit on 25 field goals, added four of 13 at the charity line with 12 fouls while Grayling posted 16 baskets, 13 of 18 free throws and had 10 fouls.

"Pearl had a real nice game," said Wagner of his sophomore who finished with 18 points as did Pischner. Gagnon added 10 more points. For Grayling, Shawn Denton and Kim Springer had 15 points apiece and Michelle Moore 11.

Charlevoix took the JV game 27-21 as Jill Austin had 13 points with Allison Hall top defensive player.

Frosh beat Cheboygan, fall to Blue Devils

The Charlevoix freshman football team pounded Cheboygan for a 46-12 win on Wednesday, Oct. 2, but found itself on the losing end of last week's game, falling to Gaylord 26-12.

In the Cheboygan game David Miller had three touchdowns for the Rayders, Jason Whitley two and Benji Spencer and Bob Jess one each.

Jamie Monteith and Charlie Witthoeft added conversions.

Defensively Matt Cunningham and David Knight were outstanding, Coach Eric Lundteigen reported. "Offensively we had very good blocking up front," he said.

Against Gaylord, Miller ran for two TDs. Defensively Randy Zipp, Cunningham and Knight led the way. "We had a tough game against Gaylord," Lundteigen noted. "But we played well. They just had a little too much for us.

The freshman team's next game is Wednesday at the Soo.

Golfers 4th in region

The Rayder golf team placed fourth out of 11 teams competing in the regional meet held at Houghton Lake's White Deer Run Golf Course on Friday.

Only the top three teams – Houghton Lake, Elk Rapids, and Boyne City (in order) – qualify for the state tournament.

The Charlevoix team trailed third place Boyne City by ten strokes.

Leading the Rayder team was Denny Curtis who posted an 86. He was followed by Marty Joy (89), Scott Wise (91), Denny Clark (94), and Dave Clark (96).

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

The fall colors now being thought about by the Wednesday Skippers are the colors of the award flags. The last series of the year is now history and those "in the money" can look forward to just a little well deserved gloating on Awards Night. The rest have a few weeks to improve upon our excuses. And this is the way it was....

Fleet 1 - The "big" ones - First: Charlie Brown, Second: Kritter, Third: Plastic Fantastic. They were followed by, in order: Moonshadow, Traveller and Pygmalion in a 5th place tie; Tigger, then Flying Machine and, finally Columbine.

Fleet 2 - The "lightweights" - First: Brass Tacks, Second: Wing Nut, Third: Night Moves. trailing were Merry Hell II, Bandit, Canusa, Maranatha, and Babe.

Fleet 3 - The "heavyweights" - First: Tireless, Second: Blasen III, Third: Flash. After that: Spectre, N. Secundus, Foxy Lady.

The Jib and Main Sailors - First: Mint Julep, Second: Cygnus, Third: Mud Duck. Looking back, it was: Stalworth, Cheemaun, Maureen, Coolwhip, Apothecary, Phoenicia, Ribit and Sandpiper.

The above were decided in most cases, by the 5.09 Nautical Mile course. The top four in Fleet 1 were also the top four on overall, but with the exception of Kritter and C'Brown (1:07:38 and 1:08:51) all the top ten times were extremely close: Plastic F, Traveller and Wing Nut were in the 1:10 numbers; Pyggy, Brass T. and Moonshadow in 1:11; Blasen in 1:12 with Canusa and M'Hell in 1:13.

No. 1, in order: Kritter, Charlie Brown, Plastic Fantastic, Traveller, Pygmalion, Moonshadow, Tigger, Columbine and Flying Machine.

No. 2, same way: Wing Nut, Brass Tacks, Canusa, Merry Hell II, Bandit and Night Moves (everybody gets at least one last in this Fleet!).

No. 3, yet again: Blasen III, Spectre, Tireless, N. Secundus, Flash and again San Sue She (DSQ - no PRHF number).

JAM, once more: Stallworth, Cygnus, Cheemaun, Mint Julep, Mud Duck, Maureen, Phoenicia, Ribit (from 6th on ack. protest) and Apothecary.

Fun sail this Wednesday - The Race to End all Races (for this season, anyway). Same time, same place (start in the Lake), different finish. Sail, yes I said Sail, into Round Lake and pull up at 218.

Only one more regular column this year; drop off, at the Club, any info on winter activities (or mail to A. Nony at Box 569) - but it must be there by Friday, Oct. 18. Don't forget the Costume Ball on Saturday, November 2 and the Fantastic Awards Night one week later. Rumor has it that the All-Seeing Carnac will host.

...the End of the Mouses' Tale

Folksinger in concert

On October 16 folksinger, Sally Rogers will be performing in concert at McCune Arts Center. The concert, sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council, will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is $5.

Sally Rogers is a fine and energetic singer of traditional and contemporary songs and ballads from the English speaking world. She accompanies herself on the guitar, banjo and mountain dulcimer. But, according to one reviewer, her most impressive asset is her voice: "In an era that seems dominated by studio effects and synthetic voices, her natural beauty is a blessed relief and a continual joy."

Rogers has performed across the United States and Canada and has also completed two tours of the British Isles.

Sally Rogers, who has made several appearances on Minnesota Public Radio's "A Prairie Home Companion", has released two record albums on the Thrushwood label, both of which have received review of high praise.

AUTUMN WEEKEND

Last weekend's activity filled schedule got off to a fine start with homecoming festivities on Friday. There was a parade through town with floats made by each class in the high school. At halftime the new king and queen were crowned. Only the outcome of the football game was a disappointment.

Charlevoix said goodbye to the tourist season in fine style. The Apple Fest packed them in along Bridge Street despite soggy weather on Saturday. There were apples in all varieties, of course, as well as cider, produce, handmade gifts and plenty of good food.

The Christmas Bazaar offered shoppers a chance to buy homemade gifts at the Market Mall and shoppers were treated to a performance by Krista Knight's youth string orchestra.

Saturday's lousy weather didn't hamper the second Industrial Fair at the Charlevoix High School gym. Attendance was excellent as the public examined the displays of over 30 area businesses. Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths was the guest of honor.

By Sunday the dismal gray weather had lifted, revealing the spectacular peak colors of autumn.

Bank robbed, suspect at large

The masked gunman who held up the Charlevoix County State Bank branch on M-66 on Friday remains at large.

Police have, however, recovered a motorcycle they believe may have been used in the robbery. The cycle was found off Ferry Road.

Shortly after 10 a.m. Friday a lone white male wearing a ski mask and wielding a sawed-off long gun walked into the bank's branch office south of Charlevoix and made off with just under $20,000 in cash.

Police Chief Jack Mol said the suspect was approximately five-foot-six, 150 pounds and was wearing a royal blue ski mask, faded blue jean jacket, older brown polyester pants, blue tennis shoes, and brown work gloves.

City police were joined by state police investigators, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, and FBI agents. The state police brought a tracking dog to the scene but the dog failed to discover any trail.

There were reports that the suspect fled to the south on a black motorcycle.

No customers were in the Charlevoix bank at the time of the robbery, bank officials said. The man approached the two tellers and branch manager with the gun exposed and demanded they empty the tills.

"This is joke," he told the employees. "Put all your money in the bag." The robber handed the tellers a cloth bag to fill with money. Prior to leaving he ordered them to sit on the floor for five minutes.

On Sept. 29 a man fitting the same physical description used a sawed-off shotgun, a ski mask and a motorcycle during a robbery of an Alpena Savings Bank. About $7,5000 was taken in that holdup.

On Aug. 24 a man wearing a ski mask and toting a shotgun robbed the Holiday Hills branch of Old Kent Bank of more than $10,000. Police believe a motorcycle was used in the getaway.

On July 8 a man wielding a shotgun and wearing a ski mask held up a branch of the Grayling State Bank. The man fled on a motorcycle with more than $5,000.

The night of the Charlevoix robbery a woman in Traverse City was robbed by a man pointing a shotgun as she attempted to deposit more than $1,000 cash at the night deposit of NBD-Northwest Bank at Garfield and South Airport roads.

The woman told deputies she pulled into the bank's drive-in lanes, where the depository is located, when a man wearing a ski mask approached her from around the corner of the bank and demanded the deposit bag.

The man pulled what was apparently a single-barrel shotgun from under his coat.

Council told fish plants could move

Jim Withers told City Council Monday that he has received reports that District Fisheries Biologist Steve Swan has recommended the state cease planting chinook salmon in the Lake Charlevoix area.

Swan reportedly made the recommendation recently following efforts by a group of salmon fishermen to prevent the Department of Natural Resources from maintaining a temporary weir on the Jordan River to halt the movement of the salmon into the river.

Swan was reportedly upset by the support the anti-weir forces were receiving in Charlevoix County from various county officials.

Swan recommended that the plants be moved to Traverse City. Swan is on vacation and unavailable for comment.

Withers said the loss of the salmon plantings in the Charlevoix area would result in substantial economic loss to the community.

"They (the salmon) can bring millions of dollars to Charlevoix on an annual basis," Withers said.

He asked for the support of City Council in trying to preserve the salmon plantings in this area. "There is an active group of people in the East Jordan area putting a lot of pressure on the Charlevoix County Commissioners," Withers added.

Withers told the council that the East Jordan area had been informed through public hearings at least two years ago about the salmon planting plan and the need to close the river and they had agreed to it.

Without the weir, Withers added, the fish will take over the river.

The DNR had planned to install a permanent weir at the mouth of the Jordan River at M-32. Salmon would be blocked from the river but would be available in the South Arm of

Graduation set for June 8

The Charlevoix Board of Education approved the recommendation made by David J. Smith, high school principal, that graduation be scheduled for Sunday, June 8. In the past commencement was set for the Sunday prior to the last week of school.

A delegation of approximately 50 members of the senior class attended the meeting in support of the request made by Robert Waun and Shannon Titsworth, class officers, that the class be allowed to make plans for a senior trip to Toronto, June 9-12. The class was advised to name a committee to work with school officials regarding the proposed trip.

Geraldine Brady, school nurse, reported on the progress of the faculty, two from each building, who are training as CPR instructors. She said they are presently qualified to administer CPR but would require additional instruction to be teachers

Township zoning board oks 208 units for Water's Edge

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board approved a change in the density provisions of its planned residential zoning which would allow up to 208 condominiums at Water's Edge.

The proposed amendment would change section 7.4 of the zoning ordinance to allow five housing units per acre, as opposed to 15 units in the current zoning.

A second provision of the two-part density restriction would be left unchanged. It sets 15 percent as the maximum surface coverage of residential buildings in the area.

The vote was 3-1, with Hal Forbrig, Clarence Goldstick, and Larry Campbell voting for the change and Jerry Puhl voting against.

The zoning change must now go to the Charlevoix Township Board for final approval. The Board is expected to take the issue up at is Nov. 11 meeting.

The zoning board's action followed a presentation of the site plan for Water's Edge presented by Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., developers of the Water's Edge property.

Oelschlaeger's site plan showed 240 condos on the property. During the course of the meeting he said the plan would be reduced by 18 because it was pointed out that township zoning did not permit any three-story structures. That brought Oelschlaeger's plan in line with the 5 units per acre that were eventually approved.

Condos at Water's Edge would range from 1,500 to 2,200 square feet and would be priced in the $120,000 to $250,000 price range, Oelschlaeger said. His company plans to build 40 units per year.

The site plan also calls for 68 boat slips constructed around the existing pier.

The zoning board's approval of five units per acre followed a change in position by board member Clarence Goldstick who throughout this and previous meetings had maintained the two density provisions of the zoning ordinance meant a maximum of some 90 units could be built at Water's Edge.

During the board meeting Goldstick maintained he would stick with that ceiling for the development. "I read the zoning as 90 units. That's been my contention since the first day we talked about it," he said.

Goldstick changed his opinion following a presentation by Fitch R. Williams, attorney for First Centrum Corp., who told the board the two density provisions must be interpreted separately. He said the 15 units per acre would allow a maximum of 600 condos if built to the minimum size.

"You're telling me I've misinterpreted," Goldstick said. "I accept that."

In describing the site plan, Oelschlager said the development would include a pool, tennis courts, and a boardwalk throught he natural areas. The architecture, he said, would be Victorian and would attempt to capture the history of the Charlevoix area.

The board's decision followed a sometimes heated debate among the over 30 people in attendance.

Dale Boss, township resident a building contractor, called the site plan "a very, very beautiful proposal." He contested suggestions that the county was growing too fast. "If we could double the county population we still would have nothing.

"What you are proposing here is nothing more than a replacement of the Inn Hotel," Boss said in reference to one of Charlevoix's former resort hotels. You are only making available rooms that have been taken down."

Howard Neilson of WATCH was among those concerned with the high density of the condo project. He said that extrapolating the density of the proposed Water's Edge development to the entire lake would create a dramatic change in the lake. "Our concern is what happens to the lake when you have this high a density. I don't think it is going to do anything but degrade the lake and do it fast.

"I think we should take the long view," Neilson added, "Lake Charlevoix happens to be the most valuable natural resources we have

Expert explains lake law

by PEG OHLE

Members of the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee may have heard some things last week that confused and upset them.

Dr. Leighton Leighty, a specialist in land and natural resources law at Michigan State University, talked to them about riparian rights, zoning, and matters of water use. Some of his statements were:

–Because Lake Charlevoix is a tributary to Lake Michigan, it has never really been established whether property owners on the lake have riparian rights to the middle of the lake, as would apply under inland lakes law, or whether their water rights end at the high water mark on the property, as is the case on the Great Lakes.

–Also, because Lakes Charlevoix, Higgins, and Houghton are large lakes, more than a mile wide in places, there is some question about whether lakefront property owners or the State of Michigan have full riparian rights.

–Riparian rights owners have responsibilties as well as privileges, especially in not interfering with poblic recreation on the water.

–Zoning can run out into the water. It can cover all spacial areas. A government entity can zone the surface of the water for use purposes, such as swimming and boating.

–Lake Charlevoix is such a large lake that no one really knows how much development it can bear.

–A person, corporation, association, or other body which owns lakefront property with riparian rights may give other persons permission to use the lake frontage but may not

Hunter safety course given

Thirty-eight students in the 12-17 year age group completed the annual Hunter Safety program offered by the Charlevoix Police Department, Chief Jack R. Mol reports.

The students, both boys and girls, completed three three-hour sessions taught by members of the department to become eligible for their first hunting licenses. This course is necessary for anyone under the age of 18 years in order to obtain a license to hunt, Chief Mol said.

Police officers contribute their time to teaching the program which is offered every fall.

School bus safety

STOP!

When you see a school bus with red lights flashing.

That's the law.

According to Secretary of State Richard Austin, chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, most deaths and injuries involving school buses, occur after the student leaves the bus and is struck by a passing vehicle.

Michigan law requires motorists to stop within 10 feet of all school buses with red lights flashing no matter which side of the road the bus is on.

The only time a motorist does not have to stop for a school bus with flashing red lights is when the bus is on the other side of an impassable median of a divided highway.

Preschool education: is it for every child?

This is the first in a series of articles on preschool education in the Charlevoix area. Future articles will look at each of the preschools available in town — their differences in philosophy and practice. The series will then address what parents should be doing with children that don't attend preschool.

Editor

By ANNE KELLY

Deciding on preschool education for your child can be as simple or as complex as you want to make it.

Some parents never question whether or not their children will attend some program before kindergarten, and they usually have a program preference. When the child is ready — at three or four — he goes.

Other parents agonize over the decision: How soon should I send my child? Where should I send him? Should I send him at all? Still others choose to avoid the possibility entirely and wait until kindergarten to turn their child over to "formal education."

> "The preschool children are more apt to work on their own without being directed ..."

With preschool years being the most impressionable of the child's life, and children being the parents' most precious commodity, it is no wonder that their early education is a matter much discussed.

Teachings the child in school in addition to the home setting is one way of expanding the child's experience and can be a valuable transition between home and school. The majority of parents and educators would admit that the benefits of preschool education can provide a positive factor in developing the whole child — socially, emotionally, physically, and intellectually — if the preschool is a quality one. If the child is handicapped, either emotionally or physically, the benefits have been proven to be even greater.

What exactly is a quality preschool education? One way to define it is by what is is not — by what is harmful to the child in a preschool experience. Gerald M. Knox, education editor for Better Homes and Gardens magazine in cooperation with George W. Neill, director of communications for the Education Commission of the States, states that several factors can contribute to a harmful experience:

- If a child begins before he is ready or is placed in programs where expectations are too high for him.
- If parents expect too much of the child and make unreasonable demands.
- If the program keeps the child from following his natural curiosity and instincts.
- If the program is a formal, sit still, keep quiet, "let's learn to read now" routine that does not allow the child to be child like.

A quality program would be fashioned with the child and his love of play in mind.

According to Mrs. Jeanne Brown, Extension Specialist in Child Development at Michigan State University, a quality program is based on these assumptions:

- That the teacher believes that play is important for the preschool child.
- That through play, the child develops physically, mentally, socially, and emotionally.
- That curiosity, initiative, spontaneity and creativity are all valued parts of children's play.
- That real learning takes place in an environment based on children's natural inclination to play.

What is the best age to start a child in preschool?

Experts believe parents should trust their personal evaluation of whether their child is ready for preschool.

Experts agree that the answer depends on the family situation, the child's readiness, and the quality of the program.

The usual ages are three or four. The year between three and four, however, is a big one.

One mother might say, for example, "Billy just loves to go to school. He's three and he needs other children to play with. There are no children in our neighborhood."

Conversely, another parent may be equally as concerned. "My three-year-old can't be away from me without worrying about where I am. He's just not ready to be in a school situation."

Both parents are wise to follow their inclinations about their child's readiness. What is right for one child, might be traumatic for another. Every family situation, the opportunities available at home, and each child's maturity, is a new case in point. By four or five, however, most children can adjust to a quality preschool.

What do kindergarten teachers think about the benefits of preschool education?

In Charlevoix, 59 of the 98 children enrolled in kindergarten for the 1985-86 school year have had some preschool experience before they come to school.

Is there a marked difference between those who have as opposed to those who have not?

"I can tell almost immediately which have had preschool," commented kindergarten teacher, Dorothy Miller.

"The preschool children are more apt to work on their own without being directed and are better at following directions ... It depends on a lot of factors, though, like the child's place in the family or how much time the parents spend with their child."

Diane Priess, also a kindergarten teacher in Charlevoix, agreed that much of the child's readiness depends on their home situation. "Preschool primed kids are often better in working in the big group and find interaction with other children easier. But this doesn't always hold true." She thought of a few exceptions in her own class.

Both teachers tallied their children's ages and found that they ranged anywhere from four years, eleven months to six years, two mooths.

Probably age more than preschool experience was a polarizing factor, Miller and Priess agreed. They both advise parents to observe the "five years by Sept. 1st" suggestion.

The exposure and experiences of preschool, if the child has attended a quality program, really helps, both teachers believe. Priess feels that one year of preschool is beneficial, though not essential. "We like to see them really excited about kindergarten," she explained.

Parent involvement is the key to the child meeting success in kindergarten, both concluded. If kids know that their parents are involved, it shows in their attitude. Apparently, while neither age or preschool experience is always indicative of the successful, well-adjusted child, whether the parents play an active role in their child's life, always is.

Ghost ship to vanish

Each year for several years, the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite has been proud to celebrate with the residents of the Charlevoix area at "Ghost Ship" festivities.

However, due to operational commitments, the Mesquite will be unable to be in Charlevoix for the festivities on Oct. 31 Lt. Cmdr. Robert E. Young, commanding officer, has announced.

The Mesquite is scheduled to depart Charlevoix at 7 a.m. Sunday for Lake Superior for the last two weeks of October where it will be on standby search and rescue and will remove buoys as far west as Isle Royale and the Keewanaw Peninsula for the winter season.

The Mesquite was assigned to this task when the USCGC Sundew, stationed at Duluth, remained in drydock at Cleveland for the installation of new engines.

"We on the Mesquite deeply regret missing this year's "Ghost Ship," Cmdr. Young said, "but we look forward to an even bigger and better one for the fall of 1986."

E. Jordan Garden Club meets

Members of the East Jordan Garden Club participated in and enjoyed the fall program put on by District V of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan. The meeting was held at the Zion Lutheran Church of Petoskey on Monday Oct. 7.

Featured speakers were Mrs. Timothy Leach of Boyne City and Frederick W. Case of Saginaw.

Leach explained methods of using tree bark, flowers, stems, leaves, berries and fruits to produce a variety of colors to dye wool, cotton and wood. The soft hues in the hand-woven baskets and fabrics are evidence of the beauty found in nature.

Following lunch, Case presented nature slides showing the growth of a variety of wild flowers from spring through summer and winter in the woods, valleys and swamps of Michigan.

Luncheon favors and table centerpieces were furnished by the East Jordan Garden Club members.

Janet Rathke, home economist, will speak on edible wild foods and herbs at the November meeting at the East Jordan Presbyterian Church.

Opinion

Editorial

Public safety building should get 'yes' vote

Charlevoix voters will be asked on November 5 to approve a $390,000 bond issue for a new fire hall. This building is now being called a public saftey building because it will house not only Charlevoix's six fire trucks, but the two city ambulances and two police cars as well.

We urge residents to vote yes on the bond proposition. Charlevoix's need for a new public safety building is well documented and the bond issue will not raise the millage required to service the city's outstanding bond debt over the next 10 years.

The issue of the new fire hall, or public safety building if you prefer, has been clouded somewhat in recent weeks by the debate over the proper site for the building. The bond issue itself does not speak to where the building will be constructed, but the issues are related in most people's minds.

In September, Mayor Hal Hill put together a special ad hoc committee to investigate the various fire hall sites being proposed. That committee reported to city council that the location of the fire hall should be located at city hall. The estimated cost of the building there would be $390,000, compared to $450,000 at city owned property at the airport, $536,000 at Kusina's property on Antrim, and $650,000 at the Fochtman property north of Pine River Channel.

The committee also noted that any site other than city hall would require an additional $14,200 or so per year for added secretarial and office support which is currently available at city hall.

One could argue some with the figures. For example, one could question whether the airport site would really be more expensive, since the city would not have to purchase the current post office but could sell to the post office for its new building.

Ultimately, however, the cost of the city hall site is less because it would not require constructing as much space. No new offices would be needed for the police department, two bays now used for the fire engines could be used for the ambulances, and firemen's living quarters already exist.

The most compeling argument for the public safety building downtown, however, is not economics but its central location. The city manager, police chief, fire chief, and volunteer firemen all believe the public would be best served by a public safety building that is in the downtown area. Their experience in this matter is substantial, and we think the voters should listen carefully to their recommendations.

But does the city really need a new building, no matter where the location.

We think it does. The temporary structures build for the two city ambulances 14-16 years ago are rotting away, and they do not allow for careful maintenance and cleaning of this critical equipment.

Housing all of the fire engines and trucks in one place will provide better, more efficient response to fire alarms. Firemen will have a central location to which to report and equipment can be better maintained.

Putting the city police cars inside will increase their readiness during the winter and cut down on vandalism year-round.

We conclude that the public safety building should be built and it should be located downtown.

We believe, however, that every effort should be made to make the building as compatible with the existing city hall as possible.

Our preference would be for a building faced in the same sandstone used on city hall. Architects have said this could cost an additional $45,000 and that price tag is admittedly steep. But city hall is a landmark building that sets the tone of much of the downtown area.

A cheap, ill-matched facade would be a mistake. We urge the city and various civic groups to work together to provide whatever additional funds are needed to ensure that the building is a proud reflection of Charlevoix.

On November 5 remember to punch the "Yes" on the city fire hall bond proposition.

Township zoning board

in Charlevoix County."

Marcia Trimper reminded the board that the 68 boat slips would be added to over 500 boat slips currently near Water'a Edge. "I don't think we need anymore boats in this area," she added.

Deano Davenport, a summer resident and member of ALERT, questioned the board on its previous interpretations of the zoning ordinance. "The board said it's simple: 90 units," Davenport recalled. "It is now time to call the cards. It was 90 units then. I'm certainly expecting it to be 90 units now."

Puhl pressed the board for adoption an anti-funneling amendment tying density to waterfront footage but could find no support among the other board members. He introduced a motion that development be limited to one unit per 20 feet of frontage, with property behind the waterfront zoned more densely and not given rights to use the lakefront.

"I'm opposed to zoning waterfront property different than other property," Goldstick replied. "I think it is discriminatory."

Zoning Board Chairman Campbell agreed. "People have a right to utilize the lake whether by public access or by going across a development," he said. "Preventing keyhole or funnel development is more or less taking away rights or making it harder to utilize the rights they have."

Cambell added that "the problem of maintaining the quality of the lake is subject to some other jurisdiction, not zoning."

Puhl's motion received no second and was therefore not voted upon.

At one point in the proceedings, Boss rose and called for the resignation of Puhl. As president of WATCH, a local environmental group, Boss said, Puhl was in conflict of interest. "As a registered voter I'm going to request for your resignation. If you do not resign or are not removed by the board at the next meeting, I'm going to circulate a petition for your removal from the (zoning) board," Boss said.

Puhl responded by noting that other members of the zoning and township boards had property or business interests that put them in conflict of interest.

"If you take that step, you're going to get the biggest lawsuit you've ever seen," Neilson told Boss.

The rezoning of Water's Edge from R-2 Residantial to R-4 Planned Unit Zone goes into effect on Dec. 10. At its Nov. 11 meeting the Charlevoix Township Board is expected to act on the density regulation and a recently formulated site plan review procedure.

The status of a recent petition drive is also pending. ALERT turned in over 170 petitions asking for a referendum on the R-4 zoning for Water's Edge. The township sought a legal opinion from attorney Scott Beatty on the legality of the a referendum and that opinion is expected this week.

ALERT has said it will seek an injunction against construction permits being issued if the referendum is not scheduled prior to the effective date for the rezoning.

Clockwise

Squash-napping

By Bob Clock

A thief has invaded the city garden.

Let me tell you about it.

If there is one kind of winter squash universally worshipped by the whole Clock family it is the Table King, the largest of the acorn variety. It's flesh is a sweet, deep yellow. It makes delicious pumpkin pies and it's size is perfect for a vegetable course. One squash will feed the entire family, with no leftovers to dry out in the refrigerator.

Table King squash has only two drawbacks: The seeds are terribly expensive and the squash don't keep nearly as well as Hubbards or buttercups. If we have a squash left in the fruit cellar for Christmas dinner, we are doing well.

This past summer wasn't the best for squash. Quite a few seeds didn't germinate and those that did were late-bloomers because of the wet, chilly weather.

However I did end up with a dozen beautiful, dark green Table King squash which I left in the garden to "harden" after the vines died.

THEN CAME BLACK Sunday — Oct. 13.

I went out to the city garden to dig onions and was aghast to find all but two of my squash were gone — stolen, pilfered, abducted, squash-napped. I hated to go home with the grim tidings, because of all the provender provided by our city garden, squash is the most popular.

I should add that of the two remaining squash, one was a little fellow, no bigger than a baseball; the other was a beauty — as big as a catcher's mitt — that had crept under a row of beans, thereby escaping the notice of the thief.

Why would anyone do just a thing? I have no idea.

I do know there was one person at the gardens the week before picking tomatoes that had been planted and cultivated by someone else. "I hate to see good food go to waste," the scavenger told me as I walked by with a quizzical look.

At this point, I only hope that my squash are in good hands, filling little bellies that otherwise would go to bed empty.

After all, we didn't absolutely need the squash to survive. We will be able to buy a tin of pumpkin for our Thanksgiving pies and a cross-section of Hubbard for Christmas dinner.

But it's the principle of the thing that bothers me. Whatever happened to the commandment "Thou shalt not steal"?

Fortunately, my squash crop wasn't a total loss. Every day last summer as I lugged pails of water from the standpipe to the squash patch, I could imagine how good they would taste come fall.

I suspect I derived far more vicarious satisfaction from growing them than the thief ever will from eating them.

Lake law explained

give riparian rights to other persons.

The latter statement is of special interest to many townships around Lake Charlevoix which have zoning ordinances prohibiting lakefront property owners from giving such permission to "back lot" owners.

"You can't dictate by the ordinance any relationship between the front lots and the back lots," Dr. Leighty said. "They can let anyone they want have access through the front lots."

Called "funnel development", this type of development has been frowned upon in recent years because it is feared it will increase use of the lake to a point of dangerous pollution. There was no such concern in the last century when the Belvedere Club and the Chicago Club were founded on a "funnel" basis and lakeshore rights were granted to all cottage owners.

Hayes Township is one of the townships on Lake Charlevoix which restricts the use of the lake shore to owners of property on the lake – to people in one living unit on each 100 feet of shoreline.

Hayes Township is being sued by Fox & Associates, owner of 338 acres of property, including 2,800 feet of shoreline. Fox proposed to build 126 condominium units, all with lake access, on the property and was turned down because of the above restrictions.

This portion of the Hayes Township zoning ordinance, as well as a portion dealing with number of boats permitted under the ordinance, is now being studied by Circuit Court Judge Robert Livo of Cheboygan County to determine its validity.

The 15-person Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Commitee is studying the many issues affecting the lake as the area grows and more use is made of the lake.

These issues include such land use problems as zoning for residential, commercial, agricultural, or recreation purposes; water use, including fishing, sailing, waterskiing, swimming, and commercial boat traffic; environmental problems and protection, including soil erosion, wetlands, septic systems, greenbelts, and water quality; marina facilities, including launching ramps, boat slips, on-shore parking, and pump-out facilities; and transportation issues, including the Highway Bridge in Charlevoix, the Ironton Ferry, and the South Arm Narrows.

City Council report

Lake Charlevoix.

The DNR installed a temporary weir in the river above Rogers Bridge this fall in an attempt to halt the upstream migration of salmon. Fishing is prohibited from the weir downstream to the mouth of the river because the DNR feels the concentrations of thousands of salmon will lead to trespass, law violations and snagging.

The Jordan River from the weir upstream to Graves Crossing is open to fishing. Steelhead and brown trout are passed through the weir aod observers say many, many salmon are escaping the weir. "There are salmon everywhere," said one local stream fisherman opposed to the salmon in the river. "It is just pathetic."

Art George of Emmet County has been a major opponent of the weir. He has maintained that salmon should be allowed to enter the stream. George's recent suit against the DNR weir was recently dismissed from Charlevoix County Circuit Court by Judge Richard Pajlas who ruled that George was not legally entitled to bring suit.

Withers said the city and other interests in Charlevoix County must act quickly to assure the continuance of the salmon planting. "You are going to have to join together with other groups and let the DNR know that we want salmon," Withers said.

The salmon are "nothing but a headache on the Jordan River," he added. "I have to sympathize with the DNR."

Withers met Tuesday with city officials to discuss strategy. A meeting scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss next year's trout tournament was given over to a discussion of the problem.

The regular business before City Council included the following actions:

–approval of a site plan for the remodeling of Ski and Shore offices on Bridge Street.

–permission granted to Richard Way to split lots in the Westwood subdivision. This would allow Way to form larger lots and offer more choice in housing design.

–sold six older voting machines for $100 each. The city has converted to punch card voting.

–set a public hearing for Nov. 18 on the proposed abandonment of the alley north of City Hall.

–passed a resolution agreeing to the transfer of a liquor license for the Topside Bar from Mildred L. Mack to Reinhart, Inc. owned by Yolanda Reinhart.

–approved a lease for the use of an Airport Hanger by Michigan Scientific of Charlevoix.

–heard an opinion from City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese that it would be illegal to exclude mini-amusement parks from the city entirely. Council recently gave approval to a special use district south of Pine River Channel for the miniature golf and amusement parks. "In the present case, it is my opinion that the City could not legally exclude mini amusement parks as an allowed use within the City of Charlevoix," VanTreese concluded. The opinion was asked for by Councilman Michael Greeley.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. David W. Yingling United Methodist Church

"The one who becomes as little as this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven."

Matthew 18

How many times have we heard adults in the Church say, "Children are important because they are the church of tomorrow." We would all agree with this—"children are the Church of tomorrow." Adults are too! We are all the Church of tomorrow. Jesus dealt with children now, he did not put them off until tomorrow. I believe that children are also the church of today! The common thought that children are the church tomorrow, commits the role of children to the future and denies their inclusion in what's happening now (i.e., worship, missions, education, spiritual formation, etc.)

One of the great Biblical truths is, God accepts us; we are loved by God. If we think that God waits until we become an adult to accept us, work through us, we're wrong. God chooses to accept us, that's the beauty of His unconditional love for you and me. We are loved not because of our righteousness, not because of our great faith and understanding, not because of great accomplishments. God accepts us as children, youth, and adults regardless of our physical nature, our mental alertness, or emotional maturity.

"I assure you that whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child will never enter it."

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tarro

VanWieren-Tarro

The Little Stone Church on Mackinac Island was the setting for the September 28 wedding of Vicki Jo VanWieren and Carl Joseph Tarro.

The bride, who has been living in St. Louis, Missouri, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon VanWieren of Charlevoix and the late Jean Haun. Her bridegroom, also of St. Louis, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Henderson and the late Lewis Tarro.

The Reverend Douglas Vernon of the United Methodist Church in Mackinaw City officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of peach lilies and carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory gown which featurd a lace and pearls bodice and high collar; fingertip sleeves with lace and pearls; full, satin skirt with lace and pearls around the bottom; cathedral length train with lace and pearls and a large satin bow at the top of the skirt. Her headpiece was made of satin flowers and leaves and a floor-length veil.

The bride's bouquet was composed of a large Calla lily surrounded by peach tiger lilies, peach roses, freesia, and eucalyptus, with ivory and peach ribbons entwined around the flowers and accented by a large ivory ribbon.

The bride's sister, Laura VanWieren, who is living in Paris, attended her as maid of honor. She wore a light peach long taffeta gown, fully flared, fashioned with a stand-up ruffle over the shoulders, close fitting bodice, and short sleeves. She carried a bouquet of long-stemmed peach tiger lilies, roses, and freesia, tied with peach, blue and blue-gray ribbons.

Another sister, Janet VanWieren-Edmonds of Sarasota, Florida served as bridesmaid. Her gown was similar to that of the maid of honor except that it was blue-gray in color. Other bridesmaids who wore gowns in this color were Teri Gish-Kenyon of Dowagiac and Sue Anaryk of Ashland, Wisconsin.

Three other bridesmaid, Mary Newcomb, Madonna Thurston, and Karen Schillinger, all of St. Louis, wore peach gowns similar to that of the maid of honor.

Dave Kay of Fort Myers, Florida served as best man. Groomsmen were Gordon VanWieren, Jr. of Okemos; Bob Tarro, Jim Tarro, Steve Hoven, and John Hayes, all of the St. Louis area; and Nick Osiek of Cleveland.

Following the wedding ceremony, the guests were taken by horses and carriages to a champagne and hors d'oevres reception in the mansion of the Stonecliffe Estate. This was followed by dinner and dancing in the main dining room of Stonecliffe.

The rehearsal dinner was also held at Stonecliffe, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

The newlyweds took a short wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico and will embark on a longer honeymoon in Italy in November.

Their home address is 7251 Princeton Avenue, University City, Missouri, 63130. The bridegroom is president and owner of a St. Louis-based engineering firm, and the bride is a supervisor for Ozark Airlines.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sutherland

Cross-Sutherland

Kelli M. Cross and Jack G. Sutherland were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, September 28, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cross, Jr. of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Eilleen Sutherland of Charlevoix and the late Thomas Sutherland.

Father Casimir Zawacki officiated at the double-ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. Approximately 600 guests were in attendance.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with baskets of blue spider chrysanthemums and white gladiolus. The pews were marked with blue daisies tied with white satin ribbons.

The bride's gown was fashioned of organza with full flowing skirt with applique of Sheffli lace, bodice with Queen Anne neckline with applique of Sheffli lace and hand-sewn seed pearls, and long puffed sleeves. Her headpiece was a wreath of silk flowers and seed pearls to which a finger-length pencil edge veil was attached.

Patricia Gillespie, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, and Kathy Bradley; Barb Petoskey, sister-in-law of the bride; Linda Cross, another sister-in-law; and Sally Nye were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of margot blue made with fitted bodice, off-the-shoulder puffed sleeves of matte taffeta, and flared skirt. They carried bouquets of peach roses, blue wedding stars, and baby's breath.

Beth Sutherland served as flower girl. Her dress was the same as those of the other attendants, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, miniature blue azalias, and baby's breath. E. J. Ranville was ringbearer.

Tim Bradley served as best man, and Toni Sutherland, brother of the bridegroom; Tom Meggison; Bob Holtzman; and Phil Skeel assisted as groomsmen. John Cross, III and Bucky Bradley were ushers.

Music was provided by organist Jeanie Lignell and voalist Mary Ann Stephans.

A reception at Castle Farms, hosted by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony. Paul and Mary Ann Stephans served as host and hostess, and Kristen Ranville was in charge of the guest book and gifts.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Grey Gables Inn, hosted by the bridegroom's mother.

The newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is employed by K & D Swanson Contracting, and the bride by John Cross Fisheries.

Harriers win conference title

The Charlevoix Rayder boys cross country team successfully defended its Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title Saturday at the conference meet held at Gaylord.

The girls team placed third in the league.

This marks the sixth straight conference title for the boys team which has topped the conference for eight of the 14 years cross country has been a league sport.

The Rayder boys with 34 points were followed by Rogers City with 53 points; Petoskey with 64; Gaylord with 84; and Boyne City with 126.

The Charlevoix girls placed third with 64 points behind Petoskey with 34 and Gaylord with 45. Rogers City was fourth with 78. Boyne City had one runner.

In the boys meet, Doug Bergmann was third with a time of 16:08; Joe Simpson fourth in 16:09; Pat Rajewski sixth in 16:16; Mike Dohm ninth in 16:19; and Kevin McLenon 12th in 16:22.

Tom Merta finished in 15th place in 16:52 and Sean Henne was unable to finish because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

The winning time was 15:39 set by Dickinson of Gaylord.

In the JV division, Harold Herriman finished in third place in 17:33; Ed Knight fifth in 17:46; Dave Warth ninth in 18:05; Jeff Skeel 15th in 20:00; Mike Stargardt 17th in 20:44. Hal Chase came in 20th in 21:34. The Rayder JVs had 49 points. Team standings were not available.

In the girls division, Betsy Haggard finished in sixth place in a time of 20:46; Heidi Olinger in eighth place in 21:14; Nonie Pace 15th in 22:05; Lori Raymond 16th in 22:11; and Barbara Haggarrd 19th in 22:47.

The team ran without Michelle North who has had a sore arch since the Ferris State College invitational meet.

The winning time, set by Anne VanDam of Petoskey, was 19:37.

Medals were awarded to the top ten runners in each division.

Coach Pete Spieles said he was proud of the team's accomplishments. They will be preparing this week for the Class C regional meet at Scottville on Saturday.

The Charlevoix Rayders were rated sixth in the state by Michigan High School Cross Country Coaches Association, Coach Pete Spieles reports.

The Forty-niners, coached by Mark Husak and Howard Zoet, captured the 1985 title in the Charlevoix Flag Football League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department. The 49ers win over the Redskins in the final game broke a possible three-way tie for the title, according to Dwight Boss, city recreation director. Members of the championship team are: front row (left to right): Brad Zoet, Jesper Sweeney, Matt Gibbons, Coray Ostrum, Kenny Olinger, Samuel May, Guy Gengle. Back row: Coach Howard Zoet, Bill Sharman, Mike Stoneham, Scott Campbell, Don Terryberry, Tom Sheldon, Brian Livingston, Coach Mark Husak. Missing: Coach Bob Mackowiak.

Rayders pull out overtime victory

Charlevoix got three tries at kicking the overtime field goal that beat Onaway on Friday night.

Terry Bonar's third attempt – a 30 yarder – was the charm, and the Rayders took the 9-6 overtime win in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference game.

The Rayders drove to the 1-yard line in overtime with the score tied 6-6. Bonar connected on a 17-yard kick, but a penalty against Charlevoix set the ball back. Bonar missed the second kick but an Onaway offside penalty gave the Rayders one more chance and the victory.

Tailback Matt Lignell returned to action after missing several games with an injured ankle. Lignell used the opportunity to rush for 137 yards in 21 carries, including a 42-yard touchdown run early in the game. The scoring drive also included the running of Jim Gibbs.

After their first score, the Rayders struggled through the rest of the first half, losing three fumbles and getting hit with key penalties.

"The third period definitely belonged to Onaway," Rayder Assistant Coach Hal Evans said.

With 4:36 left in the quarter, Onaway got on the board when Dave Dunn dove in from the one. Tim Melke blocked the point after attempt to hold Onaway even with the Rayders.

Later in the game Onaway drove to the seven before being stopped by the Charlevoix defense.

Defensively for Charlevoix, Darrin Batdorff and Lignell had interceptions and Lignell a fumble recovery. Brian Wilmot and Batdorff had 15 tackles, Marc Himebauch nine, and Scott Crandell and John Jaskierski eight each.

Charlevoix visits Graying on Friday.

Girls hoop team adds two wins

The Charlevoix girls basketball team now has a 6-2 record in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference standings, 7-3 overall, after chalking up two victories lask week. The girls beat St. Ignace 36-23 and Boyne City 42-35.

On Tuesday, Charlevoix will host the league-leading Cheboygan quintet in what could be a battle for a share of the league lead and on Nov. 6 a return game with Rogers City.

In the game at St. Ignace, Charlevoix outscored the Saints 16 to eight from the floor and had four of eight free throw attempts while collecting six personal fouls. St. Ignace hit on seven of 12 charity shots and also had six personal fouls.

Charlevoix had led 7-4, 16-15, and 25-15 by quarters after their host faided to score in the third period.

Amy Pischner and Michelle Gagnon had 10 points each and Sue Miller nine including three of four technical foul shots.

The JV's edged St. Ignace 33-32 with Jill Austin scoring nine points.

On Thursday, the Charlevoixans traveled to Boyne City where the locals led 7-5, 18-12 and 35-26 by quarters as they scored 15 field goals, 12 of 31 charity shots and had 22 personal fouls. Boyne City had eight field goals, nine of 28 free throws and 26 personal fouls.

Pischner led the scoring with 10 points. Carrie Harvey and Julie Montgomery had five points each for the Ramblers.

Boyne City won the JV game 35-34 at the buzzer.

Close margins undo middle school

The Charlevoix Middle School girls basketball teams, playing their best games of the season, dropped games to Harbor Springs by slim margins on their home floor Wednesday night after losing to Cheboygan earlier in the week coaches Barry Pierce and Stan Martin report.

On Wednesday, the eighth-graders lost 15-13 and the seventh-graders 28-24.

Charlevoix eighth-graders trailed 8-4 at the half before losing by a two-point margin. Sandy Fershee and Tracee Smith had four points each for the home team. Teather Meyer had seven points for Harbor Springs.

In the game at Cheboygan Monday, Charlevoix trailed 10-9 at halftime before being outscored 14-9 for the loss. Fershee and Heather Keller had eight points each. MacLoud had eight points for Cheboygan.

Melissa Boss with 10 points paced the scoring in the seventh-graders four-point loss to Harbor Springs. After trailing 18-4 at the half, the locals caught fire and outscored the visitors 20-10 to cut the margin to four points. Holladay had nine points for the visitors.

In the Cheboygan game, Paula Thorp led the scoring with five points as Charlevoix trailed 14-4 at the half before dropping the game by 16 points. Bruce had seven points for Cheboygan.

Charlevoix will host Petoskey Wednesday.

More information, registration forms, and banquet tickets may be obtained by contacting Lynne Salmonson or they may be picked up at the Aartvark Studio. The retreat is sponsored by the neighborhood Inter-demonomational Bible classes of Petoskey, and all women are invited to attend.

"Gay 90's" opens Thursday at 218 Bridge

The spirit of old fashioned vaudeville — the kind that hasn't played Charlevoix since the closing of the Charlevoix Opera House — is returning, as 218 Bridge St. brings "The Gay 90's" a musical revue to its dinner theatre, Thursday, Oct. 24, for a three week run.

"The Gay 90's" is a delightful revival of old-time theatre, where twists and turns of plot have the audience booing, hissing, laughing, and constantly surprised by changes of pace.

218 Bridge St.'s dinner-theatre is a professional collaboration between restaurenteur Tom Worth and theatrical producer David Pritchard of Pritchard Productions.

Pritchard brought his professional company to Charlevoix in early October to produce "I Do! I Do!", the musical comedy which played in the new theatre at 218 Bridge St. from Oct. 5 through this weekend.

The success of "I Do! I Do!" proved to Warth and Pritchard that their dream of offering professional dinner-theatre to the area was well conceived.

Chef Dave Phillips oversees the serving of meals to dinner-theatre goers, in the dining room overlooking Round Lake. Guests move to the newly created 46-seat third floor theatre for the productions. And during intermissions, interesting desserts and beverages are offered.

"The Gay 90's" which opens this Thursday at 218 Bridge St. has been playing to sell out crowds at McGuire's Dinner-Theatre in Cadillac for the past month.

"It's a laugh-a-minute type show," reports musical director Liz Jackson, who also served as musical director for "I Do! I Do!"

Three constantly changing characters sing and dance their way into the hearts of the audience as they intersperse their acts with melodrama, jokes, familiar Sophie Tucker type tunes, and cabaret set-pieces.

Mark Korres, a veteran Chicago actor, who has played in "Westside Story," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" and "Dames at Sea," shares the stage with Paul Gregory Nelson, who just completed his run as lead in "I Do! I Do!" and Rosemary Baxter, a versatile actress whose credits range from "Peter Pan" to "Grease" to "Irene."

"The Gay 90's" will be followed by the musical revue "The Christmas Show," opening Dec. 5. 1986 will be celebrated with a hot and sizzling New Year's production "The Bridge St. Revue" (Dec. 27-31) will welcome 1986. Neil Simons' "I Ought To Be In Pictures," will open the 1986 season, to be followed by the musical "The Great American Backstage Musical." All shows are professionally produced, staged and acted through Pritchard Productions.

Dinner and show times are 6 p.m. Thursday, 6:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 4:30 p.m. Sunday. For reservations and more information, including season tickets, call 218 Bridge St., Charlevoix, (616) 547-4425.

Real estate business booming in Charlevoix

The volume of real estate sales in Northern Michigan is up over 67 percent in the Charlevoix region, according to at least one real estate firm, Ski and Shore of Charlevoix.

"It's an amazing and reassuring growth," stated Robert Murray, Ski and Shore's manager. "Our sales from Jan. 1, 1985 to the end of September totaled $9,401,000. For the same period in 1984 our sales were $6,278,000. That's an increase of $3,123,000.

"This is a complete turn around for the real estate industry, from our point of view," Murray observed.

The second home market — waterfront and vacation homes — accounted for 90 percent of the jump in sales.

"Right now there is more demand than supply for waterfront and vacation homes. There's a very positive attitude in the north and we don't see any slow down. We still have a lot of customers trying to find property and homes to buy," Murray observed.

Sales of businesses were also up, he added, as well as in-town year-round residential sales.

The drop in mortgage interest rates, now in the 9½ to 9¾ range, has been a major factor in the increased sales, Murray indicated.

"Business in the state of Michigan obviously has improved. Otherwise people wouldn't have the money to spend.

"And the tourist economy is definitely up over 1984," he continued.

Realtors throughout Michigan were concerned when the Reagan administration's tax proposals were unveiled last spring. With indications that deductions for interest on second-home mortgages would no longer be allowed, many realtors predicted a serious business decline.

However, knowing that mortgages acquired before the tax proposals were approved would not be affected by any new legislation, buyers moved quickly, Murray said.

Fall, historically, is an excellent period for realtors in the north, Murray explained.

"In the summer we get a lot of lookers who come back in the fall. Our best months are usually September, October and November. And this year is even better.

"The tire kickers have gone home. Now we are seeing serious buyers," he quipped.

49ers take flag title

The Charlevoix Flag Football League closed out its season Wednesday with the Forty-niners defeating the Redskins 44-30 to capture the 1985 title and break up a possible three-way tie for the championship.

In the second game the Raiders trounced the defending champion Seahawks 60-14.

In the title game, the 49ers took a 14-6 first period lead and never were headed by their opponents as Brad Zoet scored on runs of 1, 4 and 3 yards and Brian Livingston on runs of 25, 5 and 1 yard. Matt Gibbons and Livingston each scored a two-point conversion and Zoet added two to round out the victory.

James Corwin scored on runs of 8 and 5 yards, Jason Corwin on a 3-yard plunge and Dennis Mailloux on a 20-yard romp for the Redskins. All three also scored two-point conversions.

The Raiders opened the scoring with a safety by Jeff Marquardt and an 18-yard run by Scott Miller and never relinquished the lead as Miller ran for scoring plays of 12, 13, 24 and 25 yards, passed to Kevin Daly for a 12-yard TD and scored a conversion; Daly scored on a 40-yard run late in the game and accounted for a two-point conversion and Chris Dobrowski capped the effort with the final TD on a short plunge. Erick McElroy and Ryan Smith contributed two-point conversions and Luke LaBlance and Walker Dees safties to account for the win.

Randy Wortheimer scored on a 5-yard pass from Chad DeYoung and Paul Wakulat on a 12-yard run for the Seahawks 12 points.

In concluding the season, recognition was given to the coaches, Mark Husak and Howard Zoet of the championship team, Jiggs Whitley and Paul Parrish of the Seahawks, Dudley Stevens and Shannon Reynolds of the Redskins, and Mike Reinhard of the Raiders. Also recognized were Bill Gengle, Nick DeYoung, Carl Johnson and Zoet, officials; Ken Olinger - timekeeper and statician Carolyn Olinger. Their efforts and contributions have made the program possible.

Solid waste problems mount, incineration solution sought

by PEG OHLE

The problem is still with us.

The Courier's file on Solid Waste Management (how to dispose of garbage and household trash) in Charlevoix County dates back to 1974.

In the interim years, the County Planning Department has written two comprehensive plans covering the subject, both of which were approved by the State Department of Natural Resources.(DNR)

The second plan was necessary because of changes in state laws. It was completed last year after a specially appointed committee had worked for over two years on its preparation. This plan provides for seven short-term (five to 10 years) options and seven long-term (20 years) options for disposing of the County's solid waste.

Each option calls for the use of a landfill, either an existing one or a new one, as well as transfer stations or green boxes for temporary storage of the solid waste while awaiting transportation to a landfill.

The landfills specified are the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill in Eveline Township, the Antrim-Kalkaska Landfill in Kalkaska County, and a new landfill between Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake.

To date, a new landfill is still a matter of speculation, the Antrim-Kalkaska Landfill is being ordered closed by the DNR because of ground water contamination, and the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill is under constant attack because of alleged pollution of ground water.

The smaller municipally owned landfills in the County which once served some cities and townships have also been closed, with the exception of the one on Beaver Island.

But every man, woman, and child in Charlevoix County continues to generate about 2.4 pounds of household waste daily, and on top of that, commercial establishments generate another two pounds per capita.

On more than one occasion, the County Board of Commissioners has been asked to prohibit the Charlevoix Landfill from accepting waste from Emmet County and permitting only Charlevoix County haulers to use it. Now comes Antrim County with a request to have its waste deposited in the Charlevoix Landfill.

As serious as the situation is in Charlevoix County, it is not unique. A few weeks ago, county government leaders, planners, and other officials from northwest lower Michigan met on Beaver Island to discuss two subjects: solid waste disposal and ground water contamination, which often go hand-in-hand.

After much discussion, they came up with a proposal to approach Ferris State College and the counties in the northeastern portion of the state on an incineration idea. The idea is to ship garbage by rail to a waste-energy facility at Ferris. The College could then incinerate the garbage and use the resultant energy to complement its heating supply. Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant was also suggested as a possible site for a waste-energy facility, especially if northeastern counties joined in a project.

It was noted, however, that as efficient as garbage incineration might be, there still must be a means (probably a landfill) of disposing of waste that cannot be burned, as well as residue from incinerator operations. Other alternatives include recycling of paper, glass, and metals.

The use of university campuses is only a starter for incinceration-energy possibilities, according to Charlevoix County Planner Larry Sullivan. "Any large public complex could save money by using heat from incineration," he pointed out. "Prisons, state hospitals, large state office buildings could all benefit from this typ of heat production."

Another way government entities could help solve the solid waste problem is by actively supporting paper recycling and buying only re-cycled paper for their own use. The cost would be about the same as using regular paper, Sullivan says.

The enormity of the solid waste problem is gradually being recognized by some of the general public. An organization called the "Northern Michigan Recyclers Cooperative" has been formed as an information-exchange organization to encourage re-cycling programs in local communities. The government leaders who met on Beaver Island voted to join the Cooperative.

The wheels of progress are grinding slowly.

New ID dot is carried on tooth

A simple way of "carrying" one's identification without handbag, wallet, or even single card will soon be available to men, women, and children in the Charlevoix area.

It is an "identification dot", a clear disc, one-eighth inch in diameter, bearing the wearer's social security number, which is bonded to the outside of a rear tooth.

When there is need for a person's identification, police, hospitals, or other authorized agencies can read the number on the tooth without using special equipment, and, by calling an 800 number, receive immediate identification along with information about family contacts, name of physician, and other pertinent facts.

The dot cannot be seen when smiling or talking. It does not harm teeth and may even be placed on dentures.

The need for such a simple method of identification was explained by the inventor when he cited the growing number of lost children, athletes who shed all types of ID when engaging in exercises such as jogging and swimming, older persons who have a tendency to wander away, and victims of multiple accidents such as airplane crashes. (It is reported that identification of four persons in the recent plane accident in Wisconsin was aided by identification dots.)

Dr. David J. Strawbridge has announced his participation in the identification system, and others are expected to follow soon. Interested persons should contact their dentist or I.D. Dots, Inc. P.O. Box 404, Hinsdale, Illinois 60522.

Garbage battle lines drawn

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County doesn't wany any more garbage from neighboring counties.

Thot is the essence of a resolution passed last week by the County Planning Commission.

The resolution was aimed at the Charlevoix Garbage Service, which operates the only licensed sanitary landfill in the County.

While the resolution was termed "ridiculous" by Dawson Way, owner of the landfill, it was a watered down version of a resolution prepared by the Planning Department staff.

As passed, the resolution asks that "Charlevoix County discourage and take legal action to prevent waste from entering Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill that is generated outside of its present service areas, in order to prolong its life span and to preserve an area within the licensed portion of the property to be used as a disposal site for incinerator ash."

The original version of the resolution would have prevented any waste from outside Charlevoix County from entering the landfill.

Presently, some solid waste is coming to the landfill from Emmet and Antrim counties, as well as Charlevoix County.

The restricting action was taken by the Planning Commission following a long discussion of a 14-page staff report by the Planning Department which cited the present and growing problems of solid waste disposal in the county.

Adhering to this recommendation of the Planning Commission would increase the life span of the landfill to a six-to-12 year period, compared to a projected two-to-four year life span if no limits are put on the sources of its intake, according to County Planner Larry Sullivan.

Way challenged these figures, saying his landfill is good for 20 to 25 years if present volume is maintained. Way also vowed to take legal action if the county tries to enforce the Planning Commission's resolution, saying it was a totally illegal procedure.

Local fishermen support weir, DNR salmon plants

by PEG OHLE

Recent meetings of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners have been well attnded by area fishermen.

On September 25, a group of East Jordan fishermen crowded the Commissioners' meeting room to complain about the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) closing the Jordan River below a fish-harvesting weir, which they said was illegally placed.

Last Thursday, an equally large group of Charlevoix fishermen (and some from other cities) appeared to warn County Board members that the DNR would discontinue fish plantings in Charlevoix County if they are not permitted to harvest salmon that reach the Jordan River. Then what would happen to the sports fishing that brings anglers to Charlevoix waters and enhances its economy? they asked.

Following the September 25 meeting, County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman, on instructions from the County Board, wrote the DNR, asking why it had not asked the County for permission to place the weir, as required by law, and threatening criminal prosecution if the situation was not righted.

The County Board's letter angered Steve Swan, DNR District Fish Biologist, who promptly made the threat to discontinue salmon planting in the Charlevoix area, and frightened the local promoters of fishing as a tourist attraction.

Appearing with County Board members at their meeting last week, Lieberman assured the fishermen in attendance that the Board was not "anti-salmon" or "anti-DNR". He said the question is whether the DNR proceeded illegally–not a matter of merit but of due process. "People are being ticketed for fishing in the closed part of the Jordan, but the DNR, which they claim illegally placed the weir, is going free."

Lieberman was quick to say, however, that he and representatives of the DNR would soon be sitting down to work out what seems to be a simple misunderstanding. The "misunderstanding" may be the DNR's interpretation of the law requiring County approval for the weir. It is an old law and the feeling among some is that it was passed to prevent structures such as dams being built over or in streams that would prohibit the passing of logs downstream.

In fact, this interpreation was given to Lieberman in a letter from the State Attorney General's Office. Ronald C. Zeller, assistant attorney general, to whom Lieberman's letter to the DNR was referred, wrote in part:

"After obtaining the above described permits (from the Jordan River Natural River Zoning Board and an additional installation permit pursuant to the Inland Lakes and Streams Act), the Department was of the opinion that it met all requirements for the installation of the temporary weir on the Jordan River. We wish to assure you that the Department of Natural Resources in no way attempted to circumvent the authority of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. MCLA 46.21 and 46.22 were considered by the Department.

However, a determination was made that these provisions were not applicable as a dam was not being constructed. The Department only intended to install a temporary salmon weir for a short period of time. This weir will be removed after this year's salmon run. The Department is of the opinion that it acted within its authority in installing the temporary salmon weir on the Jordan River in Charlevoix County."

Among those speaking for Charlevoix area anglers last week was Jim Withers, charter boat captain and Trout Festival organizer, who stressed that those fishermen who are against the weir are a small group, and if the County Board listens to them, the DNR would be justified in discontinuing fish plantings. If the weir is taken from the Jordan River, he said, there would be two disastrous results: The river would be full of salmon and lampreys and there would be a tourist income loss of millions of dollars.

City Councilman Mike Greeley recalled the work done by the local Chamber of Commerce trying to improve off-season tourism, with the Trout Festival being the answer.

New fire hall bids explored

by DOUG TRUAX

A group of city residents, discontented with City Manager Michael Wiesner's handling of cost estimates on the proposed fire hall, has obtained independent bids on the project.

They say the new bids could save the city close to $200,000 on the construction of a fire and ambulance building at the airport. Wiesner and the city's ad hoc fire hall committee estimated the cost of a public safety building at the airport to be $450,000.

The independent group says the a pre-engineered metal-building with 9,900 square feet of space would cost just under $250,000.

Chuck Scherping, one of those working on the new bids, said the structure would be complete.

"When the city got the first bids," Scherping said, "they didn't give the contractor any options. This is a completely different kind of structure."

The group says the building could also be built downtown, but it would have to be located on State Street, north of City Hall, leaving the Post Office at its present location or requiring it to move elsewhere.

Bids for the revised fire hall plan were submitted by Peninsula Construction and Supply Company of Traverse City, which gave the earlier $450,000 estimate to Wiesner and the committee.

Dan Reffitt, vice-president of sales for Peninsula, explained that the higher figure was based on phone conversations with the city and the consulting architect. No

Voters to decide three council seats

by DOUG TRUAX

City residents go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 5, to vote for City Clerk and councilmen in each of the city's three wards. Also on the ballot is a bond issue for $390,000 to be used for land acquisition and construction of a new fire hall and public safety building.

Arlene Staley, the present City Clerk, will run unopposed for the position she filled earlier this year due to the resignation of the incumbent.

The contestants for City Council are described below:

First Ward

MICHAEL GREELEY, 37, will seek to retain his council seat in the First Ward. Greeley is the owner of Wharf Side Market in Charlevoix and is completing his first term as city councilman.

He lives at 209 Petoskey Ave. with his wife, Paula, and their two children, Patrick and Matthew. His is a member of the Jaycees, Rotary Club, and a variety of other civic organizations. He also sits on the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Greeley says the number one problem facing Charlevoix is making sure that the infrastructure (water, sewer, roads, etc.) is adequate to handle the new development in the city – now and in the future. Zoning and planning are the second major concern, Greeley says. Dissention on zoning changes was supposed to be put to rest by the development of a Master Plan, he says. "Maybe we should open up the Master Plan and look at it again," he adds.

The major issue in the First Ward, Greeley believes, is taking care of the separation of the storm and sanitary sewers.

Greeley says he would like to initiate more communication with the people in his ward, "perhaps hold a ward meeting to educate people and let them express feelings."

He has been a backer of the Charlevoix Industrial Park for three years – to provide a place for light, clean industry – and is in favor of the downtown hotel-conference center project.

Greeley also supports passing the fire hall bond and believes the building should "go where it is most cost-effective."

NORMAN PROBERT, 48, is a teacher at the Charlevoix Middle School. A resident of 704 Mercer, Probert and his wife, Judy, have two children and four grandchildren, all of whom live in Charlevoix..

Probert is the president of the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament, the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association, an associate member of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and a past member of the Rod and Gun Club. He has coached nearly every boy's sports in his 17 years in Charlevoix.

Probert says that one of the chief issues facing the city is what to do about the Ferry Avenue Beach an-

Second Ward

ROBERT TIMMS, 51, is a self-employed TV and appliance repairman. He has lived in Charlevoix for 28 years and has served on City Council for 10 years. Timms and his wife, Barbara, live at 603 Norwood Rd. and have three grown children.

"The fire barn is the most pressing need at the moment," Timms says. "And the water plant is something we have to make sure gets going." He notes, however, that he views the water plant project as largely a waste of money.

Street improvement is important in the Second Ward, Timms says, "as it is all over town." He would like to see more repairs done on broken streets and sidewalks. There should be a sidewalk from Pine River Place to State Street, he feels, and eventually to Bridge Street.

Timms sees Charlevoix as progressing at about the right pace. "Small towns and small projects are just fine," he observes. "They are more digestible if they come in small bites." He is glad the city didn't get the large new industrial project that is going to Boyne City. "I think that's a curse."

Timms supports the industrial park and the new downtown hotel. He would like to see the bond issue for the fire hall passed. He is uncommitted on the location of the building. "I just hope that people feel we will spend the least amount of money necessary."

Third Ward

F. EARL MUMA, 52, is the incumbent in the Third Ward. He is the Emergency Services Director for Charlevoix County and has served two terms on City Council prior to his current term.

A native of Farmington, Muma moved to East Jordan in 1946 and has lived in the Charlevoix-East Jordan area ever since.

From 1970 to 1982 he operated two gas stations in the city.

Muma and his wife, Alice, live at 516 Meadow Lane and have a daughter, Sharon, at the middle school and two sons, Allen and Robert, who live in Charlevoix.

Muma is a member of the VFW Lodge (past president) and a past president of the Michigan Municipal League for the 8th and 9th Districts.

He favors approval of the fire hall bond issue, but does not believe the downtown location is necessarily the best or most economical site for it. "I'm not 100 percent satisfied with the present location," he says.

"The main goal of the DDA is to take care of parking downtown," Muma adds. Parking should be behind Bridge Street.

Muma does not want to see the Ferry Avenue Beach project drag on because of the cost of interest. "Once that project is done, it will really benefit the city," he says. "We've got to pick that property up now. If we lose it, we had better kick ourselves."

He is happy with the Charlevoix Industrial Park and would like to confine it to small industries employing 40-50 people maximum.

We are happy to announce a new feature entitled "Charlevoix Sketchbook" which will appear in these pages every other week. The "Sketchbook" will feature the ink drawings of Charlevoix artist Jan Glass and her observations on nature and the seasons.

Jan is an accomplished artist whose work — in watercolor and ink — is shown at the McCune Arts Center. She established a loyal following of fans for her beautiful wildflower watercolors. Jan also teaches at McCune and at her home on Charlevoix's north side. We hope you enjoy her observations and thoughts through the northern Michigan seasons.

Charlevoix preschools: the options and philosophies vary

This is the second in a series of articles on preschools in Charlevoix.

by ANNE KELLY

If you have decided "yes", to the option of sending your child to preschool, you will want to be aware of the various programs offered in our community. Preschool workers believe it is wise to spend a session observing the preschools while children are there, to see which one and which teacher fits your child's needs best. Visitors are usually welcome and appointments should be made ahead of time.

Charlevoix has three programs to choose from: The Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery School, Kid's Corner Nursery School, and the Charlevoix Children's House, Montessori School.

The philosophy of a cooperative nursery school allows parents to actually participate in their preschool education.

A "co-op" cuts tuition costs by utilizing the parent-assistants instead of paying additional staff.

Its function is primarily social. Learning through play is an education goal.

Parents rotate turns and assist the teacher on their assigned day. The nursery provides parent education programs usually built into the schedule of required meetings.

The Montessori approach to preschool education offered at Charlevoix's Children's House follows the principles of the "prepared environment" as proported by Maria Montessori. Here, children learn at their own rate and are guided to special learning apparatus in which mastery and personal discovery are essential. "Among its features is an ordered arrangement of learning materials in a non-competitive atmosphere which helps each child develop at his-her own rate. Children learn through doing. A child's play is a child's work."

Sandy LaVoie with children from the Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery School.

There is a consistent staff of directors, assistant teacher and aide. Parents are invited to interact with their children. Parent meetings included parent education.

Here, in random order, are descriptions of the three Charlevoix preschool programs.

CHARLEVOIX COOPERATIVE NURSERY SCHOOL
LOCATION: Classroom, Elementary school TEACHER: Sandy LaVoie
ENROLLMENT: Maximum 17 students per session
AGE: 3 by September 1
SESSIONS: Three day a.m. and p.m.; two day a.m. and p.m.
TUITION: Three day $270 per year; two day $200 per year

The Charlevoix Co-op Nursery provides an ideal transition from home to school. With sessions held in the elementary school, children become familiar with the larger facility and feel comfortable in the school setting before they come to kindergarten.

Playground and gym time are provided as well as the opportunity to attend appropriate assemblies held for the rest of the school.

Teacher Sandy LaVoie holds a B.A. in Elementary Education from Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. She has taught as a substitute in Iowa and spent one semester teaching at The Little Skipper Nursery School in Petoskey. This is here third year teaching at the Charlevoix Co-op.

"My priority is an emphasis on the emotional and social wellbeing of the children. I want them to have a good feeling about themselves in my classtroom. I want to help them feel confident, special and unique," LaVoie says. "Eventually, through all the play and activities that we do in the course of the school year, children will learn many educational concepts. What seems like play is work to the children But the most important thing we want them to learn is how to feel good about themselves."

Sandy feels that parents in a co-op benefit with their involvement in the program. They meet other parents with similar experiences and concerns regarding their child's growth and development. Children benefit in being asssured that their parent spends time with them on their level, sharing a special part of their education.

The Kid's Corner Nursery School offers parents a chance to participate in the sessions.

KID'S CORNER NURSERY SCHOOL
LOCATION: Basement, Congregational Church
TEACHER: Sue Sheets
ENROLLMENT: Maximum 12 students per session
AGE: Three by December 1
SESSIONS: Three mornings
TUITION: Three day $260 per year, two day $200 per year

Kid's Corner Nursery School is cooperative. Parents participate in the sessions, on the board of directors and on planning committees. It is a quality preschool which limits enrollment to maintain small classes.

Several pleasantly decorated and equipped rooms are used for group and individual play and snack time. An outdoor playground with adequate climbing and swinging equipment for large motor activities is situated in a grassy church yard.

Kid's Corner is an interdenominational Christian preschool. While there is no formal religious instruction, the atmosphere allows for the freedom of Christian expression as in prayer before snack, or the mention of God's name in the context of the situation.

Teacher Sue Sheets, a graduate of Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio, has five years of elementary school teaching experiene, and has been teaching preschool at Kid's Corner for three years. Her program is geared toward the total social development of the small child with emphasis on "guiding children rather than controlling them, helping them learn through play experiences, and helping develop self image."

Sheets believes that "a preschool should provide the surroundings and experiences to allow the child to realize and enjoy his-her abilities. When the child feels comfortable doing things, he gains respect for himself and for others."

Sheets says she cannot stress enough the benefits of parent involvement, and encourages parents to bring their talents and abilities to share with the children in her classroom.

Proximity to the downtown area is ideal for learning field trips, familiarizing children with their immediate surroundings.

CHARLEVOIX CHILDREN'S HOUSE, MONTESSORI SCHOOL
LOCATION: Taylor Road
DIRECTOR: Heather Woods
ASSISTANT: Grace Truax
AIDE: Tricia Doan, RN
ENROLLMENT: Maximum 30 capacity
AGE: 2½-6 years
SESSIONS: Daily 8:45-11:45; Extended until 2:30 p.m.; Day Care until 4 p.m.
TUITION: Daily $1150 per year; Other $1650 per year.

Charlevoix Children's House Montessori School is a parent-owned school, patterned after the American Montessori Society Schools.

The director of the school is Heather Woods who received her training at the West Bloomfield Montessori Training Center. She holds a B.A. from the University of Michigan and has taught at the U. of M. Dearborn Early Learning and Childhood Development Center. She has also had experience in a traditional fifth grade and a first grade Montessori class in Romulus, Michigan and did substitute teaching for the Petoskey Public Schools. This is her fifth year at Charlevoix Children's House.

Woods explains that though the tuition is perhaps prohibitive for many, the common denominator among participants in her school is that the parents involved have plac-

ELECT
NORM PROBERT
Tuesday, November 5

FIRST WARD COUNCILMAN
An Independent Responsive
Trusted Leader
Paid for by committee to elect Norm Probert.

An Open Letter to the First Ward

Two years ago, you did me the honor of choosing me to represent you on the City Council. It has been both an eventful and interesting two years, and now it is time for me to come to you again to ask for your vote in the General Election this coming Tuesday.

Before you vote, I would like to share with you some of the principles I have followed while representing you and which I'll continue to follow if you choose to re-elect me.

1. Accessibility

In order to represent the voters properly, an elected official has to listen to his constituents. That means being available. Availability is one thing I pride myself on. As I hope you know, I am co-owner of the Wharfside Market downtown and am there six and sometimes seven days a week. Many of you have stopped at the store to express your feelings, others have called me there. I welcome your visits and calls, both at the store and at my home, for I believe that when elected to a public office, being accessible is part of the responsibility that you accept.

2. Responsiveness

In most cases this is an easy principle to follow. If a street needs plowing or a pothole needs fixing, one quick phone call will solve the problem. Sometimes, however, fulfilling your wishes is much harder. The proposed apartment complex next to Chez Charlevoix on Petoskey Ave. is a good example. Your desire that this complex not be built was very clear to me. Unfortunately, because of Council actions prior to my being elected, the Council was placed in a very difficult position. To say no to the rezoning of the land where the complex is to be built would have exposed the City to a lawsuit which both the City Attorney and an outside attorney (hired at my request) stated that the City would probably lose. In addition, the City Attorney estimated that damages would have been in excess to $100,000 and the property would have been rezoned anyway. In view of this, I voted in favor of the rezoning.

3. Foresight

While sitting on the Council, I try to envision what effect my vote will have on future Councils and what precedents are being set. These types of votes do not occur at every meeting, but when they do, one must think about the long term effect of the vote very carefully.

An example of this type of precedent setting vote was the proposed flower shop on Petoskey Ave. The reason I voted against allowing any further special uses on Petoskey Ave. was that I am not convinced that Petoskey Ave. from Nettleton north to the city limits should be commercialized any more than it already is. Each time Council votes to allow a new commercial special use in a residential zoned district, where the proposed flower shop was, it gets easier to approve the next one. Pretty soon you have an entire commercial strip from one end of town to the other. This is why I voted no. I want to draw the line now and not set a precedent that may haunt us later. Perhaps there may come a time, if the houses from Nettleton north to the city limits start deteriorating, that we should allow further commercial uses but I do not believe that the time is now.

I care about our town and its appearance. I want Charlevoix to always live up to those two words "The Beautiful" at the end of its name.

I feel strongly about the above three principles, and I want you to understand how I make my decisions while I'm sitting on the Council. I've grown to love this community, not only as a place to work but also as a place to live. I want future generations to enjoy living in Charlevoix as much as I and my family do and, I'm sure, as much as you.

I ran for office because I wanted to represent you and fulfill your wishes for an efficient, effective city government. I wanted to be involved. The last two years have not changed my feelings. I still want to represent you and still want to be involved. For these reasons, I'm again asing for your vote this Tuesday, Nov. 5 for First Ward Councilman.

Thank you.

nex property. "I don't want to see us drag our feet continuously," he says. He would like council to take some action soon, rather than continue paying interest on the property.

He believes that parking should be the sole priority of the Downtown Development Authority until the problem is resolved.

Commenting on recent zoning decisions, Probert says he is "very happy that we don't have mini-golf in the First Ward and I'm sorry that we don't have flowers."

He is opposed to any policy that would give commercial or industrial firms "total tax abatements that the rest of us have to pay for."

He believes tax abatements on commercial property should be "extremely" limited and that industrial abatements should not exceed six years, and that only if the new industries mean an increase in a significant number of jobs.

Probert believes voters should pass the fire hall bond issue. "But I would much rather have seen it (the fire hall) at the airport where the city already owns the land," he adds.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, 45, is a native of Charlevoix and a 1957 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Russell served in the U.S. Navy from 1957 to 1966 and is currently a member of the Naval Reserve.

He owns and operates the Airport Motel on U.S. 31 South.

Russell and his wife Penny have three children, Jeffery, Lorraine and Blake.

If elected, Russell says, he would like to slow the growth of condominiums in Charlevoix. "I have talked to many people and they don't like them," he says.

He also believes the City Council has granted too many tax breaks to businesses while the rest of the taxpayers have to pick up the slack.

Russell would like to see development of a meeting place for Charlevoix senior citizens, "a place where they will feel wanted."

He says his main goal is "to help the people of Charlevoix."

Beacons of Blessing

Sola Scriptura - By Scripture alone
Sola Gratia - By grace alone
Sola Fide - By faith alone

When correctly understood, these three phrases, made popular during the time of the Reformation, are music to our souls.

Sola Scripture: Scripture alone reveals God's love to us. Scripture alone tells us, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16). Scripture alone is the Word of God, the only source of God's teachings for us, and the only source of our faith.

Sola Gratia: By grace alone we are saved. "For by grace you have been saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, not of works, lest anyone should boast." (Ephesians 2:8-9). If we had to contribute anything towards our own salvation, we could never be sure that we have done enough nor that which we have done is acceptable to God.

Sola Fide: By faith alone we believe that Jesus Christ suffered and died for our sins. "So then faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." (Romans 10:17) God even gives us the faith we need through His Word.

With Dr. Martin Luther, we rejoice in confidence, knowing that our salvation does not depend on anything we do, but has been earned for us by Jesus Christ - given to us freely by God, our Father, and the faith to believe has been placed in our hearts by the Holy Spirit. God's only motivation for this great gift is His immense love for us.

Chamber Chatter

by Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

The 1986 Membership Drive is going well! The following Chamber members are making a special attempt to bring more concerned people into the Chamber: Ron Agnello, Phil Kluczynski, Rick Lobenherz, Moon Price and Tom Warth. Doug Shaw, chairman, reports that to date this talented group has recruited 15 new members into the Chamber! The drive runs through the month of October. The Ambassador responsible for the most new members will win a free week's Time Share vacation, courtesy of Ski & Shore Charlevoix.

Mark your calendars now for the annual membership meeting of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, to be held Thursday, November 21. This year's meeting will be a "wine tasting." More details to come.

Also, now is the time to submit your nominations to the Chamber office for four new directors to serve three-year terms on the Chamber Board. We are looking for concerned members of the Chamber who are willing to work toward making Charlevoix a better place and who want to make the Chamber a strong entity in this community.

At a special meeting of the Chamber Board on Thursday, October 24, the Board resolved a new posture and policy. Though the Board has not deviated from its original resolution in support of controlled growth and economic development, this new policy serves to reinforce the Chamber's genuine concern for both the membership of the Chamber and the commerce in the community. The resolution reads:

"The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce fully supports responsible commercial endeavors.

Anyone seeking the Chamber's endorsement for a commercial venture shall be scheduled to appear at a Board of Directors meeting after having submitted a written request and pertinent documents for perusal by the Executive Committee.

The Board will consider all presentations and will extend their support to projects that will improve commerce in our community.

All presentations shall be limited to thirty (30) minutes. They shall include information on, but are not limited to, the following: local employment impact during and following construction; capital investment in the community; effect on tax base; adherance to zoning and municipal laws; conformance to existing Master Plan and changes required; status of project with various permit agencies; site plan and renderings; and a summary of an environmental impact report if one has been filed on the project."

Letters to the Editor:

Condos not the answer

Editor:

Is Charlevoix really interested in a better economy? Building condos is not the answer. The answer is to encourage small, clean industry to locate here. Give them property that does not border on the waterfront. Encourage attractive buildings, with beautifully landscaped yards, parking areas discretely located.

This would give our own people an opportunity for work and encourage our young people to seek employment here. It would mean families building homes and taking part in our community. People who care, not people who are only here to play.

Once property is sold to the big developer it is lost to us forever. The beauty of our lakes and shoreline never to return to its natural beauty. How wonderful it is to be able to drive and see the water, to walk the shoreline, instead of looking at bunches of buildings and brick walls that are used only a few short months, but are nevertheless clearly marked "Private, Keep out Charlevoix."

How dare the developers treat us in such a manner. Greed is the only reason they are pushing for all the prime property.

Citizens of Charlevoix let's keep our beautiful city. Let's encourage our own people to stay here by providing jobs. We are in control, we make the decisions, let's not act "small town" and allow the fast talking developers to double talk us into things that we'll be sorry for and can't be undone, big time operators from who knows where, telling us what is best for our town.

We need year-around money and we will have it with small industry. There, too, we should be very selective.

Never mind the so called "fast buck," think plan and above all let's leave a lovely city to our children, one with lakes, trees and natural beauty. Not a city that is like every other ov[illegible]ity, so in years to come they will say, "Why didn't they plan better, look at the waters edge, nothing but ugly buildings, with polluted water."

Condos make money for the developers, no one else. But small industry will benefit many. Think about it and you people on the council, really think about it.

A lot is at stake here. We are at a crossroads. Down through history many terrible mistakes have been made because decisions have not been thoroughly studied, let's not fall into that pit.

A terrible dream

Dear Editor:

Remember the famous first line of Du Maurier's Rebecca? "Last night I dreamed I went back to Manderly again..."

Last night I dreamed I went forward to Charlevoix. I had a terrible time with the traffic by the two new mini-amusement parks, combined with the traffic from Captain's Corner, plus the usual summer influx. (In my dream it was summer.) For awhile I thought I was coming into the usual Town-Along-the-Highway: eight blocks of Fast Food, Fast Entertainment and Slow Traffic.

I'm afraid the charm of Beautiful Downtown Charlevoix will be lost at its Southern approach. City Council, WHAT were you thinking of?

Sidewalks a hazard

Dear Editor:

Twas great the community effort Saturday - a long needed sidewalk for the children!

What chance the deplorable walks in your "fair" city getting some replacements? Taxes all go where? No personal crime to prevent walking here after dark, but the rough, unsafe walks are sure hazards of safety.

Fire hall bids revisited

plans were available, so the price was based on the architect's description of the building.

The independent group asked him to come up with his own design for the building, Reffitt said. In this plan the city police functions would be kept downtown in the vacated fire quarters – requiring less expensive office space.

Reffitt said a similar steel building was constructed for the fire hall in Bellaire, but he termed the current design "tremendously better than that one."

He said the plan called for sleeping quarters for a dispatcher, a dispatcher's office, a lunch and meeting room, and a shower facility.

The new figures are firm, Reffitt stressed, adding that he would be happy to sign a contract based on the bid. He noted that he was not working for or against one group or the other, but was trying to cooperate with the city in any way possible.

Peninsula Construction recently built a pre-engineered steel building for the Bullfrog Light Company on M-66 just south of town.

Efforts to get the new bids brought up at Monday night's City Council meeting were reportedly rebuffed by groups supporting the fire hall bond issue who feared the new bids would confuse the voters or cause them to vote against the bond.

Clockwise

The new decorum

By Bob Clock

Something new — and surprisingly refreshing — has been added to Charlevoix City Council meetings.

Ever since Hal Hill became mayor last January, he has opened every regular session by asking the council and members of the audience to stand with him and repeat the Pledge of Allegiance.

It only takes a minute, but the little opening ceremony somehow seems to set the tenor for the entire meeting.

Although councilmen and councilwomen may differ with each other as well as their constituents, the Pledge seems to say: "We're all in this together. It's our flag, and our country, and our government. And nothing can take that away from us."

"...One nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

A very fine way to start a public meeting.

HILL ALSO HAS adopted other innovations. He has placed a lectern in front of the council for persons wishing to address the city fathers. He asks them to step forward and state their names.

It's not a big deal, but the petitioner has someplace to put his notes and the lectern seems to mitigate the agony of public speaking — a real problem for many.

The mayor also has made it easier for members of the media to do their jobs. He has installed a press table on the chamber floor where reporters can take notes in a businesslike manner.

During other administrations, reporters were forced to sit in the audience, if they could find a chair, balance their notebooks and agendas on their laps and try to write. The East Jordan council has maintained a press table for years, and it's nice to have Charlevoix follow suit.

THE MAYOR ALSO is a stickler for order. No more talking out of turn or kibitzing from the gallery. Hill doesn't allow more than one person to talk at a time and he doesn't hesitate to rap the gavel when it happens.

He even summoned the police one night to escort a disruptive spectator from the room.

Hill also believes everyone has a right to be heard. At public hearings, he makes a systematic canvass of the audience — chair by chair, row by row — to make sure everyone has had his say.

Despite the new decorum — or maybe because of it — the council now completes its business in record time. In years past, council meetings often lasted three or four hours. Now the council manages to wrap up its business in two hours or less, which certainly is a welcome change.

Third Ward

Muma says he is satisfied with the location.

The Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee should look into the development of condominiums around the lakes, Muma says, before more developments are considered by any governmental agency.

PAUL BURLEW, 62, is the owner of Accents at 1207 Bridge St. and has lived in Charlevoix for five years. Prior to that he and his wife, Katie, lived in southern California where he worked for Technicolor and the aerospace industry.

The Burlews have three children and six grandchildren. They have been active in running the annual Keep Charlevoix Beautiful auction.

The number one issue facing the city, Burlew says, is getting funding for the public safety building. "If we don't get it funded or started," he says, "we will be another year away. Let's get the money started. I'm not that concerned about the location – that can be decided later."

Burlew would also like to see the city "start to put some emphasis on the welfare of the city in general and not exclusively on these major projects."

City Council, he says, should get more involved in day-to-day operations.

General maintenance is very important, he adds. "There are terrible sidewalks and terrible housing conditions that should be looked into."

Charlevoix should do more to enforce the ordinances it has already passed, he says.

"The city is not really trying to attract major industry – I mean hundreds of jobs," Burlew says. "Boyne City and East Jordan have major industries, but Charlevoix is not approaching a major investor."

Tourism is a nice addition, he believes, but not equivalent to a major industry.

Burlew says the Charlevoix has enough condominiums. The number of them going in around the lake and in the townships could change the present atmosphere and make the area seem more like a megalopolis, he says.

THOMAS BLACK, 22, is running for City Council as a write-in candidate after being defeated in the August primary. Black says 700 registered voters in the Third Ward did not cast ballots and he believes they may be enough to turn the tide in his favor.

A native of St. Petersburg, Fla., Black has lived in Charlevoix for 1½ years and is employed at the Charlevoix Co-op True Value Hardware.

He and his wife, Cristol, live at 206 E. Upright. Black is a member of Rotary and the Gospel Concert Committee of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

"If the city is going to stay alive, it has to grow," Black says. "If we lose the beauty then we are defeating our purpose also."

Black believes councilmen should research issues more thoroughly. "I want to know what the people think about an issue."

Black would like more attention paid to the Third Ward, which he calls the "forgotten ward."

New vaccine is recommended for two-year-old children

Dr. F. James Stewart and his associates in Family Medicine, Dr. Dennis M. Joy and Dr. Edward E. Newcomb, are recommending that a new bacterial vaccine be given to children when they reach 24 months.

The vaccine is designed to produce immunity to Hemophilus influenza, type b, a common cause of respiratory infection in children and a leading cause of bacterial meningitis in children. Dr. Stewart points out that every year there are about 30,000 cases of bacterial meningitis among young children in the United States, and about 85 percent of them are Hemophilus meningitis.

The vaccine, which was approved this past August, is considered safe, the only reactions being possible redness at the injection site and a mild temperature.

Children from 18 to 23 months attending day care centers are high risks for infection and should be considered for vaccination, as should all children between two and five years, Dr. Stewart believes. He suggests that parents contact their physician.

Rayders shut out Grayling squad

by DOUG TRUAX

GRAYLING – Charlevoix combined an aggressive defense with ball control offense Friday to shut down Grayling 21-0 in a Michigan-Huron Shores Conference contest.

The win brought the Rayder's record to 3-4 in the conference and 4-4 overall. They are currently in sixth place.

Charlevoix snuffed the Grayling running attack, allowing the Vikings 8 net yards rushing in 29 attempts. The Grayling passing game was equally ineffective against the Rayder defense, completing three of 12 for 48 yards.

"Part of the reason we were so alert on defense," Assistant Coach Hal Evans said, "was that the offense controlled the ball with four long drives."

Charlevoix runners combined for 260 yards on the ground in 49 attempts. Matt Lignell, who has missed several games on offense because of an injured ankle, rushed for 94 yards in 14 attempts before reinjuring the ankle in the second quarter.

Mike Thompson assumed the running duties admirably, picking up 90 yards in 14 carries.

Charlevoix got on the board for the first time with 5:21 left in the first quarter when Jim Gibbs, who started at quarterback, threw a 9-yard scoring pass to Pat LaBlance. Terry Bonar kicked the extra point.

Gibbs ran the ball in from the 11 to score the Rayder's second TD with less than a minute left in the half. The score climaxed a drive that started at the Charlevoix 34 and included runs of 20 yards by Lignell and 18 by Gibbs.

Charlevoix added its final points of the game with 5:21 left in the fourth quarter with Thompson running it in from the 9-yard line. Bonar added his third extra point of the night.

The Rayder passing game was also on target Friday. Marc Himebauch connected on five of six attempts for 91 yards. Gibbs completed one for the 9-yard touchdown.

Tim Salmonson was on the receiving end of two passes for 48 yards. Pat LaBlance caught two for 21 yards and Ferguson and Thompson had one reception each.

Brian Wilmot and Jamie Bartlett led the tough Rayder defense with eight tackles each. Kent Seymour, Matt Hull, Jim Morgridge, and Darrin Batdorff had seven tackles each. Bill Marquardt recovered a Rayder fumble to save a scoring drive.

Charlevoix travels to St. Ignace to close out its season on Friday.

JV team also victorious

The Charlevoix JV football team, with a 5-3 record will host the young St. Ignace Saints in their final game of the season at Kipke Field at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

In action last Thursday, the young Rayders defeated Grayling 30-14.

The Charlevoix eleven took control early, scoring on a 30-yard run by Marv Witthoeft with Dan Drury passing to Chad Thorp for the conversion and a 8-0 lead.

The Grayling Vikings came back to score on a 30-yard run of their own and ran the two-point conversion.

Charlevoix took the lead again as Dave Miller broke away for a 35-yard romp to give the Rayders a 14-8 advantage as the quarter ended.

Wittheoft scored again midway in the second quarter, this time on a 28-yard run, to make the score 22-8 at halftime.

Charlevoix took to the air as the second half opened. A pass from Drury to Scott DeYoung moved the ball to midfield where Roger Smith threw to Miller who scored on the 50-yard pass play. Derek Dutcher scored the conversion on a run for a 30-8 lead. Grayling scored on a 25-yard pass play as time ran out in the third period.

The last quarter was a defensive battle as the Rayders fought to protect their winning lead.

Coach Brian Certa said the victory was the result of four quartes of fine football. "The team achieved most of its game goals. Everyone played well," Certa said.

Frosh close with win

The Charlevoix Rayder Freshman football team rounded out its 1985 season Wednesday with a 20-14 victory over Boyne City.

The team ended the season with a 3-1 record in regular play and three scrimmage wins.

"We had a good season. I think the players learned a lot and are well prepared for another season. They were an enthusiastic group: they enjoyed playing together. They're a great group of kids," Coach Erik Lunteigen said.

Wednesday's Boyne City game went right to the wire with the young Rayders scoring the winning touchdown from the 3-yard line after a 15-yard reverse on fourth down and four by Jason Whitley which put the ball in scoring position.

Playing heads-up ball all the way, the first Rayder TD came in the first period on a 22-yard pass interception by Scott Novotny. Shawn Putman ran the conversion for an 8-0 first period lead.

Benjie Spencer put the Rayders ahead 14-0 early in the second quarter when he scored on a 10-yard run. Boyne City countered with a TD on a 50-yard romp and ran the conversion to trim the Rayder lead to 14-8 at halftime.

As the second half got underway, Boyne City tied the score 14-14 on a 5-yard run. The conversion failed.

Late in the final period, Whitley, on a 15-yard reverse in a fourth and four situation, carried the ball to the 3 and Spencer scored the winning touchdown.

Lundteigen said that Himebauch did a good job at quarterback. "He hung in there when Putman was injured and did well despite his inexperience at that position," he commented. He said he was also pleased with the team's blocking especially that of Mike Zipp.

Whitley carried the ball for 113 yards and Spencer for 112; Jamie Montieth accounted for 16 tackles, Novotny had 13 tackles and two interceptions and Bill Eaton added two quarterback sacks. "In all it was a good year," Luntelgen said in praise of the team's efforts.

Middle School tourney ahead

The Charlevoix Middle School seventh and eighth grade girls basketball teams will enter the annual Cheboygan tournament Wednesday, Nov. 6 after completing their scheduled season here Wednesday against Cheboygan.

The Charlevoix teams will make their initial appearances in the tournament against the winner of the St. Ignace-Alpena game. The seventh grade will play at 3:30 p.m. and the eighth grade at 4:45 p.m. on that date.

If the teams advance in the winners bracket their next games will be at 6 and 7:15 p.m., respectively on Wednesday, Nov. 13.

Harriers qualify for state

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country team, coached by Pete Spieles, will be competing in the state cross country meet for the eighth consecutive year after qualifying in regional competition at Scottville Saturday.

The team, with 80 points, came in second behind Benzie Central with 51 points and ahead of Mason County Central, the team that nosed the Rayders into third place in the state finals in 1984. The latter had 82 points.

In the same meet, the Charelvoix girls team placed fifth and qualified one of its members, Betsy Haggard, for stae competition for the second year.

"Obviously our boys ran extremely well. We went to the meet under pressure because of the injuries we've had throughout the season. However, the team came through in the clutch," Spieles said.

"We had excellent races up front (Pat Rajewski, Doug Bergmann and Joe Simpson), Mike Dohm had his best race of the season," Spieles said. "Tom Merta did a tremendous job for us. Joe came off an injury and responded well. Sean Henne did not run up to par because of an injury."

Saturday's meet was the toughest regional Charlevoix has had in the eight years the team has qualified for state, he said.

Betsy Haggard

"This week we are going to have to work on the flats for the course at Cass City (site of the state meet) is that kind of course and Charlevoix, like other northern Michigan teams, are hill oriented. "That will be a psychological disadvantage for our team," he commented. "We're looking at the top two places Saturday. The job will be to beat Benzie Central"

Spieles said the girls team ran well. "We lost our number two runner, Michelle North, with an injury and when a team is as shallow as ours it's hard to make up for that lack of depth. However, Betsy (Haggard) did finish in thirteenth place overall to qualify for state for the second year," he said.

In placing second, the team results are as follows: Pat Rajewski, finished eighth overall in 17:34.4; Doug Bergmann, 11th in 17:42.9; Joe Simpson, 15th in 17:56.7; Mike Dohm, 17th in 19:00.9; and Tom Merta, 29th in 18:35.5 Kevin McLenon, the sixth runner, finished 31st in 18:48.7 and seventh Sean Henne, 53rd in 19:35.3.

The girls team was led by Besty Haggard who finished 13th place in 22:25.4; Heidi Olinger, 22nd in 23:24.2; Lori Raymond, 28th in 24:06.1; Nonie Pace, 33rd in 24:17.3 and Barb Haggard, 36th in 24:19.9.

The top 15 runners in each division received medals. Medal winners for Charlevoix were Rajewski, Bergmann, Simpson and Betsy Haggard.

JV harriers run at Gaylord meet

The Charlevoix JV harriers participated in the annual Gaylord Invitational Cross Country meet on Tuesday, according to Assistant Coach Ken Plude.

The Rayders were among the seven Class C teams entered in the meet which attracted a total of 14 teams. A Bay City team won the Class B division; Rogers City in Class C was the grand champion and Kingsley took the Class D division.

Charlevoix had a total of 249 points. Medals were presented to the top 20 runners in each of the three divisions.

For Charlevoix Harold Herriman finished in 18th place in a time of 16:51; Dave Warth, 37th in 17:32; Ed Knight, 45th in 17:44; Jeff Skeel, 67th in 18:49 and Mike Stargardt, 82nd in 19:54.

League battle resumes

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team completes an important home stand during the next week.

The first was a meeting with Cheboygan in a battle for first place in the Michigan-Huron Shores league scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 29. Both teams, at the time of the meeting, had 9-1 records in league play.

On Tuesday, Nov. 5, the Roger City five will come to town and on Thursday, Nov. 7, St. Ignace will be here.

On Thursday Oct. 24, the Rayders dumped Gaylord 58-24 in the return game. Coach Hank Wagner said the victory was due to outstanding team defense. The Rayders had lost to Gaylord earlier in the season.

Charlevoix jumped to a 15-9 first period lead, increased it to 30-14 at halftime and 42-20 going into the final period.

Charlevoix had a total of 26 field goals and six of 16 fouls shots while attracting only 19 personal fouls. Gaylord had nine field goals, six of 20 charity shots and 15 personal fouls.

Amy Pischner poured in 19 points, Michelle Gagnon 11 and Ellen Pearl 10. Helen Hilla had six for Gaylord.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix downed Petoskey as both teams scored 17 field goals. Charlevoix, however, capitalized on 13 of 21 free throw attempts while Petoskey completed only six of 16. Charlevoix had 18 personal fouls. Petoskey had 20.

Charlevoix had led 11-4, 23-22 and 30-29 by quarters before outscoring the visitors 17-11 in the final eight minutes.

The Charlevoix JV team split, defeating Petoskey 36-24 and losing to Gaylord 42-20. Stacy Gebott had eight points in the Petoskey game and Jennifer Bonar 10 in the Gaylord game.

Middle School teams win

Both the Charlevoix Middle School girls basketball teams each posted their first victory of the season last week. The seventh-grade win came in a 19-11 victory over Petoskey. The team had lost earlier in the week to Boyne City by a 53-12 score.

The eighth-grade win was over Boyne City by a 36-28 score. They were beaten by Petoskey 22-21 in a double overtime.

In the seventh-grade win, Charlevoix led 16-4 at halftime before taking the game. Stacy Skeel was top scorer for Charlevoix with four points as six players shared the scoring. Five Petoskey players shared scoring duties.

In the Boyne City game, the Ramblers led 24-2 at the half. Janis Leaderbrand had four points for Charlevoix. Dawn Archambault had 14 for Boyne City.

The eighth-graders overcame a 16-13 halftime deficit to outscore Boyne City 23-12 in the second half and chalk up their first win of the season. Paula Thorp paced the scoring with 17 points. Fanning had seven for Boyne City.

The team's loss to Petoskey was a heartbreaker. Charlevoix led 10-5 at halftime only to watch Petoskey come back strong in the second half to knot the score 16-all at the buzzer.

Both teams scored one bucket in the first overtime with April Hume scoring four of her 11 points for the game in the second overtime to give Petoskey the hard-fought win. Cynthia Boydston had seven points for Charlevoix.

The teams will host Cheboygan in return matches here Wednesday before going into the Cheboygan tournament on Monday, Nov. 4.

East Jordan Nursery in full swing

The East Jordan Co-op Nursery School is in full swing and into its 2nd month.

Kelly and Alan Peterson, creators and designers of the new East Jordan Co-op Nursery School's sign and logo, presented the new plaque to the school and teacher Marlynn Hughs. The couple are also responsible for a new play area inside the school. They took a white dropcloth and turned it into downtown East Jordan, roads and all, mapped out so the children can travel down Main Street and shop like their parents.

New administrators for the school are Barb Malpass, president; Ruth Gee, vice-president; Donna Drenth, secretary; and Laurie McNeil treasurer.

On October 10 the nursery was inspected by Hobb Ingall of the Michigan Child Welfare Department. "This is perhaps the best cooperative nursery I have seen," Ingall said after the morning session. Since Ingall's job takes him through 400-500 schools, co-op, day care, Head Start, etc., in the U.P. and five counties in northern Michigan, great pride can be taken in the East Jordan community effort and staff as well as children and participating parents teacher Marlynn Hughs said.

The nursery school is planning a fund-raiser for Nov. 23 - a Used Toy Sale at the basement of the Presbyterian Church in East Jordan. On Nov. 18 "The Hungry Cat", a puppet show with craft and music will be presented by Patty Knapp and Carol Spaulding in the Presbyterian Church for donations.

VFW Auxiliary meets

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1153 recently held its business meeting at the post home with president Arlene Staley presiding. Guest of honor were 13th District President Margorie Curtis of Ocquenoc and Michigan and 13th District Junior Vice-President Veth Wohlgemuth of Onaway.

Floor work was performed and inspection of floor work and committee books was judged by President Curtis. Reports of the staff Fall conference or "Pow-Wow" held at Boyne Mountain in September were given by delegates Arlene Staley and Rosalyn Goldstick. They reported that approximately 800 auxiliary members were present and that purchase at the cancer booth netted over $3,000 for research.

Goldstick reported that all auxiliaries may sell buddy poppies at any time of the year rather than confining the sales to Memorial Day weekend. This had been a point of controversy over the state for some time.

Other reports on safety, cancer, rehabilitation, hospital work and the like were given by Curtis and the delegates. The local auxiliary is continuing to collect Glen's green slips to be redeemed for cancer research, plus selling the state auxilairy pins fashioned like a robin for $1.

A committee comprised of Mrs. Albert Russell, Mrs. Joseph Seidel, and Mrs. Goldstick to formulate plans for remodeling the post kitchen. Mrs. Staley reminded all members that dues will be raised $2 per person for 1986 for those who have not paid prior to November 1, 1985. The increase is due to a raise in national and state dues. Members are urged to pay their dues prior to Nov. 1st if they have not already done so to Mrs. Staley or to Mrs. Don White.

The next business meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend.

Preschools

ed their child's early education as a priority item. "Choosing Montessori is a real parental commitment," she said.

Children at Charlevoix Children's House range in age from 2½ to 6 years old. They are directed rather than "taught" Woods says. This means that she and her assistants place things in the child's environment which will stimulate their learning. Children use and learn from materials appropriate for them.

The direction takes place in presenting materials in a sequence of difficulty. Individual and small group demonstrations explain the purpose of new materials, which children may then choose when they are ready to master the given skill. Life experiences such as polishing, washing, ironing and putting things where they belong, are also encouraged with an emphasis placed on self-reliance and independent learning. The atmosphere is peaceful and busy during the time set aside for learning. Group activities, outdoor play in a pleasant, well-equipped yard, songs, stories and movies are all part of the program.

Age of entry into the program depends, according to Woods, on the ability of the child to separate from his parent.

"Children at 2½ are very suited for learning," she explained. "The younger the child, the more they learn."

Ninty-nine percent of Montessori preschoolers stay for the kindergarten level and enter the public school in first grade.

Local fishermen protest County Board action

"The East Jordan weir problem used to be looked upon as an East Jordan problem. Now it is affecting the whole area and it's time we got behind the DNR and worked with them instead of against," Greeley said.

David Hand, president of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, made a statement saying his organization vowed to work in the best interests of the public and felt that a permanent weir at the mouth of the Jordan and a strong trout program upstream would be in everyone's interest.

Harold Pletz, South Arm Township sueprvisor, while saying the Township was not against the weir or against the DNR, it did object because they were not advised of the weir being placed in the Natural River portion of the Jordan, as the rules require. "For two years we authorized the weir north of Rogers Bridge. Now they placed it at the bridge, not following the Township's instructions," he related."

Judy Shea, South Arm Township resident and head of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce, warned that Charlevoix County will get the reputation of being full of obstructive people and will be a county to be avoided by those in charge of government grants and others who could affect the County's economy.

Walter Shapton, retired DNR Regional Director, reminded the group that this is the third year there has been a weir on the Jordan River and questioned why it was being attacked now. He suggested the County check into the law they were citing which requires the DNR to seek its permission for a weir. "That law applies to logs," he said.

Doris Huckle, South Arm resident and member of the Jordnn River Natural River Zoning Board, complimented the County Board for looking into the matter and added, "Let's keep the salmon program in the lake and leave the wild river alone. Get a dam at the mouth of the river and keep it there."

The meeting ended with a plea from the fishmen to the County Board to settle the matter with the DNR as soon as possible.

Charlevoix Yesterday

Charlevoix once boasted of an indoor swimming pool. It was located below the old Inn Hotel near the railroad station on the north side of town. Benona Kohler, long time Charlevoix resident, says she worked there in the late teens. One of her jobs was tossing used bathing suits into fresh water and wringing them out before drying them. "There was no thought of sanitation in those days," she says.

It cost 10 cents to swim in the pool and 25 cents if one took a bath and used a dressing room. The water was heated to 74 degrees.

The card on which the above picture appears was loaned to the Courier by Phil Ohner, who requested we give it to the Charlevoix Historical Society when we are finished with it. On the back of the card is a schedule of Pere Marquette Railroad resorters' trains between Bay View, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and Bellaire, along with fares. The Courier will run this schedule at a later date.

Hospital Guild plans Pre-Christmas Sale

Unique gift items for all ages will be offered for sale this Friday and Saturday, November 1 and 2, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild's annual Pre-Christmas Sale.

The sale will be held in the lobby of the hospital from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days and will include a bake sale with cookies, cakes, breads, candies and other goodies made by Guild volunteers.

"We have made an effort to have a wide variety of items this year," said Marge Dinwiddie, who is organizing the event. "Somebody could probably find a gift at the sale for just about every member of the family."

Several Guild volunteers have been busy in recent weeks buying new merchandise for the sale. Others have been participating in work bees creating such handcrafted items as wild grapevine "kissing rings," Christmas tree ornaments and handsewn products.

According to Dinwiddie, the Guild has tried hard to keep prices on the Christmas sale items as inexpensive as possible.

The Guild has plenty of experience in gift merchandising since it operates the Showcase gift shop in the hospital lobby. Proceeds from both the Showcase shop and this week's Pre-Christmas Sale are eventually donated to the hospital by the Guild which has raised thousands of dollars for new medical equipment, nursing scholarships and other projects. This past summer, $2,000 was handed over to Charlevoix Area Hospital by the Guild.

Michigan Bell grant to area Growth Alliance

Michigan Bell awarded a grant of $4,000 to the Charlevoix Antrim Business and Industrial Growth Alliance to assist the agency's business expansion and retention programs.

Michigan Bell has committed a total of $100,000 for similar grants to all qualified Community Growth Alliances (CGA's) around the state to enhance their data processing capabilities, said John Currie at Michigan Bell.

"With computer capabilities, the Charlevoix Antrim Business and Industrial Growth Alliance will easily be able to develop and store such date as industrial site inventories and industrial relocation prospects, and efficiently exchange data with other CGA's and the Michigan Department of Commerce," Currie said.

CGA's were proposed last year by Governor James Blanchard and now are being formed as "umbrella" agencies to coordinate the activities of local economic development groups in a geographic area, he said.

Guild volunteers working busily on handcrafted items for the Pre-Christmas Sale this Friday and Saturday included, clockwise from front left, Jennie Meyers, Til Willerd, Ginny Schleman, Lorraine Eldredge, Evie Hilligen and Carolyn Klooster.

Thank You

The Volunteer Firemen of Charlevoix wish to take this opportunity to express their deep appreciation of all those residents of this area that made contributions to the FIRE ENGINE FUND.

Now that Engine 85 has been delivered and thoroughly tested it has evoked the admiration and approval of all concerned. Our community can well be proud of this outstanding piece of fire fighting equpment.

Soon to be submitted to the voters of Charlevoix is a request to approve a Bond Issue to provide funds for the construction of a new Public Safety Building to house the City Ambulances, Police Squad Cars and all six pieces of fire fighting equipment. This vital equipment is at present housed in five separate locations.

Appealing to the same generous response that provided the new Fire Engine, the Volunteer Firemen solicit your "YES" vote on the Bond Issue on November 5th. A "YES" vote on this issue will NOT raise your taxes.

Again, our sincere thanks for your continued support.

Bike-A-Thon raises funds for St. Jude Children's Hospital

The Charlevoix Girl Scouts recently sponsored a Bike-A-Thon for the benefit of St. Jude Children's Hospital. The entire community was invited to participate, and the event earned over $500 for the hospital.

Tricycle and bicycle courses were established at the Charlevoix Elementary School for the youngest riders. A trip from the school to Mt. McSauba was made for the 6 to 12 year olds and a trip to Bay Shore was provided for ages 13 to adult.

Carolyn Beer was awarded the grand prize - a ten-speed bicycle - for earning the most money for St. Jude. The bicycle was donated by LexaLite International Corp. and Dave Hand of Bridge Street Hardware. First and second place prizes were given to the winners of each age category. These participants logged the most miles for their division. Stop watches were given by Sears of Charlevoix and savings accounts of $20 were donated by Michigan National Bank, Pizza Hut, Village Inn Pizza, McDonalds and the Charlevoix Area Girls Scouts.

Other winners were: Julie Crandell and Melissa Eaton - age 9 to 12; Brad Eaton, Jennifer Schaefer, Bethany Martinus and Carie Prevo - age 6 to 8; and Amanda Eaton - tricycle age to 5.

Tom Merta, widely known in advertising and public relations fields in the area, has accepted a position with The 1411 Company, an electronic Yellow Pages operation utilizing computers and the services of telephone operators.

In the new position, Merta will be in charge of marketing and public relations for the firm's Houston headquarters.

"It's an entirely new concept of the Yellow Pages...a combination of Yellow Pages and operator assistance," Merta explained. "When using the Yellow Pages, your fingers do the walking. Under the 1411 concept, you, as the customer dial 1411 and advise an operator of your need and she checks her data base on the computer at her fingertips and comes up with the answer to your problem.

"For instance, you have locked yourself out of your car in a parking lot and you need a locksmith. You dial 1411, the operator who answers asks you your need, finds locksmiths among the 6,000 catagories listed on her computer, asks you the first three digits of the phone number you are calling from and gives you the names of as many as four locksmiths located in that area, their hours of operation and if they accept the credit card you plan to use... at no expense to you and at less cost to the advertiser than that of the Yellow Pages in the telephone directory.

"In addition, the advertiser can make changes in his ad within a 24-hour period if he should choose," Merta continued.

The 1411 Company is presently headquarted in Houston, Texas, a city with a 1.7 million population chosen as a target area because it has the most expensive Yellow Pages advertising rates in the country. Plans call for The 1411 Company to expand its operation to Denver, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Los Angeles and, eventually, to all major cities in the United States.

The 1411 Company is the brain child of Edward J. Guinan, New York-born president of the company, who founded the firm last November and went public on October 1 of this yar. It was capitalized at $14 million. Over $2 million has already been spent on advertising plus the cost of computer hardware and software. Since the new year, the staff has grown from 70 to nearly 270 including 150 operators and 55 ad salesmen. As the compnay expands and employs more personnel Merta will train and advise them.

Tom Merta

"It's exciting. It's challenging. It is giving me an opportunity to utilize the expertise I have acquired in the fields of advertising and public relations through the years," Merta said with great enthusiasm.

"One of the good things about it is the fact that we can continue to live in Charlevoix where we want to live. That's a bonus," he added.

Merta is no stranger to the area. Prior to joining Consumer Preferred 10 years ago and expanding his territory to the Midwest, he was associated with Village Graphics in Petoskey, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and the Otsego County Herald Times. Earlier he was with the advertising division of Courier Publishing in the Detroit area and the Petoskey News Review. A graduate of Northwood Institute, he attended North Central Michigan College and the Sorbonne in Paris.

He and his wife, Jacque, have one son, Tom, 14.

Holiday fragrances explored at McCune

Aromatic balsam, fragrant cinnamon, spicy clove are the fragrances of the holiday season - fragrances that pot pourri artist Mary Lee Huber will share during a workshop at the McCune Arts Center Saturday, Nov. 2, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Huber, who has a garden and sales shop at her Charlevoix County home, became interested in natural fragrances as an outgrowth of her herb gardening hobby. Her hobby became a business, known as Wintergreen Herb Farms, when her son was born. Now Huber's sachets, herbal wreaths, pot pourri and pressed flower notecards provide her with a successful home-based industry.

This will be the third workshop Huber has conducted at the McCune Arts Center, teaching an ancient old world art that originated in Egypt and Babylon. Students bring a large mixing bowl and a covered jar, and Huber provides the floral and herbal material, fragrance oils, and instructions so participants can make two sachets and a quantity of loose pot pourri to take home.

Cost of the 90 minute workshop is $25, payable in advance. Registration is due by Wednesday, Oct. 30. For information, phone the Arts Center at 347-4337.

Little Halloween creatures may safely clown around and otherwise delight their neighbors but they are advised to follow a few safety rules to avoid injury. Face makeup rather than masks and, bright costumes make youngsters highly visible to motorists.

Trick-or-treeters also are advised to wear costumes short enough to prevent tripping, carry flashlights, cross streets at corners and look all ways before stepping off curbs. Youngsters should keep to well-lighted streets and walk facing traffic if there is no sidewalk. All treats should be checked before children get them.

Home prices compared

A typical three-bedroom, two-bath home in Charlevoix is valued at approximately $67,500 compared to $90,000 for a similar home in Detroit, according to William Carey, manager of the Coldwell Banker Schmidt Realtors in Charlevoix.

That typical house in Charlevoix is valued at $325,000 in San Francisco and $217,000 in suburban New York City.

The price comparison information came from the recently published Home Price Comparison Index by Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage. Local home price information was provided by the Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage Services Division and Nationwide Relocation Services, a wholly owned division of Coldwell Banker Residential Group.

This new national survey of residential real estate shows that the long-depressed home values in the Northeast are rebounding.

The survey for the first half of 1985 shows resale home prices in the 13-state region have risen at a rate of 4.8 percent from the last half of 1984.

The 13 states in this survey are: Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Home Price Comparison Index, which Coldwell Banker has published since 1978, seeks to report average prices for a typical 2,000 square foot, three-bedroom, two-bath home with a dining area, family room and, if applicable, basement and attached two-car garage. The HPCI surveys homes in 140 cities and communities.

Coldwell Banker residential brokers coast-to-coast report the price of this home in a neighborhood they judge to be above average to prime. Coldwell Banker is the nation's oldest and largest full service real estate company and is a member of the Sears Financial Network.

Appreciation in the South, Midwest and West also is showing gains over the last two, six-month survey periods. However, just as the average appreciation rate in the Northeast has increased due to sharp jumps in value in a few states, the regional average appreciation rate in the Western 13 states had been adversely affected by the troubled economies of Washington and Oregon, Hanauer said.

"We have reason to suspect, too, that what has been reported widely as an oversupply of condominiums may have slowed appreciation rates in the South and West where condominium development has been extremely active in the last few years," Hanauer said.

Another in a series of informational messages concerning your phone service.

We're trying to make things simple for you again.

Starting with your new phone bill.

When all those changes happened in the telephone business a while back, some things got more complicated. Including your phone bill. Ever since, we've been looking for ways to simplify it, so it's easier to read and understand. And after a lot of research and listening hard to customers like you, we think we've done it.

For starters, we've cut out some duplication, so the new bill you'll be getting could have as few as three or four pages.

From now on, you'll just mail in the Payment Page with your payment. The Payment Page is the top page of your bill. We've done away with the computer card you used to have to send in. (If you pay in person, you should bring the whole bill with you.) The Total Amount Due will be easy to find because it's shaded in a box on the Payment Page.

You'll find the new appearance and wording of the hill help make it a whole lot easier to understand.

We think you'll agree that a confusing phone bill is just one more little problem none of us wants to muddle through. That's why we hope our new shorter version will be easier for you.

Charlevoix hospital staff, doctors march in Lansing protest

Among the estimated 8,000 doctors and other health care professionals who attend the rally for reform of the medical malpractice liability laws in Lansing Oct. 22 was a sizeable contingent from Charlevoix. Shown above in the march from the Lansing Civic Center to the State Copitol are, in the foreground left to right, Charlevoix Area Hospital Staff members Joan Bolser, chief of medical records, Diane Novotny, personnel coordinator, and Richard Krueger, administrator.

Also attending the rally were Drs. Merle Plagge, Dennis Joy, William Mosher, Reed Freidinger, Mitchell Carey, Loyal Jodar, and Joseph Hance, all of the Charlevoix Area Hospital medical staff; Mary Ann Cox, director of nursing, Robert Gorkiewicz, head of the physical therapy department, John Frey, vice president of the hospital's board of directors and Dave Knight, director of community relations.

Participants in the rally gathered for speeches at the Civic Center then marched to the east steps of Capitol Building where several more speakers appeared including Governor James Blanchard and members of the State Legislature. Both Blanchard and the legislative leadership who spoke promised swift action on the malpractice liability crisis which threatens to curtail the availability of many medical services across the state as a growing number of doctors and hospitals face huge insurance cost increases.

Charlevoix Health cara professionals were among the 8,000 who participated in a recent Lansing rally for medical malpractice liability reform.

Lake levels high

DETROIT - The elevation for Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of September was about 7 inches above what it was one year ago and the same as one month ago.

The end of September level of the two lakes was at 580.56 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The September monthly mean level was about 25 inches above the long-term average and about 1 inch below the all-time monthly mean high for September, which was set in 1952. September was about 57 inches above the all-time low September monthly mean set in 1964.

For mariners, the end of September level was 45 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron shows that the lakes are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of October, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 3 inches below what they were at the end of September. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into February.

At the end of March 1986, the lakes are expected to be about the same as what they were in March 1986. The March mean would be above the long-term average for that month and about the same as the all-time high mean for March set in 1973.

Hospice says, 'Make My Day'

By decree of Congress, November is National Hospice Month and the Charlevoix County Hospice is marking the observance with a unique fundraiser entitled "Come On...Make My Day."

This special program for women featuring health, beauty and fashion presentations will be held Saturday, November 9 from noon to 4 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, 104 State St. in Charlevoix.

Tickets for the event are $10 each. According to event chairman Joan Strawbridge, all goods and services for "Come On...Make My Day" have been donated so 100 percent of the ticket proceeds will be turned over to the Charlevoix County Hospice.

The hospice provides support and care for Charlevoix County residents in the final phase of an incurable disease so they may live as fully and comfortably as possible.

Among the activities planned for the November 9 program are the following:

Light lunch provided by Oleson's Food Store.

Style show with models and fashions from the Bahnhof.

Exercise demonstration by the Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center including pre-ski season tips.

Demonstration haircut and hair care advice from the Head Shop.

Make-up demonstration on an audience member by Elizabeth of Merle Norman.

Special presentation on color coordination by Color Me Beautiful of Traverse City.

Door prizes from the Channel Marker Shop of Charlevoix and the Strawberrie Mogul of Boyne City.

Strawbridge emphasized that ticket purchases for "Come On...Make My Day" are tax deductible and are limited so those interested should buy their tickets early. Tickets may be purchased from any Hospice board member or by calling the Hospice office at 536-2842.

November is a significant month for the hospice concept because it marks the second anniversary of the Medicare hospice option, making hospice a viable alternative to traditional acute care for many elderly individuals.

Since its establishment three years ago, Charlevoix County Hospice has proven to be an excellent way for area patients and their families to cope with the stress of terminal illness.

Probert, Timms, Muma elected fire hall bond issue passes

City voters elected Norman Probert as a new councilman in the First Ward on Tuesday and returned incumbents Robert Timms and F. Earl Muma in the Second and Third Wards, respectively.

Voters also approved the $390,000 bond issue for the construction of a new fire hall by a 442 to 354 margin.

Arlene Staley, running unopposed for City Clerk, received 694 votes of the 817 cast in the election. She has been serving as City Clerk since May after being appointed to fill a vacancy.

Probert, 48, defeated incumbent Michael Greeley in the First Ward. Probert was the leading vote getter in the election with 230 votes. Greeley received 99.

It is the first election to public office for the schoolteacher. "I am very pleased," Probert said afterward. He said he his primary objective would be to "try to keep the cost down in city government."

Probert was especially pleased with the approval of the fire hall, or public safety building. He has favored the downtown site for the building and will be meeting with officials in the near future to study the issue closely.

"I think for the future of our city the approval of the public safety building was very important," he said.

Robert Timms defeated William Russell by a 126 to 77 margin in the Second Ward. Timms, 51, has served on council for some 10 years.

In the Third Ward, F. Earl Muma was returned to council in a three-way race. Muma received 137 votes

Charlevoix United Way Reaches Out

The annual United Way of Charlevoix campaign is entering its final stages. The support of Charlevoixans is of critical importance in the two or three weeks remaining in the fund drive.

Last year United Way supported 14 agencies whose work reached hundreds of individuals. Agencies range from the American Red Cross to Camp Daggett to Volunteers in Probation.

Ultimately, support for United Way is support for individuals in need of help or assistance. In the next two issues of the Charlevoix Courier we will publish articles dealing with some of those people.

This week's article profiles Nancy LaCroix who has benefited enormously from the CHIP Counseling Center, a United Way agency. CHIP has not only provided individual counseling, but hopes to establish a group through which handicapped individuals can explore their own personal growth. - Editor.

Robbery suspect is arraigned

Charlevoix city police arrested a suspect Friday in the Oct. 18 armed robbery of the Charlevoix County State Bank branch office.

Charles Francis Bennett, 46, of East Jordan was arraigned on Tuesday in 90th District Court on charges of bank robbery and the commission of a felony with a firearm. He is being held in the Charlevoix County jail in lieu of $100,000 cash bond.

Nearly $20,000 in cash was taken from the Charlevoix County State Bank branch located at M-66 and Stover Road by a man wearing a ski mask and carrying a sawed-off shotgun.

The robbery was similar to several other armed bank robberies in northern Michigan in recent months. Those thefts are currently under investigation.

City Police Chief Jack Mol said that Bennett was known to be the owner of a black 1981 Kawasaki 750 motorcycle found in a remote area near Ferry Road and the railroad grade the day of the robbery.

Mol said the arrest of Bennett was the result of a joint investigation by Charlevoix police, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, Michigan State Police, East Jordan Police and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Council debates tax abatements

Charlevoix City Council deferred action Monday on a request for a 12-year commercial tax abatement for the renovated See Building at 411 Bridge Street.

The request was submitted by Daniel Barron, attorney for Paul Bandrowski owner of the building. Bandrowski is in the process of a $250,000 renovation of the building to house his Villager Candies business on the first floor and an apartment and office space on the second story.

Council adjoorned the public hearing on the matter to Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. so that it could study further the issue of whether to allow commercial tax abatements in the downtown area.

A commercial tax abatement would allow up to 50 percent of the improved value of a property to be waived. It would not effect the existing tax on the property.

Councilman Earl Muma questioned the loss of tax dollars to the Downtown Development Authority if the city were to begin allowing commercial tax abatements in the district.

Several councilmen said they did not approve of allowing tax abatements for one business prior to establishing comprehensive guidelines.

Councilman Michael Greeley questioned the need for commercial tax abatements in Charlevoix. Unlike industrial tax incentives, Greeley said, most commercial business would choose to locate here regardless of whether or not they were offered the abatements.

In other action, City Council agreed to waive the 1½ percent per month interest penalty on unpaid miscellaneaous accounts.

City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese told council that by law the city could not charge more than 7 percent per year on such non-utility accounts.

School Board ok's millage

A resolution authorizing the levying of 1.25 mills approved in the June election was approved by the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night.

The Truth in Taxation hearing, as required by statute, was held earlier. The 1.25 mills was approved to underwrite the cost of a new roof, insulation and a new heating plant at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

A struggle for life ... and inner growth

by DOUG TRUAX

Nancy LaCroix knows that every time she gets out of bed she may be shortening her life.

She has accepted that reality and has made up her mind, "to live deliberately." But each time she gets out of bed, she says, "I have to be able to say it was worth it."

Nancy knows a thing or two about fighting the odds. She was born with severe spina bifida, a congentital spine disease, that left her paralyzed and malformed at birth. The doctors did not expect her to live 24 hours.

Today, at age 27, she is bright, well-spoken, and facing an even greater challenge. Six years ago she developed a pressure sore, a breakdown of the tissues in the paralyzed part of her body.

This innocent sounding side effect of her condition now threatens her life. The sore has grown larger and larger. Seventeen operations involving skin flaps and grafts have failed to correct it. Now the doctor tells Nancy the condition is inoperable – that the only assurance of it not breaking open again is for her to stay in bed. If the sore reopens it will eventually kill her, he says.

So Nancy must measure out her hours outside the bed, carefully choosing the minutes in the hope they will be worth the eventual sacrifice. Ironically, the wheelchair, that has isolated her for all of her life, is now her only freedom.

"All I want to do is get in that wheelchair...and I can't."

But Nancy has made up her mind to live as much as she reasonably can. "I have decided I will not remain in bed the rest of my life," she says.

She hopes to accomplish something with her time and what she dreams of most is establishing a group of handicapped people in the area who would meet regularly to share feelings and emotions about their limiting conditions.

With the help of Pat Gaskin, counselor at the CHIP Counseling Center, Nancy hopes to make this a reality soon with a group called "Coping with Limitations" which would meet at the East Jordan Family Health Center (see accompanying story for details).

Nancy believes the group could do much to drive away the isolation that haunts so many handicapped people. "We would be united so we don't have the feeling of 'I'm the only one'.

"I have always felt there was a reason for my being born the way I was...that something good would come from this."

She hopes a group for other handicapped people would achieve that goal.

"Handicapped people don't have the self-esteem to confront able bodied people like they would like to," Nancy says. "They think because the chair is made of steel, so am I."

She believes it is important to break through the isolation and for handicapped people to make their feelings known. "If we give people the impression that everything is all right, then they won't be compelled to change anything. Things are not fine and dandy, even though people want to believe everything is all right."

Nancy believes there are enough people in the area to benefit from a group experience. Her one worry is that they will not respond for fear of being disappointed. "Handicapped people may read that and say 'that will be kind of neat, but it won't last.' I would have the same feeling if I read it. At least two out of five things I become involved in become disappointments."

Nancy's biggest disappointment has been her dream of going to college. In high school the idea was never mentioned, most likely with the expectation that she could not do it. Two years out of high school, however, Nancy began to think about advanced education and eventually enrolled in North Central Michigan College. She hoped to major in psychology and go into counseling.

"I loved it," she says, "when I'm

United Way drive goes past halfway mark

The United Way of Charlevoix has received $22,400 in gifts and pledges toward its $30,000 goal, Darrel Linder told the group's board on Monday, Oct. 28.

The house-to-house canvass headed by Nancy Porter totals $6,218, an amount equal to 21 percent of the goal. This is the first division of the drive to be completed.

Pauline Austin reported $480 received to date from the Education Division. Partial reports have been given by Bob Schofield for the Marine Services Division, Max Hosmer of the Industrial Division, Mike Wiesner of City Government, Jane Brannon for County Government, Steve Andreac of the Realtor Division, Harold Smith for Financial Services Division, and Jeff Van Treese for Attorneys.

John Kurtz, division leader for Retail-Commercial area, reported over $1,000 with only 25 percent fo the canvass completed. Several thousand dollars have been received in Special Gifts with Bruce MacArthur as leader.

The next report meeting will be held November 5. It is hoped the campaign can be finished by November 15.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The above pictura shows the combined kindergarten and first grade classes of the Lincoln School, which was located on the present site of the American Legion Hall. The picture was probably taken in the spring of 1926, when the teacher was Lillian Kay, later Mrs. C. Donald Swinton.

Mrs. M. F. Olmstead, who furnished us with the picture, has identified as many students as she could:

Back row: Unidentified; Leonard Oliver, Carroll Webster, next three not identified; teacher Lillian Kay; last two not identified.

Third row: Bill Edwards; Doris Herrington; William "Bus" Gebeau; unidentified; Pauline Herrington (blurred); Mildren Sharrow; Ilo Bassett; Leila Nowland.

Second row: Unidentified; Clarence Goldstick; Harley Sutton; Charles Scott; Ted Ager; Charles Hendrickson; Sylvia Krchak; Mildred Withers; Mignonette Do.

Mrs. Olmstead (the former Anna Higman) would be happy to have someone identify those not named.

Radio Shack opens Charlevoix store

After operating a Radio Shack in Petoskey for 10 years, Bob and Bonnie Lenhart have opened another store in Charlevoix, where they and their family live.

Following two weeks of "Grand Opening", Bonnie reports the Charlevoix store has been "well received".

One of the reasons the Lenharts opened the Charlevoix store, according to Bonnie, is that they feel Charlevoix needs more year-round stores.

"It's important for Charlevoix to have a store like this," she says. "For the last 10 years, we have been making home deliveries to our Charlevoix customers who knew we lived here. Now they can get what they want right here."

The Radio Shack has been a family business for the Lenharts ever since they started it. Their five children have had a part in the enterprise from time to time for the last 10 years. The "children", most of them now grown, are Jean McDonough, Debbie Marsh, Larry, Mary, and Steven, and "almost five" grandchildren. They all make their homes in Charlevoix. Mary is a student of nursing at the University of Michigan, and Steven is a junior at Charlevoix High School.

The biggest-selling items in their stock, Bonnie says, are telephones and computers. The line of telephones runs from those encased in plush animals to elaborate "gold" models, and there are computers for all needs and pocketbooks.

Radio Shack sells a wide variety of other electronic items, too – tape decks, stereos, radios, television sets, short wave radios, scanners, recorders, toys, calculators, to name a few, and there are accessories to go with most of them.

The Lenharts hope that their Charlevoix neighbors will find many Christmas gifts in their new store.

Rosemary Baxter bolts out a song in 218 Bridge Street's musical review.

Gay 90's held over

The "Held Over" signs are going up at 218 Bridge St. Theatre in Charlevoix.

"The Gay 90's: a Musical Review" - a revival of the spirit of vaudeville - will be held for one more weekend, through November 10.

"The Gay 90's" was originally scheduled to run through November [illegible], but was held over by Tom Warth, 218 Bridge St.'s owner, because it was so well received.

"The Gay 90's" is a musical review reminiscent of the combination of song-and-dance routines, fast paced jokes and melodrama popular at the turn of the century. The three Pritchard Productions actors, all professionals, Paul Gregory Nelson, Mark Korres and Rosemary Baxter, have received enthusiastic responses from their audiences.

The actors draw the audience into their acts to boo villians, moan at ridiculous one-liners, cheer the dashing heros, and laugh and sing throughout the delightful evening.

"The Gay 90's" will be followed by a Christmas Musical Show, a "sizzling" New Year's production, Neil Simon's "I Ought to be in Pictures" in early January, and the season closer "The Great American Backstage Musical" in February.

Dinner and show time are 6 p.m. Thursday, 6:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 4:30 p.m. Sunday. For reservations and more information, including season tickets, call 218 Bridge St., Charlevoix, (616) 547-4425.

County oks weir

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week went on record with a resolution stating they believed the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) "acted in good faith" when it installed a salmon weir on the Jordan River this fall and did not "deliberately intend to circumvent the Board's authority".

However, the County Board stated further that the DNR "has agreed in the future to include the Board of Commissioners in decisions involving County waterways in order to eliminate any possible questions about the legality of their actions, to promote effective law enforcement on the waterways, and to enhance a good working relationship with the Board".

The resolution concluded with the statement, "the Board of Commissioners re-affirms its general support for the DNR's salmon planting program and will seek to cooperate with the Department in any way that promotes the program while at the same time assures statutory compliance and protection of the rights and legal interests of the County and its residents".

The resolution followed a meeting held earlier in the week by three County Commissioners -- Lee Moerland, Larry Matthew, and Tom Breakey -- with Jerry Manz of the DNR's Roscommon office. The meeting was held to discuss a letter from County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman, written at the request of the County Board, asking under what authority the weir had been placed and citing a law which the County interpreted to mean the DNR must obtain permission from the County before placing such a weir.

The DNR replied that it did not believe the cited rules applied to the Jordan River weir and therefore they proceeded without the County's permission.

The County Board's resolution brought mixed reactions from the audience of fishermen and others.

Randy Whitten a Jordan River fisherman from South Arm Township, asked County Board Chairman Moerland if the resolution meant that the Board supported the DNR's method of harvesting salmon. (The salmon taken from the weir are sold to Tempo Tech, Inc., a commercial fish processing company for two-and-a-half cents a pound).

Moerland replied that he understood the DNR was not completely happy with the procedure and that the engineering needs improving. He also said the County Board plans to ask the DNR about its long-range plans for Charlevoix County.

County Commissioner Ralph Harmon, although voting for the resolution, stated that he did not think the river should be closed to fishing from its mouth to the weir when the weir is in place.

Former County Commissioner Cass Toton of Boyne City questioned the right of the DNR to sell to a private company fish which have been bought, raised, and planted with public funds.

Jim Withers, Charlevoix commercial fisherman, expressed his support of the DNR and its work and wanted to make sure the County Board was not criticizing the Department.

The weir has now been removed for the season, so the Jordan River is open to fishing from its mouth to Grave's Crossing.

Nancy LaCroix

up there every faculty member is my friend. I've never felt so accepted."

She was able to attend for a while with rides from a relative. When that person dropped out, she was forced to as well. Each semester the college would give her a list of people attending from the area. Each semester she would go through the list looking for a partner to ride with. When she nonchalantly mentioned her wheelchair, the reaction was always the same...an excuse, a polite brush off.

Her medical condition now makes that dream even less realistic. But she is seeking no pity. Nancy hopes now to study journalism and get involved in using her interest in psychology to write about people.

In some ways Nancy's life was reaching a nadir during last winter. She had undergone a steady sequence of surgery after her pressure sore intensified and spread. She was still recovering from anorexia nervosa, a condition resulting in severe weight loss, that had made the sore worse.

She would be in the hospital for six or eight weeks for an operation on the sore and out for a similar period. Then she would be back in the hospital again.

"I would come home from the hospital and go into the most severe depressions," she recalls. "I'd have no ambition and would lay there and let the days come and go. I just became a nonperson."

In February, after a series of hospitalizations, she decided to return to the CHIP Counseling Center. She began seeing Pat Gaskin.

"I bless that February day I went to see Pat," she recalls. "She has seen me through this and has given me more support than any other human being has ever in my life."

This time, Nancy says, her return from the hospital has been different, despite the gravity of her situation. "I haven't experienced the depression. I have been able to keep contact with things. I know that I'm not going through this alone."

And now she hopes that a group will help further to chisel away at the isolation and insecurity she and others have faced as a handicapped persons.

Coping with limitations

by NANCY LACROIX

Living and coping in our world has become an ever increasing challenge for almost everyone. This is especially true if you happen to be one of the many people who have a physical or emotional limiting condition.

The daily struggle for handicapped individuals can be very difficult to cope with over a long period of time. Very often when a person has a condition that limits their ability to function normally, their opportunity to interact in the community is also limited.

The person can begin to feel isolated, separated from the world around them. When this occurs it is easy for him to feel like the only one experiencing this feeling.

The truth is that such people are not alone.

That is why a group is being formed in northern Michigan exclusively with the needs of the handicapped in mind. The group is called Coping with Limitations and is sponsored by CHIP Counseling Center of Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmet counties.

It is open to anyone who has a physical or emotional limiting condition. The coordiantor for the group is Patricia Gaskin, a counselor at CHIP.

The focus of the group will be to offer support and guidance for personal growth and will address itself to the many concerns of handicapped individuals.

The potential for what the group can offer is limited only by what each member can offer it, which is truly without limit.

The one thing that each of us can do no matter how limited we might be in body or mind is to share what we are with others, and when we do we usually are surprised to find that there is more to us than we once thought.

The Coping with Limitations group will meet at the East Jordan Family Health Center. The meetings are tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 12, from 3:30-5 p.m. The group will start with a series of six weekly meetings, after which members will decide where they want to take it.

If you are interested in joining the Coping with Limitations group, please call me at 536-2168. We need to hear from you as soon as possible.

Couple to form epilepsy support group

Plans have been announced for the formation of a support group for epileptics and their families from the Charlevoix and Emmet County area.

The first official meeting of the group will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 13 in the Conference Room of Charlevoix Area Hospital. The group will meet next on the following Wednesday, Nov. 20, at the same time and place.

Bob and Shelley Mackowiack of Charlevoix are organizing the effort which they say will give local people with epilepsy and their families an opportunity to share information on coping with the disease and the atitudes of people toward it.

Bob Mackowiack, 30, was diagnosed as an epileptic when he was 3 years old. He and his wife Shelley have worked with the Epileptic Center in Detroit to accumulate many resources available to epileptics and have now expressed interest in sharing their knowledge, as well as their personal experiences, with other families.

Tentative plans are to eventually establish support groups in each of the major communities of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. Initially, however, meetings will be held twice monthly at Charlevoix Area Hospital and will also be open to people suffering with other convulsive disorders similar to epilepsy.

Anyone wishing more information about the epilepsy support group or who would like assistance with transportation to the meetings is asked to call Mackowiacks at 547-2323 after 5 p.m.

Letters to the Editor:

KCB defends efforts

A recent Courier editorial has been critical of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. for not taking a stand on contour golf/mini-amusement park issue.

KCB, Inc. representatives attend nearly all city council and planning meetings plus a few in Charlevoix Township. Part of the purpose of our organization is "to support planning for orderly growth and to maintain and enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix."

When KCB, Inc., without benefit of all the information officials seem to have, is faced with something the first go-round, it usually doesn't take a position unless the proposal is clearly in violation of the master plan or is rezoning that results in an unfavorable trend. It does, however, try to raise questions not already asked by officials and make suggestions.

In the case of the adventure golf projects; upon learning that the city could not legally deny this use there was little KCB could say other than urge the Council to require restoration of the property if the business closed down. After all, the entrances to Charlevoix establish first impressions for visitors. However, though acceptable to the applicant, this suggestion wasn't incorporated into the motion.

The scale of the Edgewater Inn project on the site of the Finn Lumber Company was repeatedly questioned. Since neither the planning commission nor the Council was inclined to reduce it, it was then suggested large trees be required to soften the visual impact of the Inn (brace yourself, this is gonna be big). Once again the developer was agreeable but this suggestion too wasn't made part of the conditions for site plan approval.

The Council, however, has been more responsive to their constituents who have made it overwhelmingly clear they want commercial signs to be discreet, preferably made of wood and no interior lighting.

Yet more could be done because gaudy signs, pennants and billboard-like cola trucks and machines continue. We understand the city planner is working on these problems.

A lot of interested citizens attended a series of workshops several years ago to help design the master plan and it was clear they wanted Charlevoix to remain a lovely resort town and not a tourist mecca. This goal must remain in mind when decisions are made about Charlevoix.

We have a couple of suggestions.

The City Council should consider at their weekend retreat a more vigorous strategy for cooperation with Charlevoix Township. This might prevent costly duplication of services and solve mutual problems.

The Courier should print each month a schedule of public meetings in the area. This might encourage more public participation at these meetings. For example, the site plan for at least one of the miniature golf courses will be heard at the City Planning Commission, Nov. 25 at 5:30 p.m. at city hall.

Anyone interested in serving a political liaison committee of K.C.B. Inc. should contact Patsy Ranger 547-4293.

Devil's Night shenanigans

By Bob Clock

If all of the perfectly good eggs smashed against cars, homes and business places in Charlevoix on Devil's Night could have been packaged and sent to Ethiopia, hunger in that beleaguered country could have been substantially alleviated — at least for a day.

As a child of the Depression, I hate to see good food go to waste.

And to waste eggs in the name of mischief is the next thing to a sacrilege.

If your car got "egged," I hope you washed away the residue posthaste. There is something in an egg yoke —probably sulfur — that can peel the paint off a car if it is not removed pronto.

There must be a great deal of satisfaction in heaving eggs, judging from the proliferation of this particular Halloween pastime.

Maybe I should try it before I knock it.

IT ISN'T EASY for adults to criticize Devil's Night shenanigans, particularly when you consider some of the trickery we were involved in when we were kids. And it wasn't confined to a single night, either. We had Doorbell Night and Window Soaping Night and Garbage Night — all agreed upon in advance by young neighborhood hoodlums.

We also used to stick threaded needles in window frames and then run and hide. When you ran the thread between your fingers the needle would vibrate against the glass, driving the old lady inside up a wall.

But we didn't destroy food, heaven forbid!

SOME PEOPLE NEVER Learn Department:

I find it difficult to believe that dogooders have talked the record industry into labeling sexually explicit songs as well as others that have to do with drugs and violence.

Thanks to the labels, persons interested in explicit sex, drugs and violence will no longer have to wade through a lot of garbage to find what they are looking for.

For many years, the same dogooders used to publish lists of books deemed injurious to morals. One of the most popular lists was published in Boston and any book "banned in Boston" was an immediate best-seller.

Some rather mediocre authors rose to unexpected heights of popularity because their works were singled out as trash.

I am afraid record labeling will have the same effect.

Fortunately, most of today's recording "artists" have never had elocution lessons and their diction is so fuzzy I can only guess what they are singing about. They might as well be chanting in Sanskrit for all I know.

Sometimes I am caught up short by what I think I hear, but I am never sure. Since I seldom hear the song again, the lyrics must remain one of life's little imponderables.

Chamber Chatter

by CLAUDIA KENIFECK
Executive Director

Thank you to all who took the time to answer the Chamber survey.

The Chamber staff has tabulated all the survey forms returned to date. Out of 185 members, 35 responded. Though that doesn't sound like much, it equates to 19 percent of the membership. Not bad. In fact, one individual taped a nickel to the form and wrote "a nickel for some involvement", and another sent a dime back with the comment, "It was worth it to have the opportunity to express my opinions."

Of those who responded, the most representation came from the real estate-professional-retail groups, respectively.

Though 71 percent of the members felt they had been given sufficient opportunity to become involved in Chamber acticities, 66 percent of those who responded admitted they were "not very active" in Chamber participation.

When asked, "How do you feel about Charlevoix's growth?" 49 percent said "about right". 23 percent replied "too fast" and 17 percent responded "too slow." The others "didn't know."

The survey revealed that 89 percent of those replying feel the Chamber, its newsletter, and staff are doing an excellent job.

An overwhelming 83 percent feel the Chamber membership investment is "about right."

When the question was asked if you would "support a financial contribution to the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance", 46 percent "didn't know," 40 percent said "no".

Tourism and Convention Development ranked number 1 in importance in the results. Placing second was Industrial Development, which also tied for third with Total Community Marketing. Bringing up the list were Small Business Assistance as fourth most important, followed by Legislative Affairs - Political Action.

In response to "Do you believe the Chamber should be actively involved in local political issues", 44 percent said "yes", 37 percent said "no", and the rest "didn't know."

With 46 percent ranking Tourism number 1 in importance, it is interesting that 41 percent said they would support a Tourism and Convention Bureau while, not far behind, 38 percent said "no," and the rest "didn't know."

When asked what the number 1 problem facing our community is, the answers were so widely varied, it is almost impossible to accurately zero in on one issue. Here are just a few of the topics, in no special order, which the membership is most concerned about:

–uncontrolled growth

–anti-growth attitudes of minority groups, which translates into anti-business for other Chamber members

–greed and very poor city planning

–lack of year-round business

–parking

–need more light industry

–traffic flow

–protect lakefronts

–other environmental concerns

Complete survey results are available at the Chamber office. If you would be interested in a copy, please give us a coll or stop by.

to 70 votes for his opponeot Paul Burlew. Thomas Black, running as a write-in candidate, picked up 53 votes. It was Burlew's fourth try for council.

The fire hall bond issue was closely contested in all of the city's wards. It passed 194 to 132 in the First Ward and 149 to 107 in the Third. Voters in the Second Ward voted 115 against the bond to 99 for it.

The city will now have to address the question of the location for the public safety building, as several council members have expressed dissatisfaction with the cost estimates submitted by the Mayor's ad hoc fire hall committee. They say they will press council for consideration of a new design and cost estimates for a building to be located at the airport.

Staley received strong support in all three wards, receiving 282 votes in the First, 186 in the Second, and 226 in the Third.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Renaud

Rogers - Renaud

Victoria Rogers and Jeffery Renaud were married October 19 at Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rogers of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Renaud, also of Charlevoix.

Father Gary Heniser officiated at the double-ring rites, during which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza and Chantilly lace. The bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline accented by silk Venise lace, long full leeves with lace flounced cuffs, and Chantilly lace trimmed hemline and train.

The bride's bouquet was an arrangement of white and pink roses and azaleas. The flowers were made by the bride and arranged by Dottie Sanders.

Debbie Rogers served her sister as maid of honor, and Kari Curtis, sister of the bridegroom, and Julie Schaberg, another sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of cerise pink taffeta with off-the-shoulder bodice and ruffled back brush train. They carried bouquets of pink and white roses, azaleas, and wedding stars.

Shelly Schaberg, niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore a dress matching those of the bridesmaids.

Gary Way served as best man, and Casey Curtis and Doug Frye were groomsmen. Kevin Schaberg, nephew of the bride was the bringbearer, and Mark Schaberg, brother-in-law of the bride, and Tony Wojan, uncle of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. John Lignell, organist, and Mrs. Paul Knapp, vocalist.

A reception, hosted by the bride and bridegroom, was held at the Charlevoix Yacht Club following the ceremony. Laura Baldwin and Tammy Ebach served the cake, and Chris Reede attended the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Ricciardi's Inn, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a short wedding trip, the newlyweds are at home on Cedarview Road in Charlevoix. The bridegroom is employed by the Lexalite Company, and the bride by Tom's Cafe.

Rayder harriers take second in state meet

by FRAN MARTIN

The Rayder harriers have done it again! The Charlevoix runners have shown they are among the class teams in the state by finishing as runners-up in Class C competition four points behind first place Benzie Central in the state meet at Cass City Saturday.

Charleviox had 91 points while Benzle had 87. Mason County Central who nosed out Charlevoix to finish in second place in 1984 finished in third place this year with 117 points.

"We set some goals early in the season. We worked hard to meet them and we almost did. On paper we shouldn't be where we are. I congratulate the kids," Coach Pete Spieles said Sunday of his team's performance.

This marked the team's ninth appearance in state competition. The team has never finished below third place in the past four years and in 1982 and 1983 won the state title.

Two Charlevoix runners also won berths on the All-State Class C team - Doug Bergmann who placed seventh overall with a time of 16:36.7 and Pat Rajewski, 12th in a time of 16:45.5.

Mike Dohm came in 19th in a time of 17:06.7; Joe Simpson, 26th in 17:14.9; Kevin McLenon, 27th in 17:17.0; Tom Merta, 34th in 17:23.5 and Sean Henne, 68th in 17:59.3. The winning time was 15:52.0.

Betsy Haggard who ran in the individual girls division placed 22nd in a time of 20:59.1. The winning time in this division was 19:05.3.

Following ther Class C regional meet, Spieles said that the state meet would be a dog fight all the way with the same top teams battling it out for the title.

"And it was just that all the way with Charlevoix, Benzle and Mason County Central at the head of the pack," Spieles said. "Bergmann ran an outstanding race; Rajewski won a berth on the All-State; Joe (Simpson) had missed two days of practice because of illness and came through for us. The others did well. However, we have had illnesses and injuries all season so no one expected us to do as well as we have. The kids had great grouping as a team and that helped.

"They ran as a team. You could just see it," he said of the meet.

"We went to the meet aiming for first place. I thought if things fell just right we might make it. I know our kids improved that last week and I think Bezie peaked a week earlier," he continued.

"Obviously, Betsy (Haggard), though she was running in the state meet for the second time, did not run as well as she would have liked or as well as we had hoped. However, she did make a good showing.

"Now, we're looking forward to next year. We will have everyone back on the boys team and we will lose only one, Nonle Pace, on the girls team. What we need now are numbers, especially on the girls team. When we lost our number two runner there were must not the numbers we needed to come up with a competitive team. We also need numbers for the boys team if the program is going to grow," Spieles said of the future.

Spieles thanked the parents, school board member Bob Drenth and his wife, and all the others who supported the team.

"All the parents were at the meet Saturday along with a lot of former team members who came from their respective schools and others who were there to support the team. It means a lot to the team and we certainly appreciate it," Spieles said.

Charlevoix five fall to Cheboygan

The Charlevoix girls basketball team dropped its game to Cheboygan by a score of 46-33 here Tuesday to remain in second place in Michigan-Huron Shores conference standings.

On Thursday, Charlevoix will host St. Ignace at 6:15 p.m.

In the game Thursday, Cheboygan, a very diseplined team hitting on 50 percent of its shots, took a 10-6 first period lead. It built the lead to 22-19 at halftime and increased the margin to 36-25 at the end of the third period. Cheboygan outscored Charlevoix 10-8 in the final period to protect their first place standing.

The visitors outscored Charlevoix 23 to 13 from the floor, but the local quintet connected on seven of 12 free throw attempts while Cheboygan missed on four charity shots. Cheboygan had 11 personal fouls to Charlevoix's eight.

Amy Pischner led the scoring for Charlevoix with 17 points.

Jodi Curley had 18 and Scarlett Magee 10 for Cheboygan.

Cheboygan won the JV game 42-23.

Junior Varsity drops St. Ignace

The Charlevoix Junior Varsity football team defeated St. Ignace 20-6 at Kipke Field Thursday to close out their season with a 6-3 record, according to Coach Brian Certa.

"The team played four quarters of good football and that's what it takes to win games," Certa commented, adding that it was an "all-around team effort. It's been a pleasure working with the guys. We've had a good season," he continued.

The game was a close one until midway in the second quarter when Charlevoix pulled away and then, in the third quarter went ahead for the 20-6 win.

Dave Miller, on a 4-yard run, put the young Rayders on the board midway in the first quarter. St. Ignace came back early in the second period to knot the score 6-6 on a 24-yard run after both teams failed to score conversion points.

Later in the quarter, Dan Drury went in from the 4 to put Charlevoix ahead. Drury passed to Scott DeYoung for the conversion and the Rayders took over 14-6. A long drive that included a 20-yard run by Miller moved the ball into scoring position and set up the go-ahead play.

Derck Dutcher, following a concerted drive, scored from the two-yard line early in the third period.

The Rayder defense then tightened up, keeping St. Ignace outside the 30-yard line for the remainder of the game.

Certa said that Mark LaBlance and James Holm were standouts of defense and Chad Thorp and Dutcher on offense.

St. Ignace defeats Rayders

The Charlevoix Rayders closed out the football season with a 38-0 loss to St. Ignace. The Saints, 8-1 on the year, now go on to the Class C playoffs against Tawas Area.

Charlevoix finished the year with a 3-5 Michigan-Huron Shores Conference record and was 4-5 overall.

Matt Lignell, recovering from a sprained ankle, was used sparingly on offense but still managed to lead the Rayders in rushing. Lignell picked up 44 yards on 14 carries.

"He picked up those yards on sheer athletic ability," assistant coach Hal Evans said. "He never got to the line of scrimmage without getting hit first."

Evans said the Saints played a quick stunting defense that often put nine men on the defensive line.

Charlevoix rushed for 94 yards on the night in 28 carries.

Sophomore Marv Witthoeft added 20 yards in two carries.

Senior quarterback Marc Himebauch hit on seven of 13 passes for 104 yards. Tim Salmonson was on the receiving end of four Himebauch tosses for a total of 69 yards. Jim Gibbs and Sean Ferguson also added receptions for the Rayders.

Defensively the Rayders did a good job of stopping the Saints potent running game. Darrin Batdorff came up with 16 tackles, a season high for the team. Outstanding performances were also put in by Brian Wilmot, Salmonson, and Kent Seymour, Evans noted.

The Saints piled up most of their yardage on long passes and scrambles by the quarterback.

After a scoreless first quarter, St. Ignace got its first points with 11:58 left in the half as Brad Erskine scored from the three and Scott Westenbarger converted. Westenbarger threw a 38-yard touchdown pass to Andy Luepnitz with 7:50 left in the second quarter and then threw to Darrin LaVake for the two-point conversion.

St. Ignace made the score 24-0 at the half following another scoring pass from Westenbarger to Luepnitz with 53 seconds left on the clock. The Saints passed for the conversion.

St. Ignace added 6 points in the third quarter and 6 in the final period.

The last score came on a 98-yard pass interception.

Evans said the coaching staff, under new head coach Roger Gowell, was pleased with the young Rayders progress. "The boys improved throughout the year. It is hard the first year trying to get people in the right positions, and losing Lignell put a damper on the middle part of the season.

"Overall, though, we improved during the year and the prospects for next year are good."

Charlevoix finished the season with juniors in over half of the starting positions.

Bank auctions dolls for Hospice

Every little girl's dream Christmas gift - dolls dressed in handmade exquisite costumes - will be displayed and for sale in a silent auction to benefit Charlevoix County Hospice.

It is the third year in a row the branches of Northwestern State Bank of East Jordan and Boyne City and many enthusiastic customers have supported the event.

To raise money for Charlevoix County Hospice, the bank annually purchases some 80 dolls, gives customers an opportunity to "dress" the dolls in a contest with prizes, and then offers the dolls for sale in a silent auction. All proceeds plus matching funds benefit Charlevoix County Hospice. Last year the bank gave over $1,000 to Charlevoix County Hospice.

Charles McDowell, Northwestern State Bank's chief executive officer and Ellen Anderson, personnel officer, explained how their scheme has benefited Hospice for the past three years.

"Our customers volunteer to dress the dolls," Ms. Anderson explained holding a doll dressed in an elaborate three-piece hand-crocheted outfit. "They dress these dolls in the most beautiful and interesting costumes," she continued.

"Area merchants and the bank are offering bonds, gift certificates and merchandise as prizes for the best dressed dolls," McDowell pointed out. "First prize is a $50 savings bond. Other prizes include clothing, toys and gift certificates."

By November 29 all dolls will be returned to the bank branches in Boyne City and East Jordan to be judged. McDowell admitted there is a growing competition between the customers of the two branches over dressing the dolls.

The costumed dolls will be displayed, from Nov. 29 through Dec. 13, in the two banks' lobbies. The public is invited to view and bid on the dolls with bidding closing December 13.

Not only will all funds raised by the sale of the dolls go to Charlevoix County Hospice, but the bank has pledged to donate an equal amount to Hospice. The purchase price of the dolls is tax-deductible.

Charlevoix County Hospice is a non-profit organization servicing the needs of the terminally ill and their families, at no charge. The Charlevoix County Hospice employs one part-time director and one patient-care coordinator. Hospice depends on volunteers and donations.

Fancy dressed dolls will be auctioned to benefit Charlevoix County Hospice and customers who dress the dolls may win prizes. The auction is sponsored by Northwestern State Bank. Pictured (left to right), Ellen Anderson, Northwestern State Bank personnel manager; Margaret Lasater, Charlevoix County Hospice director; and Charles McDowell, chief executive officer.

Sheriff gives hunting precautions

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department has Hunting Permission Forms for public use to assist property owners in controlling who will be hunting on their property. These forms may be obtained form the Sheriff's Office or from any deptuy sheriff.

In past years, the Sheriff's Office has responded to numerous complaints during deer season. It offers the following suggestions to assist future hunters from making the same mistakes:

"One area of concern is lost hunters. We suggest the hunter advise his or her family or friends exactly the area of the county they will be hunting in, so if the hunter does become lost, it will assist the Sheriff's Office if we have a specific location to search for the lost hunter

"We have had problems with hunters who were on some type of medication such as heart or diabetic medication, have become lost and have had serious physical problems before they were located. We suggest if you are on any type of medication, please take along an extra supply when you go into the woods.

"Some of the more tragic problems we have had in past years have been hunting accidents such as accidental discharge of weapons, to shooting at a noise in the brush that turned out to be a human rather than a deer."

Beware, Sheriff warns, deer are on the move

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is advising the citizens of Charlevoix County to be alert for deer crossing highways in Charlevoix County during the fall and winter months. "We are presently experiencing two to three car-deer accidents per day," Sheriff George T. Lasater said. "It should be noted that in the past years, we have had not only property damage accidents resulting from car-deer accidents, but have also experienced personal injury accidents, and one fatal, resulting from motorists colliding with deer on the highways."

More than 26,400 car-deer accidents occured in Michigan last fall, resulting in five deaths, 1,299 injuries and millions of dollars in property damages.

In addition to the loss of life and personal injuries, "car-deer incidents in the state accounted for more than $43,000,000 last year in property damages and individual deer value," said DNR Director Ronald O. Skoog. "Therefore, motorists should be particularly alert during the first few hours before sunrise and after sunset, especially near areas posted as deer crossings."

"Remember that deer often move in numbers, and some may lag behind. Buckle safety belts, use high beams if possible, slow down, and most importantly, be prepared to stop immediately if necessary."

Figures show that 4,911 more car-deer accidents occurred last year than in 1983.

Davis aide to visit area

Congressman Davis's District Representative Betty Mankowski will be in Charlevoix County on Tuesday, November 12 at the following locations: 9:30-11 a.m. East Jordan City Hall; 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. at the East Jordan Senior Center; 1:30-2:30 p.m. at the Boyne City Hall.

Anyone wishing to meet with Mankowski is invited to do so without an appointment. She will be available to discuss any problems you may be having with federal or state government.

Watershed Council wants area dumps sealed

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council announced today its efforts to see the illegal solid waste disposal sites in Charlevoix County properly closed.

"I have written to Randy Fryberg, Boyne City Manager, and to Mike Dionne, East Jordan Superintendent, urging them to apply to the Clean Michigan Fund so they can properly seal these chemical time bombs," states Carol Magee, executive director of the Watershed Council.

Both dumps in Charlevoix County have stopped accepting waste, but state law requires that they be covered with an impermeable material, such as clay, to seal the surface to prevent precipitation from leaching through and carrying toxic chemicals into the groundwater. The law also required installation of groundwater monitoring wells.

"We fear that toxic groundwater from illegal dumps will contaminate our lakes, streams and drinking water," Magee said. "We recognize that solid waste disposal is an expensive and difficult problem, but protection of public health is paramount."

Recent tests at the Boyne City landfill revealed the presence of toxic chemicals in the groundwater. The Department of Naturol Resources indicates that the monitoring program at East Jordan is incomplete and not conclusive." Some of the monitoring wells were vandalized.

"The state appropriated $2.4 million to be used for proper landfill closure," Magee explained, "We believe this is an excellent opportunity and we have offered our assistance to the two cities in filing an application. I am happy to say that both have indicated that they intend to apply for funds."

The application deadline is November 15, 1985, The Clean Michigan Fund will provide up to 75 percent of closure costs.

"We urge local residents to contact their government officials and support efforts to protect our groundwater, lakes and streams from landfill toxins," Magee continued.

Landfills are responsible for about 13 percent of the known groundwater contamination problems in Michigan and 47 percent of the suspected problems, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council is a nonprofit conservation organization working for water resource protection.

Modeling some of the Bahnhof ski fashions to be shown at the special "Come On ... Make My Day" program Saturday, Nov. 9 at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix are, from left, Micki Bennett, Julie Karkosac and Tami Bennett. The program, which will last from noon to 4 p.m., will include make-up, color coordination and hair care demonstrations in addition to a fashion show and light lunch. Tickets are $10 each and can be obtained by calling 536-2842. All proceeds from ticket sales will go to the Charlevoix County Hospice.

Sandbags available

As a part of its effort to combat the adverse effects of high water levels on the Great Lakes, the state is making sandbags available ot local communities. The bags will be sold to local governments at 50 percent of the state's cost.

In a letter to Charlevoix County Emergency Services Director Earl Muma, Governor Blanchard stated, "We hope that communities will be assisted in preparing for the fall and spring storms we almost certainly face... While we hope for a calm fall and winter, we must ensure that we are prepared for the worst that could happen."

Agencies and-or individuals interested in purchasing sandbags sould contact Muma at 547-6087.

Programs offer preschool for kids with special needs

This is the third in a series of four articles on preschool. Next week's concluding article will deal with what parents should do who do not send their child to preschool. -Editor.

by ANNE KELLY

While not every child develops at exactly the same rate, there are certain developmental milestones in the child's growth that indicate whether everything is going well.

Children's speech and language, their large and fine muscle coordination, their ability to relate to others all have timetables of sorts. A child is expected to walk or talk by a certain age. The age is arbitrary, but eventually the milestone is reached, and the child proceeds to the next.

If progress in any of these areas is delayed, parents usually become concerned and seek reassurance. Often, deviations from the norm are minor difficulties that either disappear as the child gets older or can be easily corrected.

There are circumstances, however, that warrant a special preschool education for the child. If worries persist about the child's development compared to other children of the same age over a reasonable period of time, then its time to get professional advise.

Who can you call? A good start is periodic consultation with your family doctor. He should refer you to special education specialists when the problem goes beyond the realm of typical temporary physical disability.

If he does not, its time to take matters into your own hands. A simple phone call, followed by developmental evaluation by a certified group of special education experts, can bring you peace of mind and a plan of action for you and your child.

Teacher Laura Taylor, right, and Jeni Kenny at the Pre-Primary Development Needs classroom.

This is a free service, available through taxpayers dollars, and is available by appointment through the Charlevoix-Eminet Intermediate School District office in Charlevoix. Periodic screenings for pre-schoolers are also regularly scheduled in communities throughout the two counties on a rotating basis. These screenings are offered to detect developmental problems and provide the basis for early intervention for children up to age six.

If the child is diagnosed as special education eligible, a plan is devised which will involve parents and child in a program best suited for his individual needs.

At Char-Em, early intervention in developmental problems is the key.

Steven Rutterbush

It is no longer debatable that early intervention programs reap immediate and long-term gains for handicapped children.

Educators there agree with a recent observation made in "Education Week" which stated that "Perhaps among the most innovative early-childhood education measures ... are programs that identify and provide schooling to three and-or four-year-old children with special needs - those that are economically disadvantaged, determined to be "at risk" of future academic failure, or in some other way developmentally disabled."

Studies have shown that helping handicapped children at an early age is not only beneficial to the future success of the child, but saves the taxpayers money in the long run.

A report commissioned by the Colorado General Assembly entitled, "Effectiveness of Early Special Education for Handicapped Children," stated hat, "recent research has verified the efficacy of early education programs. Substantial gains have been documented across different kinds of handicapping conditions on all levels - mild, moderate and sever impairments. It is no longer debatable that early intervention programs reap immediate and long-term gains for handicapped children." The findings of this report concur with national trends towards preschool special education.

There are two main programs for handicapped preschoolers in our area: the Pre-Primary In-Home Program, and the Pre-Primary Developmental Needs Classroom presently located at Resort Center School. Young children, under 2½, are usually accomodated at home, with parents given direct instruction in continuing the planned program designed to compliment the child's goals. The In-Home preschool team consists of an occupational therapist, a speech and language consultant, a social worker, a school psychologist, and a developmental preschool consultant.

The Pre-Primary Developmental Needs Classroom, is used to serve the needs of children in the 2½-6 year range and is staffed by two Charlevoix residents, Beth Inman and Laura Taylor. They are team teachers of a combined enrollment from two counties and hold daily sessions, morning and afternoon, assisted by two aides and the special education support staff.

The program is conducted much like any typical preschool program, with special emphasis on learning basis skills. The type of impairments found in their program may include speech and language, hearing, emotional, mental, physical and developmental.

Inman is in her 11th year of teaching handicapped children. She holds a B.A. in elementary education and special education of the mentally impaired with a pre-primary impaired endorsement. She believes strongly in the benefits of early intervention which will prepare for a realistic long-term educational plan for each child.

"I've been interested in special education since high school and have had the opportunity to teach all developmental levels and ages of kids with special needs. Working with preschoolers for several years and seeing the effects of early intervention, keeps me very excited about my profession.

"Recent research shows that the earlier kids with learning problems are reached and helped, the better chance they have in returning to regular education. That makes me feel like my job is important, as well as satisfying," she said.

Taylor, who holds degrees in elementary education and special education of the mentally impaired, and is working on her pre-primary impaired endorsement, feels that their program helps impaired children make significant gains. "It is important for me to see the kids become independent," she explained. "You have to realize that even small gains are a major step for these kids."

The goal of the Pre-primary Developmental Needs Classroom program is to "mainstream" - to send back into regular education, as many children as possible into regular kindergarten classrooms with as little restriction as possible.

Children may stay in the program until they are six. Then they will be either mainstreamed with continued special education support or placed in a self-contained program offered through special education. By mandate, special education is the child's right from birth to age 25. Both Inman and Taylor stress the importance of early detection. They encourage parents to give their children the most important gift they can - the chance for a good start in life.

Toxic contamination of Ellsworth Lake probed

by DOUG TRUAX

A team of over nine Department of Natural Resource environmental specialists descended on Ellsworth Wednesday, Nov. 8, to investigate an industrial site for possible chemical contamination of Ellsworth Lake.

Sgt. Glen Hare, environmental conservation officer, obtained a search warrant in 87th District Court in Bellaire on Wednesday morning and led the group of DNR staff to the site.

The warrant said Hare believes "unauthorized chemical discharges have and are ongoing directly or indirectly from the IDI (International Disc Company, Inc.) facility to both the groundwater and Ellsworth Lake."

It also states that "Waste chemicals are being stored illegally both under Federal statutes and comparable Michigan statutes."

Samples taken from the shoreline of Ellsworth Lake in July revealed high levels of arsenic, chromium, and copper.

Arsenic was found in concentrations of 316,000 milligrams per kilogram (mg-kg). One milligram per kilogram is the equivalent of one part per million in liquid measure.

The DNR sample aso found chromium at 30,000 mg-kg, and copper at 229,000 mg-kg.

"Depending on the concentrations, pH, etc., arsenic, chromium, and copper are considered injurious to humans, livestock, fish, and aquatic life," the search warrant stated.

Brad Venman, of the DNR Toxic Chemical Evaluation Section, reported that "the levels of arsenic, chromium, and copper are all significantly elevated above an expected normal range for those elements in soil by several orders of magnitude."

The team investigating the industrial site included members of several DNR divisions including Surface Water, Ground Water, Hazardous Waste, Fisheries, and Law.

They investigated various sites at the IDI property and Ellsworth Lake and took samples of waste chemicals, soils, groundwater, sediment form the lake bottom, and drums located on the premises.

The IDI property has been the site of various commercial operations in past years including Morweld Steel, Disco company, and the Ellsworth Canning facility.

County records show various parcels at the site owned by International Disc Corp. of Ellsworth, Maurice Taylor of Ellsworth, and the Runnymeade Development Corp. of Scarborough, Ontario.

International Disc ceased operations at the site some 8-12 months ago, according to former plant supervisor Brent Taylor. Taylor currently operates a tool and die company, T and S, Inc., on property leased from Runnymeade Development Corp.

Fish taken from the lake on Oct. 22 were analyzed by Fish Pathologist John Hnath who concluded that "the overall appearance of the group of fish was that they were not a healthy lot."

Hnath said fish from one of the samples showed "a considerable amount of external hemorrhage and fin erosion."

Hnarth, who works at the Wolf Lake Hatchery, said the sample included mainly northern pike and some perch, rock bass, and bass.

There was no evidence of tumors or growths on the fish, he said.

The investigation was begun following a citizen complaint about the IDI facility that reached the DNR via Governor Blanchard's office. Brent Taylor rejected DNR requests to sample or visit the site in July, according to the warrant. He did, however, assist in taking samples from the shoreline.

Sgt. Hare investigated the site from the ground and air in early October. "He observed that most of the western complex appeared not unlike photos of the bombing of Great Britain in World War II," the warrant stated.

"Debris, including drums and tank-like containers, covered the Water's Edge rezoning goes to voters - referendum ok'd

by DOUG TRUAX

The Charlevoix Township Board of Trustees voted unanimously Monday night to schedule a referendum "as soon as possible" on the rezoning of Water's Edge from single family (R-2) to planned residential zone (R-4).

The action followed the presentation of a legal opinion by Charlevoix attorney Scott Beatty advising the board that the rezoning is subject to a referendum vote. Beatty had been asked by the township board for an opinion following the submission of petitions with over 170 signatures asking for the rezoning issue to be put to the township voters.

The petition drive was initiated by ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team) asking for the referendum to overturn the Board's Aug. 12 rezoning of the 41.6 acres at Water's Edge. ALERT filed the petitions on Sept. 11.

"It is my opinion and advice to this honorable Board that the matter ought to be treated as being subject to referendum and a referendum scheduled," Beatty wrote the board.

Attorneys for First Centrum Corporation of East Lansing, the company hoping to develop a condominium complex at Water's Edge, told the township board Monday that it was not required by law to schedule a referendum. Attorney Fitch R. Williams of the law offices of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone said that a referendum would be a "capricious and arbitrary attempt to overturn a zoning decision."

Williams warned the board that the vote would be unconstitutional and his client would take the matter to court if the petition drive was successful in overturning the Water's Edge rezoning.

Spokemen for each side predicted success in the vote. "I think that we will definitely prevail when it is decided by the voters," Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., said after the meeting. "They signed the petition on the fear that 600 units would be there (at Water's Edge). Now that they recognize that there will be 200 units I believe they will vote for the rezoning."

Marcia Trimper of ALERT said she was "very pleased with the board's decision. I am overwhelmed by the response I'm getting."

Oelschlaeger said the referendum "terribly undermines the authority of the township board." Developers are not going to work in the township, because of the cost of litigation and planning required, he said.

"I am very irritated with this costly delay," he added.

The township board also passed amendments to its R-4 zoning on Monday changing the maximum density of the planned unit zone from 15 units per acre to five units and adding site plan review conditions to the ordinance.

These changes had been previous-

Council votes new fire-hall site

by DOUG TRUAX

City council, reversing an earlier decision, voted Monday to locate the proposed public safety building, or fire hall, on State Street to the north side of City Hall.

Previous plans had called for the located of the building on Mason Street as an addition to the current fire hall.

The city had offered property it owns to the north side of City Hall to the U.S. Post Office as a site for its new building. The city, in turn, was planning on purchasing the old post office and demolishing it to make way for the fire hall addition.

Earl Muma proposed the revised location at the end of a public hearing on the location of the public safety building, the post office and parking in the area.

Voting for the proposal were Muma, Robert Timms, Ray Wood, William Bellows. Michael Greeley voted against the proposal. Shirley Roloff was absent.

The issue now goes before the Mayor's ad hoc committee on the fire hall site which held its first meeting on the issue on Tuesday.

The committee will re-analyze costs for construction of a fire hall on the north side of city hall.

Muma was among a group that obtained independent bids on a pre-engineered steel building for the fire hall. They said the new design could be built for just under $250,000 at the Lake spill investigated

The U.S. Coast Guard is investigating a suspected oil spill on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix which occured Wed. Nov. 6.

Coast Guard personnel took samples of a thin, oil-like substance that had accumulated on the west side of M-66 at the site of road construction by H & D, Inc. which is making road repairs.

The Coast Guard said the material was present in a 20 by 35-foot pool where the drainage of a small creek had been temporarily blocked for the road repairs.

A pilot, Bud Jones of Alba, noticed a two-acre slick on the South Arm of the lake Wednesday afternoon. He said the origin of the oil slick appeared to be near the site of the road construction.

After landing Jones investigated further and discovered the pool with the oil-like substance.

The Coast Guard has sent samples of the material to the Sault Ste. Marie headquarters for analysis. They say the source of the spill in unknown at this time.

Glenn Hodgkiss of H & D, Inc. said he had not heard of the spill.

Charlevoix bus service halted

by PEG OHLE

As the crow flies, Traverse City is south southwest of Charlevoix.

But by bus, beginning next month, Traverse City will be east by south by northwest, with the first 17 miles covered by whatever means of transportation is available between 5 a.m. and 6 a.m.

The direct line service now provided by Shortway North Star along US-31 between Petoskey, Charlevoix, and Traverse City to Grand Rapids is being discontinued December 2. The service that will be left is the route from Sault Ste. Marie through Petoskey, along US-131 to Cadillac, with a transfer there to Traverse City. There is one bus a day on this route, leaving Petoskey at 5:45 a.m.

This means that a Charlevoix resident needing a bus ride to Traverse City will have to beg a ride (or walk) to Petoskey before daybreak and begin the circuitous ride to his destination. The time this trip will take is not advertised.

In announcing the discontinuance of service, Shortway North Star cited the lack of passengers on the route, saying the buses have been running 75 to 80 percent empty. Also, according to the bus company, costs have "skyrocketed in the past year, with insurance rates rising 400 percent." As a result the company says it has been losing about 60 cents for every mile they traveled.

Service along this route was discontinued for a short period last February, but because the bus company did not take proper steps for discontinuance, it was re-instated. This time, Shortway North Star has done everything necessary.

The bus company operates under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Department of Transportation, which also oversees and subsidizes the Charlevoix County Transit System. The County System provides on-call door to door bus service around the County and one day a week service to Petoskey. After December 2, that will be the only time and only way to get out of Charlevoix County without private transportation.

Gaskin's Service Station on South Bridge Street is the local agency for Shortway North Star. As such, they sell tickets, ship and receive freight, and meet arriving buses. Pete Gaskin blames some of the failure of the local route on lack of advertising. "Most people don't even know we have buses coming and going out of Charlevoix," he told the Courier.

While the route is definitely being discontinued by Shortway North Star, it is possible that another bus company will take it over, and the local Chamber of Commerce will work with proper State officials to this end.

United Way adds senior citizens

The United Way of Charlevoix has added senior citizens to the list of agencies aided by the local torch drive, President Jim Marshall has announced.

Marshall said the addition of the seniors to the United Way agency list should help them establish a senior citizen's center in Charlevoix. Seniors have been offered the use of the VFW Hall for that purpose but need funds to contribute to the heat, light, snow plowing, and other services.

Marshall said the United Way "stands behind any other effort to support senior citizens in the area."

He termed the inclusion of senior citizens a "milestone in the development of United Way in this area because it affects a known and stable sector of the community."

Plans call for the senior citizens to use the VFW Hall on U.S. 31 North five days a week from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m for various activities and classes. The Nutrition Program would provide lunch from noon to 1 p.m. It would be catered from the satellite center in East Jordan.

Nutritional lunches are currently provided three days a week at the Charlevoix High School from 1-2 p.m. The program has been unsatisfactory to many because of the late hour and the lack of privacy and time for other activities.

Meeting facilities are available for seniors in East Jordan and Boyne City.

Unusual historical scenes on sale

Pictures of Charlevoix's historical past, reproduced on unique metal plates, are being offered for sale with part of the funds going toward the Charlevoix Hisorical Society.

A set of four nautical scenes has been chosen as the inaugural series for this venture, according to Jim Titsworth of Charlevoix, factory representative for Metalphoto which is manufacturing the photographs.

Titsworth says the Metalphoto process is unique in that it imbeds the image in anodized aluminum, resulting in an image that will not fade and is impervious to corrosive chemicals and atmospheres.

It is the first time the Metalphoto process has been used as a fundraiser, Titsworth notes, although the Metalphotos hve been used for other purposes by Ford Motor Co., Greenfield Village Museum, and the Smithsonian Institute.

The Historical Society's photographic images are mounted on walnut finish plaques. The photos sell for $19.95 each and $4 is returned to the Charlevoix Historical Society.

The four photos currently available include three nautical scenes of ships in Round Lake, some of them dating from 1885, and a 1935 scene of the Charlevoix lighthouse.

The plaques will be available through area stores and can currently be seen at Irish Boatshop.

Bob Miles also advises that the Historical Society can use the method to reproduce other photographs, including modern scenes, on special order.

Lightning strikes twice

Contrary to popular folk wisdom, lightning does strike the same place twice. Scientists believe that some areas have topography and wind-flow patterns that make them especially prone to lightning. In Florida, for instance, lightning repeatedly strikes bulges in the coastline, such as Cape Canaveral, where sea breezes converge.

Fireman saves child with fast action

by FRAN MARTIN

The fast response by the Charlevoix Fire Department to a fire at 201 State Street recently is credited with averting a near tragedy to a young mother and her three young children.

The quick response became possible when Assistant Fire Chief, Lyle Gennett, looking out a second floor window at the fire station at 5:50 p.m. Monday Nov. 4, discovered the blaze and issued the alarm before the mother could call the fire department.

As the firemen arrived at the burning residence, the mother, Vickey L. Killibrew, 28, who was standing outside the house with her two sons Scott, 11 months and Karlton, 23 months, advised firemen that her four-year old daughter, Kimberly, was still upstairs in the burning building.

Fireman Tom Meggison, donning a fireproof jacket and airpack, dashed into the house through a rear door that had to be forced open, in an effort to rescue the frightened child who had returned to the second floor after following her mother and brothers part way down the stairs.

"The rooms were filled with smoke and I couldn't see a thing" Meggison said. "However, she was screaming and I followed the sound, calling out to her 'Little girl, little girl' because I didn't know her name.

"Finally I found her huddled in the bedroom directly over the source of the fire. I picked her up, re-assuring her that she would be al right, tucked her inside my jacket with her head on my shoulder, and told her to hang on tight, no matter what happened.

"I started down the stairs and found that the flames were licking at the area, I turned around and starting backing down, hoping the stairs would not collapse under us. We made it to the front door and got out without serious injury though Kimberly was choking from the smoke.

"We got the family to the hospital where they were examined and released," Meggison added.

When commended for his brave act, Meggison said "Any of the others (firemen) would have done the same thing. I just happened to have been there and just did what any of the others would have done had they been in my place."

Meggison said later that he happened to be in the downtown business district when he heard the alarm and was one of the first firemen to arrive at the scene.

In reconstructing the scene, Mrs. Killibrew said she was in the upstairs bedroom with her two young sons, when daughter, Kimberly, came up to tell her that a kerosene space heater near the bay window in the living room had popped. She said as she started down the stairs with the children, it exploded, catching the drapes on fire and spreading throughout the room.

It was the burning drapes that Gennett, looking out the window at the fire station, had seen, alerting him to the emergency.

She said that she was carrying the two young boys down the stairs with Kimberly following her. When they neared the bottom of the stairway, Kimberly became frightened by the flames and returned to the second floor as her mother and smaller children left the building.

The fire, which was spread by the explosion, soon engulfed the entire downstaris area and nearly trapped Meggison on the second floor before he could rescue Kimberly.

The family was taken to the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Gary Heniser where they were joined early the next morning by their husband and father, Karl Killibrew, who is stationed aboard the USCGC Mesquite, which was deployed to Lake Superior at the time.

The couple lost the major part of their possessions in the fire which also did extensive damage to the house which is owned by the First State Bank.

The family is presently seeking another house to rent.

The Coast Guard Wives Club and Christ Episcopal Church, of which Father Heniser is the pastor, are seeking household furniture including beds and cribs, household linens including sheets, blankets, pillows and children's clothing, boys sized from 18 months toddlers to three years and girls size 5-6 years. Groceries are also acceptable.

Bookstore is under new ownership

Two Market Mall shops, Connie's Place and the Literary News Center, have combined ownership, store space, and merchandise.

Connie Nowak, owner of Connie's Place, has moved her record and T-shirt business into the area formerly occupied by the News Center and is now also selling a complete line of books, magazines, newspapers, and posters. Kathy Brinker, former owner of the News Center, has moved downstate.

Connie is calling the combined store "Connie's Place". She explains that the record part of her business includes cassettes, CD's, and such accessories as needles and tapes. In the T-shirt line, Connie can personalize shirts, jackets, uniforms, and hats by screen printing. These, as well as records, cassettes, and books, can be special-ordered.

Connie opened the Market Mall shop last April after operating her first shop in Gaylord for five years. She lives in Gaylord with her husband, Jerry, son, Steve, and daughter, Dawn. She says the whole family is involved in the business. After Jerry completes his day's work at U. S. Plywood, he often works with Connie until midnight screen printing a rush order. Steve and Dawn help out in both stores from time to time.

Connie grew up in northern Michigan and started her business without previous training or experience. "It was just something I wanted to do." she explains.

Brenda Bruce, who lives in Ellsworth, has been manager of the Charlevoix Connie's Place since last summer.

Big Rock refueling done, on line again

The Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant was returned to service Thursday, November 8, following a routine refueling and maintenance outage. The plant's generator was synchronized to the Consumers Power Company electric transimssion grid at 4:15 a.m.

During the 62 days the plant was out of service, 20 of the reactor's 84 bundles of uranium-oxide fuel were removed from the plant's reactor and replaced by new fuel bundles. A single bundle of fuel may supply energy to generate electricity for up to four years in the reactor.

In addition to the refueling, many activities which can only be accomplished during a shutdown were carried out. They included a variety of maintenance operations, inspection of plant equipment, and installation or modification of several pieces of equipment to meet updated U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission requirements.

Unlike a coal- or oil-fired power plant which must be refueled continuously, a nuclear plant may run more than a year between refuelings. Big Rock Point was last refueled in July 1984. It has been refueled 20 times since it was put into service in 1962.

During the outage, Big Rock Point reached a significant safety milestone: its employees passed the 2-million work-hour mark without an injury serious enough to cause an employee to miss a day's work. The milestone, which took place Oct. 11, represents more than eight years of safe operation.

Located five miles north of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan, Big Rock Point supplies approximately 70 megawatts (70 million watts) of electricity to the customers of Consumers Power Company. The plant employs approximately 180 people.

Annual Ski Swap planned

Plans for the 11th annual Ski Swap, sponsored as a fund-raising project by the Charlevoix High School Ski Team, have been announced by Erik Lundteigen, ski coach.

Residents of the school district who would like to sell any type of winter sports equipment may register their equipment on Saturday, Nov. 23 at the high school cafeteria between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. for the Ski Swap to be held on Sunday, Nov. 24 between the hours of noon and 6 p.m.

The equipment is sold on a consignment basis with the Ski Team receiving a 20 percent commission, Lundteigen said.

Lundteigen emphasized that any type of winter sports equipment is acceptable. Futher, information may be obtained by calling Lundteigen at 547-3215.

Foster care costs up

by PEG OHLE

The cost of caring for incorrigible and-or neglected children in foster homes increased last month.

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services has announced that, as of October 14, the new daily rates are: From birth to age 12, increased to $10.10 from $7.70; from age 13 through 18, increased to $12.50 from $10.20; and independent living, increased to $13.00 from $10.70.

There are 41 licensed foster homes in Charlevoix County, and the number of children being placed in them is showing a steady rise. In 1982, 22 children were placed in foster homes; in 1983, 29 were placed; in 1984, 28 were placed; and in 1985, the projected number is 40.

The costs of foster care are borne by several agencies. Foster care for children who are on Aid to Dependent Children rolls is paid for by the State. For others, the State and County share the cost, supposedly on a 50-50 basis, but the State has a "cap" (maximum amount) it will pay which is far less than actual costs. In a few instances, Juvenile Court will determine that parents can afford to pay for their child's (or children's) foster care at least partially, and will order them to do so.

No matter which tax pocket foster child care funds come from, the amount is high. Doug McCombs of the local Social Services office estimates that the "high end" of costs for children in foster care under their jurisdiction in 1985 will be $233,691 from County tax funds. In addition, care for those children under Juvenile Court supervision in different types of placement will cost the County $161,086. (Of this latter amount, the State will pay a "cap" up to $37,000).

This means that the County's share of foster care expenses for its unfortunate children will amount to about $357,777 this year.

McCombs says the Department of Social Services is aware of the tax burden these child care costs create and the Department is doing everything it can to change the trend of increasing costs. "We are trying to trim costs," he told the Courier, "and we hope to be able to cut down on the number of placements next year."

airport.

Muma said a metal building could also be built downtown on the north side of City Hall, but would not fit on Mason Street.

There was strong public support for a downtown location for the public safety building at the public hearing Monday.

Vince Olach, business manager for the Charlevoix Public Schools, said the logical place for it was in the center of the area where disasters are likely to occur. The present downtown site was central to all schools, he noted. "I wholeheartedly go along with the fire department being built as an attachment to City Hall."

Lyle Gennett, assitant fire chief, said the current site has "more than proven itself in the past." He noted that it was possible to get fire trucks out to the north side even during Venetian Festival – the city's busiest weekend.

Volunteer fireman Charles Bergmann agrued against the airport because of the heavy snow accumulation ot that end of town during the winter.

Jeffery Porter, chairman of the Downtown Development Authority, told council he was against putting up a sheet metal building in the downtown area. "We would be making a terrible mistake," he said, noting that the present City Hall wos build as a substantial, expensive building even though the country was coming out of the depression.

"I think it should be built with sandstone and we should not cut corners and do it cheaply. The firemen should have something they are truely proud of."

Several persons attending the meeting said they objected to the airport site because the voters had approved the bond issue with the understanding that the public safety building would be located downtown.

City Manager Michael Wiesner questioned the $250,000 figure supplied by Muma. "I'm not saying they aren't correct," he said, "but they are being prepared by a builder who is trying to sell a building."

Wiesner said he confident of the previous bids from the architect hired by the city but would be happy to have another architect look at the various options for the public safety building.

He also noted that, contrary to what some people had said, if the building were built as an addition to the current fire hall it would not require an expensive rennovation of City Hall to make it barrier free. That would be required, Wiesner said, only if the addition constituted more than 50 percent of the total area, which it does not.

Councilman Michael Greeley said he wanted to see a quality building built downtown. He objected to council's changing its mind after it had advised the government that the north side would be available for the post office. "Once you make a decision, by God, you stick to it."

Letters to the Editor:

Water's Edge wetland

Dear Editor:

For several months, Charlevoix Township residents have been embroiled in a conflict concerning the development of the Water's Edge property on Lake Charlevoix. The focus of the controversy has been on the density of the proposed condominium development and the increase in boat traffic the project will bring to an already conjested area.

The Lake Charlevoix Association is concerned about another aspect of this project which has been virtually ignored. The Water's Edge property is a classic cedar swamp wetland. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources recently evaluated the property and determined that with few exceptions, the entire parcel is subject to regulation under the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act (1979, P.A. 203). This means that before any filling or other construction can take place, the developer must obtain a permit from the DNR.

The Lake Charlevoix Association opposes the destruction of wetlands that are important to the water quality of our lake. The Association plans to review this proposal as it relates to wetland protection and will comment to the DNR. We would urge anyone else who has these same concerns to follow our lead.

Clockwise

A fool's paradise

By Bob Clock

The first snow is a good reminder of all the things we should have done in September and October, things like putting up the storm windows, stashing away the porch furniture and uprooting up the gladioli bulbs for safe storage indoors.

Although I know winter is on the way, I live in a fool's paradise. I keep thinking this winter will be like the winter of 1965 when we had both a green Christmas and a green News Years, with the temperature pushing 60 degrees on New Year's Eve. Or the winter of 1967 when I raked the yard on Dec. 7. In my shirtsleeves.

Of course, I also remember the winter of 1966 when we had a foot of snow, zero temperatures and 80-knot winds two days after Halloween. But those are the winters I tend to forget.

One thing bothers me about the first snow, however. After it is on the ground 15 minutes it looks as though it never left. All of the balmy days and pleasant happenings since the last snowstorm are obliterated, including picnics at Depot Beach, swimming in Lake Michigan, long evenings on the front porch sipping cool drinks and window shopping on Bridge Street while lapping Big Olaf ice cream cones.

They might as well have taken place in another century, another geological era. Because Charlevoix, under a blanket of snow, has reverted to its natural state.

Bah, humbug!

BUT AS LONG as winter has arrived, I am thinking of taking up downhill skiing again.

With the wealth of ski-hill equipment Bo Boss was able to pick up second-hand in Lansing this fall, including additional snow-making heads, conditions at Mt. McSauba should be better than ever before.

Time was when Judy and I both enjoyed downhill skiing. Then along came the kids at the same time the price of tow tickets began to escalate out of sight. Skiing took a back seat.

I suspect my old downhill style — which a friend once described as a Mack truck out of control — might have deteriorated over the years. But I'll never know until I give it a try.

DESPITE PREDICTIONS to the contrary, the $390,000 bond issue for the new public safety building passed with almost 100 votes to spare.

Regardless of where the building is located, there is little doubt is it badly needed.

I, for one, hope it will be located in the central business district. But that is a decision that only the city council can make.

whole west side of the site. Heavily discolored soils existed in various places across the whole site indicating past or present spillage."

Hare said analysis of the soil and water sample would take at least two to four weeks, and possibly longer.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lenhart

Lugibihl-Lenhart

Phyllis D. Lugibihl and Larry Lenhart exchanged marriage vows on Saturday evening, October 19, at the First Baptist Church of Boyne City.

The bride is the daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. Jim Lugibihl of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr, and Mrs. Robert Lenhart, also of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Delbert Nixon and the bride's father officiated at the double-ring rites, in which the bride's father also gave her in marriage.

For the candlelight ceremony, the church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and ivy, with white bows marking the pews.

The bride's gown was Schiffli-embroidered with a stand-up neckline and lace and pearl trimmed bodice and Basque waist. The puffed Juliet sleeves and flounced hemline were trimmed in satin, as was the chapel-length train. Her veil was chapel-length, fashioned with a lace bandeau trimmed with pearls to match the bridal gown.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink orchids, pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis, and greens.

Cheryl Muma served her sister as matron of honor. Two other sisters, Brenda Lugibihl, and Ruth Tornga, and three sisters-in-law, Jean McDonough, Debbie Marsh, and Mary Lenhart, were bridesmaids. Alicia Lugibihl, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore rosette dresses of satin with puffed sleeves, and each carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath. Melissa McDonough, niece of the bridegroom, wore a light rosette dress to serve as flower girl, and Steven Tornga was ringbearer.

Scott Johnson assisted the bridegroom as best man, with brother Steven Lenhart, Lyle Kleiber, Shawn McDonough, Jim Marsh, and Todd Edger serving as groomsmen. Jason Tornga was junior groomsman, and Tim Wojan and Michael Thompson were ushers.

Mrs. Vivian Nixon, vocalist, offered "The Lord's Prayer" and Nancy Stoel offered "Evergreen".

A reception in the Church Fellowship Hall followed the marriage ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Les Lugibihl were host and hostess; Kelly Thompson and Kelly Tornga assisted with the guest book; Berniece Allerding, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake; and Marylou Allerding, cousin of the bride, served the punch.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Phillips Mill, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the newlyweds are at home in Petoskey, where the bridegroom is manager of the Radio Shack and the bride is also an employee.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Houghton

Jones-Houghton

Shari Marie Jones and Larry Robert Houghton were married Saturday, October 26, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houghton, all of Charlevoix.

Approximately 350 guests were present as the Reverend Larry Grooters read the double-ring rites before the altar decorated with candelabra, baby's breath, and ivy.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk taffeta and rosette lace. It featured a scoop neckline and fitted lace bodice, trimmed at the front and back with ruffled lace. The puffed and gathered sleeves were trimmed with lace, and a rosette lace underskirt was covered by a silk taffeta front inverted V skirt and attached train with ruffled lace trim. The gown was specially fashioned by Willie Holmes of Charlevoix.

The bride carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and Sonja roses with ivy and baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Kim Stevens, served as matron of honor. Another sister, Beth Jones, and Kerri Showerman, Kelly Herriman, Kim Carpenter, and Vicki Falting assisted as bridesmaids. They wore emerald green jacquard taffeta dresses which featured fitted crossed bodices with short puffed ruffles at the waist and floor-length skirts. Their headpieces were matching hats with veils, and they carried bouquets of three Sonja roses, baby's breath, and ribbons.

Jeremy Himebach was ringbearer. Ralph Rosenthal served as best man, and Bob Jones, brother of the bride, mrk Brenay, Randy Bearss, and Deano Drost were groomsmen.

Francis Boss provided organ music for the ceremony.

The bride's parents hosted a recpetion at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall following the ceremony. Laura Wells catered the food; Mike and Bonnie Miller were host and hostess; Jenny Houghton, sister of the bridegroom, attended the gift table; Kelly Healey was in charge of the guest book; and Pat Brenay, Bertha Potter, and Theresa Noirot served the cake.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at their home.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Houghton are now at home in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix is first assignment for pastor

Duane Nelson

Duane Nelson, new pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, is a true product of the Midwest. He was born in Decatur, Illinois, grew up in Elvins, Missouri, and attended Olivet College in Kankakee, Illinois.

The Charlevoix church is Pastor Nelson's first pastorate, although he served as an associate in Denton, Texas this past summer.

Pastor Nelson says at one time he had planned on becoming a physicist, but at age 15 he committed himself to God and his calling to the ministry increased through his college years. Now, with a church to serve, Pastor Nelson believes his mission is to win souls for the Lord. "That is my main emphasis," he explains, "but I also want to be community-oriented". His own belief, he adds, is that the Bible is the word of God but man's personality is also involved in its writings.

For the present, Pastor Nelson plans on continuing the same program of church services that have been in operation for some time: Sunday Worshiip, 11 a.m.; Sunday Evangelistic Service, 7 p.m.; Sunday School, 10 a.m.; and Midweek Service, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Nelson reports he is happy he accepted the call from the Charlevoix Nazarenes, saying he has an open board who talk over their feelings with him and let him know where they want to go with the church. "I sent out 25 resumes to Nazarene districts and I'm lucky they called me to Charlevoix."

The new Charlevoix pastor hopes to be able to spend some time studying Spanish. His college minor was in Greek and he also studied Biblical Hebrew in his religion classes, but he feels knowledge of a third language would be helpful. In the meantime, he will be readying his new apartment on May Street.

No dancing experience is necessary as all the dances will be taught. Types of dances included will be squares, contras, rounds, and couple dances such as waltzes and polkas. A demonstration of Appalachian clogging will be given.

The dance is sponsored by the Music Conservancy, a group dedicated to preserving and promoting traditional American music, dance and other arts.

The group held a square dance in October, which was attended by over 70 people. On December 6, the Music Conservancy will sponsor a concert with Iowa Rose, a well-known folk and bluegrass band.

NOVEMBER HAS MADE A VERY COLD AND WINDY WHITE ENTRANCE.

AS I SAT CONTEMPLATING THE BLOWING SNOW AND WATCHING IT BUILD UP ON MY BIRD FEEDER I NOTICED THAT I WAS BEING WATCHED BY AN INQUISITIVE NUTHATCH HIS FEATHERS ALL RUFFLED IN SUCH A WAY THAT IT APPEARED AS THO HE WERE WEARING A SCARF!

Five million dollar dinner

The Crooked Tree Arts Council is planning a "five million dinner for two" to commemorate the fifth year that the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center has been open.

The five million figure may be a little high, but the event will be memorable.

The Arts Council plans to sell raffle tickets for $10 each. Five couples, plus a celebrity couple, will be picked for the dinner to be held on Saturday, May 17, in Charlevoix at the hilltop estate of the MacGillivrays.

The winning couples will be picked up by a chauffeur driven limousine and footman. They will be escorted by their own hostess, waited on by their own waiter and wine steward.

The staff will be composed of prominent men and women in the community who will be dressed in full uniform.

The combined culinary talents of some of the area's great restaurants – including the Rowe Inn, Stafford's Bay View Inn, the Arboretum, Tapawingo and the Walloon Inn – will design the menu. Hors d'oeuvers will be prepared by Symons General Store.

The Arts Center is marketing the fund-raiser through various organizations in the area which will receive $2 of each ticket sold for their own group.

Persons or groups interested in participating should call the Arts Center at 347-4337.

Reward offered for vandal information

Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co. is offering a $500 reward to anyone providing information that leads to the arrest and conviction of persons shooting insulators and other distribution equipment.

Although insulators may be a tempting target for hunters, a broken insulator can lead to power outages, downed wires, pole fires and injury or possible death to linemen. The hazards often occur weeks after the initial damage to the insulator.

Outages are costly, particularly for Top O' Michigan's commercial members who rely on electrical service for their business operations. Top O' Michigan also incurs extra expenses due to outages that are passed on to its members.

Outages also endanger the lives of members who have life-support equipment in their homes.

Persons with information regarding the destruction of distribution equipment should contact the Top O' Michigan office in Boyne City or their local law enforcement agency.

Top O' Michigan is a rural electic cooperatie distributing power to more than 30,000 members in 12 northern Michigan counties.

Water's Edge rezoning

ly debated and adopted by the township zoning board on Oct. 21. They would allow for a maximum of 208 condominiums at Water's Edge.

Beatty said the law on referendums was different for townships than it was for cities. Under the Township Rural Zoning Act, he said, townships must grant a referendum when petitions signed by 8 percent of the total votes cast in the last governor's election are submitted within 30 days of passage of a zoning ordinance. "Subsequent cases in the Court of Appeals have indicated that an amendment to a Township Zoning Ordinance by rezoning a parcel of land is an action subject to referendum."

He cited the case of Huxtable v Meridian Trustees as being identical to the situation now confronting the Charlevoix Township. The state Court of Appeals upheld a referendum in that case, he said, which overturned a township rezoning.

Lawyers for First Centrum Corp. argued that the rezoning was an administrative decision and therefore not subject to a referendum. They cited the 1974 state Supreme Court case of West v City of Portage.

Beatty said the law differed on townships and cities. "It would appear then, that although referendum may not extend to rezoning under a city comprehensive zoning ordinance, that it does apply under a township ordinance."

He added that "Presently there is no reported case in which the Court of Appeals or Supreme Court has decided that rezoning a parcel of land by a township board is not subject to referendum."

Michigan gets wildlife funds

Michigan has received more than $6 million in sport fish and wildlife restoration funds from the Department of Interior as the first of two apportionments for 1986, Congressman Bob Davis has announced.

Davis said the allocation shows a $2 million increase in the last two years.

Michigan received from the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service $2,961,163 for its sport fish restoration programs and $3,097,620 for its wildlife restoration programs.

The money comes from the excise taxes on sporting equipment bought by anglers and hunters to support the management, research and land acquisition programs within the states.

In Michigan, the sport fish money is used to improve stocking procedures, habitat and access improvements, fish management and for public information.

Self-discovery is key to preschool children's learning

by ANNE KELLY

This is the final installment in our series on preschools in Charlevoix.

There are a variety of reasons why parents decide against the idea of formal preschool education for their child.

In some cases it is the distance to a preschool or lack of transporation. In others, it may be the cost.

Some parents prefer to educate their child at home in his early years and remain the primary source of influence.

Whatever the motive, it is important to realize that education takes place whether or not the child attends school.

What is done at home during our child's preschool years is of importance to all parents, even if a child attends a formal preschool two or three mornings a week.

The possibilities for education and enrichment are endless. They require only a willingness to spend time with the child and the determination to provide a loving and meaningful environment where he will be stimulated and encouraged.

All children are curious and inquiring unless those natural processes are stiffled. According to Lynn Robson, kindergarten teacher in the Traverse City Public Schools and an instructor of early childhood education courses offered through Central Michigan University, "Children can be encouraged to develop inquiring minds, sharpen their in-born curiosity, and extend their awareness of people and events in the world through direct experiences that are relevant to their stage of personal development.

These direct experiences, she says, "Can be creatively presented in order to provide as much exposure as children are ready to cope with and not feel undo pressure to achieve or rote learn academic concepts."

In planning activities for your prescbooler at home, remember that there are four areos that need to be taken care of: socio-emotional well being, language, learning from and adapting to the world and motor skills.

The child is very "concrete" until after he is about seven years old. According to Piaget, one of the most respected theorists in children's growth and development, the child learns best during his early years from experiencing cause and effect.

He learns that if he shares, he will have friends. If he hears wonderful stories, he will want to read them himself some day, or if he plays with water, he will find that it has many interesting properties and purposes.

A basic rule to follow appears to be: help your preschooler learn by doing and self-discovery. Whether you are taking a nature walk, baking cookies or playing puzzles, give your child the opportunity to discover the wonder of the moment. Let him play, participate and learn.

A parent can become confused and sometimes over zealous in the process of trying to teach the child. Jean Marzollo, in a humorous, yet sensible article written for Parents magazine points out that we should remember that the child goes through certain stages of development in his own time. While we can "aid, abet and enjoy the process your child is going through (at any given stage)," she says, "we cannot hurry these stages.

"We can help them unfold when the right time comes, but we can't really make new stages happen."

Here are some tips from our Charlevoix kindergarten teachers Dorothy Miller and Diane Priess to enrich the process of learning and growing at home, whether or not your child attends preschool:

LANGUAGE ARTS: Read to your child at a very early age. At first use simple picture books. Point to the pictures, talking about colors and words that describe them. Gradually introduce more complicated books as the child matures. In this way you are helping his vocabulary to grow.

Verbalize as much as possible. Talk, talk, talk. Take the time to explain things and supply general knowledge on a variey of subjects. When the child has questions, take the time to answer them.

Have conversations with your child to hear his ideas and thoughts. Encourage your child to use his imagination in making up stories.

MATH: Help your child with a knowledge of counting and a sense of numbers and quantity. Opportunities to measure and count are found in the most common of circumstances like cooking or doing the laundry.

ART: Have a ready supply of creative art materials available at all times. Let the child create and freely express himself in a variety of media; paints, crayons, clay, paper, paste and glue all make wonderful tools for self expression. So does fingerpainting with chocolate pudding and shaving cream. Take care not to inhibit the child by having him do projects a certain way, or always be aupplying him with gorcery store activity books.

CREATIVE PLAY: Dress-up, puppets, playing house – these are all ways in which the child through play, learns about the world around him.

MUSIC: Expose your child to a variety of music. Give him the opportunity to examine or try his hand at several instruments. Let him make aome homemade band instruments.

SOCIAL GROWTH: Extend your child'a experience beyond the home and family members. Take him on walks and trips. Attend story hours at the library. Allow him plenty of opportunity to be with children his own age. Visit friends who have children of the same age. Take advantage of group outings where other children will be present.

GROSS MOTOR: Practice large motor activities like running, hopping, skipping and jumping. Let him play with balls and balloons. Allow him plenty of opportunities to play, climb and swing outdoors, with himself and with other children.

FINE MOTOR: Encourage skills in which the child has to use his hands: cutting, coloring, pasting, tracing, sorting, building – all these activites help develop fine motor coordination.

Miller and Priess would also recommend that you limit your child'a TV watching, find time for family activities and that you really "enjoy your children."

"Spend time with them now," they encouraged. "The time you spend is an investment that has long-term dividends."

These are a random selection of activities which you might use to enrich your child's experiences prior to kindergarten. They are activities incorporated in any quality preschool program or day care center and can easily be implemented at home.

A large number of toys or expensive learning tools are not necessary for a parent who wants to do a good job in helping his child develop properly.

Teaching your child to be open to new experiences, to respect himself and others, and to become as self-reliant as possible as he grows are the most important tools of the trade.

And what that takes, on the parents' part, is a large committment of time, energy and patience.

Legislation seeks ~~no~~ schooling before Labor Day

Legislation that would require school districts to start after Labor Day is currently being debated in the Michigan House and supporters say its passage could give the Michigan recreation and tourism industry a boost.

Supporters of the bill (HB 4461) say that school opening dates vary around the state. Many schools start classes before Labor Day, causing family vacations, camping trips and other events to be cancelled or cut short.

"I think this is a sound piece of legislation that could give a tremendous boost to our state's tourism industry," said Ralph Ostling, 103rd District Representative. "A uniform post-Labor Day school opening law has been successful in other states and the Michigan House should pass this bill."

According to the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, states like Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, South Dakota, and Minnesota have adopted post-Labor Day school opening laws. Missouri's travel industry realized a 25 percent increase in business from August 19 through Labor Day 1984, compared to the previous year. This resulted in about $40 million in increased gross revenues and $1.6 million in state tax revenues.

A State Chamber survey found that nearly two-thirds of Michigan's registered voters favor starting school after Labor Day. The September survey found that if all Michigan public schools followed such a rule, 15 percent of those questioned would increase their travel activities while 3 percent would decrease their travel plans.

The Michigan Travel Bureau estimates that a 12 to 15 percent increase in travel by Michigan residents would mean an additional 250,000 to 300,000 trips, which would increse direct travel expenditures by about $25 million.

Isolated rabies case reported in County

District Health Department No. 3 and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department reported an isolated rabies incident in Boyne Valley Township of Charlevoix County involving a skunk that in turn bit a resident's dog.

The skunk was examined by the state Public Health Lab and was classified a positive rabies.

Public Health authorities advise this is the first positive analysis of rabies in Charlevoix County since 1967.

"This is not an outbreak but a low level disease problem in Charlevoix County at the present time," Sheriff George T. Lasater said. "But citizens should be alerted to refrain from having contact with stray or wild animals and have their domestic pets vaccinated."

Although today rabies seldom results in human fatalities in the United States, it remains a potentially dangerous public health problem. People need to be aware of practices that can prevent the occurence of rabies, the District Health Department warned.

All warm-blooded animals can potentially spread rabies. Animals with the highest risk are wildlife, particularly skunks, raccoons, foxes and bats, and domestic farm animals. Among domestic pets, dogs and cats are the most commonly infected. Every pet owner has a responsibility in helping to prevent rabies.

District Health Department No. 3 emphasizes that regular vaccination of all doemstic pets is essential for the control of rabies. It offers these suggestions:

Pets should be kept under control and not allowed to roam.

If you are scratched or bitten by an animal, wash the wound thoroughly, get immediate medical attention, and report it to the Sheriff's Department and the local health department.

The county animal control officer should be contacted for assistance concerning handling suspected rabid animals. If you must kill an animal that has bitten you, do not shoot it in the head. The laboratory must have the brain undamaged in order to conduct the proper analysis.

Individuals must refrain from handling stray, injured, and sick animals, wild or domestic. Parents should urge children to avoid and not handle bats, skunks, raccoons, foxes, or other animals that are found.

Anyone that would like more information about rabies should contact their county animal control officer, veterinarian, physician, or any office of District Health Department No. 3.

Fishing violation case postponed

Although the salmon-harvesting weir has been taken from the Jordan River, consequences of its presence remain in District Court.

On October 6, while the weir was still in place, Steven Sloop, 36, and Randy Witten, 36, both of East Jordan, were ticketed for fishing in the Jordan below the weir, an area closed to fishing by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for the period the weir was operating.

At tht time, South Arm Township (where the weir was located) had declared it illegally placed because no permit was received from the Township, and the County Board of Commissioners, through Prosecuting Attorney Kraag Lieberman, was looking into the legality of its placement.

When the men's fishing violation charges reached Lieberman'a office, he refused to prosecute because of the above questions, saying he could not in good conscience do so. He also requested the State Attorney General's office to take the case.

When the case reached Judge Harvey C. Varnum's District Court bench last Tuesday, there was no one on hand to handle the prosecution, and Witten had hired the services of Attorney Peter Vellenga of Boyne City, who asked for additional time to prepare the defense. Under these circumstances, Judge Varnum continued the case for 30 days, at which time, both prosecution and defense should be ready.

Township Association supports county-wide zoning law

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Chapter of the Michigan Townships Association recently passed a resolution supporting "the development by the County Planning Commission of a County-wide zoning ordinnce."

The matter of County-wide zoning has been discussed in several places recently after differences in township zoning ordinances were brought to light by persons intersted in land use around Lake Charlevoix and other sensitive areas in the County.

Charlevoix County had a County-wide zoning ordinance for a short time in the early 1970's, but it was defeated in a referendum vote. Following that action, each township adopted its own ordinance, with he result that there are now 15 different zoning ordinances with different lot size and house size requirements, different specifications for commercial and industrial areas, and many other differences, large and small, that constantly confuse those who would like to purchase and use land in the County.

Many townships have also found it difficult and expensive to enforce their zoning ordinances because of neighborhood personalities and the high cost of legal services.

Township representatives at the recent Townships Association meeting indicated there is now a better understanding of zoning than there was 12 or 15 years ago. Also, it was pointed out that even if a County-wide zoning ordinance is passed, townships can operate under their own ordinances if they prefer. This was not the case before.

It is expected that the County Planning Commission will seriously consider the Townships Association resolution in the near future.

Alzheimer's disease discussed at hospital health series

Alzheimer's disease will be the topic of discussion at the Charlevoix Area Hospital's Third Thursday health talk session at 7 p.m., Thursday Nov. 21 in the hospital classroom.

Called by some experts the "disease of the century", Alzheimer's afflicts an estimated 7 percent of the 27 million people over 65 in the United States - a total of up to three million Americans.

It can be devastating to families as well as victims because of the intensive and costly care required as the disease progresses. Early symptoms of bothersome memory loss and disorientation gradually worsen to include actual physical disability and loss of mental function.

There is no known cure for the disease, the cause for which is still being sought by researchers. Once diagnosed, it is irreversible. Alzheimer's claims more than 120,000 lives a year which makes it the fourth leading cause of death among the elderly following heart disease, cancer and stroke.

Leading the discussion for the Third Thursday talk will be Dr. Thomas KcKeon, M.D. Dr. McKeon will explain the history of Alzheimer's disease, some of the symptoms involved and ways that a family can deal with the disease when one of its members is stricken. Following his presentation, Dr. McKeon will answer questions from the audience.

A member of the Charlevoix Area Hospital medical staff, Dr. McKeon has a private practice in internal medicine in Boyne City. He holds a bachelors degree from Michigan State University and received his medical training from Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tennessee.

Invited to the November 21 session are families of Alzheimer's disease victims and anyone else wishing to find out more about this serious illness. The talk is free and open to the general public. No reservations are necessary. The talk is part of Charlevoix Area Hospital's Third Thursday health talk series.

Unique historical photos are lost

Dale Boss and the Charlevoix Historical Society are looking for something they hope won't be as hard to find as a needle in a haystack.

It is an eight-page 9 X 14 inch plastic folder containing picures of the Harsha House on State Street before its renovation as the home of the Historical Society.

The folder was lost shortly aftr 9 a.m. on Friday, October 18, somewhere between Boss' home on Pearl Street, North-Point, and the south city limits of Charlevoix. Boss recalls that he put the folder on top of his car while preparing to go to Grosse Pointe to receive a citation from Keep Michigan Beautiful for the renovation project. The folder of pictures was to have been an exhibit of "before and after" of the Harsha House.

Boss says he did not see the folder on top of his car when he stopped for gas south of town, so he figures he lost it somewhere along Mt. McSauba Road, Michigan Avenue, or Bridge Street. Since Mt. McSauba Road and Michigan Avenue are popular jogging routes, he thinks someone may have picked up the folder along the way, or a school child may have found it.

The pictures in the folder are the only ones in existence, and their return is of utmost importance to the Historical Society. If someone has found them, the Society will reward the finder with a duplicate set of pictures, and Boss is offering a cash reward. His telephone number is 547-6401.

Blanchard offers to lead fight on EPA decision

by TOM DAMMANN

Governor James Blanchard will pesonally lead a fight against a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) proposal to let TCE, a toxic chemical thought to cause cancer, seep gradually into Lake Michigan for the next 50 years.

The toxic chemical has been contaminating the city's drinking water, and consequently the EPA is funding the construction of a new $3.5 million water treatment plant on Lake Michigan.

"But letting the contaminant remain until it is finally sponged up in the lake sets a dangerous precedent for the Great Lakes basin," Governor Blanchard told this reporter in an interview in Traverse City last Thursday night. "I will go to Washington myself to exert all the influence I have in Congress, where I served four terms, to persuade the EPA to change this decision."

A telephone check of some of the environmental agencies that would be concerned indicates that this may be the first itme, in the Great Lakes area, at least, that EPA has not advocated using the Superfund to eradicate the substances that is contaminating a water supply.

Blanchard emphasized that the precedent he fears is letting the Great Lakes become the sponge, or storehouse, of our toxic waste.

TCE (trichlorethylene) was discovered in the Charlevoix water system four years ago, though how it got there remained a mystery until recently. It is an extraction solvent once used to decaffinate coffee, in the curing of herbs and in dry cleaning but now generally used for degreasing machinery.

About a year ago it was determined that TCE had been dumped on the grounds of the Charlevoix Middle School for unexplicable reasons, and that it seeped into the ground water, eventually reaching the well which supplies the city's drinking water. The well which is shallow, is located about 100 yards back from the Lake Michigan beach, a quarter of a mile west of the school.

EPA has designated the Charlevoix problem as number 359 out of 538 on its list of contaminated sites across the nation which must be cleaned up with Superfund money. The new treatment plant is expected to be delivering safe drinking water to the city early next year.

According to Jack Kratzmeyer, EPA Remedial Project Manager in its District 5 Chicago Office, his agency is recommending that the TCE be left to seep naturally to Lake Michigan, with periodic monitoring of its progress. This would take about 50 years and there would be no danger of the TCE causing cancer unless wells were drilled in the plume area for drinking water. This should not be permitted, he stated.

The plan was announced early last June and presented publicly at a hearing here several weeks later. It was accepted positively by many but alarmed several public officials and environmentalists who finally succeeded in getting their fears to Governor Blanchard.

The cost for this plan of "limited action" would be $160,140 as opposed to the estimated cost of $4,401,800 for pumping up all water containing any trace of TCE and treating it. EPA estimates the groundwater extraction plan would take 30 years to clean up the TCE.

"I think our decision is entirely consistent with the law which governs clean-ups under the Super-

Season's End

Each year since 1971 an intrepid, some might say foolhardy, group of sailors take place in the season ending Deer Hunter's Alternative sail from Harbor Springs to Charlevoix. Funeral services for Harry E. Bingham, 83, teacher and principal at the Charlevoix Public Schools for 37 years, will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church and the Rev. Casimir Zawacki of St. Mary's Church will officiate. Interment ill be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Bingham died Monday, Nov. 18 at the Sterling Heights home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sape.

Born at South Haven April 7, 1902, Mr. Bingham was graduated from Goblesville High School in 1921 and from the University of Michigan with a master's degree in School Administration in 1926.

His first teaching experience was a one-room school at Wagertown where he taught until coming to Charlevoix as a teacher in 1929. His teaching duties included five subjects and junior high physical education. He later became junior high principal and in 1935, high school principal, a position he held until retiring in 1966.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church; a charter member and past president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club and a life member of the Michigan Education Associtiion and the National Education Association.

He is survived by his wife, Monica E.; one daughter, Mrs. Louis (Mable) Sape and a son, John D., both of Sterling Heights; four grandchildren and a brother, Clifford of Lombard Ill.

COMMUNITY NEWS BRIEFS

Officer Assaulted

City police officer Pat Martin was assaulted on Friday night as he attempted to arrest a disorderly person at the Imperial Gas Station on U.S. 31 South.

Martin was hospitalized overnight with cracked ribs, Police Chief Jack Mol reported, and released the next day. He is expected to be off duty for at least the remainder of this week as a result of the injury.

A warrant has been issued charging Thomas O'Connor, 21, with assaulting a police officer.

Martin reportedly was pushed by O'Connor as he attempted to make an arrest. The officer fell over backwards and landed on a pile of bricks, Mol said.

Bed and Breakfast nixed

The Charlevoix Planning Commission recently denied two applications for Class II bed and breakfast businesses on Park Avenue on the grounds that the use would be too intense and increase traffic congestion in the neighborhood.

Class II bed and breakfast licenses allow accommodation of six or more overnight guests. Class I licenses permit five or fewer overnight guests.

A large crowd of Park Avenue residents turned out to protest the two special use permits during the public hearing on Nov. 11.

The permits were requested by Julia Ketzenbarger and Garry La-Fountain, 221 Park Ave. and Ruth S. Emery, 217 Park Ave.

Commendations given

City Council recently passed two resolutions commending the work of the Police Department and fireman Tom Meggison.

The Police Department was praised for its work in investigating and apprehending the suspect believed to have robbed the M-66 branch of the Charlevoix County State Bank. Police Chief Jack Mol accepted the citation on behalf of the department at the Oct. 18 meeting of City Council.

Also passed at that meeting of Council was a resolution commending Tom Meggison of the Fire Department for "his devotion to the City as a well-trained firefighter, and his courage to enter a burning house with the composure needed to carry out his mission in locating and bringing to safety Kimberly Killibrew."

Meggison rescued the four-year-old child from the second story bedroom of her burning home.

Council rejects downtown commercial tax abatements

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council on Monday rejected a request for a commercial tax abatement for the renovation of the See Building on Bridge Street.

Paul Bandrowski, owner of the building, asked for a 12-year tax break on up to 50 percent of the improved value of the building.

He is in the process of restoring the building to house his Villager Candies business on the ground floor, three professional office spaces and a residential apartment on the second floor, and two offices, storage space, and a small production plant for the candy and ice cream store in the basement.

Council unanimously rejected the request, noting that it was establishing policy for the entire downtown development district.

Councilman Earl Muma said the additional tax revenues are needed for the Downtown Development Authority to address the problem of parking. "If we let this go, we are just opening Pandora's box," be said.

Muma said the city must maintain an avenue to capture taxes in the downtown district. He suggested that the DDA and others explore low interest loans to businesses needing financial help.

Councilman Michael Greeley concurred. He said the city had two obligations in the matter – to maintain a financially viable city and to make the city look good. "I think the economic viability takes precedent here," he said.

Several members of council congratulated Bandrowski on the fine job he had done in restoring the business. "You are doing a fantastic job for the city," Muma added.

Commercial tax abatements are necessary, Bandrowski told the Council, to provide an incentive for the improvement of older buildings. His project would cost a quarter of a million dollars, Bandrowski added, which is considerably more than would normally be spent to establish a new business.

A lot of downtown buildings are slowly deteriorating and tax incentives would provide a "pat on the back" to those making restorations, he added.

In other business, Council ordered the removal of excess fill on John Haggard's property on Newman Street. The city maintains that the fill was illegally placed five feet into the city right of way.

The discussion of Newman Street followed a complaint by James Willis that the fill Haggard put on his parking lot was causing runoff into his property and encroached on public street.

City Manager Wiesner agrued that removing the excess fill now could cause erosion problems and should be dealt with in the spring.

CITY ATTORNEY Jeffery Van Treese told council that a complaint had been filed against the Lundy-Heck Company, owners of Northwest Marine, to have them remove pilings placed in the city's easement at the end of Eaton Street. Van Treese said he knew of "no valid defense" for continuing to leave the pilings despite the city's objection.

Council also heard from Wiesner that bids had been received for the Industrial Park and they were over

Summer tax is official

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday, adopted a resolution authorizing the summer tax collection held in the Charlevoix School District in recent years.

State courts have deemed it necessary to annuallly adopt a resolution in order to collect a portion of the school taxes during the summer. School Boards must adopt such a resolution each year.

In the case of the local district, 50 percent of the annual school tax is collected in the summer and the remainder with the December tax bill.

Gayle Gennett who was named Elementary School counselor at the beginning of the current school year, reported on the program to date. The information verified the need for a counselor at this level. She said that of the 545 students in the school, 125 lived in one-parent households and another 40 are involved in a divorce and-or re-marriage program.

In other action, the board approved a contractural change in the time schedule at the Middle School. Teachers will now report from 7:38 a.m. until 3:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:38 a.m. until 2:35 p.m. on Friday. Under the former

The children in this picture were members of a "teacher's training" class at the Charlevoix County Normal School in 1929. Mrs. Julius Elzinga, the former Rose Dodd, has identified the children as follows:

Back row: Robert Livingston, Albert Thorpe, William Hanson, Edward Radle, Rose Dodd, Bernice Edwards, Ruth Archer, Mildred Mitchell, and Elizabeth Ackert.

Front row: Edwardine Bissell, Hilda Thorpe, Thelma Jones, Alma Radle, Gordon Shearer, Bob Miller, Shelby Goss, Donald Carey, and Almeda Vosburg.

The teacher in the picture was a Mrs. Dick. Other teachers included a Mrs. Bigge and Galo Chew, according to Mrs. Elzinga.

Mrs. Elzinga and her sister Mignonette have also helped identify previously unidentified students in the Lincoln School picture printed November 6:

"We believe the last name of the two boys on the left end of the back row might be Walker. Also, in the back row, the three girls next to Carroll Webster are Estelle Holmes, Betty Mahoney, and Beatrice Beardsley. The two boys next to Miss Kay are Orin Sutton and Julian Griffen.

"In the third row, the unidentifiedd boy next to "Bud" Gebeau is Amos Nowland.

"Second row unidentified, the girl on left end is Frieda Nowland. Also, Mignonette (on the other end) is Dodd, not Do.

"One boy in second row, identified as Charles Hendrickson, we believe to be Gilbert Powers."

Northern Christmas trees find eager buyers in cities

by DOUG TRUAX

Most of us in the north country don't put too much thought or time into buying a Christmas tree each year.

For some its as easy as a walk to the back forty.

But imagine yourself in New York City or Houston or Miami. Getting a little of the north woods greenery could become a little more complicated. And a good deal more costly.

Charlevoix's Jack Urben has an answer. For the last three years he has been operating a business called Green Pines: The Christmas Tree Company which will deliver a fresh-cut northern Scotch pine directly to the buyer's door.

A Christmas tree in a box. It's as easy as a phone call or a postage stamp.

Urben, a pharmacist and owner of Crown Drugs, dreamed up the idea some three years ago. He wanted to get a Christmas tree to his parents in Florida. It was no easy task, but he became convinced there was a market for northern Michigan trees among busy people in other parts of the country or urban areas.

"What could be easier than ordering a Christmas tree by mail and have it arrive at your doorstep," Urban said.

He developed a standard lined box which would accept a 5½ to 6-foot Scotch pine. The trees are cut in November and December from one of two plantations in northern Michigan. They are then shipped directly to the customer via UPS.

Urben hand selects all the trees himself and marks them with a yellow ribbon for cutting at the proper time.

In late summer or early fall, like all other growers, Urben sprays the trees with a green dye as the plant enters its dormancy period and begins to show brown needles.

He also puts the trees through a commercial shaker so that when the customer opens the box there are no loose needles falling out.

His business has expanded to include other related lines including handmade wreaths, garland rope, pile boughs and assorted pine cones.

Green Pines also sells taller Scotch pines (6 to 8 feet) and Colorado blue spruce and Douglas fir (over 10 feet) on special order. These trees are wrapped in burlap and shipped by common carrier.

Last year Urben sold some 600 items. This year he is up to 2,000.

To keep up with the business, he is now processing all orders on an IBM computer. Orders are received at his home office in Charlevoix and sent out that night by phone modem to the plantations where labels are printed and sorted by zip code zones.

Most of his promotion comes through newspaper advertisements in major cities. He is also selling through major merchandise catalogs.

"It is a universally accepted product," he says. "The markets are wide open."

Urben says the trees are sold primarily as gifts and several business accounts even send them to clients for display at their offices.

So what will it cost to send a piece of northern Michigan to that dear aunt of yours who hasn't seen a real Christmas tree since she retired to Florida? The standard tree is $40 plus an average of $10 shipping.

Urben is so confident of the quality of his trees that he quarantees them 100 percent.

He is contemplating further expansion to include different greeneries from other parts of the country. Eventually he would like to set up distribution centers in other states where they grow the best of a certain tree, Oregon for Douglas fir, for example.

But Urben sees northern Michigan as the only place to get the best quality, good old-fashioned Christmas tree. Maybe someday it will be a product as synonymous with northern Michigan in winter as fudge is in summmer.

Jack Urben examines the computerized sales records for the Christmas Tree Company.

Area property taxes differ

by PEG OHLE

It makes a difference where you live.

The owner of a house in Peaine Township on Beaver Island with a state equalized valuation of $30,000 (one half of assessed valuation) will pay 1985 taxes of $815.61 on his house.

The owner of a house in East Jordan with the same state equalized valuation will pay taxes of $1,746.30 on his house.

The difference is accounted for by the difference in tax millages – 27.1204 mills in Peaine Township and 58.21 mills in East Jordan.

The millage rates differ because of the costs of operating local schools – 17.0347 mills in Peaine Township and 34.80 mills in East Jordan; and the costs of operating local government – 3.1357 mills in Peaine Township (for Township government, airport, landfill and fire department) and 16.46 mills in East Jordan (for City government, fire department, and street bond).

All other millage ratges are the same – 4.70 mills for County government. 25 mills for County Transit, and two mills for the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

These are the low and the high of tax rates in Charlevoix County, as reported in the Township and City Clerks' Report recently released by the County Equalization Department.

The mill rate for the City of Charlevoix is 47.96, which means the owner of a house in the City with an equalized valuation of $30,000 will pay taxes of $1,438.80.

The mill rate for Charlevoix Township is 37.36, for taxes of $1,120.80 on the same house there.

Mill rates for other nearby townships are: EVELINE, 40.6449 in the Boyne City School District, 35.3549 in the Charlevoix School District, 42.7449 in the East Jordan School District, and 35.0549 in the Ironton School District; HAYES, 40.6392 in the Boyne City School District, 35.3492 in the Charlevoix School District, and 37.3892 in the Petoskey School District; MARION, 35.36 in the Charlevoix School District and 41.78 in the Ellsworth School District; and NORWOOD, 35.36.

The average mill rate for the County as a whole is 42.6466. Last year it was 41.54.

Opinion

Editorial

Nursing home needed

We wholeheartedly support plans for the construction of a nursing care center in Charlevoix.

The proposed Charlevoix Health Care Center would be a 107-bed facility constructed just south of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Forty-nine beds would be for nursing home patients and 58 for the aged.

Fifty-seven of the beds will be certified for Medicaid-Medicare.

The center, a one-story colonial structure of approximately 38,000 square feet, would include a beauty-barber salon, physical therapy clinic, several lounges, activity rooms, laundry service, and a chapel.

The Health Care Center would be ideally located to take full advantage of the services of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Presumably the two institutions would work closely together – a relationship that should be beneficial to both.

The need for a nursing home in Charlevoix has been expressed by many. As our population grows in size, it is also growing in age. We need a place for our elderly and one that is close at hand.

The only other facility in Charlevoix County is the Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan which is inconveniently distant for some and currently has a waiting list.

The need for the facility is further demonstrated by the fact that the state increased the number of proposed beds from 70 in the original application to 107.

The application also includes 14 letters of support from community groups including the Chamber of Commerce; the City of Charlevoix, and Charlevoix Township.

Constructed and run entirely with private funds, the Health Care Center would cost the taxpayers nothing and would contribute a significant amount to the Charlevoix Township treasury.

The proposed center will be examined carefully by the state between now and spring. We hope all goes well and that by the spring of 1987 Charlevoix can boast a new nursing home for its elderly citizens.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

Special thanks to all Ambassadors who worked on this year's membership drive. As a result of their hard effort, 20 businesses have come aboard and at least 10 more are in the works.

We appreciate the extra time the Ambassadors have taken to communicate what the Chamber is all about. That type of communication is an important ingredient in the success of the Chamber and must be an ongoing objective.

Doug and Penny Shaw's warm hospitality at the Bridge Street Inn was just the right touch at the last Ambassador's meeting, when it was announced that Doug generated the most new members.

Area business will once again have an opportunity to secure the traveling trophy awarded each year for the "best dressed window." The Chirstmas season Window Decorating Contest will again be broken into four categories with an overall winner chosen. The categories are: Hard Goods; Gift Shops; Soft Goods; and Service. First and second place in each category will be named with the overall winner securing the traveling trophy. More details to come.

The Annual Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Membership Meeting is 5:30 p.m. Thursday, November 21 at the Charlevoix Yacht Club. The informal meeting will be a wine tasting. All members are encouraged to come and exchange ideas with other Chamber members. A special showing of the '85 Opeation Petunia videotape will be shown. See you there.

schedule they reported at 7:30 a.m. and left earlier in the afternoon.

It congratulated Coach Pete Spieles and the Rayder Cross Country team for their accomplishments of finishing as runner-up in Class C in the state and the fine manner in which they represented the school and the community.

The board approved an overnight trip for the girls varsity basketball team on Dec. 13 as requested by Coach Henry Wagner and for the boys varsity basketball team to visit Ferris State College late in the season as per Coach David Smith's request.

The Board also viewed a video of the Class C boys and girls cross coutry meets at Cass City.

It set Dec. 2 as the date of the next meeting of the school board.

Volunteers will be distributing rice, cheese and honey in Charlevoix County on Wednesday, Nov. 27 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Community Services Center, Boyne City; VFW Hall, Charlevoix; and the Civic Center, East Jordan.

Letters to the Editor:

Agrees with condo critic

Dear Editor,

I liked Jeanne Gerner's remarks on why "condos are not the answer." As a third generation summer visitor (who doesn't live in a condo) I hope that Charlevoix (the city and lake) can retain the qualities that have kept our family coming back for 75 years (so far).

Growth is inevitable and it's up to the permanent residents (not fudgies or developers) to direct your growth in a manner consistent with your goals. Condo proposals will automatically appear on your doorstep and you can react. If you want small industry (and it's benefits) you'll have to act aggressively by seeking proposals from small industry.

More condo owners will spend money and pay property taxes. More small industry can generate the same and more revenue. You'll also gain year round employment opportunities, plus people who will join your churches and civic groups.

In the end, you'll have a more balanced economy and a better quality of life. Finally, you'll retain a unique community that hasn't been reduced to just another high density summer resort.

Fire help cited

Editor:

At the Council meeting on November 11, 1985, I did not get the chance to adequately express my feelings about the fire in which I played a part in saving the life of Kimberly Killibrew, on Monday, November 4, 1985. I was caught off guard, and not being a public speaker was at a loss for words.

I would like to thank Mayor Hal Hill and members of the City Council for passing a resolution to commend me. But it takes the fire department as a team to do the job we are trained to do. On behalf of the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department we will always do the best job possible under trying conditions.

Your continued support of the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department is greatly appreciated (i.e. passing the bond issue to keep the Fire Department in the central business district.)

Thank You Citizens of Charlevoix

fund program," Kratzmeyer said in a telephone interview at his office. "The levels of TCE that reach the lake now are not detectable by any means now available, because the plume is so wide and diffused. We have been running tests constantly in the area out in front of the present well and where we are installing the intake for the new system and at no time have we been able to detect any TCE."

Larry Levengood, District Health Department No. 3 environmental sanitarian agrees, calling the EPA decision "prudent, the most realistic and appropriate for the situation. If you were to purge the groundwater and treat it, it would be cleared up in 30 years."

Levengood revealed that several members of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Groundwater Division also egree.

In a telephone interview at his Lansing office, Rick Jons, chief of the DNR Groundwater Divisions, said that is true, but that nevertheless the consensus of the staff opposes the EPA solution.

"We don't accept the decision," Jons said. "It would set a bad precendent. We are in favor of asking the EPA to reconsider."

Governor Blanchard has asked his Cabinet Council on Environmental Protection to present him with a program of opposition. This should be forthcoming this week, according to David Dempsey, environmental program specialist on the Governor's staff.

"There is a clear consensus among all the environmental and health agencies represented in the Cabinet that this is a dangerous precedent," Dempsey said in a telephone interview at the Governor's office. "It means nothing that the TCE can't be detected in the lake now because it will show up in the fish eventually.

"But it isn't just a question of public heelth," Governor Blanchard's aide insisted. "The real question is whether we have a clear environment in and of itself, for its own sake."

the $385,000 project budget.

Wiesner said the bids were from $5,000 to $45,000 over budget and he would present a detailed analysis of options at the next Council meeting.

CITY MANAGER Michael Wiesner requested a closed session of Council to discuss his job performance. The closed session lasted for approximately 1½ hours.

Clockwise

Construction boom

By Bob Clock

After waiting so many years, it is nice to see construction actually is under way on the hotel-convention center at the site the former Finn Lumber Co. on Round Lake.

In fact, developer John Hisey hopes to have most of the footings poured by December, although demolition of the existing buildings is still a few months away. In the meantime, they will be used to store construction materials.

Hisey says he will have the hotel ready for occupancy next summer. And he probably will, judging from the speed the project is moving ahead.

IT IS ALSO NICE to see so much construction taking place throughout the North.

During the era of high interest rates in the early 1980s, construction hereabouts virtually came to a standstill. But now money is cheaper and new structures are going up in every community. The entire construction industry appears to have been reborn, providing badly needed jobs throughout the area — not to mention the commercial and industrial jobs that will be created once they are completed.

There also appears to be a good deal of new home construction under way, a good indication Northern Michigan is still a fine place to put down roots.

THE WELCOME, a replica of an 18th Century British warship, is back in town, tied up near the foot of Mason Street.

During most of the year, the handsome ship beckons tourists at Mackinaw City.

The worst part of having the Welcome around is that other sailing vessels pale in comparison. If I every buy a sailboat, I want her to look exactly like the Welcome — down to the last detail.

All of which means I'll never acquire a sailboat, because it is unlikely the state will ever put the Welcome on the block.

SPEAKING OF Mackinaw City, I cleaned the basement over the weekend and came across a letter I wrote my mother from that labled City on the Straits 45 years ago while I was attending summer camp at Thumb Lake. I mentioned visiting "Ford Mackinaw."

Now there is nothing unusual about that, since the fort of one of the principal tourist attractions of Mackinaw City.

However, the fort I visited was not the reconstructed version complete with church, barracks, and a snazzy catwalk behind the palisades.

What I remember were remnants of the original 200-year-old fort — a few poles pounded into the forest floor.

The old fort wasn't nearly as educational as the replica that now stands on the same site. But it did have an aura of antiquity that is missing in the newer structure.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

I am puzzled about something Charlevoix. There are railroad tracks all around the area but I never see any trains. Now why I mentioned that is it reminds me of something from my childhood. Railroad crossings didn't used to have lights or gates on them. They did have that "X" shaped sign though. Where I came from it said "Stop, Look, Listen" because that's what they wanted you to do so a train wouldn't come along and run you down!

Realize that even as you read this, you are at a crossing in your life. Yesterday is gone. The moments of this day are rapidly passing. Only the future lays ahead. What are we supposed to do? Three verses from Psalm 90 give us a clue.

"Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting thou are God." Stop! Know that God is faithful!

When I first visited Charlevoix, one of my parishoners gave me a Petoskey stone. Now I realize you can find them everywhere, on the beach, in jewelry, all kinds of things. But do you realize what those stones represent? Those fossils are testimony to the thousands of years of God's faithfulness! The very fact you are able to read and understand these words confirms his faithfulness to you today.

"The days of our years are threescore years and ten, and if by reason of strength they be four-score years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away." Look! The fact is life is short.

Preachers are human and can face difficult moments like anyone else. I was to hold a funeral for an elderly saint. His four-year-old grandson walked up to the casket and said, "preacher, that don't look like my grandpa at all." I both prayed and thought quickly before I answered, "that's because it's not your grandpa at all. That's just the house he lived in." Your life and what you do with it effects not only you but all of us who know you and are about you.

"So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." Listen! the future is right now. If you've lived here for awhile, you probably take this for granted. The first time I heard the fog horn on the Pine River Channel Lighthouse, I had to ask what it was. What the lighthous does for the ships, Jesus Christ does for you and I. If we apply our hearts to his widom, he will guide us all into more blessing filled days than we can possibly number.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Kirby

Bergmann — Kirby

Sherryl L. Bergmann and Jeffrey L. Kirby exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, October 19, at Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bergmann of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kirby of Eastport.

Pastor Kenneth Bernthal officiated at the double-ring ceremony, in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Approximately 75 guests witnessed the ceremony before altar arrangvements of astromaria lilies, carnations, and baby's breath.

The bride wore a gown of white meramist featuring a Victorian ruffled lace bodice, long fitted lace sleeves, and peplum over a full draped skirt. Her veil was attached to a wreath of white silk flowers, and she carried a bouquet of astromaria lilies, stephanotis, baby's breath, and japette orchids.

Bonnie Bergmann assisted the bride as maid of honor. She wore a tea-length dress of pale pink satina fashioned with a scooped neckline and pufled sleeves. Lloyd Kirby served as best man, and Tim Bergmann was an usher.

Music was provided by organist Carol Spalth and vocalists Steve and Sara Stargardt, who offered "Wedding Song" and "Up Where We Belong".

A reception at the Bavarian Inn in Atwood, hosted by the bride's parents, followed the wedding. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Brownwood.

Following a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, the newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix. The bride, a graduate of Butterworth School of Nursing, is employed by the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The bridegroom is studying real estate appraising at North Central Michigan College.

Senior meal program participation is down

by PEG OHLE

Fewer people than planned for participated in the County Commission on Aging's congregate meal program in Charlevoix during the year just completed.

However, more people than planned for had meals delivered to their homes, with the result that only 183 fewer total meals were served than the Commission on Aging budget called for.

During the 12-month period, 2,207 meals were eaten at the luncheon site in the Charlevoix High School, and 2,430 were delivered to persons at home. The Commission on Aging had budgeted for 3,500 meals at the High School and delivery of 1,320 meals.

The same trend was evident in East Jordan, where 14,771 meals were eaten at the luncheon site in the Senior Center and 5,996 were delivered to persons at home. The budget had called for 16,000 meals at the Senior Center and delivery of 5,000 meals.

In Boyne City, the difference between budget and actual meals served was greater. There, 8,693 meals were eaten at the luncheon site in City Hall and 5,071 were delivered. The budget called for 10,000 meals at the meal site and delivery of 4,769 home meals.

The Commission on Aging operated on a budget of $96,857 for the meal program this past year and received contributions of only $24,771.90 from those eating the meals. This was $11,548.10 less than the Commission had counted on. The difference is made up from Federal grants.

The district winner will return to Gaylord for the regional Class C tournament the first week in December.

George Kleiber of Charlevoix was doubly lucky this deer season. He bagged a seven-point buck with his bow on the final Sunday of the bow and arrow season and the following Friday he added a five-point buck on the opening day of rifle season. Kleiber, who works at Village Inn Pizza and Charlevoix Manufacturing, has been bow hunting since he was 14 years old.

After a beautiful opener, the 1985 deer season turned wet and miserable for the weekend.

Haul out winter gear, ski swap is on

Do you have any winter sports equipment around the house or in the garage that you'd like to sell or swap?

The Charlevoix High School ski team is collecting such items for its Ski Swap to be held at the high school cafeteria Sunday Nov. 24.

Equipment they will accept for sale or swap is not limited to skis.

"It can be any type of wintr sports equipment including sleds, skates of every description, bump jumpers, toboggans, ski poles and even winter sports gear such as boots, mittens and outdoor garments used in the sport," Erik Lungetigen, ski coach said of the annual ski swap which is the team's major fund-raiser.

Those with items to be sold are to register them at the cafeteria between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday.

The sale will be held between noon and 6 p.m. on Sunday.

If you're looking for winter sports equipment, the Ski Swap on Sunday, Nov. 24, will be the place to start. Or, if you have scads of equipment the kids no longer use, this is an opportunity to dispose of it by making it available to someone else.

Chamber of Commerce past is told to group

Plans for the annual Christmas potluck dinner by the Charlevoix Historical Society to be held Tuesday, Dec. 3, were made at the recent meeting of the organization.

All members are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. The special events committee of William Price, Phyllis Gill and Mary Geiken are coordinating the event scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. The Charlevoix High School Drama Department will present the program.

Twenty-five members of the society gathered for the recent meeting at which Max Hosmer, former president of the Board of Commerce, as it was called at that time, gave an interesting history of the early-day growing pains of this community organization.

His files dated back to 1957 but he gave credit to Stewart E. Coleman, a beloved high school teacher, who managed the board during the summer since the 1930s.

Claudia Kenifeck, present executive director of the Chamber, told of the current activities of the Chamber. Both phases of the program emphasized the fact that Charlevoix is a "viewing" community and the goal is to keep it that way.

VFW Auxiliary plans set

Plans for several future events were made at a recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars No. 1153 held at the post home.

The first will be the monthly potluck to be held at the post home at 1 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 24. Mrs. Larry Finck has been named hostess. The dinner will have a patriotic theme in commemoration of Veterans Day. Members are urged to attend and bring prospective members. All veterans in the area are invited.

The Nov. 21 meeting of the Auxiliary has been cancelled. The next regular meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 5.

Tentative plans were also made for the annual Christmas party for members and their families. The potluck dinner will be held at the post home at 1 p.m. and will feature a visit from Santa who will deliver gifts and treats to the children.

Mrs. Ruth Foster was the winner of the handcrafted quilt donated to the auxiliary. Mrs. Arlene Staley and Mrs. Rosalyn Goldstick delivered it to the Foster home. David Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller, had pulled the winning number.

Also at the recent business meeting, members

- Voted to contribute $100 to the Traverse City State Hospital to help underwrite the cost of Christmas gifts for hospitalized veterans.
- Agreed to assist the Karl Killibrew family with a donation of household items and a cash contribution. The family lost many of their possessions in a recent fire.
- Heard a report from Mrs. John Curtis that members had contributed 50 hours as volunteer workers with the Social Services food distribution program.
- Heard a report by Mrs. Staley, auxiliary president, that robin cancer pins would be available and that the auxiliary had set as its goal the sale of $50,000 worth of the pins which benefit the cancer fund. The group also redeems Glen slips with the proceeds being earmarked for the cancer fund.
- Distributed "Say Yes to Seat Belts" as part of the group's safety program.

Bridge Street Theatre auditions children

Pritchard Productions has announced auditions to fill two children's parts for Charlevoix's 218 Bridge St. Theatre's "The Christmas Show." The auditions will be held Saturday, Nov. 23, at 10 a.m. at 218 Bridge St.

According to Producer David M. Pritchard the company is seeking four children, two boys and two girls, between 10 and 12 years old to take part in "The Christmas Show," which will open Dec. 5 and play through Dec. 23.

Pritchard explained, "Actually there are only two parts for children, one boy and one girl, but because we will be carrying a rigorous schedule we felt it would be best to double cast and alternate the children's performances."

"The Christmas Show's" schedule calls for performances Thursday through Sunday evenings each weekend. In addition, Tom Warth, owner of 218 Bridge St. reports many groups are requesting additional special performances.

"The Christmas Show" is described as "a Christmas present to you and your family. A montage of Christmas past, present and future...a delightful mingling of nostalgia and the Christmas spirit.

"The case will bring you vignettes from your favorite Christmas shows, with visits from Scrooge and Tiny Tim, Ahmal and the Wise Men, with a touch of Como, a hint of Crosby."

The children will work with members of the Pritchard Productions professional company for this show.

Children wishing to audition should bring a prepared piece of music to perform. They also will be asked to read from the show's script during the audition.

Charlevoix Courier recipe contest is held for fifth year

Included in this cookbook are all of the recipes submitted by contestants in the fifth-annual Charlevoix Courier Holiday Recipe Contest.

Entrants submitted recipes which were numbered so that the names of the contestants would not be known to the judges.

Recipies were entered in five categories: festive main dishes, holiday meal side dishes, party appetizers and beverages, homemade baked goods, and holiday food gifts.

Judges reviewed all the recipes and selected three finalists and an alternate in each category.

Those 15 people were then invited to prepare their dishes and bring them to the final judging session held last Wednesday in the Market Mall.

Judges for the finals included Dave Phillips, chef at 218 Bridge Street restaurant, Janet Rathke, home economist for the Charlevoix County Extension Service, and Jeanne Gorklewicz, a gourmet cook from Charlevoix.

Also assisting in the preliminary judging was Mike Bonello, a member of a gourmet club in Charlevoix.

First place winners each received grocery gift certificates totalling $50 from Glen's, Oleson's, and Edward's. Other winners received various gifts including $10 cash prizes from Riccardi's and the Courier, flowers from Expressions Unlimited, and food gifts.

½ cup evaporated skimmed milk

⅛ teaspoon each salt and white pepper

Using sharp knife, cut a cross on the flat side of each chestnut; transfer nuts to 1-quart saucepan and add enough water to cover. Bring to a boil and cook for 10 minutes; drain nuts and let cool until easy to handle. Remove and discard shells and skin. Reserve 2 whole chestnuts and coarsely chop remaining 10; set aside.

In 2-quart saucepan heat margarine over medium-high heat until bubbly and hot; stir in scallions and carrot and saute for 3 minutes; remove ¼ cup scallion-carrot mixture and reserve. Add flour to saucepan and, using wire whisk, stir quickly to combine; stirring constantly, cook for 1 minute longer. Continuing to stir, gradually add water; add broth mix, bay leaf, and chopped chestnuts and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover, and let simmer for 30 minutes.

Remove and discard bay leaf. Pour half of chestnut mixture into blender container and process until smooth; transfer to bowl and repeat procedure with remaining chestnut mixture. Return mixture and reserved scallions and carrot to saucepan and heat; stir in milk and let simmer for 1 minute longer. Chop remaining 2 chestnuts and stir into soup along with salt and pepper.

STUFFED ACORN SQUASH

Makes 4 servings, each providing: 1 Protein Exchange; 1 Bread Exchange; ¼ Vegetable Exchange; ½ Fat Exchange; 1 Fruit Exchange; 45 calories Optional Exchange

2 teaspoons margarine

1 small apple, cored and diced

¼ cup each chopped onion and celery

4 ounces cooked veal sausage meat, finely chopped

⅓ cup apple juice (no sugar added)

¼ cup raisins

3 tablespoons plain dried bread crumbs

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon pepper

⅛ teaspoon sage leaves, crushed

1 acorn squash (about 1½ pounds)*

½ cup water

2 teaspoons each firmly packed dark brown sugar and honey

In 8-inch nonstick skillet heat margarine over medium-high heat until bubbly and hot; add apple, onion, and celery and saute, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are soft and apple is lightly browned, 2 to 3 minutes. Add sausage, juice, and raisins and stir well; cook until sausage and raisins are heated through, 1 to 2 minutes.

Preheat oven to 375° F. Trim off ends of squash. Cut squash in half crosswise; remove and discard seeds. Cut each squash half horizontally in half, making 2 squash rings and 2 squash cups. Transfer sausage mixture to medium mixing bowl; add bread crumbs, salt, pepper, and sage and mix until thoroughly combined. In 8x8x2-inch casserole arrange squash rings and cups; spoon an equal amount of sausage mixture into each. Pour water into casserole, cover, and bake until squash is tender, 25 to 30 minutes.

In small saucepan combine sugar and honey and cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until sugar is dissolved, about 1 minute; spoon ¼ of sugar mixture over each portion of squash and return squash to oven. Bake, uncovered, until stuffing is browned and crisp on top, 10 to 15 minutes.

* A 1½ pound acorn squash will yield about 2 cups cooked squash.

2 tablespoons each red wine vinegar and water

1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard

2 teaspoons olive oil

⅛ teaspoon each salt and pepper

In medium salad bowl combine spinach with mushrooms and red pepper strips. In small bowl combine vinegar with water, sugar, and mustard. Add oil, salt and pepper and mix well; pour dressing over salad and toss to coat.

1½ cups low-calorie cranberry juice, divided

½ cup fresh or frozen cranberries (no sugar added)

2 teaspoons cornstarch

1 teaspoon granulated sugar

Garnish: shredded orange peel

In small saucepan combine 1¼ cups cranberry juice with the cranberries and, over high heat, bring to a boil; cook, stirring occasionally, until liquid reduces and berries split, about 5 minutes. Serving suggestions for holiday turkey

Traditionally, the holiday season is the time when families and friends come together for large, home-cooked feasts. It is also the time when doctors see a jump in illness due to improperly prepared food.

Feeding a large group calls for special measure. Phil Kirkwood, deputy chief of the Division of Environmental Health for the Michigan Department of Health, and Jon Gould, owner of the Point East Restaurant in Jackson and chairman of the Michigan Restaurant Association, suggests following the same guidelines as Michigan restaurants follow:

Defrost your turkey in the refrigerator. This calls for some forethought as large birds may take a few days to completely thaw.

Use a meat thermometer when cooking turkey. Insert the thermometer into the center of the bird and cook the turkey to as least 165 degrees Fahrenheit.

Wrap leftovers and store them in the refrigerator or freezer. Don't leave turkey, dressing or gravy at room temperature for more than two hours.

Reheat leftovers to 165 degrees. Simply warming food can release bacteria instead of destroying it.

Gould adds one more suggestion to this list. He recommends cooking dressing outside the turkey. He reasons that the thermometer in the turkey may register 165 degrees Fahrenheit while the dressing inside is still not fully cooked.

Failing to bring the food up to 165 degrees allows bacteria, including staph toxins, strep and salmonella infectious organisms to remain and grow on food. "This does not mean that everyone eating warmed-up leftover turkey will pick up an infection," added Gould, "but it certainly increases the chances."

Ferry Beach funds approved

By DOUG TRUAX

The Department of Natural Resources has approved a grant of $132,000 for the purchase of the Ferry Avenue Beach annex, City Manager Michael Wiesner told City Council Monday.

The DNR grant, from the Michigan Land Trust Fund, would provide 50 percent of the cost of purchasing the land. The remainder would be paid by the city.

The grant offer will go to Council next Monday for official acceptance.

Council, meeting in a working session, was also told by Wiesner that the bids for development of the Charlevoix Industrial Park were $87,065.53 over budget. Wiesner said the increase in costs was due in part to considerable amounts of groundwater and clay found in the Industrial Park, requiring more expensive construction techniques.

The contract for sewer and road improvements in the Industrial Park was awarded to McNamee, Porter, and Seeley of Ann Arbor. The project is being funded by a $385,000 Small Cities Grant from the state.

Wiesner outlined three alternatives to reduce costs, noting that he hoped the state would pick up one-half of the extra costs through the grant.

Council approved an alternative that would bring the overrun to $40,387.96. Under this revised plan, the city would still construct a pump station for the park's sewers at Ance and Taylor Roads, but would raise the elevation from 22 feet to some 15 feet, avoiding some of the groundwater problems.

The disadvantage, Wiesner said, was that the sewer would no longer serve future needs in the area north of the industrial park bounded by Mercer, Martin and Waller roads.

Council was also informed that because of the delays the city will not be able to meet its commitment to provide sewer to Wilmot Electric by Jan. 1, 1986 as planned. The company was the first to build in the new Industrial Park and will now construct a septic system on site.

ROGER WESTENBROEK, who is completing a study of the city's electrical system, recommend to the Council that it purchase additional power from Michigan Public Power Agency. MPPA, a coopertive which supplies power to various municipalities including Charlevoix, is offering low cost power purchased from the Lansing Board of Water and Light.

Westenbroek said he would recommend a conservative amount of power be purchased until the city has some experience with the amounts required. Under his recommendation, Charlevoix could save $63,000 by buying the Lansing power from MPPA next year. The maximum savings could go as high as $90,000, Westenbroek said.

Westenbroek cautioned against buying too much power from MPPA since the rates it pays Consumers Power Company for additional power is governed by a "rachet factor" which establishes a minimum cost based on previous peak usage.

He also suggested the city institute a careful record keeping. "Keep close tabs on the power supply," he said. "You're talking a lot of bucks here."

THE CITY'S CABLE TV contract was also discussed by Council. Charlevoix's contract with Lake Charlevoix Cable TV expires in March of 1986.

LeRoy Campbell, general manager of the cable company, presented a proposed new contract and told Council that his company would be installing new electronic gear which could increase the number of channels in Charlevoix.

Campbell asked that the new contract be written for 15 years, rather than the 10 years in the current contract. The 15-year contract, he said, was an industry standard and would "make investors feel a lot safer with their money."

City Attorney Jeffrey Van Treese told Council that most of the changes

Ellsworth awaits pollution verdict

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

Ellsworth - The questions of who is responsible for the chemical pollution of Ellsworth Lake, who will clean it up and how, cannot begin to be answered until the results of Department of Natural Resource (DNR) tests are revealed, sometime in the next month.

Maurice Taylor, principal owner of the land and steel fabricating plants that were the focus of a search warrant and DNR tests Nov. 6, denies any responsibility for the high levels of arsenic, copper, chrome and other heavy metals found in Ellsworth Lake.

Taylor maintains that the former Ellsworth Canning Factory, which his business, Morweld Steel, purchased about 1970, is the only possible source of the poisons.

The DNR conducted the search of the grounds of International Disc Corporation (IDC), the most recent steel fabricating plant at the site, because high concentrations of arsenic and other chemicals had been discovered in Ellsworth Lake earlier in the summer. The steel operations were implicated as source of pollution when DNR conservation officers observed barrels, possibly containing chemicals, as well as evidence of discharge of chemicals into the lake at the plant.

In early summer, bass fishermen complained that the lake smelled peculiar and that the shore was edged with a "foamy whitish crud," according to Ellsworth Village Council President Ron Hext. Hext and other residents contacted the DNR through Governor Blanchard's office and the first water samples wee taken in July.

In an affidavit attached to the search warrant, DNR conservation officer, Glen Hare stated that "A heat treating line was installed that utilized cyanide salts, a cadmium plating line was also installed at the plant which utilized various heavy metals."

Taylor also claims his operations never used dangerous chemicals. "We have only used two types of salt in our heat treatment process – one a table salt, the other potassium nitrate salt, similar to fertilizer.

"We have never used arsenic or any of the other chemicals the DNR is talking about," Taylor said from Scarborough, Ontario, where he was reached at Runnymeade Development Corporation. "If there was arsenic it was from the canning factory or someone upstream."

Taylor's denials are greeted with considerable cynicism according to Ellsworth Village Council President Ron Hext.

According to William Sherman, President of Sherman Canning in East Jordan, Taylor's accusations are without basis:

"It's impossible that the canning factory was responsible. No way would they have anything like that around. Arsenic is never used in the processing of food."

Referendum date set

Feb. 17 has been tentatively set as the date for a referendum in Charlevoix Township on the rezoning of Weter's Edge.

Voters will be asked to approve or disapprove the change in zoning from residential (R-2) to multifamily (R-4) for the 40 acre parcel.

Wind rips through city

Seventy mile per hour winds ripped through the Charlevoix area last Wednesday, leaving many homes northwest of town without power for several days.

Top' Michigan Rural Electric Co. reported as many as 2,500 customers without power in its 12 county northern Michigan district after the early morning windstorm.

The storm also uprooted trees in Charlevoix and destroyed a trailer in the Bay Shore Estates trailer park.

Lucille Cassidy and her six-year-old daughter were at home in their house trailer on Wednesday morning when a gust of wind blew the trailer off its base. They went next door to warn neighbor Duke Stoneham to move his car and then went to the park manager's office to report the incident.

A few minutes later the trailer was blown upside down, landing on its roof and destroying much of the contents of the trailer.

Mrs. Cassidy was hospitalized with an asthma attack later that morning.

The trailer was uninsured, she said. The Red Cross provided emergency shelter and supplies to the family immediately after the incident. The Rainbow Shoppe in Charlevoix contributed clothes and food as well.

Stoneham said additional donations are still needed. Interested persons can contact him at the Bay Shores Estates trailer park or can call the Red Cross..

Paula Moats joins Courier staff

The Charlevoix Courier's new advertising salesperson is an old friend to many business people in town.

Paula Moats started recently selling advertising for the Courier after completing a sales training period with the Petoskey News Review. She returned to Charlevoix recently after living for the past several years in Savannah, Georgia and Riverside, California.

Paula is a native of St. Clair Shores but moved to Petoskey when she was four and lived in Charlevoix from the eighth grade through her graduation from Charlevoix High School in 1981.

She attended college at Northern Michigan University in Marquette for one year and then moved to California where she attended Riverside City Collge. She also received computer training in Hollywood, California.

The move into advertising is new for Paula, but she finds it a refreshing change. "I was offered several other jobs in Charlevoix, but they didn't feel right," she recalls. "I was looking for something different ... a new challenge."

So far she finds the jobs fits her fine. "I enjoy working with old friends in town and meeting so many people I didn't know in the 10 years I lived here. It's a very friendly place and I'm happy to be back."

Paula's father, David, was the owner of Davino's Restaurant in Petoskey for many years. Her brother, Rob, owns the Showbiz Family Video Club in Petoskey. Paula lives in Charlevoix with her mother and stepfather, Bob and Pauline Crandell.

Paula Moets

Paula was involved in peer group counseling at Charlevoix High School and participated on the tennis and track teams. Her special love is horses and she soon hopes to give one a home.

Mesquite completes busy season

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite left the port of Charlevoix Thursday morning, Nov. 21, en route to the Sturgeon Bay area on the west coast of Lake Michigan to decommission 67 aids to navigation.

The assignment comes during one of the busiest buoy tending seasons ever for the Mesquite.

The Coast Guard ship was assigned to make the Wisconsin trip to fill in for the CGC Acacia which was unable to leave port due to engine difficulties and a broken shaft.

The Mesquite is scheduled to return to home port prior to the Thanksgiving holiday and will then complete its regular buoy tending duties prior to the Christmas holdiays. The ship normally handles winter buoy decommissioning from Arcadia on the eastern shore of Lake

Mini-golf approved by Planning Commission

The Charlevoix Planning Commission approved a special use permit and site plan for a contour golf course adjacent to the Captain's Corner shopping center on Monday.

Ward J. Gremore of Harbor Springs presented plans for the proposed mini-golf course which will feature waterfalls and a pond. He also showed slides of Pirate's Cove Adventure Golf, a similar course he constructed in Petoskey.

This is the first course proposed under the city's new special use provision for mini-amusement parks south of Pine River Channel.

Gremore said the project would present a "clean, wholesome atmosphere." There will be "no clowns with arms waving up and down," he added, and it will include the best and most prolific landscaping.

John Friedly questioned Gremore about the height of the waterfall which the developer said would be approximately 18 feet including the backsplash. The height of the waterfall in Petoskey is 22 feet, Gremore noted.

Friedly recommended a lower profile for the course. "Eighteen feet is too high as far as I'm concerned," he said. The commission eventually settled on 16 feet as the maximum height and also made approval contingent on staff review of drains, lighting, and other details of the plan.

The site plan also includes a retail store to be built at a later date. Additional parking would have to be provided at that time, the commission said.

NOV

50 years ago today

by PEG OHLE

There wasn't much in the November 27, 1935 issue of the Charlevoix Courier to indicate it was the day before Thanksgiving.

In fact, the only two references to Thanksgiving in that newspaper of 50 years ago was a one paragraph announcement of the service at the Congregational Church on Thanksgiving morning to "take time to be thankful for all things", and an advertisement by the Charlevoix State Savings Bank thanking its customers for their "loyalty and the opportunity to serve" them during the past year.

Charlevoix residents who remember 1935, remember it as being in the depth of the depression, and Thanksgiving was probably really a time just "to be thankful for all things".

Some of those things could have been happenings reported in the Courier that week:

"All Employables on WPA (Works Progress Administration) Projects". The story indicated that persons certified from the Welfare Offices in Charlevoix, Antrim, and Otsego Counties had been absorbed in 20 projects to start the following Monday morning.

The headline on another story read, "Pensions Given to County Aged", indicating that "54 are receiving aid under the new law and many applications are pending". The pensions ranged from $5 to $14 a month, depending on need.

While these pensions were small, the cost of living was also comparatively low. Another November 27, 1935 story indicated the winter tax rate in Charlevoix would be 22.18 mills. This means that winter taxes on a house worth $10,000 then (a mighty fine house for those days) would be $110.90.

Other Courier stories of the time dealt with more familiar subjects: The annual Christmas Seal drive was starting; the basketball season was opening in a few days; the Maple Grove and Marion Center Granges installed new officers; the State Fish Hatchery at Oden reported it had planted 14,500 rainbow trout yearlings in Lake Charlevoix during the year; there was neighborhood news from Ellsworth, Eveline, Atwood, Norwood, Ironton, East Jordan, and Rock Elm (where was that?).

Less familiar subjects included news that air mail service could soon come as far north as Traverse City; dates for closing the lighthouses; two ads for Lydia Pinkham's elixir for all ailments of women; and Chapter I of Kathleen Norris' "Maiden Voyage", heralding many weeks of exciting story time for Courier readers.

Now, 50 years later, there are no WPA programs but there are many sources of government help for those who do not have adequate steady incomes. And, as far as pensions are concerned, Social Security is providing much more than $5 to $14 a month to help senior citizens.

Our news stories cover many different subjects today because we lead different lives in a different world from 1935. However, there are some similarities. We have news stories about several organizations helping to bring Thanksgiving cheer to those who are poor or ill. The Thanksgiving church service was become an ecumenical affair.

'Just a common dude,' says Charlevoix Township's main man

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

UNDERSTANDING OSCAR

Charlevoix Township Supervisor, Oscar Stroud has been called "The Boss" or "Richard Daley" of Charlevoix Township comparing him to the powerful late mayor of Chicago.

He has been variously described as irreplaceable or irrascible, man of action or stubborn and undiplomatic.

Throughout a recent interview, during which he patiently drummed his fingers and mused that 90 percent of the reporter's notes would have to be thrown out, Stroud responded to a variety of questions. He laughed off the questions that could seem rude, parried allegations that he was brusk and a bulldozer, and candidly discussed his reign as Charlevoix Township Supervisor.

ON PERSONALITY AND STYLE:

"I'm just a common dude," Oscar Stroud said.

He settled into an easy chair behind the valves and pipes of his township's water system, just inside the meticulously clean north side fire station.

Question: "Your style has been compared to that of late Dick Daley. People say you have lots of power and aren't afraid to use it."

Stroud: "I'm going to get a big hat one of these days," he grinned. The pompom on the top of his plaid cap wobbled.

"I don't think I'm too powerful. I wish I were. I could get things done faster. I could keep ahead of the problems and keep up with the times."

Q: "Do you enjoy your job?"

Stroud: "Absolutely. I enjoy being supervisor. I was in local government for three years in the 1940s. I resigned to work in the post office. I came back in 1969 and have been involved ever since.

"When I took the Supervisor's job I said there was never to be a meeting that I didn't know about. I want to go to every meeting so I know what everyone is thinking and saying.

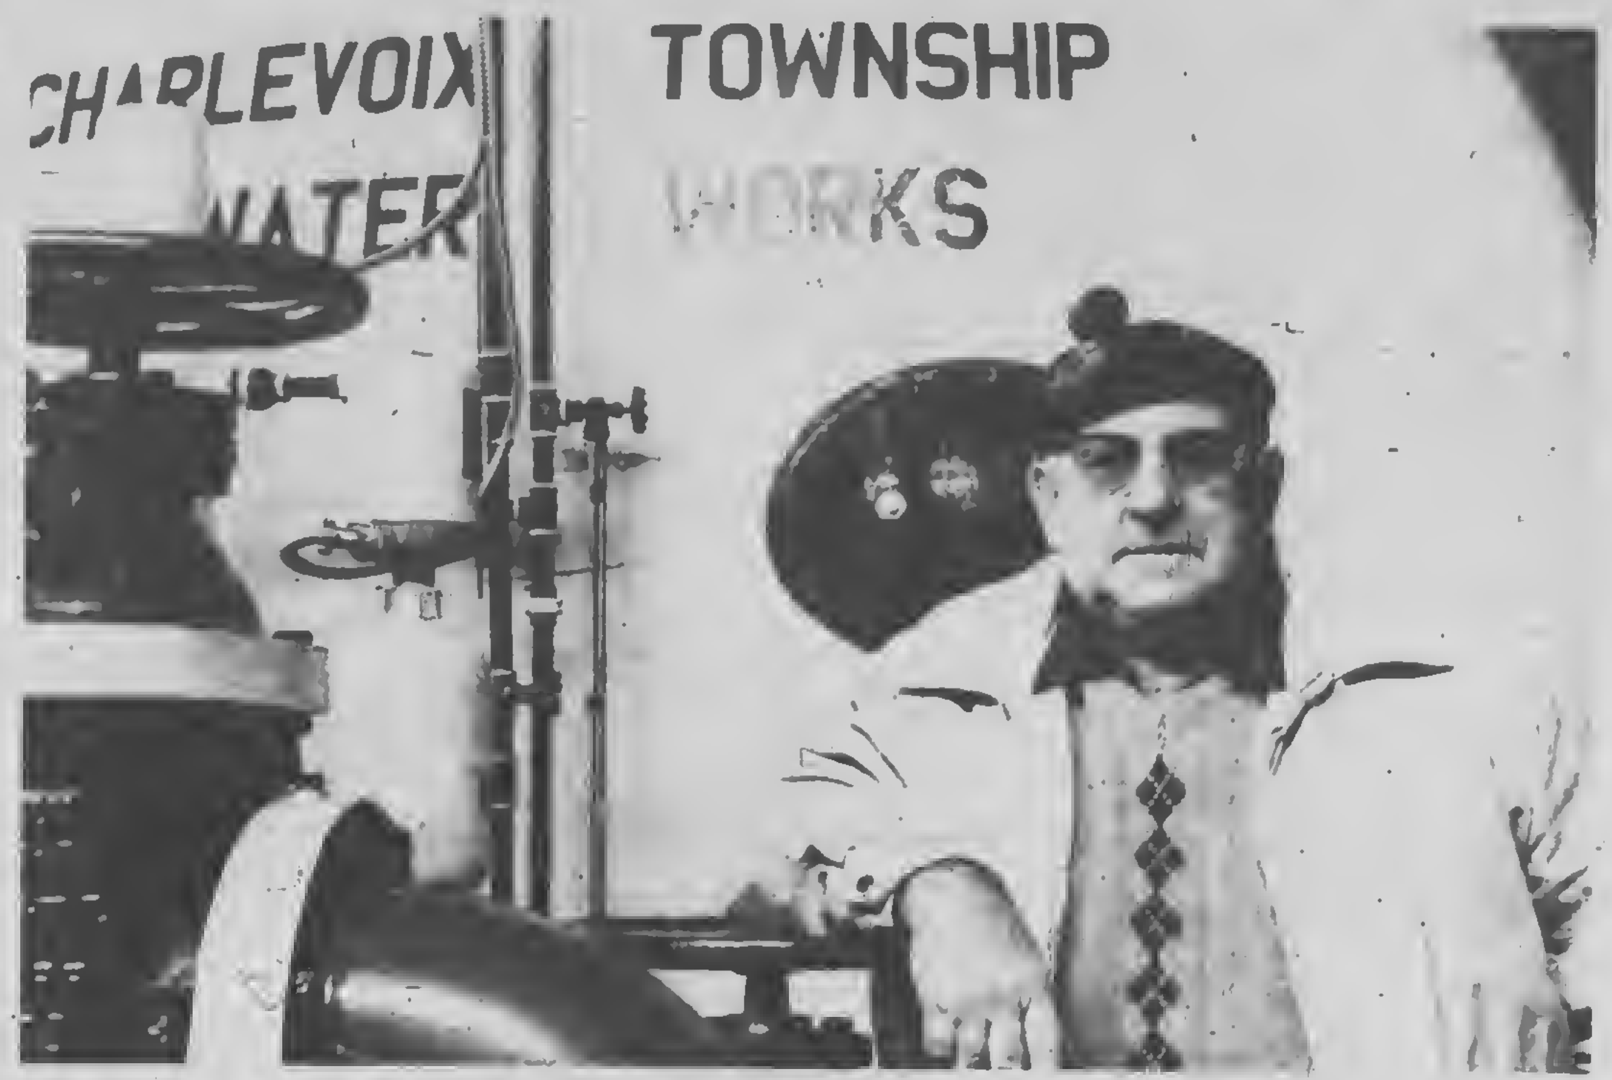
Stroud flipped an imaginary coin in the air, turning over an empty hand.

"People think I make decisions too quickly. They say I make serious decisions by flipping a coin. They don't know all the serious work was done a long time before.

"I was Assessor for six years. But that job – Assessor – should never go with any political job.

"When the orders came for evaluation I did my best. Then I came into conflict with Medusa over their assessment. I felt they were under assessed.

"But the Assessor's job should be a person's sole job, so he doens't have to worry about votes.



Oscar Stroud

ON CONFLICT

Q: "Does conflict bother you?"

Stroud: "I don't mind conflict." He said emphatically and smiled.

Q: "What about confrontations? I am thinking of the time you confronted the Abbots over the pile of sand on the public access to the beach."

Stroud: "I am not afraid of confrontation. And we won that case. I hate to spend money for lawyers and lawsuits if we can sit down and negotiate. But if you want to fight we will.

"I don't call people's bluffs, I just do it.

"There used to be docks on Pine Point between the lake and the road in the winter. I told the people out there I would have them hauled away and I hauled away one boat. Now its cleaned up.

Q: "Some people are frightened of you."

Stroud: "I don't think so." (He seemed genuinely surprised) "The ones that are frightened don't know this is just my way.

"I am considering everybody. I may snap off answers, but I am listening.

"It's like those people who come up on weekends and want their water service on. They never call ahead. So I give them a bad time about it. But I turn it on for them."

Q: "It's said you get things done, no matter what. That you are not always patient with details, that you are not very diplomatic."

Stoud: "I wish I did always get things done. A lot of things get done, but not exactly the way I want. I have to negotiate.

"I am not a detail man. Details may be necessary, but there are other people who get paid to watch details. It's like lawyers. They always give you two answers. I want someone who can give you guidance and a straight answer.

Q: "Do you count votes?"

Stroud: "Count votes? Not really. I listen to comments. If I think I have evidence before me I do what I think is right. I do not just listen to one side. I want information.

ON TOWNSHIP GOVERNMENT AND THE CITY

Q: "Is it important that the township be independent? You have had many go-rounds with the city over merger?"

Stroud: "Township government is one of the best you can get. People make it work.

"Township independence is important, but I want to see the township and city get together: I have personally tried three different solutions.

"The one and only thing, or maybe there are two, things that separate the township and city, but the big thing is taxes. The city assessment is $14 per $1,000, the township is $3 per $1,000. That's a big difference in evaluation.

A SOLUTION

"I had a plan, but they said it wasn't legal. I say 'so what if it works?'

"First there should be a mayor-city council government, not this city manager government, to run the city and township. But they should have separate bookkeeping for the spending. Spend township revenues in the township and city revenues in the city. Have another set of books for the government.

"For the community's sake it would be better to have one government, but the city is going to have to make some sacrifices so the township people will trust them. We must have equal representation.

"In the past the city has talked cooperation but when the deal is ready to be made they write us a letter telling us how its going to be. We must be a part of the process.

TOWNSHIP INDEPENDENCE

"That's why we developed our own water system, our own fire department. Now we have our own ambulance. We're not using it now as an ambulance, it's an equipment truck for our firemen.

"If the city plays fair with us so we can afford their ambulance service we won't put our ambulance in.

"When the city wanted to charge township residents to use the beaches and field, we built our own recreation area. We don't charge them and they haven't mentioned charging us anymore.

POWER-CONTACTS-POLITICS

Q: "It's said you have a lot of powerful contacts and use them.

Stroud: "I live politics. When I was Chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican Party, I worked closely with Phil Ruppe when he was our Congressman. If I called and gave him data on a vet, within a week it was done. Ruppe even got one man out of the Marines because of family problems.

"I used to have a lot on contacts. I guess I am pulling back now."

Q: "You seem to get a lot of things done for free."

Stroud: "Guess I've got the guts to ask. The only goverment grant we ever asked for was for the tennis courts. We waited three years. We had given up when in they walked with the money.

"We persuade people to help.

"We try to get $1.50 worth for

Senior Citizen Center Welcomed

Senior citizens in Charlevoix at long last have a place to call their own.

Next week seniors will have the use of the facilities at the VFW hall on U.S. 31 North. The new site will be in use five days a week for noon meals, classes, special programs, health screenings, and a variety of other programs.

The center was possible because the VFW made the hall available for a nominal cost and because United Way of Charlevoix was willing to add senior citizens as one of its service agencies. The latter allowed United Way to contribute the bulk of the maintenance and staff costs for the center.

That Charlevoix has had no senior citizen's center to this point has been something of a community disgrace. Senior centers are available in Petoskey, Boyne City, and East Jordan. For some inexplicable reason, Charlevoix was left out in the cold.

Seniors were forced to have the luncheon program in the high school after the noon hour and amidst a fair amount of confusion. Needless to say, few participated, and those that did found the arrangement unsatisfactory.

Other programs have been difficult or impossible to plan because of the lack of a facility.

The new senior citizen center gives Charlevoix a chance to develop an active and meaningful program for its elder residents for the first time. Let's hope the program prospers and grows.

Anyone wanting to help kick things off for the new clubhouse should make plans to stop by for an open house at the VFW hall on Sunday, Dec. 1, beginning at noon. There's plenty to celebrate.

An Enemy of the People

By Bob Clock

Whoever first said "There's nothing new under the sun" sure knew whereof he spoke.

I'm on another Henrik Ibsen kick — a weakness that recurs every couple of years. Last week I read his An Enemy of the People, written in 1882.

The action of the play revolves around the discovery by a Dr. Stockmann of bacteria in the water supply of a small Norwegian resort community which is pinning its hopes for the future on the development of a health spa, including mineral baths.

The town has a considerable investment in the baths and the merchants are slavering over the prospects of hordes of well heeled vacationers jamming the town to take advantage of them. But the doctor suspects the water line to the baths may be contaminated at its source and subsequent tests prove he is correct.

At first, Dr. Stockmann is elated by his discovery, assuming he has headed off a major calamity.

But his fellow townsmen, including the press and stockholders in the baths, take a different view. They don't have the money to construct a new water line and they see their economic future going down the drain — so to speak. They are afraid that if word gets out that the baths are contaminated, vacationers will stay home in droves.

After being denied the right to publish his bacteria report in the local newspaper, Dr. Stockmann calls a public meeting to reveal his findings. But the citizens are outraged and the poor doctor is declared "An Enemy of the People." He also loses his position as public health officer for the baths and is boycotted by his former patients. His house is stoned and all the windows are broken.

At first Dr. Stockmann is tempted to pull up stakes and flee to America. But in the end he decides to stay home and battle his enemies on their own turf.

THE PLOT is something akin to the situation in Charlevoix a few years ago when the chemical trichloroethylene (TCE), a suspected cancer-causing agent, was discovered in the city water supply.

Although the local press covered the story in detail from the start, there were some among us, I know, who would have preferred that the tainted water remain a local issue. Some feared that if word got out our summer visitors would be scared away.

Fortunately, the metro press has covered the story thoroughly, but so far it has failed to produce any noticeable inroads on our summer population, probably because the health danger appears to be minimal.

Everyone connected with the situation has acted with a high degree of candor — which is as it should be.

If Dr. Stockmann's village had had an Environmental Protection Agency and a Department of Natural Resources to help finance a new water line, the doctor's life would have been easier.

But Ibsen would have been denied fodder for an excellent social drama, which still makes pertinent reading after 103 years.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Pastor Duane Nelson
Church of the Nazarene

With a chill in the air and the barren trees swaying to and fro, the autumn winds push in another season of Thanksgiving festivities. We are presently in the midst of Thanksgiving 1985. But what is our Thanksgiving perspective?

Normally, when we hear to the word "thanksgiving," we tend to focus our attention on only a partial meaning of the word and season. The first thoughts, probably, would center around a family setting. Glancing across the room now, we locate familiar faces of relatives that have come for the holiday.

From that thought, our senses immediately pick up the aroma of that butter-basted turkey. Our nose carries us into the dining area to delight itself with the aroma of the other fine foods that typify the season. After we have filled our plate and abruptly stuffed our face, we relax in front of the television to faintly watch a football game or a parade while dosing off into a well deserved rest.

Now those thoughs usually come to their completeness when we begin slipping off into our nap. But they are far from complete. This season should never be finished until we offer our thanksgiving. As with the Pigrims in 1621 at the first Thanksgiving celebration, we need to offer thankfulness to God for all of His merey and goodness; because He has pulled us through many storms also. Let's make this Thanksgiving complete by giving God all the thanks that He so richly deserves.

"Sing and make music in your heart to the Lord, Always giving thanks to God the Father for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ." (Eph. 5:19b-20)

Letters to the Editor:

Sheriff's help raised

Dear Editor:

On August 11, 1985, our daughter - Marcella Vogt - died suddenly on Garden Island from cardiac arrest due to heatstroke. Various accounts of the event appeared in the local newspapers and it was a devastating shock and a great loss for both her family and her many friends.

In the course of the subsequent investigation, we received great consideration from many residents in both Charlevoix and Petoskey as well as from the residents on Garden and Beaver Islands. It was an incredibly painful time for us but the human kindness and assistance we received from so many people buoyed up our spirits and enabled us to function in a reasonable manner during an awful time.

The mainstay of this support and the leader of the thorough investigation that was conducted was Sheriff George Lasater. He spent untold hours in investigating the facts; his thoughtfulness and caring in communicating with us was beyond reproach; and we had the constant sense of being in the presence of a man who was loyal, thorough, sensitive and caring in carrying out a very difficult and tragic assignment.

Our experience with police and the law has been limited, but we feel that Charlevoix County and its Sheriff deserve our respect and gratitude for the exemplary manner in which they handled our devastation and personal disaster.

Sheriff George Lasater will be a constant reminder to us that even the most horrendous happenings can be handled with thoroughness, caring, and great respect for the individuals involved.

Mesquite

Michigan to northern Lake Huron.

The Mesquite has spent little time at home port since mid-October when it was deployed to Lake Superior as a Search and Rescue vessel standing in for the Sundew. The Sundew suffered casualities to both its main diesel engines and had been in Cleveland since summer having its engines replaced.

The Mesquite completed the job of decommissioning 23 buoys in the Isle Royale-Keweenaw Peninsula in western Lake Superior and returned to Sault Ste. Marie when the deployment was extended. This time the ship was asked to put out a data buoy for the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

Engagements

Melinda Klooster and Scott Lankford

Klooster — Lankford

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Klooster of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Melinda Jean, to Scott James Lankford of Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin, presently living in Tallahassee, Florida. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Lankford of Wisconsin Rapids.

The bride-to-be is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is employed at an Orthopedic and Sports Rehabilitation Clinic in Minneapolis. Her fiance is a 1979 graduate of Lincoln High School in Wisconsin Rapids. He is finishing a degree in Industrial Design at the Minneapolis College of Art and Design and is working as a design consultant for several firms in Minnesota.

The wedding will take place in July at the Charlevoix Assembly of God.

Price given 40-year pin by Masonic Lodge

W. W. (Bill) Price of Charlevoix was recently presented with a 40-year pin and a life membership in the Masonic Lodge.

The presentation was made by Worshipful Master Dave Philips of the Charlevoix Masonic Lodge, Local 282, but Price has remained a member of the Lodge he joined in 1945, Birmingham Lodge 44 F.& A.M.

Price recalls that he was serving in the Army and home in Birmingham on leave when he joined the Lodge. He received his First Degree from the Birmingham Lodge and later, while stationed in Dodge City, Kansas, received his next two degrees from the local Lodge there.

Being a Mason has helped him in many ways, Price says, especially when he was in service. "My wife, Ruth, was with me in my various stations and I could always go to the Masonic Lodge and find a place for her to stay," he explained.

Mr. and Mrs. Price bought the Lake Charlevoix Farm and retired to Charlevoix 10 years ago from Birmingham, where he owned a steel processing company. They are active in the Charlevoix Historical Society, the Charlevoix Yacht Club, and the Congregational Church.

Bob Fowler at the Crown Drug prescription counter.

Familiar face at Crown

The new face behind the pharmacy counter at Crown Drugs is no stranger to many people in Charlevoix.

Bob Fowler has recently taken on the responsibilities of part-time pharmacist, assisting owner-pharmacist Jack Urben.

If the Fowler's face looks familiar that may be because you recently bought a car from him ... or a silk-screened T-shirt.

Fowler's full-time job is as a salesman at Fochtman Chevrolet Buick. He also helps operate the Channel Marker shop on Bridge Street owned by his wife Sandy.

Channel Marker not only sells T-shirts and other items to tourists, but does custom silk-screening ... like a recent order to put a four-color design on 228 bulletproof vests for the Florida State Highway Patrol.

When not absorbed in those businesses, Fowler puts on his pharmacist's coat. He has been at Crown for the last month, but has extensive experience elsewhere.

He has filled in at Central Drugs in Charlevoix and Hite Drugs in East Jordan and was a full-time pharmacist at the War Memorial Hospital at Sault Ste. Marie for 2½ years.

Prior to that he owned his own drug stores and pharmacies downstate in Walled Lake and Lake Orion.

Like so many, he moved north when things got a little crowned down below. "I grew up in a small town about the size of Ellsworth (his current home)," Bob says. "It got overrun by suburban sprawl. There were just too many people," he adds. "I prefer the slower pace of life here."

Fowler says that Urben asked him to become assistant pharmacist "to add consistency to the operation. When it comes to medicine, people like to know the pharmacist and have trust in him."

Urben is pleased with the addition to his staff. "Bob is providing friendly, professional service to our customers," he says.

Fowler currently works some 25 hours each week at Crown Drugs and says he is pleased with the modern, computerized prescription counter.

When not at one of his three jobs, he can be found enjoying the country life on his 22 acres on Metz Road near Ellsworth.

Like a true countryman, Bob enjoys cross country skiing, hunting, fishing, and gardening.

Grange Hall hosts show

Russ and Sue Bolt, former Detroiters and well-known Charlevoix artists, will be displaying their ceramics, paintings and prints in their rural Charlevoix Grange Hall Studio over the Thanksgiving weekend. They have invited Charlevoix artists Meredith Krell and Steve Toornman to join the show.

The gallery show will open Friday, Nov. 29 and continue through Sunday Dec. 1, form 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Because of the distinctive style and subject matter of each artist, this is a great Christmas shopping opportunity.

Recently Russ and Sue have received considerable attention for the custom tile paintings, depicting life in northern Michigan, which they have created for individual customers.

Russ Bolt's impressionistic watercolor paintings of northern Michigan capture the atmosphere that draws so many people north. The Horton Bay Store, a former Hemingway haunt, the old Charlevoix railroad bridge, fish tugs, marinas before they became trendy condominiums, rural farms are among his subjects. His works have won many prizes at shows from Michigan to Florida over the past several years.

Sue Bolt's almost surrealistic paintings and prints use strong color and a dream-like style that reaches beyond reality. Her fascination with angels, for example, makes a pre-Christmas Show of Sue's work particularly appropriate.

The show will feature Sue's paintings, prints and ceramic sculptures and she will conduct a print-making demonstration.

Russ and Sue moved north some 10 years ago to devote all their time to their art careers. Russ had been a designer at General Motors and Sue had been a teacher at Pewabic Pottery as well as painter-illustrator designing magazine covers for several Detroit publications.

The Bolts collaborate on a wide variety of ceramic works, from utilitarian pieces – plates, cups, tea pots and the like – to the customized ceramic tile paintings they will design for individuals. The distinctive aspect of all their ceramic pieces is that they treat every piece as a work of art, a new "canvas."

A deliciously detailed pink piece of cake topped by a lounging lizard reflects the sense of humor Meredith Krell brings to her paintings. She is a painter who treats familiar subjects in a highly realistic style then moves the painting beyond the realism with the interjection of surprising elements.

Krell's landscapes and buildings reflect an influence from the 1950s and such artists as David Hockney.

A fine detail artist Krell also collaborated with the Bolts on the 60 tile paintings of northern Michigan scenes which fill Tom's Cafe in downtown Charlevoix.

For the Grange Hall show, Krell is displaying a variety of mixed media drawings, watercolors and limited edition silkscreened Christmas cards.

Steve Toornman's oil paintings treat northern Michigan scenes realistically yet approach abstraction to evoke atmosphere. Detail and color without photographic realism give Toornman's works a mystical quality.

Toornman who grew up in Kalamazoo, is a Kendall School of Art graduate. Part of his approach is his sense of importance that he hand stretch and frame each of his oil on canvas paintings.

While the Bolts Grange Hall studio attracts a steady flow of art collectors and gallery owners throughout the year, the pre-Christmas Show is one of the best opportunities to see the breadth of their work.

To reach the studio turn east on M-66, just south of Charlevoix, from U.S. 31, then immediately south again on Marion Center Road. Follow Marion Center Road for approximately 3½ miles to the Grange Hall Studio, on the left.

Rayders win district title

by FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix co-captain Kris Austin sank two free throws with 19 seconds left in the game to defeat Rogers City and give the girls basketball team the Class C District title at Gaylord Tuesday night.

The final score was 67-65. It was the first district title for the Rayders since 1983.

"The team earned it. They've worked hard," said coach Henry Wagner after the victory. "Although Rogers City scored 65 points, the team defense is what made the difference. Amy Pischner had an outstanding game and Kris Austin scored when we needed it most."

Pischner led the Rayders with 27 points including 12 field goals. Austin had 16 and Gagnon 14 points.

Charlevoix will now face Benzie Central in the Class C regional tournament at Roscommon next week. The game will be played Tuesday, Dec. 3 at 8:30 p.m.

Charlevoix fell behind 16-15 in the first quarter Tuesday but came back strong to take a 33-28 halftime lead.

Rogers City came back strong at the beginning of the second half and tied the score 35-35. From then on it was anybody's game.

Pischner, who scored 21 points in the first half, didn't score a point in the third period. Kris Austin made up the difference, however, adding 10 third-period points as Charlevoix held on to a slim 51-47 advantage.

The final eight minutes saw the score tied seven or eight times. With 50 seconds left in the game, Gagnon scored from 12 feet out to tie the score 65-65.

Rogers City took the ball down the floor and Charlevoix regained possession when Pischner was fooled. She missed the first of a one-and-one and Rogers City regained possession.

The Hurons dribbled the ball over the mid-court line and Charlevoix took over again. Gagnon passed off to Austin who drew the foul and then sank two foul shots giving the Rayders a 67-65 lead.

The Hurons failed to score on their next possession and Charlevoix regained the ball and played out the clock.

The Rayders made 30 of 64 field goals for a 45 percent shooting average, while Rogers City connected on 28 of 50 shots for 56 percent.

Charlevoix added seven of 19 charity shots. The Hurons scored nine of their 18 free throws.

Also scoring for the Rayders were Lara Stargardt and Ellen Pearl with four points each and Cindy Boss with two.

Vicki Buczkowki, top scorer in the Michigan-Huron Shores league, had 24 points for the game. Jana Findlay added 14 and Kathy Ryglewski 11 for the Hurons.

Charlevoix defeated Boyne City handily 43-24 to gain a berth in the finals. Austin had 12 points and Pischner 10 for the game.

Ellsworth pollution

was owned by Consolidated Foods prior to its closure and sale at auction in the late 1960s. Ron Prentice, President of Michigan Fruit Canners, another of Consolidated Foods operations, reacted to the suggestion that the canning factory was responsible for the poison and heavy metals in a phone interview Monday:

From my recollection of the Ellsworth operation and my knowledge of the fruit processing business it is highly questionable and improbable that any heavy metal contamination of any kind would eminate from a food processing opeation. There is no reason for having arsenic or chromium or copper involved in the operation," Prentice stated to the Courier.

"Heavy metals don't come from a canning operation but a metal plating operation," Prentice concluded.

The revelations that their lake may contain highly toxic compounds did not surprise residents.

Taylor admits the site is an eyesore. "We have been attempting to move equipment out," he said, adding, "sure it's a lot of rusty steel, but art is in the eyes of the beholder. We've got to tear it down, no question about it," Taylor concluded.

In his affidavit to the county prosecutor, DNR officer Hare compared the site to bombed out Britain at the end of World War II.

Ellsworth Lake flows southward toward Grand Traverse Bay through the Chain of Lakes and the protected Grass River Natural Area, emptying into Lake Michigan at Elk Rapids. According to Village Council President Hext, "A lot of resort owners downstream are up in arms."

Ellsworth itself is a developing resort-tourist area. Two of Michigan's best known gourmet restaurants, the Rowe Inn and Tapawingo are just north of town. An elegant bed and breakfat inn, The Inn on the Hill, opened overlooking Ellsworth Lake last year.

"I have a lot of grandkids. They come and swim here. I have property all the way around the lake. It makes me ticked off that this has happened," Taylor said. "But if it happened 20 years ago in the canning factory, then it has always been there and there's no real harm.

"The canning factory used to turn the lake different colors depending on the vegetables they were processing. It was green for peas, orange for carrots, red for beets," Taylor maintained.

"If there is arsenic it was the canning factory," Taylor repeated.

Rosalind Lisk, former payroll clerk at Ellsworth Canning's responded: "He has to say something – but it's so stupid.

"What in the world would you do with arsenic in the cannery unless you didn't wany an repeat customers?"

Topside gets new owners, atmosphere

The purchase of the Topside Lounge located at 305 Bridge St. has been announced by the new owners, Richard and Yolanda Reinhart, formerly of Troy.

The couple, who began operating the popular bistro when the transfer of the license was approved by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, purchased the property from Millie Mack who had owned and operated the business for the past 18 years.

To be known as Richard's Topside Cafe, the couple plans to popularize it as a cafe as well as a bar with the addition of numerous foods that have been proven popular, Mrs. Reinhart said.

Among them will be the perch dinner on Friday evening. This will be included in the menu beginning Friday, Nov. 29.

In addition to the popular Topsider, the special hamburger that takes its name from the cafe, chili and the homemade soups, they plan to add homemade Mexican tacos and tamales, fried chicken in a basket, 21 shrimp in a basket, real Coney Islands, homemade Kellbasa on a bun, homemade Spanish rice, various types of French fries, and fried mushrooms and onions.

Mrs. Reinhart said they also plan smaller portions such as a mini-Topsider for children under 12 years who accompany their parents.

"We plan to make Richard's Topside Cafe a family restaurant. We've even toned the jokebox down to feature country, western, and oldies along with popolar numbers of today," Reinhart added.

"As time goes on we hope to add other specials such as a hotdog and a draft beer while the football games are on for a special price, a discount for senior citiziens, possibly a pinochle tournament during the winter. As I said, we want to make the Topside a place everyone will enjoy visiting," she added.

Effective at once, the Topside will now be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. until 2 a.m. except on Sunday when the hours will be from noon until 2 a.m.

The present personnel Myra Himebaugh, Rochelle Lanterman and Bryon VanLoo will continue to assist with the operation. They have been joined by Pat Reinhart.

"This is a an entirely new venture for us," Reinhart said. Her husband has been employed in the corporate division of the Stroh Brewery Co. for the past five years and will continue in the position for the present, commuting to Charlevoix for the weekends. Prior to the recession he had been in the purchasing department at the Chrysler Corp. for 17 years.

Mrs. Reinhart was an office manager for a doctor in the Troy-Birmingham area until moving to Charlevoix earlier this fall. They have two sons, Richard, Jr., who is in the 10th grade and Jeff the sixth grade at the Charlevoix schools.

The Reinharts are not exactly newcomers to Charlevoix. They have been vacationing here for years and visiting Mr. Reinhart's father, Bruce Reinhart and other relatives.

The family is presently living on Mason St.

City Council discusses contract

in the contract were the result of the new Cable Communications Policy Act of 1984. The act will deregulate the cable business, Van Treese said, and beginning in 1986 there will be no local control of rates charged by cable companies if the area is serviced by three TV channels.

THE FATE OF the sliding hill on Grant Street was also discussed at length by Council. John Hess of the Charlevoix Recreation Commission told Council that his group recommended that the city either close the hill to sliding and plow and sand it, or provide supervision.

Hess said he was very concerned with the safety of the children using the hill, particularly since the sledders could glide into Newman or Antrim streets.

He noted that if the city kept the hill open it could face liability suits from injured participants.

Council agreed to have Hess and Shirley Roloff inspect the water-tower hill as a possible alternative. The issue will be discussed further at the next meeting of Council.

Your number is coming up

Within the next week or two, property owners in Charlevoix County will receive notification of new address numbers.

The numbers will replace present post office route and box numbers and will be based on a grid system which indicates exact location of a residence within a few hundred feet.

The re-numbering system was undertaken by the County Board of Commissioners a few years back following requests from rural residents for a better way to locate their homes in case of emergency.

Local post offices are cooperating with the County in setting up the new address system and are asking rural residents to advise their correspondents of their new numbers.

The letters advising property owners of their new address numbers also give instructions about placement of the numbers so they will be visible from public roads.

Food donations accepted

Individuals and organizations who wish to make donations of food and-or gifts to needy persons during the holiday season may obtain the names of such persons from the Department of Social Services.

The Department keeps a card file of its clients, and with permission of the client, will release names to those who want to help.

While the Department does not provide special holiday food, it does maintain food pantries in Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan, where emergency food supplies are available, and, when possible, extra items are added.

Stroud reflects on Charlevoix Township past and future every $1 we spend. But it's getting worse and worse. People are greedy. Out to get everything they can. It's harder to make good deals now.

"Medusa's cooperated with the township. We just got the new parking by the creek so we'd be ready for next year's salmon run. I went to the DNR and Medusa. Said we want parking for 100 cars. Medusa agreed to bring in the materials. I asked for another 50 feet. They agreed.

"I'm trying to persuade the DNR to put in launch ramps and a fish cleaning station. The DNR's a little rougher to deal with. Medusa goes out of its way to cooperate.

"I love that kind of thing."

MEDUSA, CONDOS AND GROWTH

Q: "But some people think you are soft on Medusa."

Stroud: "People can't complain about Medusa any more than I do. I let them know when I am not satisfied.

Q: "Are you pro-growth and industry because like many old-timers you remember when it was three months good eating and nine months starvation up here?"

Stroud: "There aren't that many old-timers left.

"I am pro-growth. I want to see condominiums. They are the modern way of living.

"I'd rather see cluster housing with open areas. That looks better."

Q: "So you aren't worried about the precedent condominiums at Water's Edge would set?"

Stroud: "We have only about a quarter of a mile on Lake Charlevoix in the township. The only area for condos on the lake is Water's Edge."

Q: "How about your lake shore property on the north side?"

Stroud: "I have no lakeshore property on the north side in the township. It's all in the city.

Q: "Some people are concerned that if we allow uncontrolled growth we will end up looking like Flint."

Stroud: "I don't agree that we need those limits or that we'll look like Flint. These are mostly retirees buying these condos as second, third or fourth homes.

"We need a few factories, too, but they need raw materials.

"I still think Charlevoix is a resort town. Years ago we had more hotel rooms and rooming houses than we do now. Now there are not enough rooms in town to fill the old Charlevoix Inn. Condos may replace what we used to have."

Q: "Do you have any environmental concerns?"

Stroud: "I am concerned with everything, but we can get too strict. The biggest problem around here is waste, not building.

"I think a sewer around Lake Charlevoix would solve 90 percent of the problems, but environmentalist don't agree.

"I don't go with people who want to stop everything.

ON RETIREMENT AND OPPOSITION

Q: "One person said it would take $100,000 and three people to replace you."

Stroud: "No. I have this set up so someone can come right in. Keep it all right on rolling. I don't think it would take three men and a boy to replace me. They said FDR was irreplaceable, but they did it.

Q: "Are you thinking of retirement?"

Stroud: "If I had a good candidate I would."

Q: "Is there an opposition candidate who's a threat?"

Stroud: "If the opposition gets too strong I move them to the County Commission." He laughed. "Like Dick Smith."

"But if they came up with a good candidate and he beats me, I'll walk away and enjoy life.

"But I hate to walk away otherwise. I owe something to the people who have confidence in me."

ON THE REFERENDUM

Q: "How do you feel about this referendum?"

Stroud: "The referendum is a real challenge.

"I am unhappy about the referendum, but not that they disagree. Disagreement's fine.

"But we have two boards and seven of nine people, with experience and expertise made a decision. I thought majority ruled.

"The referendum could be a dangerous precedent. This could happen to every decision we make. If they don't have confidence in the boards, forget it. It is the end of township government."

STROUD'S PRIDE – TOWNSHIP GROWTH

Q: "What are your proudest acheivements.?"

Stroud: "I'm proud that we started to improve and expand in '72 and '73 when the city refused to let us have water. Since 1973 we've got water on both sides. Sewer on the north. We have the township hall, the fire department, a new pumper. We have first-rate fire protection for people on both sides of the township."

Q: "Who named your new hall 'Stroud Hall'?"

Stroud: "The township board had that idea. They had tried to name a street but someone objected. I guess I was proud to have some recognition while I am alive."

MISTAKES?

Q: "What's been your biggest mistake?"

Stroud: "If I've made any mistakes I wouldn't admit it."

Bonnier plays at McCune

Jazz – the very word conjures echoes and images of a musical heartbeat that links performer and listener in an experience that can be upbeat or mellow, bright or smoky, red or purple, strolling or strutting.

Both the sounds and the images will converge on the McCune Arts Center Friday, Dec. 6, when Detroit Jazz pianist Bess Bonnier appears in concert.

In conjunction with Bonnier's performance, Oak Park artist Rhea Shaefer will exhibit for the first time anywhere, her colletion of limited edition intaglio etchings, lithographs, watercolors and pastels that capture the spirit of jazz.

Schaefer, who paints professionally under the name, "Rasha," was inspired by Detroit's rich jazz heritage and the successful Montreaux-Detroit jazz festival where she became acquainted with Bonnier.

Bonnier is included in Rasha's four piece suite of etchings, done in a limited edition of 15 signed and numbered prints. In completing her jazz suite and the accompanying body of watercolors and pastels, Rasha says she has realized a personal vision: the fusion of art and music, with the affirmation of creativity that pulses in both.

STATE OF THE SCHOOLS

Academic Information:

Most of us would agree that the main purpose of our educational system is to educate the youth of our community. How well is this being done? There are several indicators to help us answer this questions. Some of them include how students score on national and state tests, grades our students receive in school, how many of our students attend college, how many are successful at college, how students fit into the work force, etc. Judging from our students scores on national and state tests, it would appear they are receiving a fine education. Their scores are consistently above the high average range. Also, our students grades and the number of students continuing their education (68% last year) would indicate they are achieving above normal expectations. It appears our students success rate in college is above average, but at this time we do not have documentation to prove this point. Through vocational education programs our students have an opportunity to prepare for the world of work. 55% of our students enroll in foreign language. This compares with about 11% at the state level and 16% at the national level. Following is some information prepared by the high school counseling staff regarding the class of 1985.

The Charlevoix High School class of 1985 numbered 136; 73 females and 63 males. Of this number, 2 were adult education graduates and 2 were foreign exchange students. These 4 were not included in the survey of the class.

Results of a survey of the remaining 132 graduates indicate the following: Eighteen (18) members or 13% of the class had a job and continued with that job upon graduation. Ten (10) or 8% were seeking a job and seven (7) or 5% had a job now but planned to seek a different job. Eight (8) or 6% of the class entered the armed services. Of this total of 43, sixteen (16) indicated they planned to attend college at a later date.

Eighty-nine (89) students or 68% of the class planned to attend either a two or four year college. Of this number, thirty-five (35) or 39% were male and fifty-four (54) or 61% were female. These numbers also indicate that 56% of the males and 74% of the females are attending college.

Those attending college for four year programs compromise 53% of the group while two year programs accounted for 15% of the class.

Finances:

Because of an increase in state equalized valuation we can continue to operate at the same millage levy. Our millage levy continues to be considerably below the state average. We will be able to operate a balanced budget again this school year.

Projects:

During the summer the old boilers in the elementary were replaced. The new style boilers will be more efficient and consequently more cost effective. A new roof was placed on the elementary and insulation placed in the ceiling. This should be the last of the major projects for the buildings. Energy savings have been shown in all the buildings since the community decided to make them more energy efficient.

High School Track and Athletic Area

When the high school track was built in the 30's, it was considered one of the finest around. Many people have found memories of competing on that track. It was an excellent track for its time but after 50 years it has deteriorared. It's almost impossible to find cinders to replace those on the track, but even if they could be replaced the more desirable track surface is now made of all weather material. The track has deteriorated to the point where we no longer use it for competition. The poles and the lightning for the football field are also becoming problems. At some point in time the entire facility will need upgrading. The community has done an excellent job in upgrading all the school buildings, to take care of the academic environment. If, in fact, we consider athletics as part of the total curriculum, then perhaps it's time to consider improving the athletic facilities.

Elementary Sidewalk Project:

For several years parents and teachers have expressed a concern regarding the safety of elementary students walking along Division St. between the elementary school and Michigan Ave. It was decided instead of asking the taxpayers for millage for this project we would make it a community effort and do it ourselves. There was no problem in find 60 volunteers to assist with the project. Also, donations were made from cement to refreshment for the workers. In just a few hours over a 1000 feet of sidewalk, 6 feet wide and 6 inches thick, was laid and finished. A much safer means of walking between the elementary and Michigan Ave. is now available because of people who are eager to contribute time and money to a needed community project. This community has to take a lot of self-pride in its volunteers and their accomplishment.

Administrative Changes:

As you probably know all the principals in our system changed positions this year. This came about from Ralph Raymer retiring as elementary principal last spring. Each principal was given the opportunity to apply for all open positions. Fortunately each principal was placed in the position they desired. With the cooperation of teachers, parents and students the administrative changes have been carried out with very few problems.

Again we would like to emphasis, you are welcome to visit any of our school buildings at any time. If you have any questions regarding the total school operation please do not hesitate to call me in my office at 547-3200 or at home at 547-2195. Thank you very much for the support you have shown toward the schools.

Charlevoix students do well on tests

Charlevoix students scored well in the State Assessment Tests given earlier in the school year, condit Drury, Charlevoix Middle School counselor announced. Drury serves as district coordinator for the program.

Each September, shortly after students return to the classroom, the tests are administered in reading and mathematics in schools throughout the state. Fourth, seventh and 10th grade students write the tests to measure mastery of state objectives in the two subjects, Drury explained.

The purpose of the state tests is to learn the students' strengths and weaknesses and to provide help to the students where needed. The results are also used to alert teachers and administrators to areas where additional emphasis on a subject or individual objective is required, Drury continued.

This year's fourth-grade students mastered 83.1 percent of the reading objectives and 84.3 percent of the math objectives. Seventy-seven students in the fourth grade wrote the tests.

Eighty-two students in the seventh grade participated. This group achieved 89 percent in reading and 86.6 percent in math.

In the 10th grade, 111 students were tested and achieved ninety-one percent in reading and 79.3 percent in math.

Early in 1986, state averages will be available. "At that time we will be able to see how our students do in comparison to those elsewhere in the state," Drury said.

United Way exceeds $30,000 goal

Division reports are nearly complete and the United Way goal of $30,000 has been exceeded by more than $4,000 for a total of gifts and pledges of $34,041.

James Marshall, president of the United Way Board, has set December 3 for a final report by Darrel Linder, general chairman of the Fund Drive for 1986. Leaders have been asked to get their reports to Kay Ball, secretary.

"Any funds in excess of goal are very much needed to compensate for shrinkage of pledges and especially to make it possible to fund three new agencies added to the United Way - Exceptional Riders of Charlevoix Farm, Volunteers for Probation, and the Senior Citizens Center," Linder said.

He lauded the leaders and volunteers for enlisting a great community response. "They made it happen, and we expect to recognize them properly."

The Charlevoix Courier, Linder commented, has "really helped us communicate the needs of the 15 agencies of United Way and the progress of our drive for funds."

Seniors get new home

The long-awaited Senior Citizens Center for Charlevoix area rsidents will become a reality next week when the new facilities in the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Hall on US-31 North are opened.

The two-room "clubhouse" area will serve as the meal site for the Commission on Aging luncheon program and provide plenty of space for crafts, exercise classes, speaker's programs, health screenings, and all other activities that will serve older people.

Beginning Monday, December 2, the meals, which have been served three days a week in the High School lunchroom, will be served five days a week, at 12 noon.

Operation of the Senior Citizens Center will be funded by a grant from the United Way and contributions from private organizations and individuals. The VFW has made the building available at a nominal cost to cover expenses.

Charlevoix area residents are invited to an Open House at the new Senior Center on Sunday afternoon, December 1, beginning at noon. Participants in senior activities will be on hand to show off their new clubhouse, and refreshments will be served.

Auditions are over and two young Charlevoix actors – Adrian Russell, 10, (front left) and Amy Phillips, 9, (front right) have been selected to join the professional actors of Pritchard Productions and 218 Bridge Street Theatre's "Christmas Show." Reviewing the musical score with the two youngsters are actors Rosemary Baxter, a current member of the Pritchard Company and choreographer for the "Christmas Show"; Paul Gregory Nelson, who performed in "I Do! I Do!" and "The Gay 90's," and Elizabeth Jackson, Musical Director for "The Christmas Show."

A special message to our friends and customers at this time of Thanksgiving

Dear friends,

This is a very special time of year for all of us. It's a time to reflect on how truly fortunate we are, not only for the Thanksgiving feast which is spread on our tables, but for the family and friends gathered with us to share in the bounty.

It's also a good time to reflect on the freedoms we are blessed with and our obligation to make use of and defend those freedoms. America remains one of the few countries that allows its citizens the right to an education, the right to dissent, the right to a free press and free enterprise and all the other freedoms we so easily take for granted.

In a world torn with strife and hunger, let us remember how truly minimal our problems are and give thanks for this great land which feeds us and protects us and gives us our strength.

The officers and employees of First State Bank join you and yours in giving thanks for all of our blessings. We wish you the best of all things this Thanksgiving Day and hope we may continue to offer you the best in banking service.

City takes wraps off new fire hall

by DOUG TRUAX

A new plan for the proposed city public safety building, unveiled by architect Jack Begrow at City Council Monday, was accepted enthusiastically by Council members.

Begrow was asked recently by the City Council to come up with a new design for the building on the north side of the current City Hall. Council had previously planned to put the public safety building, or fire hall, at the site of the current post office.

Begrow told Council the cost of the building would be $363,330 on the north side site. It would cost an additional $121,700, he said, to purchase and remove the existing post office and construct spaces for parking 40 cars.

There would be space for eight small cars on the north side of the public safety building, he added.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Postal Service, which has received bids on the north side of City Hall for the location of a new post office building, said it was confused and puzzled by the city's sudden change of mind. A postal official said that if the property north of City Hall was not available for the new post office, new bids would be sought for a site for the post office not confined to the downtown area.

City Council had told the Postal Service it wanted the new post office downtown and was prepared to sell its land on the north side for that purpose.

COUNCIL'S CHANGE of direction was the result of questions raised by several councilmen and concerned citizens about the cost and practicality of building the new fire hall on Mason Street on the site of the current post office.

Begrow's design calls for a 9,867 square foot brick building which would be connected to the current City Hall. The design features a 16-foot-wide courtyard north of City Hall to preserve the windows on the existing building.

Begrow recommended a brick exterior to match the current building as closely as possible. The new plan would have eight bays for fire trucks which could be entered through doors at the front or rear of the building. There would also be a garage to house the city's police cars. The two ambulances would be housed in the bays which are currently used by the fire engines.

The 98-by-84-foot building would include an office for the fire department, a fireman's meeting room, a 72-by-82-foot room for the fire trucks, and a mezzanine which could be used for storage.

The kitchen, lounge and sleeping quarters in the old building would be retained and would be accessible to the new building through a connecting structure at the back.

The new design for the public safety building provides less parking than the earlier plans for a building

Hello Winter

Storm blasts through North

by DOUG TRUAX

A major winter storm packing 40 mph winds smacked into northern Michigan Sunday and Monday, dumping some 14-18 inches of snow.

Schools and businesses throughout the area were closed on Monday and Tuesday as drifting snow blocked roadways and made travel difficult or impossible in most areas.

Road crews in Charlevoix began work Sunday and worked through the night to try and keep roads open. Fred Welch, Charlevoix County road commissioner, said he had two plows on the road Sunday night and by 6 a.m. Monday a full crew of 21 men and trucks was at work trying to keep the county's roads open.

"They fill in as fast as we get them plowed," Welch noted on Monday and the high winds continued to lash the area.

Police and fire agencies in the Charlevoix area reported no major problems or injuries attributed to the storm.

Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol and Fire Chief John Martin said that things were proceeding normally, although travel was difficult. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department said there were no storm emergencies, but noted that U.S. 31 south of Charlevoix between the Flight Deck and M-66 was closed at 3:30 p.m. for 15 minutes Monday so plows could clear the rapidly closing highway.

The Sheriff's Department advised motorists to stay off the roads on Sunday and Monday.

Residents of many rural areas were trapped in their homes until snow plows arrived on the secondary roads Monday afternoon.

Charlevoix County Emergency Services Coordinator Earl Muma was among those stranded. "I can't get out of my driveway," Muma joked on Monday, "but my phone rings at home so I'm keeping tuned in."

Fatal blaze probed

by DOUG TRUAX

EAST JORDAN – William Brondyk, 32, and his three-year-old son Kristopher died Friday in a fire at Wiltjer's Shoreline Motel and Cottages on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

Brondyk, who recently purchased the motel and moved north from Muskegon, died in an attempt to save his son who was trapped by the fire on the second floor of the family's residence.

The state fire marshall is still investigating the cause of the fire.

East Jordan Fire Chief Dick Barnett said Brondyk was reported to be standing on the shore of Lake Charlevoix in front of the motel talking with two brothers-in-law who were fishing in a boat close by.

Brondyk's wife first noticed the fire and attempted to enter the second floor. She was driven back by the smoke and heat, Barnett said. She shouted to her husband, according to witnesses, who ran through the basement and entered a stairway to the upstairs.

Brondyk and his son were discovered together near a window on the second floor.

Barnett vehemently denied some published reports that Brondyk had brushed by firemen to enter the burning building. Barnett said an experienced volunteer fireman from another department was driving by at the time of the blaze, noticed the smoke and arrived as Mrs. Brondyk was calling the fire department.

Mr. Brondyk had entered the upstairs, Barnett reported, before the fireman arrived. The fireman attempted to enter the stairwell but was driven back by the heat and smoke. He retreated, covered his head with a wet towel, and made a second attempt, Barnett said.

The East Jordan Fire Department arrived on the scene at that time, less than five minutes after the call was put in, Barnett explained.

"When we arrived the house was fully charged with smoke and fire was coming out one end of the building," Barnett said.

Christmas carol festival planned

The Charlevoix Community Chorus and Orchestra, under the direction of Elleo Addington, will present its annual Chirsmas Carol Festival at St. Mary's Catholic Church at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8.

Traditional and contemporary carols and anthems will be sung by both the chorus and the congregation.

A "fun work", " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas" with music by Ken Darby, arranged by Harry Simeon and lyrics of the well-known poem by Clement Moore, will be presented, complete with sleigh bells and Santa's "Ho, ho, ho."

Elizabeth Humphrey has composed an anthem especially for the occasion, "Wond'rous Night" with lyrics by an unknowo author. Wihla Hutson, lyricist of Burt Carols fame, has sent her Christmas card carol, with love, which will be given it premiere performance at the Carol Festival.

Carol Spaeth will sing the solo in an interesting arrangement of "Silent Night." Other soloists will include Mae Charbeneau, Helen Moerland, Fran Tollas and Curt Vellenga.

Two popular compositions by Leroy Anderson, "Christmas Festival" and "Sleigh Ride" will be performed by the orchestra which will also provide accompaniement for some of the choral numbers and cpmgregational singing.

June Erskine, who now resides in Grand Rapids, will be present to interpret the concert for the deaf and hard of hearing who are asked to sit toward the front on the right side of the church to be near her.

The concert is sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association. A free will offering will be taken and the proceeds contributed to the Charlevoix Area Food Pantry.

Workshop planned for students planning on attending college

As with all costs, the cost of attending college rises. Estimates of a year of education at a public four-year college range from $5,400 to $7,500. Private schools cost substantially more, ranging from $9,000 to $f2,000.

Obviously, most families are unable to afford that kind of expenditure without some sort of planning and assistance.

The Charlevoix High School Counseling Department has arranged a workshop for 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 9, at the high school study hall in order to answer some of these questions for parents who will be having college-bound students.

Clifford Denay, Director of Financial Aid at North Central Micigan College along with Mrs. Toni Felter and Charles Bentley, counselors at the high school, will discuss federal, state and local programs for aid.

Topics such as the Pell Grant, the Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program, the Parent Loan Program, the National Direct Student Loan and College Work Study will be presented.

The process of applying for financial aid will also be covered as well as the various forms that can be used to enter the process.

A program on the Apple computer will be available to assist families in gaining an estimate of the expected family contribution. The base for financial aid is the tax year previous to college application, Bentley explained. Therefore, parents are encouraged to bring an estimate of the 1985 tax information or a copy of the 1984 tax information for a less accurate estimate.

In either case, the following information is needed to provide an expected family contribution: adjusted gross income, taxes paid, mother's wages, father's wages, fRA-Keogh payments, married couple deduction, untaxed income, medical expenses, student income, student untaxed income, student income tax paid, estimated student income for 1986, student assets and savings, parent cash and savings, market value of home and mortgage balance, other investments, and debts and the value of business or farm and the debt against it.

All college bound juniors and seniors and their parents are encour~~aged to~~ attend this program.

For further information, contact Charles Bentley Charlevoix High School Student Services office at 547-3226.

A special Christmas

Christmas came early for little R.J. Flowers, a 3-year-old victim of cystic fibrosis.

Because doctors had advised his parents, Raymond and Vickie Flowers that R.J. might not live until Christmas, hospital officals arranged a special, early visit by Santa and Mrs. Claus.

The jolly pair, in actuality R.J.'s great aunt and uncle Jack and Arlene Hahnenberg of Traverse City, arrived in an 85-year-old cutter owned by Lawrence and Jeanette Boss. They passed out presents to R.J. and his many cousins who had gathered for the event.

R.J. was born in 1982 with the disease which attacks the lungs and other vital organs.

Following extensive tests at Butterworth Hospital in November, a doctor advised the Flowers that R.J.'s heart was becoming enlarged because it is being overworked as it pumps blood into his severely damaged lungs.

"After the doctor at the cystic fibrosis clinic in Grand Rapids told us what he'd found, we decided that we'd make sure R.J. had a Christmas," his father said.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

We are sorry that so many of you were not able to attend the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting held at the Yacht Club. The winemakers from the Chateau Grand Traverse sponsored a wine tasting and the 1985 Operation Petunia video was shown. Thanks to Dale Boss and Kevin Flexman from KCB who were on hand to answer questions.

A total of t62 ballots were mailed out, and t05 returned. The following people will serve three year terms on the Chamber Board of Directors starting in January t986: Ron Agnello, Barbara Kluczynski, John Ochs and Suzi Reis. Congratulations! A joint meeting of present and future directors will be held in December.

The "Town Meeting" held by Congressman Bob Davis and aide Bill Huber the day after Thanksgiving was very well attended. Thanks to more than 30 concerned citizens who took time off to attend. Davis was noticeably taken-back by the number of people who really CARE about what is going on in and around Charlevoix.

The city crews have battled wind, snow, and rain, but the effort was worth it. The lights look great in the downtown district. Captains' Corner looks teriffic, too. Nice job.

While you are shopping for Christmas, remember that Charlevoix has over 40 stores open with a wide variety to choose from. Thanks to a tremendous effort by the local merchants, expect to see and hear more about shopping in Charlevoix in the next few weeks. By supporting the local businesses, we can all help to strengthen Charlevoix's year around economy.

Mark you calendars for the following dates:

December 7 - Santa Luncheon, Charlevoix Elementary School, 11:30-1 p.m. Santa's Secret Gift Workshop - American Legion Hall, 9-4 p.m.

December 1t - Men's Night with specials, discounts and meal deals.

December 13 - Window Decorating Contest judging at 7:30 p.m. Community Christmas Tree Lighting at 7:30 p.m. in East Park with Mayor Hill.

Many stores will begin keeping Sunday and evening hours from December f3 through Christmas. Both Cinema Ifl and 2t8 Bridge Street will have matinees for the children on the weekends. Local service clubs and organizations will be providing Caroling and free Hot Cider in East Park every evening the entire week before Christmas. Come and feel the holiday spirit in Charlevoix.

Watch for more details to come.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Thomas Black
First Baptist Church

The word "doom" did not always have the meaning it does today. fn ancient days in England it stood for something laid down forever.

Legal documents were all recorded in a Doomsday Book. The boundaries of the old courts of judgment were marked by doom stones. They were stones too large to be moved.

Are there not truths that are set down in Scripture that cannot be moved? Are there not markers for the boundaries of daily living, and markers for the church that we dare not move? And is it not true that if we ignore them we bring doom upon ourselves in the modern sense of the word?

on Moson Street. Additional parking could be provided by purchasing the current post office for $76,000 and a portion of the Levenson property for $13,000 and constructing some 40 additional spaces.

Dale Boss told Council that it should consider purchasing the post office building and renting it out to a low-density user rather than tearing it down.

Boss said the building was sound structurally and was only 29 years old. He applauded the new fire hall design. "You're on the right track with a custom built building," he said.

Councilmen Earl Muma and Ray Wood had earlier proposed a pre-engineered steel building as an alternative to a custom built fire hall.

Council passed a motion giving City Manager Michael Wiesner authority to negotiate a contract with Begrow for the construction of the public safety building. The contract would be sobject to final approval by Council.

ft also authorized Wiesner to investigate a land contract for the purchase of the existing post office and the Levenson property.

Council approved a motion to deny the post office use of the State Street site north of City Hall.

In other action Council:

–approved a 15-year contract with Lake Charlevoix Cable TV.

–agreed to purchase power from Lansing through the Michigan Public Power Agency, a move that could save the city $63,000 or more in energy costs.

–formally accepted the DNR grant for $132,000 to purchase the Ferry Beach annex property.

–approved the site plan for mini-amusement park at the corner of M-66 and Stover Road in the Captain's Corner shopping mall.

–heard from neighbors in the Grant Street hill area that they would be willing to maintain a neighborhood watch to ensure the safety of kids using the sliding hill. Bill Vogel told Council that residents did not want to see the hill opened to traffic even if it was not used for sledding. "ft's a very dangerous hill for traffic," he said.

Howling, yowling nor-easter

By Bob Clock

Thanksgiving weekend storms are not all that uncommon. But a full-blown January blizzard three weeks before Christmas comes as something of a shock.

Make no mistake: Horror stories from the storm just ended will be grist for the conversation mill for years to come.

As usual, it wasn't the humungous amount of snow that did us in; it was a howling, yowling nor-easter that turned into a roaring nor-wester Sunday night, whipping snow into towering drifts, plugging roads and bringing front yards up to the level of front porches.

Sometime in the middle of the night city snowplows gave up on side streets and by dawn they were well-nigh impassable, except for army tanks and four-wheel-drive vehicles. And there weren't many of those in evidence.

f foolishly tried to make it to Petoskey at 7:30 a.m. Monday, but got bogged down in the vicinity of Meech Street and East Dixon, about three blocks from home. The snow was so deep where f finally came to a dead stop that f couldn't even push open the car door. But I did get out the passenger side.

I spent the next three hours shoveling, backing up a few feet and shoveling some more. Visibility was so poor that at times I couldn't even see the snowdrift I was digging into.

Then there were my trousers — corduroys that soon became stiff as ice spuds from the driving snow. Every time f got in the car f had to crack them behind the knees so my legs would bend. I was afraid they'd break off and I'd be left with short pants — with the mercury standing at t0 degrees and the wind-chill factor at 50 below, or some-such obscene number. Fortunately — and surprisingly — my paots stayed in one piece.

However I did get a blisters on my new leather gloves from all that shoveling.

When I finally cut a path to Dixon Avenue, f slipped behind the wheel, shifted into low gear and tooled through bumper deep snow back to the house where I deposited the car in the driveway for the rest of the day.

f know it is against the law to travel west on East Dixon, but no one was looking. If fact, ll I had headed west instead of east in the beginning f probably wouldn't have gotten stuck, since U.S. 3t is only a block and a hall away.

Sometimes law-abiding citizens don't use good sense.

THROUGHOUT MY morning-long ordeal I kept thinking of the recent Masterpiece Theater production of "The Last Place on Earth," the story of Roald Amundsen and Robert Falcon Scott's race to reach the South Pole.

The landscape around me was a scene right from the movie, with the Community Reformed Church looming darkly through the swirling snow like a gigantic rock outcropping on the Antarctic plain.

Having skipped breakfast, I was haunted by the final scene in the movie: Scott and two of his last surviving companions dying of starvation in their little tent — a mere t1 miles from their base camp.

f made it back to my own base camp shortly before noon for a hearty breakfast of bacon and eggs and a mug of steaming coffee.

I only wish Scott's saga had ended as happily.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bergmann

Storey-Whitley

Cynthia Story and John Whitley were united in marriage on November 2 at the Bethany Lutheran Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Whitley, also of Charlevoix.

Pastor James Bernthal officiated at the double-ring rites before approximately t30 guests. For the occasion, the altar was decorated with lighted candles and bouquets of daisies.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white taffeta and Chantilly lace featuring a Queen Anne neckline and fitted bodice with long sheer sleeves and lace cuffs. The gathered skirt and chapel-length train were trimmed with rows of ruffled lace.

A bridal hat of lace with a net streamer and a bouquet of white daisies, roses, and carnations completed the bride's costume.

Terri Novotony served the bride as maid of honor, and Sally Nye was bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of pale rose sheer nylon with lace collar, yoke, and sleeves, and gathered at the waist above full skirts. Their bouquets were composed of pink carnations and daisies.

Kevin Swanson was best man, and Randy Holecheck was groomsman. Ed Whitley, brother of the bridegroom, and Don Story, brother of the bride, assisted as ushers.

Linda Slate provided traditional organ wedding music.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the VFW Hall following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Skeel served as host and hostess; Angie Clark was in charge of the guest book; and Sandy Troutwine and Joyce Robertson helped serve the cake.

Wedding music was offered by soloist, Tracy Ulrich.

Valerie Richie attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Tami Scherphorn, cousin of the bride, Michelle Woods and Barb Ulmor. Rayder harriers run in Midwest meet

Four members of the Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country team and Coach Pete Spieles have returned from Racine, Wis. where the runners participated in the Midwest Qualifier for the Kinney Cross Country Championships.

"The boys did well. It was a great experience for them," Coach Spieles said of the competition held at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside Campus at Racine.

Two hundred seventy-three of the top runners from 13 Midwestern states ran in the two divisions of the race, the seeded and the unseeded. Doug Bergmann running in the seeded division, finished 43rd among the 273 overall with a time of 16:50.

In the unseeded division were Pat Rajewski who finished 81st overall in a time of 17:23; Tom Merta 147th in 18:07 and Kevin McLenon 150th in 18:11.

The winning time set by John Long of Minnesota was 15:36.

Jeff Thomas of Mancelona who had accompanied the Charlevoix runners 27th in 16:36.

Bergmann and Thomas are All-Staters.

The division of runners was determined by their times in the five kilometer run Coach Spieles explained.

He went on to say that the quartet making the trip were members of the team who chose to extend the 1985 season for one month following the state meet in order to compete.

State sponsors big buck contest

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Division again joins with Commemorative Bucks of Michigan, a non-profit organization, to host the fifth annual Michigan Big Bucks Awards Program.

All archery, firearm and muzzleloader deer hunters, both resident and non-resident, who take large antlered whitetailed deer in Michigan this year are encouraged to enter the racks of their deer in this annual competition.

"Each year this program recognzies and awards the archery, firearm and muzzleloader deer hunter who takes the largest typical (symetrical) and non-typical (non-symetrical) whitetailed deer rack during that year's Michigan deer season," explains Ed Mikula, DNR Wildlife Division Chief.

"The program also helps maintain Michigan's all-time records on whitetailed buck deer," he adds. "Commemorative Bucks of Michigan, which will be scoring all the racks received, has demonstrated the ability to run a high quality, statewide contest, and we at the DNR are pleased with our continued assocaiton with them in this program."

Classifications for the contest include typical and non-typidal racks taken by: 1) any weapons, 2) muzzleloader, and 3) bow and arrow. Categories of participants will include: 1) all hunters, 2) women hunters, and 3) hunters under 18 years of age.

There is no charge to enter this awards program. Before official measurements (antler size and mass) can be taken, however, a hunter must dry the rack a minimum of 60 days before taking it to be scored. A score will be recorded and submitted for award consideration by an official Commemorative Bucks of Michigan measurer, providing the antlers attain miminum score requirements.

Official Commemorative Bucks of Michigan measurers in this area include: Mitch Rompola, 3109 Townline Road, Traverse City 49684, 616-947-4635 and James Dean, Box 45C, Williamsburg, 49690, 616-264-8433. Hunters can also call or write Commemorative Bucks of Michigan, 4365 S. Commerce Road, Union Lake, MI. 48085, 313-363-8620.

All hunters whose deer are entered in the 1985 Michigan Big Bucks Awards Program will receive a certificate recognizing their accomplishment. An awards dinner, typically held in the spring, will award the two top scorers in the respective classifications with a plaque from Commemorative Bucks and a pewter belt buckle from the DNR.

Help pets survive winter

by CARRON BENNET
Animal Control Officer

The majority of our citizens wouldn't dream of doing less than treating their pets with compassion filled with tender loving care. But there are always those who forget to feed and provide proper shelter for the animals they choose to have.

An animal that suffers cannot tell you how badly it is hurting. It is the owner's responsibility to care for its needs. This time of the year the animals need extra help to survive the cold winter months. If you cannot provide the care — then you should give the animal up.

No animal should be left outside without proper shelter during the cold season. The shelter should be facing in a direction that keeps the opening away from the wind. A rug or some sort of protection should cover the opening, allowing the animal to get in and out. There should be straw in the structure to give added warmth.

Food and water are essential. During the cold winter months, extra care should be given in providing an enriched diet to help them put on extra layes of fat which helps them endure the cold.

Owners must keep pets confined to their property. Not doing so is against the law and subject to citations and fines. During winter months, when roads are wet and slippery, it is an added menace to have pets on the loose.

As Animal Control Officer for Charlevoix County, let me remind our citizens that the law spells out very clearly to the people of Michigan that for every offense of cruelty and neglect there shall be punishment, by imprisonment not exceeding three months or by fine not exceeding $500 or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Brian Wilmot

Wilmot, Lignell honored

Two members of the Charlevoix Rayder football team were named to the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference Most Valuable Player list, Dale Burge, Rayder athletic director, has announced. The others received honorable mention.

Matt Lignell, running back, received MVP recognition for the second year though he was sidelined with an ankle injury during a part of the season.

Brian Wilmot, offensive guard and defensive linebacker, who had also received all-state recognition was the second Rayder to be honored.

Wilmot, 6'1", 210 pounds, was recently given honorable mention recognition on the Detroit News all-state team. He also was awarded special mention on the United Press International Class C All-State high school team.

Receiving MVP honorable mention were center and defensive lineman Matt Hull, end Tim Salmonson and quarterback Marc Himebauch.

Players are named to the MVP list by their respective coaches and teammates.

Wild turkey faster than human

One breed of turkey will likely beat getting basted this holiday season: wild turkeys, the speedsters of the species.

Wild gobblers have been clocked in flight at top speeds of 42 miles per hour. Even on the ground, they can dash faster than all but the fastest human runners. They are among the most elusive game animals around, according ot the current issue of International Wildlife magazine.

The birds seem to prefer walking to flying, but when they do fly, they can zoom through the air with surprising agility. Their powerful legs and wings, specially adapted for quick acceleration, help boost the bulky bird from the ground.

The wild birds, indeed, are a breed apart from their domesticated kin — farm turkeys — which have lost their swiftness and ability to fly.

The wild turkey's fast maneuvers, however, are short-lived. After a qick burst of speed, the bird becomes exhausted. The gobbler rarely attempts flights longer than a quarter-mile; and on the ground, it doesn't get very far. It lack a red pigment that, in far-flying birds, combines with oxygen to burn energy over long distances. (The absence of the red pigment also explains why most wild turkey meat is white.)

Despite the bird's flagging endurance, catching the animal is no easy matter. "I've chased a wild turkey down on foot myself, with the help of another fellow," says Lovett Williams, a Florida biologist. "Doing it, though, damn near killed us."

Portable heater safety requires special precaution

The recent, nearly tragic house fire in Charlevoix has brought home concern over the safety of portable kerosene and propane heaters as household heating supplements.

Fire officials say many households are using these heaters because of the significant rise in home heating costs. They particularly emphasize that use of portable propane (LP-Gas) heaters for supplemental heat is prohibited by Michigan's Rules for Liquefied Petroleum Gases.

The State Fire Marshal's office in recent years has investigated incidents involving explosions resulting from propane contoiners located inside buildings.

During the 1984-85 heating season there were ten reported fires or incidents involving kerosene heaters with one incident resulting in injury to the occupant of the home. The estimated property loss exceeded $109,000.

The State Fire Marshal does not encourage or recommend the use of portable heaters. However, if a person chooses to use a portable kerosene heater, the following safety precautions should be observed:

Use only kerosene heaters approved by a nationally recognized testing labortatory.

The heaters are prohibited in schools, hospitals, nursing homes, homes for the aged, and adult foster care homes.

Never substitute the heater for a central heating system.

Only use the heater in a well ventilated room to ensure an adequate oxygen supply. An inadequate oxygen supply may cause an accumulation of poisonous carbon monoxide gas or other toxic gases, which could be fatal.

Place the heater at least three feet away from combustible materials (drapes, bedding, furniture). Extra care should be taken to prevent children from coming in contact with the heater.

Never refuel the heater inside the home or while the heater is not or in operation. Kerosene must be kept in approved containers painted a color other than red and labeled "Kerosene". Kerosene should be stored outside of the residence.

Never substitute fuel oils, white gas, diesel fuel, or gasoline in a heater designed for kerosene.

Smoke detectors should be installed in the home.

Persons having questions about portable heaters should contact D-Lt. Art Nash or D-Sgt. David T. Smith at the State Police Fire Marshal's Office in Lansing 517-322-1924, their local fire department, or their local building department.

Garden Club hears talk on wild edible plants

Janet Rathke, Charlevoix County extension home economist was guest speaker at the November meeting of the East Jordan Garden Club held in the Fireside Room of the First Presbyterian Church of East Jordan.

Rathke spoke on the value of wild edible plants and the use of herbs in our diet. Many plants were used years ago by the settlers in Michigan, she said. Rathke warned that one must be sure the plants being used are non poisonous.

The members were astonished to discover that parts of the cattail, day lilies, milkweed and acorns are edible, contain vitamins, and provide natural fibers in the diet. Boiling and roasting are methods used in preparing these foods for the table, she said.

Herbs and spices have been used for generations as seasonings and for medicinal purposes, she said. Rathke added that herbs can be dried in the attic or microwave oven. Some spices such as peppers need to be refrigerated in hot weather. If your feet hurt soak them in warm water with comfrey added. All greens should be thoroughly washed before being used.

Martha Mathews and Martha Annear served dessert and coffee.

In October, Norma and Walter Thorsen gave an interesting program on Pioneer Plants and related historic businesses in the East Jordan area.

The Garden Club's Annual Green's Market will be held in the Northwestern State Bank of East Jordan on December 6 starting at 9 a.m. Fresh green wreaths and swags made by the members plus many handmade Christmas items will be on sale.

DNR encourages grant requests for wildlife projects

The Department of Natural Resources is encouraging conservation-minded citizens, organizations and colleges in Michigan to apply for small grants to fund field work that will help the state's nongame wildlife and rare plants.

The small grant monies are available under the new Nongame Wildlife Fund, which comes from donations made by residents on their state income tax refunds.

This year, the fund has sponsored 32 projects at a total cost of more than $70,000. These projects focuses on a broad range of species, including loons, lake sturgeon, Kirtland's warblers, rare plants and unique natural areas. Students and biologists at six Michigan colleges and universities received 1985 grants.

A high priority will be placed on projects benefiting those wildlife and plant species listed as endangered or threatened in Michigan. Top consideration will also be given to those grant proposals which offer matching monies from outside sources to help share project costs with the Nongame Wildlife Fund.

Grant proposals must be submitted by December 15, 1985. Applications are available from The Nongame Wildlife Fund, c-o Small Grants, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909. Copies of the form and other information may be obtained by calling the DNR at 517-373-1263. This is not a toll-free number.

All proposals will be reviewed and ranked by the Fund's citizen advisory committee and approved projects will be announced in mid-February.

Lynn Duff, left, of the East Jordan area discusses the care of her son, Charles Evans, with Suzette Daly, R.N. of District Health Department No. 3.

Home health care programs noted

December 1 through December 7 is National Home Health Week.

District Health Department No. 3 has served the area with a home health care program for over 17 years; longer than any other home health provider in this area. The department's Home Health Program works closely with the patient's physician who outlines the specific program of care.

Referrals for home care are made by physicians, hospitals, neighbors, family or the patient. The home care nurse make the initial home visit and identifies the person's health care needs and develops a plan through a thorough assessment and evaluation. The decision to provide health care in the home is made by the physician, family and the patient.

Often, referrals are made for physical therapy, speech and occupational therapy. Home health aides, who provide personal care, work under the direction of the registered nurse. Services are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The program can cover infants, children and adults.

Home care is paid for by a variety of sources which include Medicare, Medicaid, Crippled Children and private insurance. For those without insurance, or where insurance does not cover home care, the Department's home care program is often able to develop a plan so the care that persons needs can be provided.

District Health Department No. 3 works closely with local community services to provide patients and families access to a broad range of services. The community agencies include: Hospice, Department of Social Services, Commission on Aging, Norcare, hospitals and discharge planners.

Anyone that would like more information about the Home Health Program offered by District Health Department No. 3 may call any of the following offices: Antrim (616) 533-8607, Charlevoix 547-6523, East Jordan 536-7371, Emmet 347-6014 and Otsego (517) 732-1794.

Trip to Russia provides insights into health care system

by PEG OHLE

Marian Martin, District No. 3 Health Department nurse, recently returned from a trip to Russia, where she had a chance to learn about health care and other aspects of everyday life in that often misunderstood country.

She and her husband, Larry, were part of a group of 40 men and women, 25 of them nurses, and their relatives and friends, who participated in the "Nursing '85 Cardio-Vascular" sessions sponsored by a Russian professional group.

"The Government is responsible for health care of all the people in Russia," Mrs. Martin explained. The care is provided in Government facilities and it is free. The guiding principles are those of prevention of illness and increasing the life span."

The first Russian Kremlin was located in Suzeal, where this picture was taken. The motion picture, "Peter the Great" is now being filmed there.

Mrs. Martin continued, "Their medical care is comparable to ours, although some of the equipment is not as new. But they do well with what they have."

One of the hospitals the group visited was a 700-bed facility which employs 306 physicians and 1,000 para-medics, including nurses. This hospital serves about 15,000 patients each year, according to Mrs. Martin, but they seem to have plenty of help to do what has to be done.

One hospital innovation which impressed Mrs. Martin was taking patients to a central dining room for meals a soon as they were able to get out of bed.

In a country where women have long done "man's work", it did not not come as a surprise to Mrs. Martin that 80 percent of the physicians in Russia are women.

While learning about health care in Russia was of interest to Mr. Martin, she says the best part of the trip was seeing and hearing about the country's history, its art; and its culture.

"Everywhere they are faithfully restoring churches, palaces, and other public buildings," she reports. "It has been over 40 years since many of the buildings were damaged in World War II, but because they want exact restorations, it is taking a long time."

The restored buildings look like museums, even the chorches, Mrs. Martin learned. "Those who are doing the work also know the history of the country, the church, and the people. They have studied it for years."

Perhaps the most surprising thing about Russia, as expressed by Mrs. Martin, was the gold leaf. "There's gold everywhere", she said in an amazed manner. "The buildings are all decorated with gold, inside and out. And it's beautiful."

As with all tourist groups, Mrs. Martin and her fellow travelers stayed in the better hotels, complete with TV's in every room, and usually ate in hotel restaurants. "The food was nourishing," she said, "and there was plenty of it." She found that the vegetables were very much alike each day – root vegetables like turnips, beets, and carrots. However, there was caviar almost every day and the best brown and white breads and butter, "so good that one had to be careful not to fill up on it." Breakfast was more hardy than most Americans are used to, usually consisting of some kind of fish, salami, and cheese.

For amusement, some of the group attended the famous "Bear Circus", where bears performed many tricks, including playing hockey on a real ice surface. The ice somehow appeared from a wooden floor while the audience's attention was focused on acts high in the auditorium.

Another side trip was to the catacombs, where, from behind glass, they could see cloth-wrapped mummies dating back to the 10th century.

As in most large American cities, autombile traffic in Moscow is "wild", according to Mrs. Martin, which is especially bad for pedestrians because automobiles have the right of way except for the few intersections where there are lights.

Of special interest to Mr. Martin and other members of her group was the beautiful condition of the metro lines and stations. "They were immaculate," Mrs. Martin said, "lighted with crystal chandeliers and decorated with beautiful artwork."

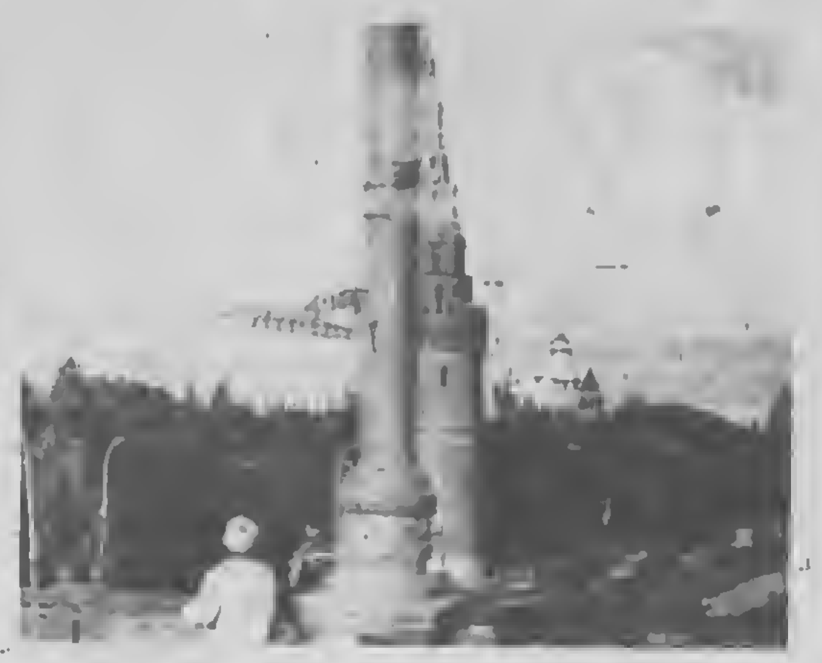
Whether the Russian people are just naturally neat people or whether some other force prevents them from defacing public property is not known, but Mrs. Martin surmised that because there is no unemployment in Russia, there is no loitering and no destruction just for "something to do". Also, there is always military personnel in evidence.

The young childxren of Russia are most appealing, Mrs. Martin says. "They are smiley and happy and well dressed. "They asked us for gum and Lifesavers in return for pretty little 'gold' pins. "They weren't begging. They just wanted gum and Lifesavers (we had been told to bring them along) and gave us something in return."

Many Russian social customs are not unlike ours, Mrs. Martin found out. One evening there were three separate wedding receptions in the hotel in which the tourists were staying. They each had their own refreshmenmts, but when it came time for dancing and music, they all joined together, even inviting the tourists.

Besides learning about Russian health care, Mr. and Mrs. Martin had another good reason for visiting Russia this year. Their daughter, Nancy, teaches in an English language school in Moscow. Previously she had taught in Denmark and in England at similar schools.

'The guiding principles are those of prevention of illness and increasing the life span.'



From the balcony of the Cosmos Hotel in Moscow, Merian and Larry Martin look out over the old and the new buildings of the city. Part of the Kremlin can be seen to the far right.

Now that she has come to know some of the Russian people first-hand, Mrs. Martin hopes that the Summit meetings will result in real peace between the United States and Russia. "I'm sure the people of Russian want peace just as much as we do," she commented.

What's in a name — at Charlevoix's Mt. McSauba there's plenty

by BERNICE WEXSTAFF

Local skiers zoom jubilantly down the slope a scant two mils north of Charlevoix's business section unaware that they are completing their slolom across ancient tribal ceremonial fields.

Even the name of the ski hill has lost meaning. Through local usuage it has become perverted and is unrecognizable as the once revered name of an Indian Chief.

Chief A-mi-ca-sau-be (submerged-beaver), an Ottawan, came north from the Kalamazoo Valley in 1855 when southern Michian and northern Illinois had become overcrowded with white settlers whose settlements had driven the wild geese and other game far into the north woods.

Chief A-mi-ca-sau-be claimed much of the land eastward from Lake Michigan north of what is now Division Street in Charlevoix, taking in the acerage on the southern flank of the present Brichwood Ranch.

A clearing was made on the sheltered side of the huge sand dune and here the ceremonial rain and corn dances were held by the still pagan members of the tribe, according to Mrs. Isabel Olivet, a Christian convert, who at age 90 remembers the ceremonies she witnessed as a child.

Adjoining the clearing, the strong young chief built his simple log home in the shallow ravine beside the largest sand dune which later waa to bear his name - Mt. A-mic-a-saube, and here his son, Alexander Louis was born in the year 1855.

The family prospered and later when Alexander Louis grew to manhood and took a wife, he established his first home in a log cabin which may still be seen on Waller Road. Still later the A-mic-a-saube family built homes on the sandy trail (now widened and paved) that led northward from the town to the "mountain." Rose A-mic-a-saube Howe, an adopted daughter of the chief's son Louis Alexander, resided in the charming white frame home built by her foster father.

But it was in the log cabin that Daniel Alexander was born and lived during his school years in Charlevoix Public Schools. Later he too married and it was during these early years his father died an untimely death at age 54 when he suffered an accidental blow on the head while working at the old Nichols Lumber Docks north of the bridge.

Dan attended school to the 11th grade when he dropped out to support his aging mother.

In 1912 Dan took the government test for postal worker as Charlevoix had grown, and both rural and city deliveries were needed. In competition with other high school graduates Dan's test ranked highest, and he easily qualified for the post which he held for many years delivering to north side residents.

Dan recalled that he was the first carrier to walk out of the old post-office (now Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering office) with his mail sack and the first mail he delivered was to the M.A. Levinson Department Store across the alley that still separated the two buildings. Dan was also the first Indian postman in postal service uniform in the entire United States.

It is regrettable that so little is left of the early days of the A-mi-ca-saubes as fires destroyed everything but a full-length photograph of Chief Amicasaube taken by George Priest, early photographer of Charlevoix.

It is said also that early Indian names have been changed by careless use. I've been told that tourists and newcomers in the area believe that Petoskey is a Polish name. Chief Petosega (Rising Sun) settled on the Bear River north of Bay Shore and lent his name to the community that became Petoskey.

Such names as Wequetonsing and Ponshawaing have retained their identity but Mt. McSauba and Petoskey have lost theirs. Perhaps it is not too late to restore both identities on signboards listing both ancient Indian and their mongrel identifications in the interest of history.

Chief A-mi-ca-sau-be lived into his late eighties. His grandson, Dan A-mi-ca-sau-be, popularly known as Dan McSauby, died at age 83 on November 26, 1975. Dan left three grandsons, Glenn, Gary and Ivan, so there is promise that the name will continue in his native American homeland.

But it is sad that the white man has failed to learn the pronunciation of many ancient Indian names. McSauby might be Irish or even Scotch – it doesn't sound like the soft guteral tones of the ancient ones. Charlevoixans must repair the damage before it is too late. A-mi-ca-sau-be isn't all that difficult and is far more poetic. Mt. McSauby is a poor substitute and has no meaning.

The observation tower on Mt. McSauba is shown in a photo taken in the 1890's.

Condominium project proposed for North Point

by DOUG TRUAX

A special hearing of the Charlevoix Township zoning board has been called for Monday, Dec. 30 to consider a proposal to rezone 30 plus acres at North Point for multifamily condominiums.

The rezoning request, submitted by Petoskey developer Jeff DeGayner, will ask that the property be rezoned from R-1 (residential) to R-4 (planned unit zone).

Under a recently revised R-4 Charlevoix Township zoning code, developers may construct up to 5 housing units per acre provided they occupy no more than 15 percent of the surface area of the property.

DeGayner told the Courier that the project, to be called North Point Club, would contain approximately 120 condominiums. They would be priced, he said, from $150,000 to 250,000 and would occupy only some 6 percent of the land area.

Condominiums in the project would range from 1,300 to 2,000 square feet.

The North Point property is immediately north of the Mt. McSauba Recreation Area and is bounded by Pleasant and Mt. McSauba roads.

The special rezoning hearing was called at the request of the developer. DeGayner lists Richard H. Turner of Avis Ford in Southfield, Mi. as the owner of the property.

A description of the proposed development states that there will be two and three-story buildings with "Nantucket cedar shingle styling using treated poles and meandering cedar decks."

The plan also calls for a beach-gazebo with sun decks, baths, a small kitchen and bar, and a stone fireplace.

It also describes a club house with game room, indoor-outdoor pool, sun decks, locker rooms, sales offices and tennis courts.

"This is going to be about as natural a project as you are going to get," DeGayner said. Buildings will be "nestled in trees with very little lake exposure and disruption of dunes," according to the plan. There will be no planted lawns.

"I personally consider this to be the most beautiful site in northern Michigan," DeGayner added.

He noted that he will "put all the facts and figures up front – including the number of units, the site plan, and even down to the design of the buildings."

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board meets at Stroud Hall on Waller Road at 7:30 p.m.

KCB endorses EPA plan for monitoring toxins

by DOUG TRUAX

Score one for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Despite a series of recent attacks on the EPA's proposal to allow the trichloroethylene (TCE) in the Charlevoix groundwater disperse naturally over the next 50 years, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. agreed unanimously Saturday to support the EPA position.

EPA's "limited action" proposal calls for allowing the groundwater to purge itself naturally rather than extract the groundwater and filter out the TCE with air stripping or carbon adsorption, solutions the EPA says could cost $4.4 to $4.8 million.

The KCB resolution states:

"Because of the unique nature of our contamination, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. supports the position of the EPA with the stipulation that if monitoring discloses dangerous levels of contamination, cleanup will occur."

The EPA proposal, presented June 27, 1985 in Charlevoix at a public hearing, has recently been attacked by Gov. James Blanchard as establishing "a very dangerous precedent whereby the lakes are used to absorb and dilute pollutants."

He said the EPA recommendation "strikes at the heart of the Superfund program and our national commitment to protect the environment."

Congressman Bob Davis recently urged a re-evaluation of the EPA decision during a House debate on the Superfund Reauthorization bill Thursday, Dec. 5.

"I would like it made clear that it is the intent of congress, in providing a major nationwide program through Superfund, that the sites be cleaned up. I am concerned that the EPA has avoided a final solution to the Charlevoix problem," Davis said.

Davis's aide Bill Huber attended the Saturday KCB meeting and told the group that "the Congressman is saying 'let's go very slowly on this.'"

Members of KCB stressed that the Charlevoix situation was unique since EPA and the state were already funding a new Lake Michigan water treatment plant which would assure clean, safe drinking water.

There would be no threat to human health, they said, since wells would not be permitted in the area of the contaminated plume of water.

Larry Levengood, sanitarian for District Health Department No. 3, addessed the KCB group and noted that the TCE issue had been "one crisis after another.

"People that have followed the issue from the onset really support the EPA's recommendation," he said.

He said the state health department was in support of the EPA stance. "I don't see a health threat," he added.

Levengood said that if efforts were made to remove the contamination from the underground water supply, there would be a lot of disruption in establishing the purge wells which could have negative environmental impacts.

The effect of purge wells in the community could also be unsightly, he added.

'I'm not really sure what benefit there is to make an expensive effort to clean it up except to support the DNR's position to enforce federal cleanup.

"I don't really see the sense in spending millions of dollars to do something for appearance sake."

He said the money might be better spent in preventing some of the sources of pollution.

Levengood also noted that Gov. Blanchard ran some risks of losing EPA funds for monitoring the groundwater – $160,000 over 50 years – by pushing for other solutions which the EPA may not agree to fund.

Ken Staley, mayor of Charlevoix when the TCE was first discovered in September 1981, said it was "very important that they contunue monitoring over the next several years." A complete cleanup of the groundwater, he said, "would be a waste of public funds."

Dr. David Strawbridge, spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce, supported the EPA recommendation and said he was concerned with the disruption to the city of a groundwater extraction solution.

Jan Glass voiced concern that the monitoring might reveal a source of pollution at some latter date and the KCB board agreed to her wording on the resolution that "if the monitoring discloses dangerous levels of contamination, cleanup will occur."

United Way tops goal again

For the second straight year, the United Way of Charlevoix has gone at least $5,000 over its goal, James Marshall, president of the fundraiser, announced this week.

Employees of Medusa Cement Company contributed $2,900 to United Way to help push it over the $30,000 goal. The total collected this year will exceed $36,000, Marshall said.

"Darrel Linder, this year's campaign chairman, has demonstrated a keen sense of organization, leadership and enthusiasm that has helped to generate the funds to once more keep Charlevoix among he tops in the state among United Ways," Marshall added.

"Now it is our responsibility as a board to put those funds that Charlevoix area residents have so generously given to an effective use in the support of our agencies," he said.

United Way is exploring the possiblity of purchasing a data processing system for billing pledges and measuring the effectiveness of the money donated.

Later this month Rebecca Meyers, chairperson of the data processing project, will present recommendations on computer applications to the board.

"Our goal is to identify the full impact of the agencies' services on the needs of our community and to develop cost effective measures in evaluating those services," Marshall said.

He noted that United Way of Charlevoix has maintained very low

Council adds its support

City Council added its voice to those supporting the Environmental Protection Agency's proposal to let contaminated groundwater stay in the aquifer and dissipate gradually over the next fifty years.

All member of Council present at Monday night's meeting said they favored the EPA "limited action" approach and disagreed with those, including Gov. James Blanchard, who were calling for a cleanup of the contaminated aquifer.

The discussion was prompted by a letter read by Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., written to Gov. Blanchard outlining KCB's position on the TCE controversy see accompanying story).

The letter told the governor that KCB supported the EPA stance on the TCE cleanup. While applauding "the spirit of your actions to protect the Great Lakes," the letter told the governor that "the situation in Charelvoix is unique and requires careful attention to the specifics of our situation."

The letter added that "should careful monitoring of the groudwater reveal any potential problem, we would strongly support efforts be made to correct the situation and remove the contamination."

It was signed by MacArthur and Al Ranger, chairman of the KCB Air and Water Quality Committee. Copies will be sent to various state and federal agencies.

Several council members lamented the fact that the TCE question was keeping Charlevoix in the forefront of the media with negative publicity.

"They just won't leave this out of the papers," Mayor Hal Hill said. "I don't know of any item that's got any more publicity than this TCE."

Councilman Michael Greeley agreed that the EPA decision was "absolutely correct" since it was impossible to detect any level of TCE flowing to the lake and the city will soon have safe drinking water from the new Lake Michigan water treatment plant.

He added that although the state was trying to draw the line on establishing a precedent for the complete cleanup of toxic wastes, "this was no place to draw the line."

Ray Wood said he was "all with EPA."

"A bunch of damn foolishness," is the way Councilman Robert Timms described the new water treatment plant. He was the only council member to question the need for a new source of drinking water. "I had no problem with the well system we had." He said the odds of getting cancer from the contaminated water were remote.

Councilman Earl Muma indicated the city had higher priorities than the cleaning up of the underground aquifer.

He cited the damage to homes and roads caused by the high water as an example.

Max Novak, president of the school board, said "a lot of things have been written about it (TCE contamination) and I question the facts behind the whole thing. I don't think that the continued writing in the newspapers does the city any good."

IN OTHER ACTION, Council once again discussed the issue of keeping Grant Street open to sliding. City Manager Michael Wiesner said he had met with some neighbors in an effort to work out a solution and would be holding additional meetings.

He said he hoped to present a solution to Council at its next meeting.

The city received a report on the 1985 operations of the city golf course. Revenues were up substan-

Bus rammed, children safe

Icy roads were blamed for an accident involving a Charlevoix school bus and a passenger car Friday, Dec. 6.

The accident, which was reported at 8:38 a.m., occured on U.S. 31 north in the vicinity of Ance Road.

None of the approximately 40 children riding the bus were injured in the accident.

According to Sheriff's Deputy Mike Wheat, a 1980 Plymouth driven by Shannon Brown, 19, of East Jordan was northbound on U.S. 31 and swerved into the bus which was stopped at the time to pick up children waiting on the south side of the road.

The Brown vehicle went out of control on the slick roads as the driver attempted to stop for the bus.

Brown said that when she realized she was unable to control the car she tried to direct it away from the children ended up crashing the rear end of her car into the bus bumper.

The Brown car was heavily damaged, and the school bus received only minor damage to the bumper and front fender.

No tickets have been issued and the accident is still under investigation.

The incident was preceded by minutes by another minor accident on U.S. 31 near Mercer Boulevard.

Bud Heeres, transportation supervisor, pries loose the bumper on a Charlevoix school bus damaged in Friday's accident. Looking on are Vincent Olach, school business manager and Deputy Mike Wheat.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The Charlevoix High School and one Charlevoix grade school were once located on Grant Street between Clinton and Mason Streets, on the site of the present Middle School. In the recent search to find the source of trichloroethylene (TCE) in Charlevoix's ground water, a high concentration of the chemical was found in this school area, and there is some speculation that a solvent used to clean the school floors years ago may be responsible for the contamination. This picture postcard of the school buildings was mailed from Charlevoix to Mancelona on Nov. 21, 1907. (Postcard courtesy of Mrs. Arthur Edwards)

China leaves visitors with vivid impressions

by PEG OHLE

The People's Republic of China is making great strides due to its new political regime and emergence from the cultural revolution.

That is the general feeling of eight Charlevoix men and women who recently returned from a three-week tour of the vast Asian country.

Ray and Jean Giffin were leaders of the local group, which also included Dr. Robert and Marian Martin, J. O. and Portia Crawford, Carol Dutcher, and Lucille Hogan. Giffin, the son of missionaries, had lived and gone to school in China many years ago, and he, Mrs. Giffin, and Mrs. Martin had visited there four years ago. Even in the last four years, the changes were dramatic, they found.

"Now there are more commodities to buy, more colorful clothing, more freedom of expression," Mrs. Martin noted. "Although we had a National guide with us at all times, we did not feel watched. We felt perfectly free."

Giffin added, "We didn't notice so many excuses. They seemed to be saying, 'We're on our way', and they were happy about doing things their own way."

Mrs. Dutcher was interested in the fact that the Chinese people were asking them questions – questions about how much money we made, what our pensions are, what kind of housing we live in, and who paid for our education.

Dr. Martin was impressed with the need for everyday artisans. "They build these fine new hotels but they don't have anyone to maintain them," he said. "They could use thousands of master plumbers and other such people."

The attitude of the Chinese people as seen from their faces was one of happiness, everyone in the group agreed. Mrs. Dutcher: "They were happy to see us. They smiled and waved even from crowded buses." Mrs. Martin: "They appeared to be very happy people." Dr. Martin: "I never heard a cross word spoken, and only once did I hear a child cry." Mrs. Giffin: "The children were well behaved, even though regimented." Giffin: "The children feel secure even though they are in care centers from infancy. Some are even sent to boarding kindergartens where they stay five days a week."

While most jobs in China are still controlled by the State, the government now allows some small capitalistic ventures, especially in the rural areas, Giffin explained. However, when a Chinese worker earns extra money from private enterprise, he loses some of the socialistic benefits the State provides.

In essence, the Chinese government guarantees every person a job, but some "fall through the cracks", as Giffin expressed it, and now some beggars can be seen on the streets of major cities.

By American standards, wages are low – $40 a month for skilled artists carving intricate pieces of jewelry. Mrs. Dutcher commented that the artistic skills of many Chinese are beyond comparison, especially in such fields as cloisonne enamel work and silk embroidery.

There are very few private automobiles in China to reflect a person's "prosperity", but every once in a while a small washing machine could be seen on a back stoop, indicating the owner was doing all right, Mrs. Giffin recalled. Local travel is accomplished on bicycles, although families are limited to two bicycles. Belongings are also moved from place to place on these two-wheeled vehicles.

Pop or beer or boiled water substituted for ordinary drinking water for the travelers. In fact, boiled water, drunk warm, is the usual refreshment of most Chinese people, Giffin explained, which may account for the general healthy appearance of the people.

Chinese people receive medical care under a system of socialized medicine for which they pay 33 cents a year in health insurance, expect for the wealthier people, who pay more. "Their medicine is a combination of western and eastern treatments," Dr. Martin told us. "They use such things as 'cupping' and acupuncture, but they also have modern drugs and techniques. Patients have a choice of the type of treatment they want." Mrs. Dutcher noted that although the hospitals left much to be desired, they were far better than those in India, where she had spent some time.

The political areas in which the Chinese people live are called "townships", a change from "communes" as they once were called. All children are required to go to school through the eighth grade, and further education depends on their ability. In addition to regular academic subjects, they are schooled in the arts of music, dancing, and dramatics, which gives them great stage presence at an early age.

Other observations of Chinese life by members of the tour group were varied. Dr. Martin said the State was trying to reduce its military forces, that there was no military draft, and that most of the military personnel they saw were unarmed.

A little Dickens, some fine old Christmas carols, and holiday reminiscences are a part of the fare at the 218 Bridge St. Theatre's "The Christmas Show." From left are Paul Gregory Nelson as Scrooge, Adrian Russell as Tiny Tim, Amy Phillips as Bob Cratchit's daughter, James Allen Baker, as Bob Cratchit and Rosemary Baxter as Mrs. Cratchit. The show continues through December 23, Thursday through Sunday with matinees on Saturday.

Giffin said the Chinese people were very protective of their art and culture. "The government has so trained the populace that they don't need to control them so far as destruction of property is concerned." He also said that Christian churches, both Catholic and Protestant, are increasing in number at the rate of one a day. Asked if the Chinese people are religious people, he said that most are superstitious rather than religious, but that they "support religion".

About food, Dr. Martin told with enthusiasm about "the great carp dish served with sauce" they had eaten. Generally, they were served fish, pork, or chicken along with green vegetables and fruit and the "best mushrooms". Since little sugar is used in China, some of the group came bome a few pounds lighter than when they left.

They described the hotels in which they stayed as "good to fantastic", although there was a shortage of paper products, which the tourists furnished themselves.

Western music, especially country music, was heard in many places, and every hotel has some kind of a disco. There is no drug problem in China, Dr. Martin noted, although smoking (cigarettes) is a big problem among the men. Very few women smoke. Alcoholism is not a problem, either, perhaps because liquor is very expensive.

The future of China depends on whether their present direction continues, Giffin believes: "Deng Xiaoping won't be around forever – he's over 70 years old – and things could change with a change in leadership." Politically, the Chinese are neutral in matters bet-

One item that should not be of concern to anyone is whether or not Charlevoix will have a White Christmas! Seems as if we have had more than our share this season to put us into the "Christmas spirit."

Along that line, the Christmas spirit is alive and well in Charlevoix. The lights and window decorations look great and people carrying purchases can be seen everywhere.

Local merchants are sponsoring Men's Night from 6 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 11 with local restaurants featuring meal deals.

The judges for the window decorating contest are Paula Holmes-Greeley, Sheilah Bogart, and Ron Taepke. They will be touring the town on Friday, Dec. 13th from 5-9 p.m.

Charlevoix's evening celebration is Friday, December 13 at 7:30 p.m. in East Park. At that time, Mayor Hill will light the city Christmas tree, the results of the Window Decorating will be revealed, and communtiy caroling will be lead by the Chamber Board of Directors and local groups. Don't miss this! Bring the entire family down to join in this special Christmas celebration.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared
by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

Sister Barbara Ann Seymour, O.P.
St. Mary's Church

Every time we say the Lord's Prayer we pray, "thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." What is this kingdom? When will it come? How will we know it? Is it in heaven, in the life after death?

Or, is it here, too, here bustling and struggling, reaching out while we rarely notice it at all? Jesus said that this kingdom was like seed broadcast over the countryside, ready to germinate and take root. Some of the seed fell among rocks, some on the roadside, some among thorns and thistles, and some into the tender waiting earth.

The seed is God's awakening call to us, a call to pay attention to reality, to what is all around us. If we are the warm and tender earth, that seed of God will spring up, take root in our lives and bear fruit. When that happens the kingdom has begun.

The first moments of that kingdom's life were Christmas moments, lived in the little stable at Bethlehem. When our ears are open to hear the word of God falling gently upon our hearts, we can become another Bethlebem. The Christmas kingdom is always beginning anew, in new lives, in new hearts, often as ordinary and unpretentious as the Christmas stable.

tially, the report showed, and the course experienced a $9,411 net profit on the year.

Total income from greens fees and locker fees was $66,411 in 1985 compared to $56,500 in 1984. e largest increase in income came in daily nine hole tickets which were up from $32,221 in 1984 to $39,308 in 1985.

COUNCIL ALSO DISCUSSED a Corps of Engineers permit submitted by Jon Hisey for the dedging and construction of piers and bulkheads adjacent to the new Edgewater Inn on Round Lake.

The permit requests authorization from the Corps and the Department of Natural Resources to construct mooring space for 12-13 recreational craft.

In a letter to the City Manager, Hisey said the Corps appeared ready to reject an earlier plan to construct a new mooring space for the Star of Charlevoix which would project farther into Round Lake and Pine River Channel. Because of that, he wrote, "our curreot intent for the Star Dock is to locate it along the new bulkhead at the Hotel site for up to three years. Afterwhich, we will construct the finger piers and spring piles for the new marina."

Mayor Hill noted that the Star of Charlevoix was a popular tourist attraction which brought money into town for shopkeepers and others. He and others expressed the hope that the tour boat would continue to operate out of the Port of Charlevoix.

COUNCIL AGREED to conduct a aurvey of Newman Street between State and Sherman streets. The purpose of the aurvey would be to prepare for a possible narrowing of the right-of-way on the street.

Narrowing the street to alley size, Wiesner said, would legalize some of the buildings which had been built in the city right-of-way and would allow owners to improve their property fronting the street. It would also result in an increase in the tax rolls, he said.

Council also approved a proposal by Wiesner to run sewer and water lines for the Industrial Park down the east rather than the west side of Mercer Avenue. The move would save the cost of boring under Mercer, Wiesner said, and eliminate the need for sewer and water lateral construction across the street when these parcels tie in.

The line would require an easement through four homes located on Mercer. Wiesner proposed, and Council agreed, that the costs of the user and tap in fees should be prorated since the properties have frontage in the city, but the majority of the land in Charlevoix Township.

Clockwise

Tommy is gone

By Bob Clock

A familiar figure is gone from the streets of Charlevoix.

Last Thursday night, Tommy, a little mongrel dog which haa been the constant companion of Miss Sybil Levinson for the past decade, was struck by a car on Bridge Street.

Fortunately, the next car along was driven by veterinarian Dr. David Norton, who stopped, picked up Tommy and rushed him to the Charlevoix Veterinary Hospital on U.S. 31 South.

But Tommy's injuries were severe and the little dog died before Dr. Norton reached the hospitol.

Our sympathies are with Miss Levinson. It is hard to lose a good friend.

CITY CREWS and merchants have done a first-rate job of cleaning up downtown streets after last weekend's blizzard.

Even the sidewalks are passable in most areas.

If it's any consolation, winter storms don't get much worse than the big blow of Dec. 1 and 2. So whatever Mom Nature has up her sleeve for the remainder of the season will be a piece of cake.

And I hope I don't have to eat those words.

I WAS SORRY to see in Monday's papers that the former Scripps mansion at the corner of Grand River and Trumbull in Detroit was destroyed by fire on Sunday.

I lived in the same neighborhood as a youngster and the big palace with the soaring turrets always looked like something right out of a Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale.

It would have been fun to play on the grounds, and perhaps peek through one of the windows, but the property was surrounded by a forbidding — and inpenetrable — iron fence.

Ironically it was the iron fence that prevented firemen from doing a better job of fighting the fire, according to the Detroit News, which was founded by the man who built the mansion, James E. Scripps.

During World War II, some of the neighbors thought the fence should be melted down into bullets and bombers to help in the war effort, as was done with so much ornamental metal work in the Motor City. But I suspect removing the fence would have been a costly undertaking and it would have left the mansion vulnerable to curiosity seekers. Furthermore, it was a beautiful fence, as fences run.

The old landmark was just six years shy of its 100th birthday. When the rubble is removed, there will be one more vacant lot in the heart of old Detroit — a city that already has too many vacant lots for its own good.

Rx for Flu or Chicken Pox: Kindness

Be good to yourself when you've got the flu or chicken pox. Take it easy. Get plenty of rest.

Viral illnesses such as these are usually self-limiting. Time will cure them.

Check with your doctor about using medications to treat flu or chicken pox. For children — including teenagers — medications such as aspirin and aspirin-containing products may not be a good idea. A rare but dangerous condition called Reye syndrome may develop in young people just when they appear to be recovering. Studies suggest a link between the development of Reye and the use of aspirin to treat the flu or chicken pox.

So, treat yourself right when you've got the flu!

Rayders turn in strong opening game

The Charlevoix Rayders opened the boy's basketball season in fine style Friday at East Jordan, taking an impressive 73-60 win over a strong Red Devil team.

Powered by a tenacious defense that harrassed the Devils all night with a full-court press, Charlevoix caused numerous errors by their opponents.

Sean Ferguson led the Rayder scoring with 20 points. Jody Putman (13 points), Tim Salmonson (12 points) and Packy LaBlance (10 points) contributed strong offensive help for the win.

"I'm very pleased with the overall performance," Coach Dave Smith said afterward.

"We did exactly what we have been doing for three weeks in practice. We neutralized their height and outrebounded them."

Smith was particularly pleased with the play of his guards, Sean Ferguson and Jody Putman. "Our guards gave us good control of the ball. We had 83 possessions and only 21 turnovers."

Smith said the intensity on defense was one of the best things about the game. Salmonson led the Rayders in rebounding with nine, Ferguson and Plagge added eight each.

Putnan dished out seven assists for the game.

The game was close after the first quarter with the Rayders leading 12-10. The next eight minutes, however, saw Charlevoix outscore their opponents 23-13 and take a 35-23 lead into the lockerroom at the half.

East Jordan was far from finished as they brought the game back to within 7 points during the second half. East Jordan called time out at that point. "If there was a point we could have lost it that was it," Smith said.

The Rayders responded to the challenge reeling off 10 points to the Red Devils one point in the next stretch.

"We showed a lot of poise," Smith added, "and were responsive to changes in the game." He also complimented the work of the substitutes.

"I think we are going to get better as a team when we get our confidence up," the coach concluded.

Tim Plagge has a shot rejected.

Packy LaBlance lays up an easy two.

Wrestlers defeated, coach stays optimistic

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers lose five matches but coach looks to better things lost to five teams in the Glen Lake Invitational tournament Saturday. Despite the losses the team gained a wealth of experience, coach Greg Bryan said.

Scores of the matches were: Glen Lake 33-30; Shelby 50-15; Sault Ste. Marie, 60-18; Pine River, 54-22; and Kalkaska, 51-21.

"Overall, we wrestled well and the match scores were much closer than the team scores indicate", Bryan said.

"Our wrestlers, new to the sport, and freshmen made some costly mental and strategic errors which cost them some matches," he added. "However, it was a valuable day of competition. The wrestling was quite physical. Among the wrestlers were several who had reached state level recognition. As a result, our boys were able to see some excellent wrestling." Bryan went on to say that the team was without Derek Dutcher which resulted in a forfeit in the 185-pound class. That forfeit, added to the two the team usually forfeits, 98 and 119, resulting in the loss of 18 points against each opponent.

The Rayders had only one medal winner, Chad Thorp, (105-pound class), who came out of the tournament with a 5-0 score. Other wrestlers were: Scott Novotny (112), one win-three losses-one tie; Jason Whitley (126), 0-5; Shaan Bier (132), 1-3-1; Jamie Montieth, (138), 0-5; Steve Hopkins (145), 0-5; Matt Hull (155), 4-1; Dan Kelly (187), 4-1; Jim Tilton (185), 1-4; Bill Marquardt (hvy.), 3-2. Charlevoix had forfeits in the 98, 119 and 198-pound classes.

In the 33-30 loss to Glen Lake, Bryan said the team was leading all the way until the last two matches which included a forfeit in the 198-class and a loss in the heavyweight class which put Glen Lake ahead by three points. From then on, the competition was against traditional Class C powers from the district, Shelby, Pine River and Kalkaska plus Michigan-Huron conference opponent, Sault Ste. Marie, which is quite strong this year, especially in the lower and middle weight classes.

Of the individual wrestlers, Bryan said "I was especially pleased with the performances of Thorp who went 5-0 and was a medal winner; Kelly who went 4-1 and upset a starter who had beaten him several times last year; Hull who went 4-1 and losing a squeaker in the last match; and Bier who, after only three weeks of practice, tied an excellent wrestler from Glen Lake, defeated a wrestler from Shelby and lost a heart-breaker to a Pine River wrestler.

Bryan also mentioned Montieth who, as a freshman, wrestled four state-place winners, came out in one piece, ready for more action.

Bryan said the team was disappointed in its performance but he was impressed. "They're a gritty, determined bunch and by the end of the season I think may be surprised with themselves if they keep improving as they have since the season opened."

The team is scheduled to travel to the Soo for the meet Thursday and participate in the St. Ignace Invitational tournament Saturday.

JV team defeats Devils

The Charlevoix Rayder JV's, coached by Dick Swenor, got off to a fast start Friday, defeating the young East Jordan Red Devils 72-43.

With all 12 players seeing action, Charlevoix was in control all the way as they led 15-11 at the quarter, 39-18 at halftime and 55-26 going into the final period when both teams scored 17 points.

The Rayders were 27-17 from the floor and 18 of 25 from the free throw line. The team had 12 personal fouls. East Jordan connected on nine of 14 charity shots and had 16 personal fouls.

Roger Smith was top scorer for the Rayders with 20 points. Scott DeYoung added 14. Nine of the 12 players scored. Kelly Harchis with 17 points led the scoring for the Jordanites. Mark Moore had 10.

League names MVPs

Three members of the Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team were named to the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference Most Valuable Player team named recently.

Each school makes its own selection with the number of players named based on final league standings. Charlevoix finished second behind Cheboygan in league standings.

Rayder players receiving recognition are Amy Pischner, Michelle Gagnon and Kris Austin. Receiving honorable mention are Lara Stargardt, Cindy Boss and Ellen Pearl.

This marks the second time Pischner has received MVP recognition.

Pischner and Boss are juniors and Pearl is a sophomore.

Seniors are Gagnon, Austin, Stargardt and Sue Miller.

Charlevoix finished the season with an 11-4 record in league play, giving the team a second place in league standings. They also won a Class C District title, losing in the opening game of regional play to Benzie Central.

Charlevoix's season record was 16-5.

Dave's Grinders munch on Duffy's

by FRAN MARTIN

In the only games played in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders defeated Duffy's 95-93 in a scoring battle while the Depot of Boyne City won over Kit Carson Lumber 63-60.

In the high scoring game five players, led by Steve Dunkelberg with 30 points, hit in double figures as the Grinders led Duffy's 26-24, 55-47 and 72-66 by quarters.

Bernie Ward added 12 points, Dan McKenzie 11, Dave Storm and Jim Parrish 10 each to Dunkelberg's total for the win. Cliff Haas was high for the night with 36 points, Kim Thomson had 21, Woody Pearson 11 and Scott Olmstead 10 for Duffy's.

Vince Left led the Carson scoring with 19 points but his efforts were not enough as the Depot outscored the Lumbermen in all but the second half. The Depot led 17-14 at the quarter and 35-23, at the half before they were outscored in the third period 20-15 to trim their lead to 50-47 and 17-13 in the final period to cut their winning margin to three points, 63-60.

Dean Hicks had 16 points, Matt Tamm 12, Tim Hartwick and Jeff Belford 10 each. Tim Carey had 10 for Carsons.

St. Ignace overpowers matmen

The Charlevoix Rayder Wrestling team opened its season Thursday with St. Ignace, dropping the meet to the visiting Saints by a 47-13 margin, according to Coach Greg Bryan.

The Rayders posted three wins in the higher weight classes and two or three others were close enough to have gone either way, Bryan said.

"The team looked good for its first time out. St. Ignace is more experienced especially in the lighter weight classes. I was especially impressed with Shaan Bier, Derek Dutcher and Dan Kelly," Bryan continued. He said the team needed the match to wake up some of the newer members as to how hard they have to work to be competitive.

The results of the meet follow:

98-pound class: Jody Werkhelser (St. Ignace) won by forfeit.

105: Kevin Horn (St. Ignace) defeated Chad Thorp 13-6.

112: Dean Jenkins (St. Ignace) defeated Scott Novotny 10-9.

119: Nick Brown (St. Ignace) won by forfeit.

126: St. Frazier (St. Ignace) pinned Jason Whitley in 1:51.

132: Jay Fraziner (St. Ignace) defeated Bier 16-5.

138: Kevin Garvies (St. Ignace) pinned Jamie Montieth in 3:04.

145: Joe Wiertalla (St. Ignace) pinned Steve Hopkins in 3:59.

155: Archie Horn (St. Ignace) defeated Matt Hull 6-5.

167: Dan Kelly (Charlevoix) pinned Ken Hardy in 3:09.

185: Derek Dutcher (Charlevoix) defeated Brian Kelly. 17-14.

198: Jim Petish (St. Ignace) defeated Jim Tilton 9-1.

China trip recalled ween the United States and Russia. They have a large army and don't fear either country. However, they do fear a war between the United States and Russia, which would put them "in the middle".

Mrs. Dutcher reported the highlights of the trip for her were climbing the Great Wall of China, seeing the 2,000 years old life-size clay figures in Xian, and riding a boat on the Grand Canal to watch the river traffic.

Mrs. Martin summed up her feelings about the people of China: "They're so anxious for dialogue and peace. They want cultural and technological exchanges among young people. They are conscious of the peace movement. But whatever happens, the Chinese will rise; they are survivors."

The people of the People's Republic of China make up one-quarter of the world's population.

Consumers offers help on paying utility bills

TRAVERSE CITY — The thermometer has winter written all over it and heating costs begin to climb. Unfortunately for some people, worrying about how to pay the energy bill can be a problem. But it doesn't have to be that way, says Joan Keane of Consumers Power Company.

"It is our responsibility to help customers who, for one reason or another, are having trouble paying their energy bills. Only a small percentage of people try to avoid paying their energy bill — the majority truly have financial difficulties which we may be able to help them with," Keane said.

Keane is a consumer affairs director for Consumers Power's northern region.

The consumer affairs department deals with individual customers, social services agencies, charitable organizations, and locally elected and appointed government representatives. There are 169,000 residential electric and gas customers in the northern region. Some of these people have special payment problems and Keane's department is there to help.

"I'm available to speak to local groups, such as community organizations, senior citizen clubs and union groups — and present them with information on current assistance programs which are available. There are also countless phone calls," Keane said. "My area has a good working relationship with representatives of the Department of Social Services, community action agencies and the area agencies on aging."

"Our consumer affairs people know what sort of help is available and how to get it," Keane said. "We treat each customer as an individual and consider any special circumstances that might exist.

"We're here to help. If you think you're going to have difficulties, don't wait until it's too late," said Keane. "Get in touch with us right away."

Local photographers featured

Two local photographers, Merle O. Plagge, M.D., and his son, Peter, are featured in the current issue of a new regional publication, The Torch Magazine.

Several of Dr. Plagge's color prints are reproduced, showing different photographic techniques. Dr. Plagge has been taking color pictures since he purchased his first 35 mm. camera in 1949. He now has his own darkroom and does all his processing and printing.

Photography is just a hobby with Dr. Plagge, however. He maintains a busy practice as physician and surgeon in Charlevoix.

Peter Plagge graduated from Charlevoix High School in June, but while there, he "shot" high school activities for the Courier. His pictures of sporting events appeared almost every week.

The Torch Magazine, which is published by the Torch Publishing Company in Central Lake, is designed to cover the interests of readers in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

Volume I Number I contains several stories of local nostalgia: "A Logger Recalls", the remininiscences of a northern Michigan lumberjack, by John Odlaund; "Antrim County Fair", recalling its 1882 debut, by Mary Kay McDuffie; "The Horton Bay General Store", now over 100 years old, by William H. Ohle; and "Brushing Away the Cobwebs", how to use a root cellar, by Fran Hepburn.

Other features include a profile of Dr. William S. McCune of Petoskey, by Audrey Diebel Collins and Mavis Cheney; a story about the Thorne Swift Nature Preserve, by Mary keist Spanburg; and an article about John Hedpath and his founding of the Presbyterian Church in Cross Village which bears his name, by Kathy Mendoza.

The Torch Magazine will be published quarterly, with a year's subscription available for $10.

Unique gifts available at bazaar

The McCune Arts Center "Artist's Bazaar" offers Christmas shoppers a chance to buy truely unique gifts from a collection of 50 Michigan artists and craftsmen.

Shopping hours continue each Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Dec. 24.

Well-known local artists as well as a select group of new artists from Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Traverse City and Detroit are contributing to the "Artist's Bazaar," which will emphasize one-of-a-kind, original items in the $5 to $50 gift price range.

"This year, art is the gift," say Betty Adgate and Ellie Nicol, co-chairs of this first-time event.

"When you've given everything else you can think of, when you want something different, when you want something of real value and quality, original arts and crafts fill the bill nicely," says Nicol.

"Art never goes out of style, because you're buying something you really love," Adgate says.

Handmade wooden toys and handcrafted silver jewelry are to be included in the show, along with toasty handwoven shawls and scarves, delicate handpainted silk ties, fragrant herbal wreaths, decorative baskets, porcelain and stoneware pottery, oil and watercolor paintings, cards and ornaments.

"While we operate a sales shop all year round, this is a special effort," says gallery coordinator Audrey Collins.

"Our artists are going all-out to produce work that is affordable yet unique - unlike the usual giftgiving fare."

Art selling shows have proven to be extremely popular for a number of urban arts centers, and local artists requested that Crooked Tree Arts Coucil try one in Northern Michigan, according to Collins.

"We have had a tremendous response to our invitations to exhibit," she says. "We believe this will become an event that is eagerly anticipated each year during the holiday season."

A portion of all sales will be set aside to help fund a number of special projects in the arts center, Collins says.

"The Artist's Bazaar is a wonderful opportunity to make this year's holiday gift giving something very special, and to help keep the arts a vital part of community life in the north," she said.

The McCune Arts Center is located in the historic former Methodist church, corner of Mitchell and Division Streets, downtown Petoskey.

Fochtman wins VCR at Central

John and Lani Ochs, owners of Central Drug Store, were happy to announce last week that one of their customers, Bonnie Fochtman, has won a VCR in a nationwide drawing conducted by Good Neighbor Pharmacies.

Central Drugs is now a member of the Good Neighbor Pharmacy nationwide network.

"We hope that one of our customers will be one of the lucky winner," the Ochs said.

Central Drugs has also announced that it has a senior citizen's club and seniors are encouraged to stop in a pick up a free coupon book. The drug store also hopes to have an insulin club in the near future for the special needs of diabetics.

Girls lose Regional in night to be forgotten

It turned out to be a night to forget rather than one to remember ... the night of December 3 when the Charlevoix Rayder girls lost to Benzie Central in the state classic regional by a score of 43-37.

Not all of the Rayders' problems were on the basketball floor.

To be in Roscommon for a game schedule for 8:30 p.m., the Rayder bus left Charlevoix at 5:30 p.m. Enroute developed mechanical problems it makes it impossible to continue the trip on the hazardous roads. After a 90-minute delay at Elmira, a second bus was dispatched, getting the team to the Roscommon gymnasium at 9:10 p.m.

In the interim, the tournament manager had been in touch with officials of the Michigan High School Athletic Association who twice advised that the game proceed when the team arrived. On a third call he was told to call for a forfeit when the team and coach, Henry Wagner walked in. Given an opportunity to dress and six minutes for a warm-up, the Rayders opened against one of the top rated teams in the state.

Benzie jumped to a 15-9 first period lead and increased it to 25-16 at halftime before the Rayders calmed down and started to find the range though the score was 41-27 going into the final period.

The last period, however, saw the Rayders outscore Benzie 10-2 and, at one point, cut the Huskie lead to four points following a late comeback.

The Rayders hit on 19 percent of their shots to Benzie's 44 in the first half and on 44 to Benzie's 30 percent in the second half.

"After their experience getting to the game, the girls came through in great style. I was proud of them," Coach Wagner said.

"Our girls did not play up to their capabilities under the circumstances. Wagner said of the Rayders after the game. "Tonight Benzie was a better team than we were, but overall they're not a better team. They had height that we lacked and were much more physical than Charlevoix. Our team is better than the 10-4 record they took into the tournament."

Amy Pischner led the Rayder scoring with 16 points. Michelle Gagnon added eight, Cindy Boss six, Ellen Pearl four and Kris Austin three.

Michelle Siderman had 12 for Benzie who outscored Charlevoix 19 to 18 from the floor and had five of seven free throws while collecting eight personal fouls. Charlevoix scored on one of three attempts and had 10 personal fouls.

Charlevoix finished the season with a 16-5 overall record which earned them a second place standing in the Michigan-Huron Shores conference and a Class C District title.

Seniors on the team are Stargardt, Austin, Gagnon and Sue Miller.

When Coach Wagner left his players at the high school following the return trip, his day was not finished as far as excitement was concerned.

While turning off Dixon Avenue on to Burns Street where he lives, he caught a glimpse of a blaze on the porch at the Charles Wilmot home in his rear view mirror and returned to the house to find that a box of ashes left on the porch had spread the fire to wood piled on the porch that had flames licking up the exterior wall of the porch.

He aroused the family and helped extinguish the flames before journeying the final block to his home.

Lucy Witthoeft and Nancy Wood add mittens to the tree at First State Bank.

Mitten tree brings kids wamth

The Mitten Tree, sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Women's Club made its appearance in the lobby at the First State Bank last week to receive gifts of mittens as well as scarves, caps and hats for needy children in the community.

This marks the 15th year the Women's Club has placed the Christmas tree in the bank to give area residents an opportunity to contribute to the project. In 1984 a total of 85 items were donated.

The mittens, caps and scarves are distributed to children in families that might have a very slim Christmas but for the Community Christmas project that provides food for Christmas dinners, a toy and mittens for each child in needy families.

In 1984, 110 families as well as people living alone numbering a total of 300 people received Chirstmas food and gift parcels through the Community Christmas Project sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association which includes 10 area churches.

Greenleaf gets new owners

New owners of the Greenleaf Gardens florist shop and greenhouse on the south side of town are Ed and Pete Douma.

They recently purchased the shop from Carol Louiselle, who remains as manager. Ed Douma is the active member in the business, although he will continue to live in Grand Rapids, wnere he is basketball coach at Calvin College.

Ed Douma explained that his interest in the florist business comes from working for his father, who owned a florist shop in Muskekgon. "Also, I coached at Lake Superior State College for four years and became attached to the north country," he added.

However, his real interest in Greenleaf Gardens lies in the fact that Carol was willing to remain as manager, he explained: "She has the expertise we need".

Greenleaf Gardens has a large supply of poinsettias and wreaths for the Christmas season and offers "top quality and good service", Douma says. It also retains its Floral Telegraphy Delivery system service.

Rayders basketball team defends crown

The Charlevoix Rayder basketball team, defending champions in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, started the 1985-86 impressively by defeating a strong East Jordan outfit on the latter's floor in a non-league game.

The team's second outing will be at Harbor Springs the following Tuesday before they meet St. Ignace on their home court Dec. 13.

Coach Dave Smith, whose Rayders last year had a 13-1 record in league play and 20-2 overall record for the season, counts one returnee from last season, guard Jody Putman, among six senior candidates for this year's team.

A second senior, Sean Ferguson, who saw action during the tournaments when John Pearl was injured, will be the only other returnee with any experience.

Putman is 6-0 guard and Ferguson a 6-2 forward. Other seniors are Tim Plagge, 6-3 center, Tim Saimonson, 6-2 forward, Packy LaBlance, 6-1 guard and Marc Himebuach, 6-1 forward.

Other candidates are up from JV ranks where they enjoyed an 18-2 record last season. They are centers Joe Miller, 6-3, and Terry Bonar, 6-4; Guards Jim Gibbs, 6-0, and Jim Ciuk, 5-9; forwards Paul Anderson, 6-1, and Rick Quinn, 6-2, a transfer from Fairview, and a 6-1 guard Dan Drury who saw action last season with the Rayder freshman squad.

On Saturday, Coach Smith and his Rayders traveled to Big Rapids where they were among eight teams participating in all-day scrimmages at the Ferris State College Fieldhouse. After retorning Smith said his players looked "generally good" during the short scrimmage periods with each of the seven other teams.

During the action, his players suffered one casuality. Plagge suffered a fractured nose. However, he is expected to return to action after treatment.

Smith said that his starting line-up against East Jordan on Friday would likely come from among the following playera who "looked good" at Big Rapids: Putman, guard, Ferguson and Salmonson, forwards, Miller, center, and Gibbs or Drury at the second guard position. This could change, Smith quickly added.

"We're not rebuilding. We're just reloading," he concluded.

He named Gaylord and Cheboygan as the teams that should be strong in the league.

With one year of basketball behind them, these athletes will compose the Charlevoix Rayder junior varsity team coach by Dick Swenor.

Back row: Coach Swenor, Owen Phillips, Eric Voorheis, Chad DeVries, Scott DeYoung, Scott Denny.

Wrestlers face brightest prospects in years

Despite early season loses at St. Ignace and the Glen Lake Invitational, Coach Greg Bran remains optimistic about the prospects for his 1985-86 Charlevoix Rayder matmen.

With 14 candidates, he boasts a squad with some experience though some has been at middle school level.

Among the prospects are four freshmen: Scott Novotny (112), Jason Wiser (119), Jason Whitley 126) and Jamie Montieth (138) all who did well, especially Whitley, in middle school competition. Others are Chad Thorp (105), Steve Hopkins (138), a transfer from Traverse City and a newcomer to the sport, Derek Dutcher (167) and Jim Tilton (185), sophomores; juniors Shann Bier (132), another newcomer, Steve Mellios (145) and Bill Marquardt (hvywt) and Kevln Pearsall, Matt Hull and Dan Kelly, (all 155) seniors.

Thorp, Hull and Kelly should form the nucleus of this year's team, Bryan said, adding that Thorp and Kelly were regional qualifiers last year. Along with Hull, 1983-84 captain, all three have improved a great deal he added.

Bryan went on to say that the team may be short in a couple weight classes, 98 and 198 and possibly 119, depending on who will make the weight. "However, we should fill out at least 11 of the 13 weight classes and should be competitive for the first time in several years," he commented.

In the upper weights, Dutcher should do well after coming out late in the season last year. Thus far he has improved greatly, Bryan said. Tilton and especially Marquardt should help considerably after being on the sick or injured list part of last season.

"The team will be a medium to strong dual team but I think in tournament action we should be strong. They're a young team with only three seniors, but with a little experience at the varsity level we may surprise our competition later in the season. This is the first time in my five years as coach that I have felt optimistic going into the season," Bryan said.

For the first time be has an assistant coach, Greg Whitley, one of his former wrestler's who, as a student at Muskegon Community College, was regional junior college champion and competed successfully at the national level.

Brian Darrah is team manager.

The Charlevoix Rayder varsity cheerleaders, coached by Christine Michaud, will be leading the cheers when the basketball season opens this weekend.

Members of the squad are; seated front row (left to right): Stephanie Martin, Beth Maue, Jamie Campbell, Jayne Scharenbroch, Laura Reibel, Tricia Blissett.

EPA proposal gets support of Chamber, City

This week the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and the City of Charlevoix joined Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. in writing letters to Gov. Blanchard in support of the Environmental Protection Agency's "limited action" approach to Charlevoix's contaminated aquifer.

Blanchard opposes the EPA alternative which would monitor the trichloroethylene (TCE) in Charlevoix's groundwater for 50 years. EPA, which is funding 90 percent of the costs of a new water source and treatment facility for the city, is recommending against extracting and cleaning the groundwater.

Groundwater treatment would cost $4.4 to 4.8 million according to the EPA's "present worth" calculations. That could mean over $10 million in actual state costs over a 30-year period, state officials say.

A statement approved by the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce says the group "endorses the City of Charlevoix and the State Department of Health in supporting the EPA's position of their 'limited action' with continued monitoring in the area."

Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Chamber, said a letter was sent to Blanchard on Tuesday.

She said the letter emphasized the Govenor's contributions to cleaning up the lakes. "The Charlevoix situation should not set a precedent. Each hazardous waste site has to be evaluated individually."

She noted that the concern over treating the remaining contamination in the groundwater has drawn attention away from the important fact that Charlevoix is in the process of getting a new source of clean water. "No one is really emphasizing that this little sleepy town has a new treatment plant."

The letter to Gov. Blanchard said "The Charlevoix TCE situation is unique and must be looked at that way ... There is great concern locally over the disruptiveness and pointlessness of a $4-10 million cleanup program when the chemical will become literally unmeasureable by the time it reaches Lake Michigan.

"Government funds would be more wisely spent cleaning up the sites that pose a threat to human health and the environment."

A letter from Mayor Hal Hill to Gov. Blanchard was scheduled to be sent Wednesday stating the city's support for the EPA position. City Council had previously endorsed the EPA position.

Lake survey reveals support for uniform shoreline regulation

by DOUG TRUAX

There is strong support for a single land use ordinance in the Lake Charlevoix area, according to preliminary results of an attitude survey conducted this fall by the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee.

The committee heard Wednesday from County Planner Larry Sullivan and County Extension Director Rod Cortright who presented early results from the study.

Some 1,414 of the 2,904 surveys mailed out to a random sample of property owners in the Lake Charlevoix watershed have been returned. "We feel there is some real valid information from the 11 communities the survey was sent out to," Sullivan told the committee. "We are very pleased with the response rate."

A single land use ordinance within the Lake Charlevoix watershed was strongly favored by 45.1 percent of the respondents. Another 23.8 percent favored the idea. Only 15.1 percent opposed or strongly opposed a uniform land use ordinance.

Council revokes tax abatement

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council on Monday revoked one of the three commercial tax abatements it has granted, citing failure to meet the conditions of the agreement.

The action was taken against John Haggard, owner of Haggard Plumbing and Heating, for property he owns at 200 Antrim St. The revocation of the tax abatement will mean an additional $800 in taxes over the two years remaining on the six-year agreement, city officials said.

The abatement for the Haggard property was given in 1981 to help Haggard establish a commercial office building at the site.

Council noted that after some 4½ years the improvements promised in the tax agreement were not completed.

The motion to rescind the agreement was made by Councilman Shirley Roloff and was passed unanimously.

Haggard told Council that he had not completed the greenery planned for the front of the building or obtained more tenants because of economic conditions. He said he had advertised in papers in Charlevoix and Detroit but could find no takers to occupy the vacant office space.

Part of the building is currently leased to Family Video Showcase which employs two people. The tax abatement agreement estimated future employment at eight.

Roloff said she did not feel the terms of the tax exemption had been fulfilled and that the lack of additional employment should be considered. Other Council members concurred.

Council also unanimously approved a site plan for 313 Belvedere Ave. (the old Walker Marine) to construct a second story living room addition.

It also agreed to a recommendation by City Manager Michael Wiesner to earmark the approximately $9,400 surplus revenue from golf course operations in 1984-85 for future capital expenses at the golf course. Wiesner said there was much new equipment needed at the course including ball washers, benches, tee markers, and improvements in the sprinkling system.

A contract was approved for Jack Begrow to design the new city public safety building. Begrow will be paid 6 percent of the costs of construction for design, drawing up bid specifications, and inspection of the construction. Council deleted a provision setting a rate for Begrow'a services to prepare site plans for the current post office location.

"Right now I'm just interested in the public safety building," Roloff said.

During public comments, John Sharrow raised the issue of the Grant Street sliding hill. He said the problem had been going on for a year now without any solution.

Wiesner reported that he had met with some 20 neighbors in the area and they had come to the general conclusion that Newman Street should be kept plowed to stop the Grant Street sliding at that point. The city will attempt to build up a snow bank at Newman to stop the sledders and to keep the top part of Grant Street open for sledding, he said.

"I feel that is as good a solution as could be done this winter," Wiesner added.

Bruce MacArthur referred council to an editorial in the Petoskey News Review advocating a downtown location for the post office. He asked the Mayor to appoint a committee to study other downtown sites for the post office. The city planner, MacArthur said, has stated that post offices in cities this size should be downtown.

Councilman Michael Greeley said he was doubtful of the possibility of finding a competitive location downtown but endorsed the idea of trying. "If there is any way it can be put downtown, it should be."

Mayor Hal Hill added that "Council agrees it (the post office) should go downtown. It is just a question of where you get a parcel."

Conservation officers to prosecute weir fishing violation case

A controversial fishing arrest of Steven Sloop, 36, and Randy Witten, 36, both of East Jordan will go to a pretrial hearing in 90th District Court Thursday.

County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman has refused to prosecute the case, leaving the arresting conservation officers, Roger Bush and Jim Genc, to act as prosecutors should the case go to trial.

Sloop and Witten were arrested on Oct. 6 for fishing waters closed to fishing below the DNR weir on the Jordan River.

Lieberman says he decided not to prosecute because "I don't think that in good conscience the defendants can be found guilty."

He contends that the DNR illegally placed the weir in the Jordan because it did not seek prior approval from the County Board of Commissioners.

This fall Lieberman, on behalf of the Commissioners, threatened criminal legal action against the DNR if the weir was not removed. That prompted the DNR fisheries staff to suggest that the salmon program would be moved from the Charlevoix area if it did not get more cooperation.

A joint meeting between the DNR and the Board of Commissioners resolved the matter with the Commissioners stating that the DNR "acted in good faith" when it installed the weir and did not attempt to circumvent the authority of the Commissioners.

The Board said the DNR "has agreed in the future to include the Board of Commissioners in decisions involving County waterways."

The Commissioner's resolution concluded "the Board of Commissioners reaffirms its general support for the DNR's salmon planting program and will seek to cooperate with the Department in any way that promotes the program while at the same time assures statutory compliance and protection of the rights and legal interests of the County and its residents."

Lieberman says the weir is not the issue. "I don't have any problems with the merits of the weir being in there. It's fine. It is just a matter of could I go and convict those guys. I don't think I could."

Lieberman requested that the state Attorney General prosecute the case, but the Attorney General's office refused, reportedly because it did not wish to set a precedent of assuming the duties of county prosecuters.

That leaves Bush and Genc to act as prosecutors, something Bush

Charlevoix Yesterday

During most of the first half of this century, Allie Moore was a household name in Charlevoix. As a youth, he learned to roller skate in the Roller Rink that stood on the corner of Bridge Street and Belvedere Avenue. He was "discovered" by a resident of the Belvedere Club, who owned the Chicago Roller Skate Company, and soon began participating in skating events all over the world. One of his performances was in Germany before Kaiser Wilhelm.

Moore later returned to Charlevoix with a wife (a former trapeze artist) and acquired the "Golden Rule", a 60-foot square-rigged schooner. He was hired by the Belvedere Club to teach members' children how to sail and used the "Golden Rule" as his classroom for many years. Allie and Mrs. Moore and a succession of dogs also lived aboard the boat. The above picture depicts their lifestyle. (Picture courtesy of Ella Ingalls)

County plans new office space

Charlevoix County is asking the tenants of the Mason Street house adjacent to the County parking lot which is owned by the County, to vacate the premises.

According to a resolution passed by the County Board last week, the County will spend up to $3,000 to renovate the house to make it usable for County offices.

It is intended that offices of Building Code Inspection, the Drain Commissioner, Soil Erosion and Sedimentation, Numbering System, and Youth Activities, now located in the lower level of the County Building Annex, will be moved to the new quarters.

District No. 3 Health Department, which has space on the first and second floors of the Annex, will also lake over the lower level space.

Commissioners re-appoint officials

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week made several re-appointments to County committees:

A. D. "Hap" Cunningham of Charlevoix was named to the Commission on Aging; John Bulck of Boyne City was named to the Act 58 (Mental Health) Board; and Steven Wilson of Charlevoix was named to the Veterans Affairs Committee.

No action was taken on the expiring terms of three members of the County Planning Commission. The Planning Commission is a nine-member body, and some County Board members have expressed interest in reducing it to six members. One suggested way of doing so was to fill only two of the three expiring terms each year for three years. However, no such action was taken last week.

Members of the County Planning Commission whose terms expire December 31 are Thomas Wieland of Charlevoix, Arnold Hudson of Walloon Lake, and Junior Hunt of Boyne Falls. Other members are Vivian Visscher of St. James, Dorothy Custer of Charlevoix, Dennis Jason of East Jordan, Larry Levengood of Charlevoix, Cass Toton of Boyne City, and Margaret Midener of East Jordan.

Buday electronics beams in on satellites

The magic of electronics, especially television satellite systems, is everywhere in Buday's NCE (Northern Certified Electronics) shop on US-31 South.

Ed Buday has piled up 27 years in the electronics business, starting with classes at a trade school in Detroit, working in repair and sales shops, going to seminars and trade shows, and, since 1976, in his own shop in Charlevoix. Son Doug, a graduate of Michigan State University, joined his father in the business last year.

Ed Buday describes his shop as providing retail TV sales and service as well as sales and service of satellite systems from 55 inches up to multiple receiver systems. He began selling and installing satellite systems five years ago and recently put in a complete satellite master system for Boyne Country.

Satellites are 22,000 miles up in the air, Buday, explained, and each one has 24 channels. He programs his systems for 14 channels. Since the satellites are in orbit with the earth, when a system is once aimed, it is locked in and provides almost magic tuning, according to Buday, and the larger the satellite dish is, the better the reception is.

Satellites have their own names, too, names like "Galaxy", "Telstar", "Westar", "Spacenet", and "Moreles". While most of them relay English language programs, some of them are in French or Spanish, or other languages.

One satellite channel provides music 24 hours a day – all kinds of music, gospel, classical, rock, country, and other. Satellites are used extensively for educational purposes, especially in presenting classroom studies. Hospitals and doctors can tune into a satellite channel which spreads medical knowledge around the world.

"Satellites are here to stay," Buday concluded.

Buday's NCE sells mostly Conifer mesh satellite dishes, as well as the Macon system. "Nine out of ten of our sales are mesh dishes," Buday said. "There is very little maintenance on Conifer systems except the steel pole that can rust and must be painted."

Proper installation of satellite dishes is very important, Buday pointed out. "During the past big windstorm, none of the dishes we had installed blew down, but we were driving around near Harobr Springs and saw four of them there that had been damaged," he said.

Another bit of magic in satellite electronics is that there can be two receivers, each showing a different program, from the same satellite dish. This could be the answer to Monday night family friction brought about by football watching.

A disadvantage of satellite reception, however, is that local programs cannot be received. In Charlevoix, this means programs from Traverse City, Cadillac, Sault Ste. Marie, or Mt. Pleasant.

But local programs can still be received with an arial setup along with the satellite.

Prices for satellite systems range from $799 to $3,395 in Buday's shop, but he says that every year the buyer gets more for his money when buying one. One system that cost $3;500 just a few years ago can now be bought for under $3,000.

His satellite business has brought income into the area from other sources, too, according to Buday, citing the amount of cement he buys from Manthei to construct pads for his dishes.

County budget is up slightly

by PEG OHLE

The proposed County General Fund budget for 1986 is higher than the 1985 budget, but only slightly higher.

Persons attending the County Commissioners' budget hearing tonight (Wednesday) evening will learn that it will cost $3,382,100 from General Funds to run the County next year, compared with $3,211,957 this past year.

The increase of $170,143 is accounted for by higher operating costs in several departments. However, cuts in operating costs in some other departments have kept the increase down to slightly more than five percent.

Among the more visible increases in operating costs are: Data processing, from $47,300 to $64,370; Circuit Court, from $45,053 to $68,269; Probate Court, from $117,692 to $157,131; Equalization, from $129,441 to $146,068; Jail, from $158,912 to $203,512; Elections, from $5,530 to $20,800; and Contingency, from $16,861 to $163,299.

Departments showing decreases include District Court, from $156,246 to $149,903; Law Library, from $4,000 to $2,500; Animal Control, from $25,164 to $19,750; State Institutions, from $36,000 to $30,000; Insurance and Bonds, from $257,266 to $223,126; Retirement Funds, from $117,400 to $90,000; and Capital Outlay, from $19,310 to $15,213.

In broad categories, budget figures are: Legislative, $136,421; Judicial, $685,374; General County Government, $756,930; Public Safety, $723,035; Other (District Health, Social Services, Contingency, etc.) $1,039,492; Recreation, $25,635; and Capital Outlay, $15,213.

The County also maintains a separate Revenue Sharing budget to account for Federal Revenue Sharing funds.

House numbering system in place

At the end of last week, all rural residents of Charlevoix County with the exception of Bay and South Arm Townships had been advised of their new address numbers.

The numbers will replace the outmoded route and box numbers now being used. They were determined by actual mileage measurements based on a grid system and indicate exact location of a house within a few hundred feet.

Russ Geek, who has been overseeing the numbering system for the County, says some of the letters advising people of their new address numbers have been returned because the addressee no longer owns the property. Anyone (other than residents of Bay and South Arm Townships) who have not yet received a new number should contact Debbie at the County Numbering System, phone 547-6500.

The new numbering system was undertaken by the County Board of Commissioners several years ago following requests from rural residents for a better way for emergency vehicles to locate their homes. The Post Office Department is distributing the advisory letters free of charge and is asking people to advise correspondents of their new numbers.

Lake survey results

The same pattern held true when residents were asked about a single water use ordinance for Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix. The idea was strongly favored by 46.6 percent of those returning the questionnaire and favored by another 24.4 percent.

The survey also turned up much support for a simplification of setback and greenbelt requirements. On the question of a uniform setback and greenbelt for the entire shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, 78.7 either favored or strongly favored the idea. Seven percent opposed it and another 4.7 percent strongly opposed.

A uniform setback and greenbelt for rivers, streams, and creeks in the area was given identical support.

A somewhat smaller majority, 61.5 percent, approved such a measure for wetlands that do not border Lake Charlevoix.

The percentages cited are based only on those who expressed an opinion on a given question.

The present water quality in Lake Charlevoix was rated highly by the survey respondents. Twelve percent rated it as very good, 39 percent said it was good, and 28.4 percent called it fair. Water quality was said to be poor by 3.5 percent, very poor by another 1.6 percent. The remainder did not know (7.9 percent), had no opinion (3.9 percent) or did not answer (3.9 percent).

Water clarity was cited as the most important factor in determining water quality – some 60 percent said it was important their evaluation. Litter (32 percent), development activities (28 percent) and weed growth (26 percent) were the other most important factors.

The survey results also provide a profile of those answering the questionnaire. A vast majority (72.3) are not riparian owners, while 26.4 do own waterfront property (1.2 percent did not answer).

Just over half of the respondents (54.5 percent) have homes with a view of Lake Charlevoix or Round Lake. Sole owners of their property are in the majority (61.5 percent), followed by joint owners (21 percent), and those with property owned by family (16.4 percent).

Lake use was also measured by the survey. The highest reported use was viewing (70 percent), followed by swimming (62 percent), fishing from a boat (49 percent), sunbathing (40 percent), powerboating (34 percent) and fishing from shore (28 percent).

Some 23 percent reported sailing and approximately 22 percent said they waterskied and ice fished.

Clockwise

White Christmas

By Bob Clock

Can you think of a year when Charlevoix had more than four feet of snow a full week before Christmas?

I can't.

And poor Petoskey is struggling under more than five feet.

In the long skein of history, I am sure Northern Michigan has had other such winters. But no one I know can remember them.

If it helps any, much of this year's accumulation is "lake effect" snow, which weather buffs contend is somehow different from regular snow. But you couldn't prove it by me. It looks like snow, it drifts like snow and it is just as heavy to shovel in the pre-dawn hours.

However, travelers tell me that the snow belt doesn't extend much beyond Northwestern Michigan. Once you hit Grayling, you're practically home free.

I taked to a cousin in Wiarton, Ontario, on Georgian Bay last week. Wiarton is on almost the same latitude as Charlevoix. After the normal pleasantries, she asked me if I thought we'd have a white Christmas. I thought she was kidding.

Wiarton at that point had had only four inches of snow — and it had all melted.

DESPITE THE BAD weather, an impressive number of construction projects are continuing in Charlevoix throughout the winter, including Edgewater Inn on Round Lake and the new water treatment plant on the Lake Michigan shore.

Summer visitors are going to find sweeping changes when they return to Charlevoix next year.

DOES IT GIVE you a warm feeling to know that in five or six years, the nation's whopping federal deficit will be written off?

Although some stuffy economists think Congress is whistling in the wind, I for one am happy Capitol Hill has done something to put our financial house in order.

And apparently a lot of other people are, too. Wall Street had one of its best weeks ever last week, interest rates are continuing to decline, unemployment is dropping and a generally buoyant mood has settled upon the business community.

Of course, many federal programs — principally defense spending — are going to feel the pinch. But in light of the recent summit meeting between President Reagan and Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev of the Soviet Union, maybe we can relax our guard a little and still remain militarily strong. It might even be a good idea to put the proposed Star Wars defense system on a back burner until the deficit is erased.

Some social programs and a goodly number of "pork barrel" expenditures are going to suffer, too. But Social Security has been declared immune from tampering, which is a relief to many senior citizens.

I hope we have a sufficient number of statesmen in Congress to stick to their guns and trim spending by $50 billion a year as promised.

Letters to the Editor:

Santa luncheon benefits from generous help

Dear Editor:

The Santa Luncheon Dec. 7, 1985 was a success beyond our wildest dreams, but make no mistake about how and why it was a success. There are many people and businesses to thank for their generosity and their donation without which the luncheon would not have been possible.

Thank you Ken Gray of 7-Eleven and the Eckrich Company for donating 24 lbs. of ham. Ken also arranged with Cal Sheehy of Butternut Bread to donate 360 buns for sandwiches. Jack Schmidt of Edwards and Mike Greeley of Wharfside Market donated the peanut butter and jelly.

A call to Rob Westfall manager of Glen's Market in Charlevoix resulted in 300 cartons of white milk. Leroy Buchanan manager of Oleson's Food Store sliced all the meat, provided the candy canes, and when we ran out of food, he donated additional potato chips and cookies.

Jim Withers of V.I.P. also donated potato chips. We are especially grateful to two of our local orchards. Friske's and Rosenthal's donated all the red delicious apples. They were so adorable that they looked more like ornaments than edibles. Mrs. Friske told me that she had hand-picked the two bushels.

One of the highlights every year for the children is the Ski and Shore balloonman. Thank you Dick Georgi of Ski and Shore Charlevoix for providing all the balloons for the glee of each child. Also, we thank Ross Maxwell of Medair Equipment Supply who provided the canistar of helium which blew up all 325 balloons.

As you might realize–there are some things that must be purchased and this year, we thank the Charlevoix County State Bank, First State Bank of Charlevoix and Wojan Aluminum Products Corporation for donating $25 each for those additional items and for tickets which were given to many deserving children who otherwise might not have been able to attend.

The seat of honor was held by Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus played by Lloyd and Sara Cummings. Santa had a wonderful throne this year; a beaotiful chair lent for the occasion by Bob and Nancy Murray. We thank you Carol Louiselle of Greenleaf Gardens for providing the balloons and the plants which decorated Santa's space for the photos given to each child who sat on Santa's lap.

All the food was prepared Saturday morning in the elementary school kitchen. Thank you Vane Smith for allowing us to deliver some of the items on Friday. A big thank you to Verna Swanson and her staff. You were most helpful. Don Potter, we couldn't have survived without you.

Xi Epsilon Gamma salutes you all for making this years Santa Luncheon such a huge success. I know that if the children in Charlevoix knew who to thank they would be first in line to say, "God Bless."

Suzie Reis,
President

Robbery facts and speculation challenged

This editorial is in response to the recent articles printed in regard to the arrest of Charles Bennett for the alleged robbery of the Charlevoix County State Bank on Oct. 18, 1985.

Another point of view -

Speculation - "to theorize, make conjectures, or guesses."

Allege - "to produce as an argument or plea, assertion without proof.".

Circumstantial Evidence - "evidence inferred from circumstances."

Speculation - Bennett was arrested and arraigned on Clifford robbery.

Fact - Bennett was arrested only on Charlevoix robbery.

Speculation - Bennett's bike was found after Charlevoix robbery, and was still warm.

Fact - There is no direct evidence that the Charlevoix robber even used a bike. The day bike was found the temperature was 50 degrees or lower and raining. Could the bike have stayed warm four hours?

Speculation - Large sums of money have been recovered.

Fact - 3.6 percent of the amount was found of which five bills were identified as coming from Charlevoix bank.

They were found two weeks after the robbery. It is very possible for anyone living in that area near a robbery to have a few marked bills two weeks after a robbery if you shop and lived in the area.

Total amount of marked bills from these robberies would be a large amount.

Speculation - A truck impression from a ramp was found and measured from the Clifford robbery.

Fact - Truck in Bennett's possession was shorter in measurement from impression found and measured.

Question - When a bike is ridden onto a truck ramp, the ramp could slide and impression become larger, but shorter?

Speculation - Bennett was an unemployed truck driver.

Fact - If being currently unemployed is a factor, I'm afraid that would leave a lot of suspects.

Speculation - Same person robbed all five banks.

Fact - This is only speculation. The affidavit has different heights, weights, ages and eye colors.

Speculation - They've found $28,000 Bennett has spent toward a new business.

Fact - The FBI were voluntarily allowed into Bennett's home, where receipts were openly left. There is nothing to link that money to robberies. Bennett offered evidence as to how this money was earned.

Speculatioo - Eyewitnesses saw a black bike leave Clifford robbery.

Fact - At least one eyewitness identified the bike as being blue.

Speculation - Bennett has been the only suspect in all robberies.

Fact - Lapeer police first believed another much younger person did the Clifford robbery. Also at least one additional local resident was suspect in this robbery.

Fact - Bennett voluntarily let agents search his home and vehicles, with no prior warning. Bennett allowed himself to be voluntarily hand printed, and questioned several times. Bennett does have four young children who wear and own ski masks. Bennett volunteered the bike was his, handed over the bike's keys and a why to its where abouts. Bennett at 46 has no previous criminal record.

Fact - There is only circumstancial evidence in this case.

Question - If a bike and truck were believed to have been used in all the other robberies, why was one not used in Charlevoix robbery? And if a truck was used, why would bike have been left? If a bike was used alone, and later ditched because it broke down, could the robber have hitchhiked with a large bag of money and shotgun?

If not, why were none found?

I offer this as another side to consider. As always there are two sides to consider.

Until something like this touches someone you know, you do not realize the damage speculation and conjectures and half truths can do not only to the person being accused (innocent until proven guilty) but also to their children and family and future reputation.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Phillip G. Schairbaum
First Congregational Church
United Church of Christ

We have embarked once more on our annual journey to Bethlehem, to that place where Christ is born anew each year. No matter how many times we have been there, it is always a trip that we look forward to.

We are drawn to Bethlehem as if it were our own home, which it is in a very special way. For the One who came to life there is the same One who gives us life, not in the sense of our earthly, physical parents, of course, but in the spiritual sense as we chart our relationship to God, our heavenly parent, back to the Babe of Bethlehem.

There is in each of us a kind of "homing instinct" which beckons us to return to our place of origin, and that instinct is especially strong at Christmas time. We even sing about it –

"There's no place like home for the holidays,
No matter how far away you roam...."

"I'll be home for Christmas, if only in my dreams...."

But where is our true home? Generally we associate our home with that tangible, identifiable geographic locale where we go to celebrate the holidays, that place where, as Robert Frost once put it, "When you go there, they have to take you in." Our spiritual home is of a different sort. It is that intangible, invisible, nongeographic place where we "go" to find our rest and peace. One person defined that kind of home as "the place where you tie one end of the thread of life."

As we celebrate Christmas this year, may we come home to the place where life begins and ends, to the place where God is, to the place of joy and fulfillment that is awaiting us in Jesus Christ. G.K. Chesterton, the English writer and cleric, said it beautifully:

"To an older place than Eden,
To a taller town than Rome,
To the end of the way of the wandering star,
To the things that cannot be but are,
To the place where God was homeless,
And all men are at home."

Wishing you a "Happy Christmas Homecoming."

Rubella shots urged

Distriict Health Department No. 3 is warning parents of the continuing danger of childhood diseases and urging them to make sure that all of their children are fully immunized.

Brian L. Youngs, M.D., medical director, is especially concerned at this time because of the recently reported case of rubella (German measles) in the area. Rubella is a mild contagious disease with a rash sometimes resembling measles and scarlet fever. Complications such as encephalitis are rare.

Rubella is dangerous because of its ability to produce birth defects in the developing fetus (baby). Susceptible adolescent and adult females of childbearing age should be immunized. The rubella vaccine is given with measles and mumps vaccine (MMR).

Pregnant women concerned about German measles should contact their family physician. Rubella, as well as polio, measles, mumps, whooping cough, diptheria, and tetanus, may be prevented by properly immunizing children.

Te District Health Department recommends a series of immunizations that should be started at two months of age for most children. The series should be completed prior to the child's entry into kindergarten.

A tetanus and diptheria booster should be given to adults and children every 10 years.

Immuniztions are offered by District Health Department No. 3 at the Charlevoix County Building Annex, on the second Monday from 1-3 p.m., and at the East Jordan Family Health Center, Main Street, on the fourth Tuesday from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

For more information about Immunizations contact your physician or any office of District Health Department No. 3: Charlevoix 547-6523; East Jordan 536-7371 or Petoskey 347-6014.

Hospice puts dolls on sale

The dolls are amazing. Their costumes are incredible. And one could be yours to give to your favorite little girl.

Nearly 100 dolls, dressed by enthusiastic supporters of Charlevoix County Hospice are on display at the East Jordan and Boyne City branches of Northwestern State Bank. And they are for sale.

It's all part of a fund-raising drive for Charlevoix County Hospice. The bank purchased the dolls without dresses and set up a contest for customers to create lavish outfits. Now the magnificently dressed dolls are for sale in a silent auction at both bank branches.

Boyne City and East Jordan merchants joined the bank in offering prizes for the best dressed dolls. And the bank will match the total of the funds raised by the sale of the dolls, with all proceeds going to the Charlevoix County Hospice, for its work in making it possible for the terminally ill to be cared for at home by their families with the help of Hospice volunteers.

Screening clinic planned

There will be a Developmental Screening Clinic, sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1987.

The purpose of this clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three-year-old children and an informal screening for their children in order to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years.

This is a free service with appointments made on a first-come first-served basis.

The clinics for the Charlevoix School district are scheduled for Jan. 8 and 29 at 9 a.m. at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Mercer Blvd., Charlevoix.

If you are interested in attending the above clinic, or reside in another district, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or further information.

Rayders notch two more wins

Charlevoix scored its third victory of the season with a home opening win against St. Ignace Friday night.

– The 60-53 victory was the Rayders' first league contest.

The Rayders were down 16-11 at the end of the first quarter but outscored the Saints 16-7 in the second quarter to take a 27-23 lead at halftime. St. Ignace had pulled to within two by the end of the third quarter before Charlevoix gradually pulled away for the victory.

Charlevoix employed a zone defense for much of the evening, but in the final period switched to a man-to-man defense and pushed ahead to a 56-48 lead. The Rayders then dropped back into their zone for the remainder of the game to protect their advantage.

The Rayders put three players in double figures. Sean Ferguson led the attack with 18 points. Jody Putman added 15 and Tim Salmonson scored 10.

The Rayders got in foul trouble, however, with Plagge fouling out after playing just over four minutes of the second half. Salmonson saw seven minutes of action before being forced out on fouls.

Ferguson led the team in rebounding with 12 and Salmonson added another eight. Joe Miller came off the bench to add six rebounds in a strong defensive effort. Packy LaBlance added six assists.

Charlevoix was 21 of 49 from the floor. St. Ignace had more difficulty finding the hoop, dropping only 19 of 58 shots.

ON TUESDAY the Rayders escaped with a narrow 60-58 victory at Harbor Springs. "We were lucky to come away with a win," Coach Dave Smith said afterward.

Salmonson turned in an impressive performance with 19 points and 12 rebounds. Ferguson scored 16 and Putnam 10 in the thriller. The game stayed close throughout the night unitl Charlevoix pulled away from a 52-52 tie, capitalizing on Harbor's missed shots to take a 60-52 lead.

Just as suddenly, however, the Rayder offense fizzled.

The Rayders began to turn the ball over in the backcourt and Harbor brought the score to 60-56 with 1:57 remaining. The Rams couldn't convert on two subsequent steals and missed a one-and-one with 1:09 remaining.

Harbor's Brian O'Neill picked off a pass inside the lane and, with 29 seconds left, sank a short shot to make it 60-58.

Harbor had a chance to even the score with time running out, but watched as a shot bounced off the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Charlevoix played Boyne City on Tuesday night at the Rayder gym.

Wrestlers improve on past performance

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers placed eighth among the teams entered in the annual St. Ignace Invitational Tournament held Saturday, according to Coach Greg Bryan.

Gladstone won the meet and Gaylord placed second.

Charlevoix had one first-place winner, Chad Thorp, in the 105-pound weight class. Jason Whitley (132) placed fourth. Derek Dutcher (185), Dan Kelly (167), Scott Novotny (126) Shan Bier (138) won one and lost two matches. Matt Hull (155), Jim Tilton (198) and Bill Marquardt (hvy) each lost two.

Bryan said Thorp wrestled very well, drawing a first round bye, pinning Matt Leach of Kalkaska in 3:35 in the semi-finals and defeating Jim Kalishek of Gladstone by a 13-4 decision to win Charlevoix's only first place.

In the finals, Thorp won over the wrestler who had defeated him by one point last year. He was excellent on his feet Bryan said taking his opponents down with good technique and wrestling so aggressively that his opponents spent most of their time fighting off their backs.

Whitley, Bryan said, did an excellent job. Being unseeded, he wrestled the first seeded Shaun Luca and almost pulled an upset before losing in the final seconds. He then defeated Tony Garrett of Gaylord by a pin in 4:56 and Frazier of St. Ignace by a pin in 4:53 before losing to Luca a second time in the consolation match 13-5.

Dutcher won his first match over Bill Mitchell of Kalkaska by a pin in :43 and then lost a heartbreaker to Brad Marenger of Gladstone outwrestling him in regulation before Marenger tied the score with a four-point takedown in the final seconds to send the match into overtime.

Dutcher led again in the overtime, only to lose in the last seconds on a controversial call. In the final round he was pinned by Brian Kelly of St. Ignace in 2:45.

"It was a bad day for Charlevoix. We wrestled well overall as a team with Thorp, Whitley and Dutcher establishing themselves as competitors to contend with. However, in the seeding, most of our new wrestlers came up against first-seeded opponents in the first rounds, a tough break in a double elimination tourney," Bryan said.

Charlevoix will be at Gaylord Thursday with Rogers City.

Carson hammers Duffy's in A league

Kit Carson Lumber defeated Duffy's 72-62 and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders beat Judy's Restaurant 82-73 in action in the "A" League of the Charlevoix Independent League Thursday night.

The Depot of Boyne City will meet Duffy's at 6:30 p.m. and Judy's Restaurant and Kit Carson Lumber will clash at 7:45 p.m. Thursday in the league's last game before the holidays.

In the first game Thursday, the Grinders jumped to a 31-9 first period lead, were ahead 48-25 at the half and 72-45 going into the final period when Judy's outscored the leaders 28-10 to cut the final score to 82-73.

Steve Dunkelberg with 21 points, Denny Felix with 16 and Gary Drury with 13 led the way for the Grinders. Randy Holcecheck had 22 and Tex Drenth 17 for Judy's.

Cliff Haas scored 30 points for Duffy's, but it was not enough as the team trailed 23-19, 46-43 and 62-52 by quarters before falling to a strong Carson quintet 72-62.

Vincent Left had 21 points, Cort Vallenga 20 and Butch Klooster 15 for Carson. Woody Pearson had 18 and Steve Martinus 15 for Duffy's.

B league lead tied

Competition in the "B" league of the Charlevoix Independent League remains close as the teams head for the holiday layoff.

First State Bank and Paul Lindberg, Inc., are tied for first place, the Clothing Company is in second, Nanny's in third place with Wojan Aluminum in the league cellar with one game remaining to be played prior to the holidays.

Lindberg, Inc., defeated Nanny's 67-52 and the Clothing Co. downed Wojan 68-42 in action Monday.

It was Lindberg all the way as they led 12-8, 33-21 and 45-33 by quarters. Dave Norton with 14 points and Stan Martin, Ron Cox and Larry Brock 10 points each led the scoring for Lindberg. Don Smith with 17 points and Ray LaVole with 11 were top scorers for Nanny's.

Dave Cole with 26 points took scoring honors in the second game in which Wojan's overcame deficits of 12-4 and 21-17 to knot the score 21-all going into the final period when the Clothiers pulled away for 58-42 win. Charles Garver had 22 points for Wojan.

On Thursday First State Bank downed the Clothing Company 52-45 and Nanny's dumped Wojan 71-51.

The scoring was scattered for the Bankers as they headed the Clothing Co. 13-6, 21-18 and 39-31 by quarters. Mark Shaberg had 10 points for the victors. Dave Cole with 18 points was top scorer for the Clothing Co.

Jim Hamilton with 18 points, Ray LaVoie with 15 and Don Ward with 12 led Nanny's to their third win in six games by scores of 14-6, 32-16 and 48-34 at the intermissions before posting the win. Gene Morrison had 18 and Charles Carvey 16 for Wojan.

After games on Monday, action in this league will be suspended until Jan. 6.

Freshmen split opening games

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman basketball team split in its first week of play, winning over Central Lake by a score of 49-33 on Wednesday and dropping a second game to St. Ignace 62-57 on Thursday.

At Central Lake the teams played to a 12-12 tie before the Rayders pulled away to a 22-15 lead at halftime and 36-27 at the three-quarter mark.

David Miller with 14 points was top scorer for the game. Craig Johnson had eight points for Central Lake.

'Tis the season to be singing

Children in the St. Mery's school choir perform during Sunday's concert.

On Sunday, Dec. 15, St. Mary's School children performed "Hark, the Herald Angel," arranged by Tom Fettke.

"The courts of heaven were simulated by a choir of 80 'angelic' children who gave an entertaining production of the day God planned to tell the angels about the coming birth of His Son," Choir Director and Accompanist Jeanie Lignell explained. "Excitement was everywhere as the angel choir was called together for a grand rehearsal."

The cast included: Jeremy Doan as Gabriel the Archangel; Billy Dreyer as Hark, a bundle of energy and questions; Jeff Hoffman as Angel 1; Tricia Sitzema as Angel 2; Trina Holm as Angel 3; Jason Beer as Angel 4; Jessica Oleksy as Angel 5; Corey Crain as Joseph; Kasey Finley as Mary; with special solos by Donald Jess, Carrie Wakulat, Anne Lovell, Helen Hamlin, and Brent Wojan.

The rest of St. Mary's students were present in the angel chorus. "It proved to be an experience that every child will remember for many Christmases to come," Lignell said.

These Charlevoix High School Performing Arts students are winners — that's why they are smiling. Rusty Coolman, 16, Ember Spencer, 16, Karl Erber, 17 and Tere McLelland, 17, were selected as the four representatives of Charlevoix's Varsity Performing Arts team to compete against students from around Michigan at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in the "Pentathalon Competitions" December 6. Each of those students competed in five rounds of Individual Events — Story Telling, Humorous Prose, Serious Prose, Poetry and Dramatic Interpretation. In each event each student had five to eight minutes to perform and Coolman and McLelland received top ranking in the judging. Coolman was awarded a 100 percent in Story Telling, presenting the "Gnats of Knotty Pine" by Bill Pete. McLelland won four top awards in Serious Prose, Serious Poetry, Humorous Prose and Dramatic Interpretation. The Pentathalon Competition is just one of the many Performing Arts Competitions in which Charlevoix High School is represented throughout the school year.

Jail may charge 'room and board'

by PEG OHLE

Men and women checking into the Charlevoix County jail may soon be asked to pay for their "room and board".

A law passed by the Michigan legislature in 1984 permits counties to levy an amount up to $30 a day for maintaining a sentenced prisoner in jail. At the request of the Board of Commissioners, Sheriff George T. Lasater has been looking into the possibility of instituting such a program in Charlevoix County, and last week he made his report to the Board.

Accompanied by Officer Corinne Russell, Sheriff Lasater told of contacting other counties where the program is in effect, particularly Leelanau County, near Traverse City. There, each inmate is advised he will be charged an "appropriate fee" for his lodging, which, if not paid as arranged for, could result in action in Small Claims Court or garnishment of wages upon the inmate's release.

The Deputy Sheriff in charge of the program in Leelanau County explained to Officer Russell that "we do not charge a full $25 a day for every day spent, but do work it out to show them what we could charge."

The Leelanau jail is a 16-person facility which is usually full, according to the report. During the first fiscal year of the re-imbursement program, Leelanau County collected about $10,000 from inmates. However, the paper work involved in the program is a full-time job for one person, and there is some question about whether the program is really cost effective.

Sheriff Lasater told the County Board that, based on his present staff, he did not feel he could fully participate in the re-imbursement program, but added he would be willing to try it as a pilot program for three months. He will contact District Court and the Prosecuting Attorney to determine what is necessary to get started.

Road signs repaired

All roads in Charlevoix County will soon be identified with proper road signs at intersections.

That was the report Richard Fochtman of the County Townships Association gave to County Commissioners Last week. Through a three-way cooperative effort of townships, the County, and the County Road Commission, new signs are being placed at previously unidentified spots, and damaged signs repaired.

The townships are paying out $12,060 for lettered road signs, the County is paying $4,667 for sign posts, and the Road Commission is installing the posts and signs at a cost of $8,925.

The only part of the County not involved in the sign program is Beaver Island, where residents prefer rustic wooden signs over regular metal signs. Fochtman suggested to the County Board that they set aside a small fund to help with the Beaver Island sign program.

Sheriff warns against dumping snow in roads

All parties involved with snow removal from private property, should be advised that either pushing snow across the roadways or dumping snow on roadways or obstructing the view for exiting driveways with snow can be charged with a misdemeanor offense, Fred Welch, manager of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, and Sheriff George T. Lasater have announced.

Father and son successful in Pigeon River elk hunt

It was the shot of a lifetime for young Craig Bataran, but it was hard to tell whether he or his father Larry was the happier.

On Dec. 10 Craig, 18, downed a 500 pound elk in the Pigeon River Country with a 300 yard shot. He was one of only 120 persons who received elk hunting permits in a special lottery held for the second year in 1985.

Only 34 permits went to hunters from northern Michigan.

Craig killed the elk some three hours after the hunt began. His father, an experienced whitetail deer hunter, said it was one of the most special hunts of his life. Especially since he was able to do it with his son. "I thought it was an exciting thing," he recalled. "I thought it might be a turkey shoot, but it wasn't."

It turned out to be a little more strenous than the pair had bargained for. Unlike many hunters who hired guides to take them to an elk and to drag it out with horses or snowmobiles afterward, the Betarans did there own scouting and dragging.

They spent two days scouting the area and shot their elk near a rye field some two miles into the forest. They then spent the next 6½ hours hauling the trophy, which dressed out at 360 pounds, back to the road.

The Batarans would bundle up their coats, cameras, and hunting gear and move it some 20 or 30 yards ahead and then go back and drag the elk. They broke three stout dragging poles in the process.

Exhaused, they reached the car just before dark.

Hearing them retell it, however, you sense they wouldn't have had it any other way.

The Batarans own and manage the Hillcrest Apartments in Charlevoix and are the previous owners of the Lincoln Logs Cabins on Petoskey Avenue.

James Allen Baker — new talent on the rise

Audiences at 218 Bridge St. Dinner-Theatre's "Christmas Show" have been dazzled by the dancing of one young actor in particular – James Allen Baker.

"He's definitely a man to watch," says Technical Director Ronnie Phillips. "He's young, he's fresh and above all he is good, darn good," Phillips emphasizes.

Tall, thin, long-legged, Baker moves across the small stage at 218 Bridge St. as if it were full sized. Making maximum use of space, he dances with assuredness. His leaps, turns and fast footwork combine grace with a sense of daring.

Baker was recruited for the "Christmas Show" by producer David Pritchard, with whom Baker had worked previously in productions at the Petoskey Summer Theatre in the McCune Art Center. He had major roles in "The Fantasticks," "On Golden Pond," and "Annie."

Baker's first role upon joining the "Christmas Show" cast was to fine-tune the choreography.

At 20, James Allen Baker says he wants to be known as a "versatile actor, so I can always be working." He says his longrange goals include working his way west to Los Angeles where there is "a lot of opportunity in both film and theatre."

"To always be working" is every actor's goal, Baker admits, saying the life of the "gypsies" depicted in "Chorus Line" is accurate. "All That Jazz" was right on the money too, Baker adds, recalling his own dance auditions.

"Often they will use the theme of "All That Jazz" during the audition. It may be thirty seconds or the full two minutes.

"There may e 50 or 100 dancers on stage at once. The choreographer will show us what he wants and then we dance. He may only take us through once. You've got to learn quickly. You've got to be sharp. That's what they are looking for.

"Yes, in a way we are all gypsies – you go where the jobs are."

Baker grew up in Westland and got his start in Theatre in sixth grade when he joined the cast of "Mame" in the Westland Community Theatre. He studied dance, acting and music through high school. At Eastern Michigan University he majored in Theatre and dance.

"Dancers need to study ballet as well as jazz and tap," he advises. "Ballet is the base that gives dancers the foundation to be clean," he states.

As "The Christmas Show" enters its third week of production at 218 Bridge St. Theatre, Baker spends his spare time rehearsing with his two leading ladies for the jazzy song and dance production "The Bridge St. New Year's Review" which opens Dec. 27.

WATCH donates funds to groups

"The 600-family membership of WATCH Inc. is making an early Christmas gift to the Lake Charlevoix community this year," Jerry Puhl, president of WATCH, Inc., has announced. Following a Board of Directors meeting held on Dec. 10, the board approved several grants and scholarships totaling $8,000.

Included in the action were:

- $1,000 grant to the Hayes Township Legal Defense Fund, to assist the Hayes Township residents in defending their zoning ordinance. Hayes Township is a defendant in litigation filed by the Fox Development Company of Roseville, Michigan.

- A $2,000 grant to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, headquartered in Conway. "The Watershed Council has performed outstanding service to the entire northwest lower Michigan area by their monitoring of lakes, streams and other water resources in this locale," WATCH noted.

A grant of $2,000 to the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee. "This committee, composed of representatives from each of the 10 township and cities fronting on Lake Charlevoix, has been organized for one year and its members are to be congratulated for their dedicated and unselfish service to the Lake Charlevoix community, a WATCH atatement said. Their efforts and many hours spent toward formulating a lake management plan are deeply appreciated by present residents and should also be by future generations. The grant is unrestricted and may be used for such purposes as the committee sees fit in carrying out their charter.

- An annual scholarship fund totaling $3,000 open to high school seniors attending the five high schools in Charlevoix County. The details of this scholarship competition will be announced at a later date.

In making the announcement WATCH President Puhl stated that the rapid growth of WATCH, Inc. membership this past year has dramatically demonstrated a growing awareness of the community's residents, both summertime and year-round, in protecting the future health of Lake Charlevoix. "The more successful we are in raising the consciousness of area residents and particularly young people regarding the importance of protecting our environment, the better off the entire community will be, both now and for the future," Puhl said.

Young parents get help

A fund has been established to help young parents who would not otherwise have the financial resources to complete high school.

Fran Tollas has helped establish the Young Parents' High School Completion Fund which will be administered by Mary Biagini director of the Alternative Program for School Age Parents.

The money for the fund will be used initially to help a young woman in Charlevoix complete school.

Contributions to the fund have been received from the Women's Club, the Pilgrim Circle of the First Congregational Church, and from various individuals.

Money from the fund will be used to assist young women who do not qualify for aid under Social Service programs and are in the process of finishing their high school education.

"In many cases it will help them obtain day care so that they can return to classes," Tollas explains.

The Alternative Program for School Age Children is in its 12th year of operation. The program, based in Boyne City and serving the entire Char-Em school district, is designed to provide pregnant teenagers with a chance to continue their education during pregnancy. It also offers prenatal care and education.

A ten-year follow up study on women in the program found that 63.3 percent went on to receive their diplomas. One of the major reasons some did not go on to complete their high school education, Biagini explains, is the lack of money for adequate day care.

"The community has to see this as a community problem," she adds.

Tollas believes the value of the program is more than monetary. "Part of the importance of this fund is the support shown girls in completing high school."

Contributions to the fund are tax deductible. Further information can be obtained from Tollas, Biagini, or the Char-Em school district.

JVs come up short

The Charlevoix JV basketball team, in a seesaw battle that saw the lead change numerous times, fell to the visiting St. Ignace Saints 58-54 in a game played here Friday.

The Rayders jumped to a 14-11 lead at the quarter only to see the picture change and the Saints take over at halftime 27-26.

As the second half got underway, the Rayders came back strong with Scott DeYoung scoring four buckets to put the Rayders ahead 41-39 going into the final period. In the final eight minutes, the visitors outscored the Rayders 19-13 to take the game in the final minutes.

Charlevoix had 19 field goals to the Saints' 20 and 16 of 26 free throws while collecting 23 personal fouls. St. Ignace hit on 16 of 26 free throws and had 26 personal fouls.

Roger Smith paced the scoring with 28 points including 11 field goals and six of seven free throws. DeYoung had 14 points. B. Law had 14 points, and B. Green and T. Thomson 11 each for St. Ignace.

Nursing home gets regional ok, second applicant submits plans

by PEG OHLE

Construction of a 107 bed nursing home and care facility for senior citizens in Charlevoix is one step nearer reality following approval of plans for the facility by the Northern Michigan Health Facilities Agency.

Plans for the nursing home and adjacent care quarters were submitted to the state agency by Liberatore Health Care Inc. of Columbus Ohio, for which Ralph McRae of Charlevoix is field representative.

McRae told the Courier that over a year ago he foresaw the need for nursing home beds in the Charlevoix area and filed a Letter of Intent with the state last December proposing to build a nursing home facility.

At the time, McRae said he was proposing a 70 bed facility for which he would undertake raising funds and supervising construction. When his plans were published by the state, Liberatore Health Care contacted McRae with a proposal to build and run the facility.

With McRae's blessing, Liberatore prepared a certificate of need document as required by the state, and the state raised the number of beds requested to 107.

This certificate of need received the approval of the Northern Michigan Health Systems Agency and has been forwarded to the state Division of Health Facility Construction for further action.

The proposed facility, to be called Charlevoix Health Care, has already recevied proper zoning and an option to buy seven acres of property near the Charlevoix Area Hospital and physicians offices.

McRae says he has 19 letters of support for the project, including endorsement by area hospitals. He pointed out that there are presently 50 men and women from Charlevoix and adjoining townships in nursing homes, and their relatives would like to have them nearer.

"We have the best possible location for a nursing home," McRae observed. "And both the city and township officials are behind us." He added that the facility would cost about $2.6 million, provide 60 to 70 jobs, and pay $20,000 a year in local taxes.

The only hinderance to an early state approval of the project is the recent submission of another nursing home plan by Webber, Harris, Inc. of Northbrook, IL. That plan must now also go before the Northern Michigan Health Systems for approval.

The state sometime ago limited the number of new nursing home beds in Charlevoix County to 100, so there would be no room for both the Liberatore and Webber, Harris project.

Myrl Keller sounds warning:

Gill netting threatens lake trout restoration

by DOUG TRUAX

Tribal fishermen are catching so many lake trout this year, says Myrl Keller, head of the Great Lakes Fishery station in Charlevoix, that they could destroy any hope of getting natural reproduction of lake trout in this area of Lake Michigan.

If Indian fishermen continue at this rate in 1986, Keller says, they will have caught the total allowable catch long before the 1986 sport fishing season begins. The result will be a closure of the sport fishing lake trout season in waters off Charlevoix.

Under the terms of a Treaty Fishing Agreement of 1985 approved March 28, 1985 by the tribal, sport fishing, state, and federal groups, the commercial harvest by the tribes of lake trout in this area will be limited beginning in 1986. This will be considered a primary lake trout rehabilitation area.

The agreement also stipulates that gill net fishing will be phased out of the northern portion of East Grand Traverse Bay (to North Point) by 1988. Gill nets will be banned from North Point to 7-mile point at the northern tip of Little Traverse Bay by 1990. Indian fishermen will be required to fish only trap nets after those dates.

A lake trout refuge will be established southwest of Beaver Island. Tribal fishing is prohibited inside Little Traverse Bay.

Those are among the many, complicated provisions of the Treaty Waters Fishing Agreement governing northern lakes Huron and Michigan and eastern Lake Superior. The agreement is being administered by an Executive Council composed of representatives of the various groups.

Bill Eger, director of the intertribal fisheries and assessment program, disagrees with Keller.

"Frankly, I'm not for making a big thing about it at this time," he said. "Next year I would be concerned (if the current catch rate continued)."

Eger said the agreement did not go into effect until June of this year and the Charlevoix area is considered a transitional area for the rehabilitation of lake trout.

He agrees with Keller, however, on the effect of the TAC next year. "In 1986 all of Grand Traverse Bay to north of Charlevoix will be primary and enforceable. If the TAC is exceeded, then the whole fishery will be shut down, including the sport fishery."

He said there will be a meeting in Ann Arbor on Jan. 22 with state, tribal and federal biologists to work out the details of the harvest limits.

"I don't think the total take is the reason why you don't have natural reproduction," Eger said.

Keller recently wrote a letter to the DNR fisheries division in Lansing calling for stronger inforcement of the agreement.

Gill nets are still the heart of the issue, Keller said. "The tribes should limit their catch of lake trout, but we know they are not going to do it until they eliminate gill nets."

Keller called the gill net a "malicious, destructive mode of fishing that kills whatever is caught in it."

Trap or impoundment nets, on the other hand, allow commercial fishermen to release some species of fish unharmed.

Keller also accused the tribes of illegally targeting for lake trout. "That has got to stop," he said.

According to the treaty agreement, Keller said, tribal fishermen are allowed to take 30 percent lake trout as an "incidental" catch. He maintains the figure is currently running more like 50 percent.

Records of the sale of fish to wholesalers show a much higher catch of nontarget species, he added.

Sport fishing charter captain Jim Withers agrees that lake trout are being singled out by the tribal fishermen. "As soon as the sport fishermen left the North Point area in the fall, the tribes moved right in and started fishing the lake trout grounds.

"I'm not bitter, but I'm very concerned – for the sport fishermen and the tribes. If some resolution does not come about in the near future the TAC will be greatly exceeded by the tribes. Then there is a good possibility that there will be closed fishing for everybody ... nets or no nets. That would be disastrous."

Keller said 20 years of work and millions of dollars are at stake in the lake trout rehabilitation effort. "If people are really serious about lake trout restoration, we had better get with it," he said. "We can't continue to operate on a put-grow-and-take basis."

Establishing a partially self-sustaining lake trout population in northern Lake Michigan, Keller said, "would be like adding a hatchery out there."

$7,000 brown trout falls to gill net

The tagged brown trout worth up to $7,000 in prizes released during last spring's Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament ended up being caught in a tribal gill net and sold as a lake trout, according to Myrl Keller, head of the fisheries station.

The fish was netted Oct. 21 in Lake Michigan off Charlevoix, according to tribal records.

During the course of a call to tribal headquarters to complain about the tribe's targeting on lake trout (see above story), Keller was informed that the Indian fishermen had turned up one of the Department of Natural Resource tags.

Keller said his staff could not find the number among the series which was used on lake trout in the early 1970s. When an assistant asked if he'd ever tagged anything else, Keller added, he remembered the trout tournament brown.

They checked the records and sure enough – the lake trout was really a brown that was at one time worth $5,000 if caught during the tournament, plus another $2,000 if taken on a Stinger lure.

"It shows that there is an interchange between Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan," Keller said.

Charter boat captains form Charlevoix group

Area chapter boat captains have recently made plans to form the Charlevoix Area Charter Boat Association.

The group is expected to include some 15 licensed captains from Elk Rapids to Harbor Springs.

Its first meeting will be Jan. 9 at 7 p.m. at the Great Lakes Fishery Station on the Pine River Channel. Invited guests will be Myrl Keller, head of the fisheries station, Rod Cortright, cooperative extension director, and John McKinney, extension coordinator for the Sea Grant Program.

According to Jim Withers, one the group's organizers, the purpose of the association will be to deal with local problems and promote the area's sport fishing.

Charlevoix will also be the site of one of 10 workshops sponsored by the Marine Advisory Service of the Michigan Sea Grant College Program.

The April 19 meeting in Charlevoix will feature an explanation of the results of a marketing survey of Michigan charter boat captains and customers conducted by Ed Mahoney, Michigan State University Extension specialist in park and recreation resources.

Also on the meeting agenda will be presentations on fisheries research, business management and legislative developments affecting the rapidly expanding and increasingly competitive charter boat business.

MSU estimates the fleet of charter boats in Michigan at nearly 1,000.

The Michigan Sea Grant College Program is a cooperative effort of the University of Michigan and, Michigan State University in Great Lakes research, education, and extension.

Rhonda Ward injured

Rhonda Jean Ward, 16, remains in satisfactory condition at Little Traverse Hospital where she is being treated for a head injury received in a two-car accident on U.S. 31 South near M-66 at 11:58 p.m. Friday, according to members of her family.

The accident occurred when Ward, driving a 1976 Ford, came off the driveway at the Imperial station on the north side of U.S. 31 into the path of a south bound car driven by Mark Charles Stancroff, 21, of Cadillac, who was driving a 1980 Plymouth.

Ward was taken by Charlevoix ambulance to the Charlevoix Area Hospital and later transferred to Little Traverse Hospital where she underwent emergency head surgery.

The accident remains under investigation by the Charlevoix City Police.

Elena O'Brien, 17, a passenger in the Ward car was shaken up in the accident as were Stancroff and his passengers David Cotter, 21, Cadillac, and Tim Miske, 22, of Traverse City.

Ward is the daughter of Carol Ward and Brad Ward, both of Charlevoix.

EPA stands firm on decision to let TCE remain in aquifer

by DOUG TRUAX

The Environmental Protection Agency will tell the Michigan Department of Natural Resources this week that it will not alter its decision not to clean up the trichloroethylene (TCE) in Charlevoix's groundwater, John Perrecone, EPA community relations coordinator, told the Courier.

Perrecone said a letter stating the EPA's position was being drafted by the Valdas Adamkus, regional director of the EPA's Chicago office.

"The EPA is not going to change its position," Perrecone said. "The environmental effects are so minimal that we don't feel there will be a problem."

Gov. James Blanchard has called on the EPA to change its recommendation which called for a 50-year monitoring of the contaminated groundwater which entered the Charlevoix public water supply through its well.

EPA is currently paying 90 percent of the costs of a new Lake Michigan water system for Charlevoix which is expected to be operational by late 1986 or early 1987.

Blanchard has said there should be a complete clean up of the groundwater, an alternative which is estimated to cost over $10 million.

Richard Johns, chief of the Department of Natural Resource's Groundwater Division, believes the EPA did not consider all the alternatives. "The EPA took an all or nothing stance," he said. "The conclusion we came to was that there were other alternatives."

One of those, Johns said, was to purge and treat the groundwater for a few years. That would remove the bulk of the contaminants, he noted, although it would not restore it to being a useful aquifer.

"We feel that to purge and treat the system for less than 30-50 years would serve to minimize the danger to Lake Michigan."

Johns echoed Gov. Blanchard's concern with the precedent established by not cleaning up the groundwater. "The decision to allow contamination to flow into the Great Lakes seems contary to Superfund law and the Clean Water Act," he added.

"The state takes the position that a responsible party should do what is feasible to clean up environmental damage. We would be saying that if we were pursuing a private company. Now if the state takes the position to do any less themselves it would undercut their position.

"In the long run we would be a lot worse off by undercutting our position."

Johns said the state was telling EPA what should be done. That does not mean, he added, that the state would spend the $10 million to clean up the groundwater itself.

EPA has estimated that a purging the TCE and stripping it from the water would take 30 years and cost some $4.4 to $4.8 million in "present worth calculations." According to the state's figures that would amount to some $10.1 million in actual costs.

Even if the EPA agreed to the cleanup, the state would pay all maintenance and operation costs after the first year. EPA would be responsible for installation of the purge wells, estimated at $1.5 million, and 90 percent of the first year's operational costs, estimated at $100,000 to $150,000 per year.

Those opinions are not shared by T. Eftaxiadus, a DNR geologist who has long been involved in the TCE investigation. "The EPA numbers are correct. Nobody has challenged the technical basis for the EPA decision on the cleanup," he says.

"Since the study has been quite exhausting and the impact of all factors is close to zero or negligible, technically it is a good decision. I don't have the authority to decide

DRUNK DRIVING KILLS!

Will alcohol claim you as yet another victim of escalating statistics? Each year, the scene is the same. Friends gather together, ringing in the holidays, and will have a drink or two...or three. Then it's time to go home. Whether around the block or long distance, the effect of even one drink makes you a threat to yourself and others!

Reflexes become sluggish and judgement is impaired. In short, you become a potential killer as soon as you get behind that wheel. This holiday season, if you drink, use your head. Don't drive. If a friend has had one too many, encourage him to find another way home. Don't let your celebrating lead you down a dead end street...permanently!

Charlevoix trivia game arrives

What Charlevoix event is listed in the Guinness Book of World Records? Quick ... and no peeking on the back side of the card.

What CHS athlete was named Rookie of the Year for the Los Angeles Rams?

What presidential candidate used to summer in Charlevoix?

Those are a few of the questions people will be answering who purchased the "Trifles" trivia game which was distributed last week by the Charlevoix Sports Boosters.

"Trifles" is set up much like Trivial Pursuit, with questions on a wide variety of topics including histor, geography, science, entertainment and the arts. The game has been customized for Charlevoix, with an additional 100 questions on Charlevoix sports, history, famous people, and such compiled and organized by Bob Miles and Chuck Duerr.

The "Trifles" game board is also adapted to Charlevoix with each of the squares representing a Charlevoix business or organization. These advertisements constitue the bulk of the income for the Sports Boosters' fundraising project. Corner ads sold for $200 and the other squares for $150 or $50 each. The center of the board contains in addition the names of individuals and business which contributed $10 each toward the project.

The Sports Boosters have already raised some $6,700 through the sale of ads and games. They expect the total to be near $8,000 when all the games are sold, Larry Lemerand, president of the Sports Boosters, said.

Lemerand added that the interest in the game was so great that they did not have room for all of the merchants who wanted to buy advertisements. "We could have doubled the number of people participating," he said.

There may be a follow-up game, Lemerand noted, in which case those merchants left out will be given preference.

Funds raised from the "Trifles" game will be used as seed money for a new eight-lane track and new lights and poles at Kipke Field. The project will eventually cost from $100,000 to $150,000, Lemerand said, although he has received numerous offers of volunteer help in the project.

The high school's present track is condemned because of holes in the surface.

Some 300 games were pre-sold by students from the Charlevoix schools. Every time a student sold a game he was given a raffle ticket for a prize drawing. The winners of the raffle were drawn at last Tuesday night's Boyne City basketball game.

Dave Knight won the grand prize of $100.

Other winners were: Denny Jensky ($50), Suzanne Aull ($10), Todd Holtzman ($10), Shelly Miller ($10), Shelly Crain ($10), Philip Peterson ($10), Heather Powell ($10), Betsy Haggard ($10), Amy Pischner ($5), Missy Norman ($5), Mathew Mosoryak ($5), and Matt Cunningham ($5).

"Trifles" is being sold by several area merchants. Lemerand expects the current supply of about 100 games to go quickly and for another order to be placed to meet the demand for the game from summer residents.

Water levels hit new highs

DETROIT — The November monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan - Huron was about 30 inches above the long-term average and about 5 inches above the all-time monthly mean high for November which was set in 1973. The lake levels were about 61 inches above the all-time low November monthly mean set in 1964, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The elevation of the lakes at the end of November was about 11 inches above one year ago and about 5 inches above one month ago. The end of November level of the two lakes was 580.63 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

For mariners, the end of November level was 46 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron shows that the lakes are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months.

At the end of December, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches below what they were at the end of November, the Corps predicts. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into February. At the end of May 1986, the lakes are expected to be 5 inches above what they were at the same time in 1985.

The May mean would be above the long-term average for that month and 4 inches above the all-time high mean for May, which was set in 1985.

Because of the large number good displays and the wide variety, the judges added several new categories this year.

The overall winner was Wildwood Innovations on Park Avenue. "It was very hard choosing an overall winner," Bogart said. "But Wildwood was so bright and cheery and it stands out beautifully as you drive by."

She said the judges also tired to weigh how the retail stores used their merchandise in their window displays.

Winners in the various divisions included:

EPA has made right decision on TCE

Governor James Blanchard has come out with both barrels blazing in his attack on the Environmental Protections Agency's decision to opt for a "limited action" approach to Charlevoix's contaminated groundwater.

The governor has made it clear he expects the feds to purge the groundwater and treat the trichloroethylene before releasing it to Lake Michigan.

Normally such environmental zeal would be more than welcomed in these quarters. We need courageous stands by government officials if we are ever to have a reasonable chance of preserving and protecting the environment.

Unfortunately, Governor Blanchard's blasts at the EPA are way off the mark.

And as usual in politics there is less here than meets the eye.

Blanchard has said that he fears a bad precedent in the Charlevoix case. He does not want the Great Lakes to be used as a sponge for toxins and other contaminants. We say amen.

But the fact of the situation in Charlevoix make it clear this is not the place to make a stand for a total, unequivocal cleanup. Charlevoix will have a new water treatment plant by the end of 1986 or early 1987. The threat to human health which has hung over the city since TCE was discovered in 1981 should be eliminated at that time. Charlevoix will have a safe, state-of-the-art lake water pumping and treatment facility.

According to the EPA's plan, the groundwater that is contaminated with TCE, and further to the south with percloroethylene, will remain undisturbed and there will be a prohibition against wells in the area. Since the contaminated zone is supplied by city water that should be easily accomplished.

The aquifer will be monitored for 50 years.

And what of the drift of these chemicals to Lake Michigan? The best scientific evidence available at this time indicates that there is no detectible amount of the chemical entering the lake. The actual amount is likely to be in parts per trillion, according to the scientists' calculations. But no one is quite sure because there are no scientific means to measure quantities that small.

The scientists also believe the quantities will, if anything, decrease over time.

In short, there is no threat to Lake Michigan from the groundwater in Charlevoix once the lake pumping and treatment facility is installed. Furthermore, once the new water source is installed, Charlevoix's contaminated groundwater will fall far down on the EPA and state environmental cleanup lists.

Despite the governor's thunder, there is little likelihood the state would ever spend $10 million to clean up a site where there is no immediate threat to human health. It would be counter to all protocols of the state Clean Water Act.

Afterall, the state groundwater cleanup budget is only some $11.4 million and in danger of being trimmed further.

The governor would do well to train his guns on the myriad problems of toxic contamination and environmental degredation that really matter. Heaven knows there are enough of them.

whether legally or politically it is a good decision."

The amount of TCE entering Lake Michigan, Eftaxiadus said, is well below anything that can be detected. "We have calculated the numbers to be 10 to 100 times below the labratory detection limits," he added.

He also concurred with those who have said establishing purge and treatment wells would be disruptive. Aside from that, he said, purging the TCE could also "bring more contamination into the aquifer because perchloroethylene (PCE) has been discovered upgradient.

"The big question becomes 'where do we stop.' The more we look, the more contamination we find.

"We need a basis for making decisions on groundwater. Charlevoix is as good a case as we are going to get to make those long-term decisions."

Letters to the Editor:

Say no to North Point condos

Dear Editor:

I've a few things on my mind. First, it's hard to believe that some people, particularly on the city council, still don't think there's a problem with our present drinking water. Granted, we are barraged with news about foods and products that are newly found carcinogens. However, when there is even a remote risk in something so basic as our water, then something needs to be done. I applaud wholeheartedly everyone who has helped to get our new water system under way!

As for cleaning up the old water, we may get more bad publicity, (which seems to be a main concern), by not cleaning it up. The health safety of the people and the future quality of Lake Michigan should be the only concerns.

Next, I feel it is time to say no to some condominium projects, particularly in ao area like North Point. The city did such a beautiful job preserving the Mount McSauba area. It would be a shame to ruin the rest of the point. Condos may be a passing fad. People come here for quaintness and natural beauty.

For the good news, Christmas shopping in Charlevoix was a real delight! The prices were great (many sales); there were no mobs, and there was the uniqueness and quality that only small shop owners can provide. Thank you, Charlevoix.

Sincerely,
Cara Hochhalter

You are beautiful

Dear Editor,

Charlevoix you are beautiful!

What a twinkling wonderland our business district is. The lights on the trees sparkling and the merchants have really gone all out decorating their shops. When I walk or drive through I feel like Alice in Wonderland. Christmas is not just for kids, as we all become kids in the wonder of it.

Thank you one and all for making our town so lovely at this blessed time of year. Wouldn't it be nice to keep the lights on the trees through January? It's such a bleak month and would give all a lift who pass through or live here. How about it?

No homes on Liquid Terra

Dear Editor,

In the Courier edition of November 27, 1985, there was an article concerning the stormy weather a few days earlier.

In the article it was mentioned that the homes to the northwest of Charlevoix were without electricity for a time.

In my lifetime I have never seen any homes to the northwest of Charlevoix. Because of the "Liquid Terra" nature of the area I never expect any homes to be erected there.

Yours truly,
Harry Ladd
Charlevoix

Well, if you go far enough to the northwest, Harry, you'll find terra firma again at Beaver Island. But, of course, that is not what we meant. Must have been that the 70 mph wind got us turned around. Make that northeast. Editor

Digital madness

By Bob Clock

It's embarrassing to grow old.

I no longer know how to set my own watch.

Now before you write me off as an old fuddy-duddy, let me explain that I have grown up with wrist watches, starting with a genuine Mickey Mouse watch when I was a kid.

When I graduated from high school, a great aunt gave me a handsome gold wind-up watch which I wore for years.

Until recently all of my watches have been the mechanical variety, filled with dozens of little gears and springs that clicked and whirred pleasantly. They were all beautiful precision instruments.

Then a year ago last fall — in a fit of madness — I bought a digital watch at the Imperial Gasoline Station oo U.S. 31. I know you aren't supposed by buy watches at filling stations but I couldn't resist the price. It only cost $3.59 and I figured if it ran for a week or 10 days I'd be ahead of the game.

However when I got home, I discovered the middle button used to set it had broken off. I roared back to the Imperial Station and demanded my money back.

The young clerk sighed heavily and explained that there was no middle button, only a little indentation that you are supposed to push in with a pencil or other sharp object in order to set the watch.

I roared home and sat down with the owner's manual that came with the watch. It might as well have been written in Chinese because I couldn't make any sense out of it.

When I explained my predicament to my son Danny, then aged 12, he picked up the watch and he had it set down to a split second in nothing flat.

"Where did you get so smart?" I asked.

He shrugged.

Then I realized that he has grown up with digital watches and doesn't consider them all that mysterious. I began to auspect that anyone born since 1970 has an innate knowledge of how to set digital watches. Then I learned that my middle daughter, Jennifer, also knows how to set digital watches. However she was born in 1966, which shoots my theory full of holes.

Fourteen months have now passed and my $3.95 watch still works like a magic. It not only clicks off the seconds and the minutes but also the days and the months. It is the smartest watch I have ever had. It does everything but make coffee.

But there is one problem: It tends to gain time. Every month I find myself running about 10 minutes ahead of schedule.

Only I still don't know how to set the damn thing and it is downright embarrassing to have to ask your little boy to set your watch.

Danny, of course, revels in my stupidity and is waxing rich. He has started charging me for setting my watch, the fee geared to whatever his monetary needs are at the moment. The last time he charged me 67 cents for about 30 seconds work.

I have suggested that he go into business, traveling about town setting digital watches for everyone over 40. But he is doing very nicely, thank you, with only one customer.

Come to think of it, my $3.95 watch wasn't such a bargain after all. I will have so much money invested by the time it wears out that I could have bought a handsome Bulova and set it myself.

The Christmas guest list

by Rev. Lowell Anderson
Assembly of God

Every name on our list of guests at Christmas time is significant because this will probably be the biggest and best celebration we'll host all year. It's a very special time, so preparation is detailed and elaborate. As we painstakingly prepare we check the list again... are all the special friends and loved ones included... did we forget anyone?

The Advent season is a time of special celebration with those who are most dear to us. The significance of the painstaking preparation lies not in the celebrating, but in the people with whom we celebrate!

I think it is significant to notice the "guest list" of those the Heavenly Father invited to celebrate the birth of Christ. If our guest list for the Advent celebration is important, His must have been also.

In Luke 2:8-20 we are told that Angels brought an invitation to that first Advent celebration to a group of bedouin shepherds. And how appropriate that they should be on the guest list. To them came the announcement that Christ was born The Savior! Christ's birth was announced to "common men" because they symbolize the truth that Christ came as the Savior of all.

It is likewise significant that the Wisemen should be on God's guest list. The Magi are representative of the wealthy and powerful. They were invited by a guiding star to celebrate the birth of the King! (Matt. 2:1&2) And so, to men of status and authority, Christ is born King of Kings. Christ's birth was announced to "noblemen" because they symbolize the truth that Christ was born as Lord of all.

Yes, the Christmas guest list is important. There is special significance attached to everyone on the list... on our list... on God's list. God had carefully planned and prepared for the event of the ages. The celebration had to be just right, shared and enjoyed with just the right people. And so it was! "Glory to God in the highest, and on Earth peace to men on whom his favor s." Luke 2:14 NIV.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burtt

Mack-Burtt

Linda Kele Mack and Robert M. Burtt exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, November 30, at Ricciardi's Inn in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kele of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Burtt of Sault Ste. Marie. Both the bride and bridegroom have been living in Jacksonville, Florida, where the bridegroom owns a construction business.

The Reverend and Mrs. Richard Bailey officiated at the double-ring rites, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. Approximatley 55 guests were present for the ceremony.

The bride wore a tea-length gown of cream-colored Vienna lace and a satin hat in matching color trimmed in Vienna lace. She carried a bouquet of dried tea roses, baby's breath, and seeded pearls.

Mary Beth Fels, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a mauve-colored dress and carried a bouquet matching that of the bride. Melissa Mack, daughter of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was burgundy-colored, and she carried a basket of dried flower petals.

Robert E. Burtt assisted his son as best man. Music for the ceremony was provided by Jim Kele and Danny Corradi.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Ricciardi's, with Kathy Meggison cutting and serving the cake. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bride's parents.

The newlyweds are now at home in Jacksonville. They will take a cruise for their wedding trip at a later date.

This business is a joke ... and that's just fine

by PEG OHLE

The name of the business is "The Occasional Laugh Co." The business is duly registered with the Charlevoix County Clerk, and it has a business telephone number.

What and who is the business?

When Robert G. Waun, Jr. and Jason E. Brindel came into the Courier office to place an ad, we found out.

These two Charlevoix High School seniors considered several business possibilities and did some market research. They finally decided it would be fun for them and fun for their customers (even provide an "occasional laugh") if they started a personal greeting and entertainment service.

They will deliver greetings and-or gifts with all kinds of messages, including vocal renditions, and they will appear in whatever garb the occasion demands.

During the holiday season, they are dressing up in Santa Claus suits to deliver hearty "ho-ho-ho's" and sing "Up on the Housetop" or some other equally well known Christmas song. New Year's will probably require more scanty clothing, perhaps a loin cloth, chest ribbon and top hat to usher in 1986 while they sing "Auld Lang Syne".

The young business men are also proud of their balloon bouquets for birthdays, made of helium balloons of different colors and different sizes, and decorated to order with words and pictures. "We'll dress any way people want us to to deliver special messages," Waun grinned, adding that the local second hand store was a fine source of costumes.

Waun and Brindel originally thought they would like to start an employment agency for teenagers, but after talking to several adults about the idea, they were dissuaded because of the many problems that could arise. The personal greeting idea came from a friend, they said.

Brindel plans on attending the University of Michigan next year, where he will major in business and law. Waun will go to either Michigan State University or Western Michigan to study foreign trade. It would seem they already have a good start on their careers.

Selective Service seeks local board members

The Selective Service System, in cooperation with the Governor, is selecting people to serve as members of local draft boards.

There is no draft at the present time and re-establishing it would require an act of Congress.

The Selective Service System shoud be ready if a national emergency should develop, resulting in a resumption of the draft says William S. Rosenquist, the Selective Service System reserve officer assigned to this and several surrounding counties. Rosenquist would like to talk to anyone who may be interested. The only basic requirements he says are that one be a citizen of the United states, at least 18 years of age, and a resident of the area in which the local board has jurisdiction.

Candidates must not be an active or retired member of the armed forces or any reserve component, or a person with 15 or more years of prior Selective Service Board membership.

We like to talk to all people: Women, minorities, retirees - everyone," Rosenquist says.

Further Information can be obtained from Rosenquist at P.O. Box 12056, Lansing, MI 48910.

Rayders defeat Boyne, then fall to Petoskey

The Charlevoix Rayders turned back a scrappy but erratic Boyne City team Tuesday, only to see their unbeaten record fall at the hands of Petoskey on Friday night.

Charlevoix could not shake the Boyne Ramblers thoughout Tuesday's contest and held a slim 35-31 halftime lead.

But a strong performance on the defensive boards in the second half gave the Rayders all the control they needed to hang on for the 68-56 win.

Sean Ferguson led the Charlevoix scoring with a game high 25 points, 16 of them coming in the second half. Jody Putmon added 15. Also scoring for Charlevoix were Tim Plagge and Tim Salmonson with 8 points each, Packy LaBlance and Joe Miller with 5 each and Jim Ciuk with 2.

Ferguson pulled down 10 rebounds, while teammate Jody Putmon had 8.

"We had four defensive rebounds at the end of the first half, and that wasn't enough," said coach Dave Smith. "We talked about that at halftime. We really went out and concentrated on getting the boards."

Charlevoix took an 18-15 first quarter lead and widened the margin slightly by halftime. At the end of three quarters the game was still very much in reach for Boyne as the score stood at 49-43.

The Rayders pulled away in the final period, however, on the strength of Ferguson's four field goals and a pair of two-pointers by Putman.

Center Nick Redman paced the Boyne City team with 20 points. Scott Penny added 12.

THE RAYDERS took a perfect 4-0 record to Petoskey on Friday but saw it spoiled by a 60-50 loss to the Northmen.

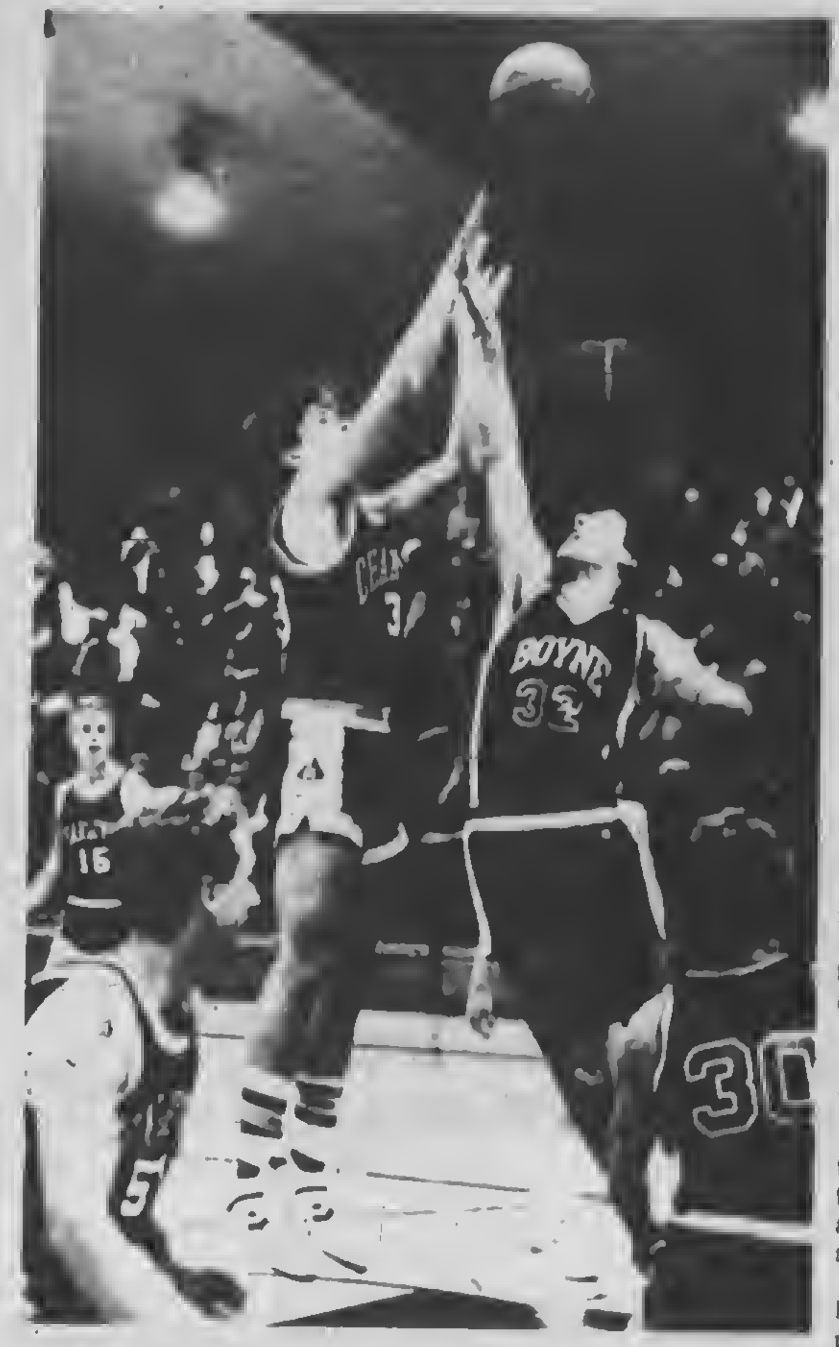
Ferguson again accounted for the bulk of the Rayder scoring with 19 points. Help from his teammates was in short supply. Cliuk came off the bench to add 8 points to the effort. Plagge added 6, while Salmonson, LaBlance, and Jim Gibbs put in 5 each. Putman was held to 2 points for the night.

Petoskey took a 12-11 first-quarter lead and the teams scored evenly in the second period giving the Northmen a 26-25 halftime advantage.

Petoskey pulled away for good, however, in the third quarter as Don Proctor added 8 points and Steve Mann 4. Charlevoix's only field goals of the quarter were a pair scored by Ferguson.

Cuik added some much needed firepower in the fourth period adding 8 quick points to the Rayder cause. Reserve Dan Drury scored 4.

Mann was high point man for the evening with 22 for Petoskey. Teammate Proctor added 12.



Sean Ferguson (33) puts up a shot over Boyne's Nick Redman (32).

Matmen lose two, continue improvement

The Charlevoix Rayders had a good night on the mats at Gaylord Thursday though they lost to Rogers City 39-33 and to Gaylord 54-18.

The team has shown much improvement since its first meet Dec. 7, Coach Greg Bryan said of the double dual at Gaylord. "Our line-up is beginning to fill in. Each match and the accompanying experience is developing our wrestlers sense of tempo and strategy."

This marks the conclusion of the 1985 section of the schedule which will be resumed at Charlevoix Jan. 9 when the Raydes host Gaylord and Traverse City St. Francis.

JV team puts two more in victory column

A bucket by Scott DeYoung and free throws by Roger Smith and Chod DeVries in overtime salvaged the Charlevoix JVs victory over Petoskey Friday night by a score of 56-53 after the regulation game had ended in a 51-all tie.

Charlevoix had taken a 14-9 first period lead and held on 24-19 at halftime before Petoskey opened the second half by outscoring the young Rayders 16-11 to knot the score 35 all at the intermission.

In the overtime DeYoung had a bucket, Smith two free throws and DeVries one for the win.

DeYoung had 23 points for the game. Smith contributed 18. Ted Festerling had 18, John Mansfield 16 and Dick Hoffman 12 for Petoskey.

The game was won on the free throw line as each team scored 23 field goals. The Rayders connected on 10 of 18 charity shots and had 14 personal fouls. The Northmen ahd seven of 14 free throws and 20 personals.

The Charlevoix JVs hosted Boyne City Tuesday night with all 12 members of the Rayder team seeing action in the 93-18 blowout.

The Rayders jumped to an 18-6 quarter lead which they increased to 65-14 at halftime and 79-16 going into the final period when the visitors scored only one bucket.

Scott DeYoung has 21 points, Chad DeVries and Nick Melios, 12 each; Owen Phillips and Roger Smith 11 each. Ten of the 12 players scored. George Lasater had eight points for the young Ramblers.
